DEL VALLE REPORTS.

ary Bryan, in sifting the varying information that has Washington from all parts did not confine himself to channels, for as soon as Am- Wilson left the State De- R. F. Del Valle of Los An- whose identity as an agent government has been variously stated and denied in official circles, appeared in Mr. Bryan's office.

For nearly an hour after Ambassador Wilson left, Mr. Del Valle was closeted with Secretary Bryan, and much secrecy was manifested as to the nature of the conference. Mr. Bryan was silent, declining to state how long he had known Mr. Del Valle, or anything of the character of his mission in Mexico.

Mr. Del Valle afterwards admitted he had spent nearly two months in Mexico, traveling through the trouble zones, and had presented a full report of conditions everywhere in the republic. He said he had been a political acquaintance of Mr. Bryan and had been at one time a State Senator in California. Able to speak Spanish, Del Valle, who is of Mexican ancestry, though born in the United States, had little difficulty, he said, in making his way through the territory held by the rebels, as well as the Federals. He declined to state the results of his explorations.

"The odd thing, however," he said, "is that people in the north of Mexico do not even know conditions in Southern Mexico and vice versa."

Del Valle declined to indicate what he thought of the situation, but spoke highly of some Constitutionalist leaders in Sonora whose names were mentioned to him.

Coincidentally, Del Valle came up from Mexico City on the same steamer with Ambassador Wilson and ar-

UPPER LIP LIKE A GIRL.

Prince Grows No Mustache So British Military Law Is Changed.

[By Cable and Direct Wire to The Times.]

LONDON, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The girlish upper lip of the Prince of Wales is responsible for the recent order of the British war office making mustaches optional with military officers. The order caused the greatest astonishment when issued, for it upset a custom that was centuries old. Although the Prince of Wales is 19 there is no indication that his upper lip will ever attain to even a fuzzy condition. He is to join a cavalry regiment in a short time and he would be ineligible except for this convenient relaxation of an immemorial custom.

UNITED STATES OFFICIAL VICTIM OF LEY FUGA.

Mexican Troops Shoot Down American Immigration Inspector.

Crosses Border to Investigate White Slave Case and Is Seized by Federals, Who Take Him to Place of Execution—State Department Aggressively Demands Release of American Mining Engineers.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO (Tex.) July 25.—Charles B. Dixon of San Diego, Cal., United States immigration inspector, was given ley fuga by Mexican Federal soldiers today. He was shot in the back and may die.

Dixon was in Juarez on official business, investigating a white slave case, when he was arrested by a band of Federal soldiers, who started to march him away from the city in the direction of the foothills, where many executions have taken place. Dixon started to run, and after getting a block away was fired upon and hit in the back.

Dixon's father lives in Wharton, Tex.

Dixon made a statement this afternoon in Juarez to American officials that he was satisfied the Mexicans were marching him out to shoot him when he ran. He says the Mexican soldiers were drunk.

Dixon was sent by a superior to Juarez to see a negro in connection with a white slave case that was being investigated here. He says he believes the negro, after he had talked to him in Juarez, bought drinks for the soldiers and induced them to arrest him.

"I told the soldiers I would go with them to the commandant's office," Dixon said this afternoon, "but instead of taking me in that direction they started with me in the direction of the outskirts of the town. As I had on a suit of khaki I thought that perhaps they had taken me for a United States soldier acting as a spy, so I ran and they shot me after I had got about half a block away from them."

Dr. J. H. Tappan of the immigration service in El Paso went to Juarez and treated the wounded man. He found that Dixon was shot in the small of the back, the ball going completely through his body and coming out through his stomach. It did not strike the spine.

OTHER INSPECTORS ARRESTED.

F. W. Berkshire, supervising inspector for the United States immigration service on the Mexican border, immediately went to Juarez accompanied by Clarence Gatley, an inspector in the service, to look after Dixon and both were arrested and detained at the military barracks for a short time, but were later released. They took up the matter immediately with Miguel Diebold, inspector of Mexican consuls in El Paso, with a view to having Dixon removed to El Paso. Immigration men assert that a half negro lieutenant in the Federal army in Juarez, a friend of the negro under investigation, was instrumental in causing the arrest and the shooting. Ordinarily, United States immigration men are permitted to work in Juarez under an agreement with Juarez officials.

DURANGO STORES DESTROYED.

Practically all of the larger stores in the city of Durango were destroyed by rebels when they took that city a few days ago. Ben Aguirre who is in El Paso, after walking more than 160 miles to escape from Durango, brought news of the destruction.

TROOP TRAIN ATTACKED.

Trains leaving Juarez yesterday for Chihuahua ran into a band of rebels at Samalayuca, about seventy-five miles south of Juarez and a fight ensued between the rebels and the escorting Federal troop train. The rebels are said by the Federals to have been repulsed.

Startled.

"MOST SERIOUS CASE," SAYS SECRETARY BRYAN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 26. — "It looks like a serious case. We will do whatever is necessary," Secretary Bryan said tonight in commenting on the shooting of Dixon. He telegraphed American Consul Edwards for an immediate investigation.

Secretary Bryan was at his office in the State Department when he received a brief message from Consul Edwards advising him of the shooting. He also was shown the press dispatches, and manifested keen interest in the situation. President Wilson was advised of the incident, but made no comment.

While immigration officials of the border have frequently had their troubles with Mexicans, being detained until their identity could be established, no affair as serious as that in Juarez could be recalled by officials of the State Department. It was pointed out that strict orders have been issued to keep American soldiers off duty from going into the Mexican towns just across the international line in times of revolutionary disturbance, and that little difficulty had been experienced.

It was apparent that the State Department would call upon the de facto government in Mexico City, whose troops are garrisoned in Juarez, to punish the offenders, though no one would authorize any statement of the course to be pursued.

HUMAN RACE FOR NEW LAND.

KANSAS MEANS TO HAVE A LOT OF FUN.

Aeroplanes and Motorcycles Will Be Entered in the Contest for Homesteads to Avoid the Objectionable Features of the Lottery. Ten Thousand Acres to Be Opened.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TOPEKA (Kan.) July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Kansas is expecting to have a lot of fun August 4. That is the date set by the government for opening a little more than 10,000 acres of forest reserve to homesteaders. The land is open to inspection now, but prospective settlers must be off the land by August 3, and none can enter it before 9 o'clock in the morning of August 4.

Kansas expects to see a real race into the new land, but with some new features to it, at least, in the use of motor cars and motorcycles and it is possible that even an aeroplane will be brought into the exciting race.

There has not been a race for land since the Arapahoe country was opened fifteen years ago. Because of the limited area land officials decided to return to the race method of settling this land, when all prospective settlers will line up in a row and at a shot from the gun all start for the new territory.

Northern Pacific's De Luxe Train Figures in Wild West Incident East of Butte.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BUTTE (Mont.) July 27.—The Northern Pacific Railroad's North Coast Limited was held up fifteen miles east of Butte shortly after midnight by three masked men, who detached the engine and left the rest of the train near the entrance to a tunnel. The bandits obtained nothing for their trouble.

PUT UP THINGS FOR MR. BRYAN.

WIFE IS GOING BACK TO LINCOLN TO DO IT.

Blackberry Jam and Apple Butter Are in the List, but There Is Nothing Said to the Effect that She's Going to Can White Radishes for the Secretary of State.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] When Secretary Bryan sits down to figure out how he is going to live within his salary of $12,000 a year, plus certain emoluments as a Chautaqua lecturer, he will not have to allow for a store of preserves, jellies, and jams, for Mrs. Bryan is now on her way back to Lincoln to attend to "putting up" a supply of fruit and berries for the winter.

Amid her multifarious duties as a leader of the Cabinet circle, Mrs. Bryan did not forget to keep a business eye on the calendar and when the Nebraska sun began to darken the blackberries and put a deep hue on the raspberries and huckleberries, it found her ready to take up the housewifes annual burden.

Clad in a blue gingham uniform and armed with a big porcelain spoon, she will direct operations in the Bryan farm kitchen for several weeks to come, tasting the damson preserves to see if there is enough sugar in and watching the bubbling kettle of crabapples to see that they cook long enough to jell properly. Tomatoes will be chopped up for chow chow and other relishes. It is also probable that Mrs. Bryan will put up several hundred cans of tomatoes for use this winter.

By the time the berry crops are exhausted there will be a large stock of tree fruits ready to put up. For many years, Mrs. Bryan has actively superintended this work, but this year she will conduct proceedings on a larger scale than before.

At the Heels of an Ambassador.

R. J. Del Valle of Los Angeles,

Who reported to Secretary of State Bryan in Washington yesterday on his mission in Mexico. He reported to Bryan after the Secretary had interviewed Henry Lane Wilson, Ambassador to Mexico. Immediately thereafter it was given out that Del Valle had urged the resignation of Mr. Wilson.

FOREIGNERS GUARD PASSES AGAINST REBEL CHINESE.

Volunteer Americans and Britons Hold the Approaches to Mountain Town Where Their Friends and Relatives Are Quartered, While Bluejackets and the Gunboat Helena Keep in Hailing Distance of the Distressed.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

PEKING, July 26. — Volunteer American, British and other citizens are tonight guarding the approaches to he mountain town of Ku Ling, where thousands of foreigners, mostly American and British women and children, have taken refuge from the heat of the Chinese summer months. The few American bluejackets on the heights are maintaining signal communication with the United States gunboat Helena, which is lying off the river port of Ku Kiang.

Foreigners have been able to see some fighting between the government forces and the rebels from their position on the mountain top. They advise other foreigners to remain away from Ku Ling, owing to the difficulties of communication and the shortage of provisions.

The Right Rev. Logan H. Roots, bishop of Hankow, advocates the safeguarding of Ku Ling as a place of refuge for foreigners. Civilians believe, despite the proximity of the fighting, that Ku Ling is a safe place. Only one instance of interference with foreigners has been reported.

Following a fortnight of revolution, the northern government troops have had the bteter of the fighting at the three main points of fighting, namely Shanghai, Kiu Kang and along the Tien-tsin-Pukow Railway. While much ammunition has been expended by gun firing lasting whole days, there has been no decisive battle, which foreigners believe is essential to Provisional President Yuan Shi Kai's ultimate success.

The sizes of the armies engaged are small compared to those fighting in the Balkan war. In Shanghai the northern troops on shore number 2000, while pitted against them are 4000 southerners. The army of Gen. Chang Hsun, which repulsed the rebels above Su Chow Fu, numbers less

POWERS DESERT RUSSIA; TURKS HAVE FREE HAND.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

ST. PETERSBURG, July 26.—The proposal made by the Russian government that a joint naval demonstration be made off Constantinople to coincide with the mobilization of Russian troops in the southwestern provinces has been abandoned. Germany flatly declined to consider the plan, and Russia's allies, Great Britain and France, replied evasively.

Russia is unable to assume the task single-handedly of bringing pressure to bear on the Turks in Europe and she is unwilling to do so in Asia Minor, realizing that such a course would encourage an Armenian uprising, which would only further complicate the Turkish problem.

Owing to the breakdown of the European concert the Russian government sees no hope of arresting the Turks by force. No military or naval preparations are proceeding at present. Russia, however, may land a force at Burgas, a Black Sea port seventy-six miles northeast of Adrianople, for the protection of lives and property of Russian subjects, if the Turks march in that direction.

At the council of Ministers today it was agreed that the Russian government had done its utmost to avert further bloodshed in the Balkans, and that if the progress of the military operations led to wholesale massacres in that region, the responsibility would rest on the other powers.

The Russian policy, it is understood, is now entirely concerned with patching up a new Balkan league, including Roumania as the sole means of arresting a Turkish advance.

TWENTY THOUSAND KILLED IN BULGAR MASSACRE.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SALONICA, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The town of Xanthi was occupied by the Greek army at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The news received here is brief, but says all the inhabitants are believed to have been massacred by the Bulgarians including several Englishmen and Americans, seventy foreigners in all being put to death. Twenty thousand Greeks and many Mussulmans and Jews are reported to have perished, the town afterward being pillaged. The Bulgarians carried away the Greek bishop and several leading citizens and it is feared they have been murdered.

CONDEMNS SLIT GOWN.

Woman's Foe, Says Mrs. Marshall.

It's Proof They Are Unfit for Franchise, Declares Wife of Vice-President.

She Would Also Reform the Cabaret Shows and Turkey Trot in Chicago.

Announces that Entire Cabinet Circle Is Opposed to Equal Suffrage.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Slashed skirts with the silhouette gowns and other freaks of modern fashion are the worst enemies of the newly-made voters of Illinois, and the cabaret and the turkey trot are more in need of reform than Chicago's First Ward, in the opinion of Mrs. Thomas R. Marshall, wife of the Vice-President, who came to Chicago today with her husband for the Moose celebration. No one has ever convinced the second lady of the United States that a ballot is a blessing.

Mrs. Marshall, who has followed her husband through three political campaigns, sat in her suite at the Hotel La Salle tonight and declared frankly that she was opposed to the municipal power recently granted to the women of Illinois. At the first mention of suffrage, Mr. Marshall slipped away into the next room to write.

"I am going to escape before you interview me," the Vice-President said.

"I never have been a suffragist," explained Mrs. Marshall. "To me the fashion of slit skirts ought to convince anyone that woman is not fit to vote.

"Some women's dress is not only extreme, it is objectionable. [illegible] would do more good by correcting the dances in our cafes and cabarets than in running for office.

"If I were in a suffrage State I would certainly cast my vote. I would consider that a duty. But I have always announced that I was not for suffrage.

"I do not say that women should be tied down to the home, but I think there are many things they might do without actually breaking into politics.

"Mr. Marshall is more of a suffragist than I am," she added, advancing into the next room, "though he is more in favor of women having what they call their rights."

"Do you think the Illinois suffrage victory will mean that women have become permanently a part of the national government and will force suffrage on the Eastern States?" Mrs. Marshall was asked.

"Certainly not," she answered. "The women in the East are not strongly in favor of the ballot and none of the Cabinet women seem to favor it, with the exception, perhaps, of the President's daughter, Miss Jessie Wilson."

Grundy.

CHIEFLY SLITS, SAYS FASHION.

NEW GOWNS NOTABLE FOR WHAT THEY DO NOT COVER.

Diaphanous Drapery Will Accentuate Freedom of Fall Modes—Tango Evening Dress, Madero Bolero Jacket, Gunnie Sack Coat and Half-and-Half Waist the Smartest.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] We are going to wear slits this fall. Also some chiffon and lace and ribbon and fur. But chiefly slits. The golden rule for the costumer is: When in doubt, slit. The woman who is dressed up-to-date will have no difficulty in mounting the highest street car step if there are plenty of policemen present to restrain the crowds.

Many of the costumes at the fall and winter fashion show, now being held in the Grand Central Palace, make a Broadway summer chorus look like a Y.W.C.A. social.

Skirts are open to a point above the knees, and the openings are not confined to the side, but are to be found both at the front and at the back. The corsages of evening gowns are mere transparencies and evening cloaks are worn precariously over one shoulder, protecting neither health nor modesty.

For instance, there's a tea trottery frock at the fashion show, which has practically no skirt at all in front below the knees. The corsage and skirt are of rose pink satin. There is a deep collar of black satin over the shoulder and a front width of the same material reaching in the back from waist to knees. Just above the knees in the back is a semi-circular fold on either side and a long twisted pink cord, beginning at the waist, swings between the legs of the wearer as she walks.

A Tango evening gown from Paris has long trousers of raspberry chiffon caught in at the ankle with a band of sparkling beads. Over this is a diaphanous drapery of purple tulle

NEW ASPIRANTS FOR M'NAB JOB.

Two San Francisco Lawyers Leaders in the Race.

One of Them on the Way to Interview McReynolds.

The Other Will Make His Fight on the Ground.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] With the resignation of Thomas E. Hayden as special prosecutor in the Diggs-Caminetti white slave cases and the possible elimination of Hayden as a candidate for the office of United States Attorney, the contest for that vacant office is becoming more keen every day.

Two San Francisco attorneys, Frank H. Gould and Stephen V. Costello, appear to be leaders in the race to secure the favorable action of President Wilson.

Gould is now on his way to Washington to present his recommendations and to argue as to his qualifications, while Costello is making his fight from here, depending to a large extent upon the strong indorsements of his friends of the local bar.

Just what progress the other candidates from different sections of the northern district are making is not known. However, another candidate is said to be about to enter the field.

This new candidate is Randolph V. Whiting, former Assistant District Attorney of this city and reporter of Supreme Court decisions. Whiting has been urged by his friends to get into the fight, and although he has not disclosed his hand thus far, he is thought to be a very likely candidate. He is a lifelong Democrat and was an original Wilson man.

Whiting only returned from a pleasure trip to the East a few days ago and it was rumored that he had been East in quest of the place vacated by John L. McNab, but he denied this emphatically.

"I was in Washington for a few days while I was East, but the idea of securing the United States Attorneyship did not occur to me at all," he said today. "In fact McNab had not resigned at that time. Several of my friends have urged me to enter the fight, but I have not made any decision. I, personally, have not applied for the appointment."

THE NICARAGUA TREATY.

Modifications to Enable the Republic to Join Her Sisters to Form a Single Central America.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Important modifications are to be made in the proposed treaty with Nicaragua, by which the United States would establish a protectorate over the southern republic. It has been discovered that by the terms of the agreement originally outlined by Secretary Bryan, Nicaragua would have been prevented from ever joining with other republics to form a single Central America.

This was not contemplated by the administration when the treaty was first proposed, and the suggestion has created suspicion among other Central American countries. At a conference today between Secretary Bryan and members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, it was agreed that the original draft of the treaty should be changed, and definite statements be included in the compact, providing that it should not stand in the way of any future action Nicaragua might decide to take toward joining a Central American combination.

TO FIGHT AUTO FOR WILSON.

Several Congressmen Averse to Giving Democratic Secretary of Labor Three High-Priced Buzz Wagons.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Even the Democratic Secretary of Labor is anxious to get the government to furnish him with buzz wagons, but some members of Congress are opposed to the expense and a vigorous fight against an appropriation for automobiles for the use of Secretary of Labor Wilson, and his department, is expected to develop in the House, in case the Appropriation Committee requests a $5000 touring car, an electric to cost $2500 and a truck to cost $1500.

"CHICKEN" A COSTLY WORD.

Fine of Fifteen Dollars Imposed in National Capitol for Applying Epithet to Girl.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It's likely to become less popular in Washington to call young girls "Chickens."

A fine of $15 was assessed against Samuel A. Lontz in Police Court today on a charge of insulting a young woman as she was leaving a Chinese restaurant on Ninth street at 1 o'clock this morning.

The testimony was that Lontz commented that the young woman was "Some Chicken."

"It is an insult to call any girl a chicken at any hour or place," declared Judge Pugh.

The escort of the girl made an unsuccessful attempt to take Lontz to task for the remark and a policeman went to his rescue.

FIRE DANGER ZONE SHIFTS.

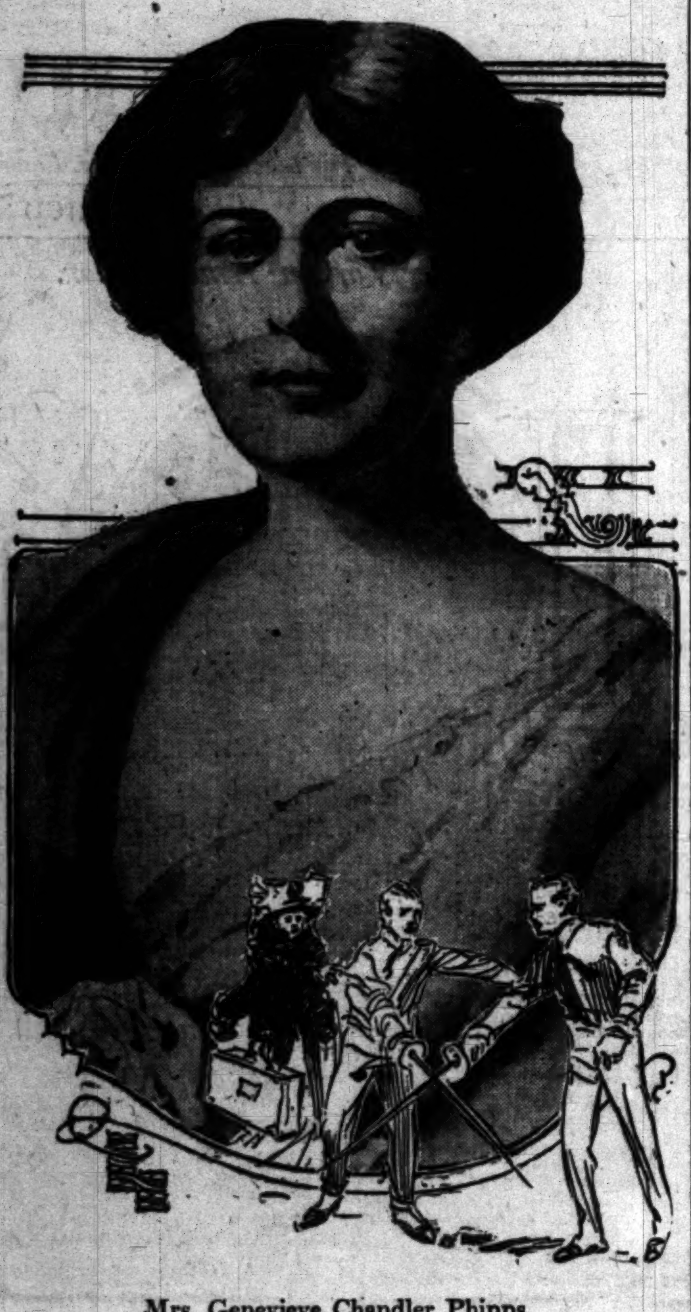
Summer Camping Season at Its Height in California and Increases Menace to Forests.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] According to the forest service, the fire danger zone has shifted from Arizona to the Northwest with serious conditions obtaining in Idaho, Oregon, Washington and California.

Foresters have reported hot, dry weather in these States, and in addition, the summer camping season, now at its height in California, makes greater the necessity for care. There is still some danger in New Mexico and Arizona, but heavy rainfalls throughout the season have greatly minimized it.

May Order Pistols and Coffee for Two.



Mrs. Genevieve Chandler Phipps,

The Denver beauty, former wife of Pittsburgh steel magnate noted for his benefactions. She declares the report of her marriage to Edward Powell of Denver a malicious fabrication.

Serpent's Tongue.

SAYS SHE IS A VICTIM OF SENSELESS GOSSIP.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DENVER, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Friends and admirers of Mrs. Genevieve Chandler Phipps have launched a quiet but earnest search for scandal mongers who, she declares, have spread the gossip of her movements while on a European trip last March, including her reported marriage to Edward Powell of this city and a rumor that the two booked together for England last March.

Mrs. Phipps declared her belief that Bert Stearns, one of Denver's most prominent young society men, was responsible for the gossip, but Stearns denies the accusation vigorously. He says Mrs. Phipps has been misinformed by malicious persons, that he has never mentioned her name in connection with that of Powell, and that when he met Powell in New York last March, Powell never let Mrs. Phipps's name pass his lips.

It is the avowed statement of friends who have rallied to the support of Mrs. Phipps, that if the traducer of her name is found to be a man or group of men, a duel will be in order out in the vicinity of the country club. Mrs. Phipp's friends mean to let no stone go unturned in the effort to sift the scandal to the bottom.

Guard Against Rebels.

than 5000 officers and men. The largest northern army consists of probably 15,000 to 20,000 men and is now in the province of Kiang Si.

European and American sympathy in the Yang-Tse Kiang ports, as well as at Peking, is overwhelmingly in favor of President Yuan Shi Kai, while the Japanese and Russians apparently favor the southerners.

The opinion prevails among Europeans in the camp that Yuan Shi Kai soon will be victorious. It is pointed out in some quarters, however, that the ability of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the first Provisional President of the republic, and his party, to create a rebellion and to spread disatisfaction among the troops in the principal cities along the lower Yang-Tse River was not suspected three months ago.

Government officials are indignant because the foreign consuls at Shanghai and at Hankow did not expel the rebel plotters from their concessions. Many foreigners, and even members of the legations here likewise consider the inactivity of the consular bodies in the south unjustifiable.

Vice-President Li Yuan Ling asserted in an interview today that Japanese were aiding the rebels.

YOUNGEST MAN IN THE SERVICE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO (Cal.) July 26.—Charles B. Dixon, who was shot and wounded by Mexicans at Juarez, had the distinction of being the youngest man in the immigration service, being only 21 years of age. According to his associates here, he was transferred to El Paso about a month ago, because he desired to be near his mother and other members of his family living in the Texas city. He was regarded here as a very efficient official.

TO TEACH DOMESTIC ART.

Mary Louise Kissell to Be in Charge of the New Course at the State University.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERKELEY, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The esthetic in homemaking, buying and in general housekeeping will be taught co-eds at the State university this year for a new course in domestic art that will be established as a part of the curriculum for the fall term, according to the annual announcement of courses, which has just been issued. Mary Louise Kissell, associate professor of domestic art, will be in general charge of the course.

Never again will the fair university graduate be "stung" at bargain sales with cotton clothing represented as wool, for a class in textile manufacture will be a part of the course. The student will be taught the history and processes of manufacture, spinning, weaving, dyeing and finishing of cotton, flax, wool and silk fiber. The completion of the course is a guarantee that the bargain hunter will never again be deceived. There will also be a course in the chemistry of textiles, their composition and characteristics.

Household design in modern homes will be taught, this to include instruction in the historic and esthetic development of the home, its elements and their arrangement, and its equipment. Then there will be furnished a course in color theory and advanced design, which will provide a working plan for the future housewife to beautify her home with original color schemes.

TO FLY ACROSS ATLANTIC.

Zeppelin Inspects and Approves New Airship Which Is to Cross Pond in Two Days.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The model airship designed by Herr Unger, in which he proposes to cross the Atlantic, has been on exhibition at the Esplanade Hotel this week. Count Zeppelin, the inventor of dirigibles, spent an hour in its examination and approved numerous new ideas which had been worked out by Unger.

The airship is 700 feet long. It has two cabins, which will accommodate fifty persons. There are six motors, four of 120 horse-power and two of 75 horse-power. It is expected to cross the Atlantic in forty-eight hours.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Dr. M. P. Ravenel of the Department of hygiene, University of California, has been designated by Secretary of Agriculture Houston as an expert in bacteriology, meat inspection and sanitation to report upon conditions in meat-packing establishments in the West.

TREK OF THE WOMEN TO WASHINGTON CITY.

Second Demonstration of American Wives, Sisters and Daughters on the Congress of the United States for the Privilege of the Ballot and They Hope to Obviate the Troublesome Features of the First Undertaking.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Trekking from all sections of the country converging upon a little hamlet six miles north of Washington are women who are to participate in the equal suffrage demonstration on July 31. Some of these women are coming afoot and others by automobile. Some are coming on horseback and others in wagons. All promise, however, to reach the place of rendezvous not later than the morning of Thursday, July 31, and if necessary to keep their appointments they will make final dashes in their pilgrimages upon railroad trains.

The second woman suffrage demonstration upon Congress in the campaign for votes for women will be devoid of the unpleasant features which marred the parade held here on the eve of March 4.

The demonstration will be by automobiles, the procession forming at Hyattsville. Every State in the Union will be represented by two women in the procession, the delegations being arranged in alphabetical order, according to States, bearing respective State flags and in addition the flag of their organization.

THE PURPOSE.

The purpose of the demonstration is to present to the United States Senate petitions urging the immediate passage of the resolution introduced by Senator Chamberlain of Oregon, providing for a constitutional amendment granting women the right to vote in all Federal elections. In the Senate are several earnest advocates of woman suffrage, but it is not thought possible that the traditions of the Senate will be smashed by a reception of the equal suffrage pilgrims upon the floor of that body. Parading Pennsylvania avenue the women pilgrims will abandon their automobiles and flags at the Capitol and enter that building armed with miles of petitions. No plans have been arranged for any ceremonies at the Senate and it is thought none can be; but a self-constituted committee of Senators favorable to woman suffrage will meet the representatives of the different States, see that the petitions are duly received and cared for and that the women themselves are protected from molestation and insult.

MANY SPEECHES.

On the route from their homes to Hyattsville, Md., the place of rendezvous, the pilgrims will make frequent speeches advocating their cause and will ask signatures to the petitions. The longest pilgrimage will be made by Miss Janette Rankin, president of the Montana Woman Suffrage Association, who left Butte early this week with a party of women in a touring car. They hope to motor to Washington, but should time require they will, like others, abandon their automobile and complete their journey by railroad train.

AN ANCIENT WAGON.

An antiquated boa-tshaped caravan wagon, built in 1776, drawn by one horse, will bring three women from New York to Washington and if it is not necessary to abandon the wagon on the way it will prove one of the most attractive features of the parade. The party traveling as in Revolutionary times will have the wagon liberally plastered with suffragist mottoes, among them one reading:

"Taxation without representation is tyranny."

The delegations arriving at Hyattsville will be welcomed by a committee of twenty-five women and an equal number of men, representing that town, and by a committee from the national Congressional headquarters of the organization in this city.

A gaily-dressed herald will announce the various delegations as they enter the park, where the parade is to form. The introduction of the herald will be repeated by Col. H. Martin Williams, reading clerk of the House of Representatives, whose "Oyez! oyes!" in lusty voice for which he is noted, will carry to the outskirts of the large crowd which is expected.

The last lap of the suffrage Marathoners will be cheered by the music of a band, which will render appropriate State airs as the different delegations arrive. While the parade is forming a huge suffrage flag will be raised on a towering pole accompanied by appropriate ceremonies.

After the dust-covered pilgrims have delivered to the Senate the petitions, the scene will suddenly change. Leaving the Capitol they will be hastened to hotels or the homes of friends where after a short rest they will dress for a banquet which is to be given at the fashionable Chevy Chase Country Club under the auspices of the Congressional Committee of the national organization. Among the speakers at the banquet will be Mrs. James Lees Laidlow and Mrs. Mary Ware Dennett of New York, Mrs. Susan Walker Fitzgerald of Boston and Dr. Cora Smith King of Washington, the latter chairman of the Committee on Arrangements in charge of the demonstration.

The register at the national headquarters of the suffragists here, does not contain the names of women who may be en route from Illinois and neighboring States. Mrs. Genevieve Stone, wife of Representative Stone of the Sixteenth Illinois District, will join the pilgrims at Hyattsville, and participate in the motor parade to the Capitol.

POLICE PROTECTION.

Ample police protection is to be furnished those participating in the demonstration. It is believed by the police that the woman suffrage advocates in automobiles will not be as exposed to the taunts and jeers which greeted those who, afoot, attempted to parade here last March.

BROWN TO REMAIN HEAD OF NATIONAL RAILWAYS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] E. N. Brown, who resigned his place as president of the National Railways of Mexico some weeks ago, but who is still in office pending action on his request to be relieved, will withdraw his resignation and return to Mexico City to take charge of the system. Speyer and Company and Kuhn Loeb and Company, New York bankers for the railways and correspondents for the European houses having large interests at stake in Mexico, can assure more freedom in the management of the lines. This became known following a preliminary conference with the bankers this morning. The gist of the situation is that the railways have become tangled up in politics, it was said by a director.

"Under these conditions the company has not had a fair chance. If Mr. Brown is to be allowed to handle the line as a railroad property and not as a pawn in the political game, I think he will be glad to continue in charge."

Mr. Brown is to go to Washington Monday for a conference on the Mexican situation with the State Department, it is understood. On his return Tuesday, he will meet the railway's bankers in a conference and it is expected that a decision as to his return to Mexico City or the appointment of a successor will be announced on the following day.

REFUSE PERMIT TO MOVE DIXON ACROSS BORDER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO, (Tex.) July 26.—After arguing all afternoon with Mexican Federal Col. J. N. Vasquez in Juarez, F. W. Berkshire, supervising inspector of the United States immigration service, Clarence G. Gatley, inspector, Dr. J. H. Tappan, surgeon, and American Consul Thomas D. Edwards were unable to secure permission from the Federals for the removal to an El Paso hospital of Charles B. Dixon, immigration inspector, who was shot, possibly fatally, this afternoon by a squad of Federal soldiers in the southern part of Juarez. Dixon had been arrested by the soldiers and says he feared execution at their hands and tried to escape by running down an alley.

The Federal authorities refused to allow the wounded American to be moved from the military hospital, where he was taken. Federal soldiers guard the ward where Dixon lies, refusing admission to every one, except Dr. Tappan. A Japanese male nurse is waiting on him. Dr. Tappan stated that Dixon is resting easily and has no fever. One bullet that struck him entered just above his right hip and emerged at the front of his abdomen. Another struck his right foot. The judge who is hearing the case has taken the evidence of the complaining witnesses, he says, and tonight Supervisor Berkshire is endeavoring to arrange a bond to enable Dixon's removal to El Paso.

The arrest of Dixon was, the immigration men say, the result of a "frame up" between a negro named Arthur Walker and certain soldiers stationed in Juarez. It is alleged that Walker had secured a warrant in advance of the appearance of Dixon to investigate a white slavery case today, that was promptly served upon the inspector's arrival. Walker is said to have represented to the Juarez authorities that Dixon was coming to arrest him, then chloroform him and kidnap him from the border town.

NEGOTIATING PEACE.

Wu Ting-fang, Former Minister to the United States, Prominent Among Intermediaries.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

SHANGHAI, July 26.—Peace propositions are under discussion here between the two parties.

Wu Ting-fang, formerly Chinese Minister to the United States, is the most prominent among the intermediaries, but it is doubted here that he is authorized by the Provisional President.

The principal Wu Sung fort definitely declared today for the government. The country people and the workmen at the arsenal are regaining confidence and returning to their work.

Blue jackets were landed here this morning at the request of the municipal authorities.

A cordon of pickets was at once stationed around the foreign settlement and at each end of the Su Chow Creek, at the limits of the settlement to prevent the passage of the rebels.

A proclamation was issued by the municipal authorities notifying the belligerents and all actively associated with the revolt that the foreign settlement had been closed to them.

Del Valle Reports.

rived in Washington on the same train.

It was learned later tonight that he stopped at the same hotel in New York, followed the Ambassador on the street cars there, and observed the men with whom the Ambassador talked.

Del Valle, it was also said, made to Secretary Bryan a recommendation that the American Embassy be kept in charge of a secretary for the present, and that Ambassador Wilson's resignation be accepted.

Del Valle declined tonight to discuss any of these points, but said he was about through with his mission.

WILSON RETICENT NOW.

While the Ambassador expressed his views on Mexican affairs freely early in the day, and before he reached Washington, he began tonight a policy of reticence. He said he had been asked by Secretary Bryan to refrain from discussing the situation, and would abide by the wishes of his superior. In fact, the Ambassador expressed doubt as to the accuracy of some published statements attributed to him criticising suggestions of the Washington government for the establishment of peace in Mexico. He also manifested a solicitude about future quotations.

The Ambassador was not willing to say what he had written in his report, but declared unequivocally he had altered his views about affairs in Mexico since coming to Washington or after his talks with Secretary Bryan. He said it was true he had at various times suggested the advisability of recognizing the Huerta administration.

WILSON'S REPORT.

It is understood that the Ambassador's report deals extensively with the economical as well as the political situation in Mexico. It was said on good authority that he pictured a gloomy situation in financial circles in the southern republic, pointing to several big banks as being on the verge of bankruptcy and ruin, and a general condition of distress in business circles. It is declared the Ambassador spoke of the continuous deficits, both of the national treasury and of the railway systems, and estimated foreign losses as very heavy. The French losses alone he is said to have placed at $250,000,000 in gold within recent months. That American investments had greatly depreciated and that no estimate could be placed on the losses is also said to have been included in the Ambassador's report.

Constitutionalist representatives here exhibited a lively interest in Ambassador Wilson's utterances, saying that some of the things he was reported to have said in interviews about the Mexican people were offensive and would make it impossible for him to return as Ambassador.

The Ambassador was in the dark about future plans. He would go back on the steamer sailing next Thursday if the President desires, he said, but he has received no intimation on this point.

Manuel Perez Romero, confidential agent of the Constitutionalists in Washington and brother of Mrs. Francisco I. Madero, denied tonight statements purported to have been made in New York by Ambassador Wilson that Mrs. Madero had published letters that were forgeries, and that the Madero family was maintaining a paid bureau in the United States for the purpose of giving publicity to false statements respecting conditions in Mexico. He declared in a statement that Mrs. Madero had published no such letters, nor caused them to be published, and that the Madero family had made no contributions for maintaining a publicity bureau.

Frank Burnside Establishes New American Altitude Record in His Headless Biplane.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BATH (N. Y.) July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Frank Burnside of Oneonta, N. Y., this afternoon raised the American aeroplane altitude record of 11,650 feet made by Lincoln Beachey at Chicago in 1911. Burnside reached a height of 12,960 feet. He operated a Thomas headless biplane and was in the air from 4:20 to 6:15 o'clock.

The world's altitude record of approximately 19,000 feet is held in France.

"Little Minister" Also Throws Prayerbook on Bonfire at Monticello and Renounces Church.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHARLOTTESVILLE (Va.) July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Rev. Charles Steele Davidson, who had trouble in 1900 with his vestry in the Church of Holy Apostles, Greenwood avenue and Windsor terrace, Broklyn, where he was known as "The Little Minister" and whose pastoral activities elsewhere won him repute for doing things out of the ordinary, has taken spectacular leave of the Episcopal ministry by burning his vestments and prayerbook at the gate of Monticello, the home of Jefferson.

Mr. Davidson wrote out a statement for newspapers, which passed around today, renouncing the church as the "haven of aristocracy," and proclaimed himself a preacher hereafter "for all the people." The statement contains charges against two Episcopal bishops in Virginia, and then proceeds with the reasons for the burnt-offering which was made yesterday apparently without witnesses.

FATAL DUEL IN ALMSHOUSE.

Two Aged Men Engage in Death Conflict Over Pinch of Dust Thrown in Frolic.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 26.—Two old men in the County Almshouse quarreled this morning about a pinch of dust. Four hours later one of them lay dying, shot through the lungs, and the other was in a hospital cot, badly slashed by a knife.

Fred Snyder, is 67 years old and John Jonkosky 74. Snyder was making Jonkosky's bed in the old men's ward this morning. The two oldsters began to worry the clothes in sport, and Jonkosky, to be more frolicsome yet, fillliped a pinch of dust into Snyder's eyes.

Snyder was furious. He swung heavily at the older man with both fists, and knocked him down and out.

When Jonkosky came to he swore vengeance. Four hours later he reappeared with a revolver. Where he got it nobody knows. Snyder had armed himself with a kitchen knife and the quarrel flared up again at sight.

Jonkosky drilled a hole through Snyder's chest and one arm, but before Snyder collapsed he managed to lock his arm around Jonkosky's neck, and bore him to the floor, slashing and stabbing the while, with the free arm. He had almost evened the score before his own weakness and hurrying attendants prevented further damage.

Judge Humphries Restrains Seattle Socialists and I.W.W. from Holding Street Meetings.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) July 26.—Judge John E. Humphries of the Superior Court issued today an injunction restraining Socialist and Industrial Workers of the World orators from holding street meetings at Fourth avenue and West Lake boulevard. The injunction was issued on petition of merchants in the neighborhood, who set forth that the street crowds were injurious to their business.

The Socialists' lease of the Moore Theater for the presentation of the drama "The Colonel and His Friends," was canceled today by the manager of the theater.

The Socialists have engaged a smaller theater for the play, which is said to be founded on a trial in Judge Humphries' court.

Evidences of Murder Are Found in the Ashes of a Camp Near Knights Ferry.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STOCKTON, July 26.—A dispatch received from Oakdale today says that the evidence of a murder was found in the ashes of a camp fire near Knights Ferry. Ned Schell chanced to take a path off the beaten trail and came upon bones in the ashes.

On close inspection he found two human teeth, overall buttons and pieces of leather. Off on one side and hidden in the bushes was a blanket and a blue, woolen shirt.

The tragedy had evidently occurred several months ago as the ashes were beaten down by rain.

Mrs. Orr and Prof. Reed Discuss Iowa Abatement Law at Berkeley Physical Education Conference.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERKELEY (Cal.) July 26.—"No woman ever was guilty of the opinion that segregation is a palliative of the social evil; that must be a man's idea," declared Mrs. J. W. Orr, president of the California Federation of Women's Clubs this morning at the closing session of the physical education conference when the Iowa abatement bill was under discussion. Prof. Thomas H. Reed of the University of California was the chief speaker, Mrs. Orr being one of several who discussed his address.

"What we want is an enforceable law that will wipe out property rights in connection with the social evil," declared Prof. Reed. "We want to reach the fashionable woman in the Parisian gown and the expensive head-dress, the man in the silk top hat and carrying the gold-headed cane, who sits smugly and hypocritically in the fashionable church on Sunday and collects rent on Monday from the restricted property she or he owns.

"The Iowa abatement act will not wipe out the social evil; that is not to be expected of it, but it will do away with the vested interests that are largely responsible for its maintenance. It will be a step in the right direction."

THE PENSIONING OF WOMEN.

Ten of Them Granted Succor by the State of Washington Under the Mother Law.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) July 26.—Ten women were granted pensions yesterday by Superior Judge Frater when he heard the first batch of cases under the mothers' pension law enacted by the Legislature last winter. Fifteen cases were heard, three being denied and two referred for further investigation. The largest pension granted was for $37.50 a month to a destitute widow with seven children to support The amounts granted in the other cases ranged from $15 a month to $30 a month, according to the circumstances of the petitioners. Investigator J. A. Sigurdsen of the pension department reported to the court that 300 applications for mothers' pensions have been filed.

EASTERN SPORTS RAISE A SMILE.

Their Attempt to Protect Mud Hens Criticised.

New Federal Regulations Restrict Duck Season.

California Deer Hunters Bag Many Fat Bucks.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] An impression prevails in some interior sections that the regulations of the Federal government pertaining to the migratory birds will interfere with the fall and winter duck shooting in the State.

The open season for ducks, under the McLean-Weeks bill is from October 1 until January 15, which would cut off two weeks of duck shooting in this State.

One section of the bill, however, will meet with general condemnation and disgust and that is the clause that provides for an open season for mudhens from September 1 until November 30 only.

The eastern lawmakers were not informed as to conditions and circumstances on the Coast. In the East, mud hens, or coots, as they are called, are considered, in some sections, as a game bird and hunted and shot accordingly—possibly because there is nothing else to shoot. At all events a bag of from six to a dozen mud hens is considered a day's good shooting.

So the philanthropy of eastern game protectionists in putting a close season on a bird that is not hunted here, nor considered a game bird, has made the sportsmen smile and smile again. But notwithstanding, the time is at hand when the homely and ubiquitous mudhen will be potted and brought in by hunters for two reasons—the available hunting grounds hereabouts are fading away every year and with their passing the ducks seek other boarding places, and secondly the mudhen has culinary virtues not to be passed up lightly.

DEER HUNTERS.

The main contingent of local deer hunters will start out next week, when the open season in near-by counties opens on the first of August.

Meanwhile, hunters in various counties where the deer season is now open have been bagging many fat bucks.

A party of Highland Springs hunters bagged three fine two-point bucks on the opening day. A preserve of 2300 acres in that vicinity is now well stocked with venison on the hoof.

The Sonoma county deer season will open August 1. The season was shortened by county ordinance and is being strictly enforced. Hunters who have killed deer in other counties where the season is now open have not been molested, however, in passing that county with deer carcasses in their possession.

ARMY CIRCLES STIRRED.

Secretary of War Orders Khaki Uniforms, Used Only in the Tropics, Shipped to San Francisco.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "To the Commanding-General, Western Division, United States Army: Order shipped immediately all khaki uniforms in your division to San Francisco. Garrison, Secretary of War."

Army circles are stirred by the receipt of the foregoing telegram. Comments made by those in a position to know do not tend to clear up the mystery of why uniforms used only in tropical climates and never in San Francisco, should be shipped to this point.

Col. Hamilton S. Wallace, Chief Quartermaster of the Department, scoffed at the idea that the order meant a probable mobilization and equipment of troops at this city for an expedition into Mexico.

According to the colonel the khaki uniforms are not in accordance with the new regulations and, therefore, have been ordered sent to San Francisco for condemnation and sale or destruction.

HALF FARES FOR PUPILS BLOCKED BY COMMISSION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The city of Alameda has apparently encountered a snag in the State Railroad Commission in its efforts to get a half-fare rate for Alameda school children on the street car lines of that city. The proceedings instituted by the city were for the half-fare concession for school children only, but the railroad commission says such concession is unlawful in as much as it is discriminatory and does not apply to all children.

The Southern Pacific already grants a 2½-cent fare on its north side and south side lines, but not on its eastern loop extension. The present effort was to get 2½-cent rates on the street car lines of the San Francisco-Oakland terminal railway's company.

W. A. Bissell, new president of the San Francisco-Oakland company, held a conference with Mayor Frank Otis of Alameda today over the different features involved in granting the half-fare rate, and the matter appears to be up in the air. The half-rate was put into effect by city ordinance, but will be held in abeyance until the different questions involved are settled. The street car company has requested two changes in the ordinance as now framed. The company wishes the maximum age limit set at 18 years instead of 21, as now, and wishes to append certain provisions regarding conditions under which the half-fare concession will be recognized.

STOCKTON (Cal.) July 26.—Two Mexican section hands were killed and two others seriously injured at Tracy today when train No. 32 ran into an automobile truck driven by Henry Schmidt, Jr. The two men were killed outright and the others are in such a mangled condition that there is no hope of saving their lives. Young Schmidt attempted to cross the track in front of the train coming from San Francisco, when he became confused and stopped in the middle of the track. The two dead men and the other two injured ones, with another Mexican, had jumped on the automobile truck while a short distance from Tracy to secure a ride home.

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Deserted by her fiance on the eve of their marriage, 19-year-old Guiseppina Garassino committed suicide by swallowing poison at her home, No. 424 Union street, this morning, and died while en route to the Central Emergency Hospital.

Friends learned a few days ago that the girl had been jilted by her sweetheart. He had disappeared, and the girl, whose heart he had broken, was left to face her grief and disappointment.

This morning friends stopped at her home and, receiving no answer to the repeated knocks, broke in the door. They found the girl writhing in torture on the floor. An ambulance was hastily summoned and while being taken to the hospital she died.

RAPID PROGRESS ON TARIFF BILL.

REPUBLICANS DEEM IT FUTILE TO OFFER AMENDMENTS.

All Paragraphs in Chemical Schedule Approved Except Duties on Barytes and Lead Products—Lodge Protests Against Heavy Reduction on Whiting.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 26.—After several hours of orthodox tariff discussion in the Senate today, during which the Republicans were consistently defeated on amendments, the minority leaders began to tire of fruitless efforts to amend the bill and rapid progress was made. The chemical schedule practically was approved without change when the Senate adjourned.

In protesting against the heavy cut in the duty on whiting, Senator Lodge said he knew it was useless to offer amendments and therefore contented himself with a protest. He has also protested against the duty on lithophone, but said: "I will not uselessly delay the Senate by offering an amendment."

Senator Smoot also refrained from offering certain amendments, saying: "I will not offer an amendment because I see it will do no good."

All the paragraphs of the chemical schedule were approved with the exception of those referring to barytes and lead products which were passed over by request.

For weeks prior to July 1 she had been ill; she went to the country to pick fruit and immediately became poisoned; her 2-year-old baby, Mable, fell into the camp fire, burning her limbs; Mrs. Griswold came hurrying back to Los Angeles to her home and medical help, and found her husband had been missing since July 7.

The rent being up at No. 1465 East Forty-seventh street, where they lived, Mrs. Griswold is hunting accommodations while her friends are hunting her husband. He is a painter, formerly employed by the school board. He quit his work July 7 and has not been seen since.

But on This Occasion It Is as Passenger of the Tenyo Maru to Put Climax to Romance that Began in Hongkong Three Years Ago—Big Crowds Bids Her Good-by.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Recrossing the Pacific Ocean for the one hundredth time, Mrs. Anna F. Kennedy, who was a stewardess in the Toyo Kisen Kaisha service for many years, sailed today on the Tenyo Maru, not as a member of the ship's company, but as a passenger. On the other side of the expanse of sea lies her heart's desire and her new home.

Upon her arrival at Yokohama, Mrs. Kennedy is to wed Capt. Robert Innis, an official of the shipping firm of Butterfield & Squires of Hongkong, who will journey to the Japanese port to meet his fiancee. The couple will make their home at Hongkong.

The romance of Mrs. Kennedy and Capt. Innis is of several year's standing, and had its beginning over three years ago, when the shipping man met the woman who is to be his bride at a social function at Hongkong. The captain was smitten by her charms and every time her skipper was at the Chinese port showered attentions upon her.

During the last visit of the Tenyo to Hongkong Capt. Innis popped the question and was accepted.

A large crowd of Mrs. Kennedy's friends were at the wharf to wish her bon voyage and offer their congratulations. The bride-to-be received many floral tributes and other tokens from her friends, to whom she cried as the liner left the slip: "I hope to see you all again in 1915, if not before."

WILL CHARGE NEGLIGENCE.

Uncle Sam Prepares Complaint Against Ship Owners and Officers for Letting Two Mexicans Get Away.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The United States District Attorney's office today prepared a complaint, to be filed Monday in the Federal Court, against the Pacific Mail Steamship Company and the captain and first mate of the steamer Peru, for alleged negligence and carelessness in connection with the escape of two Mexicans, ordered deported.

It seems that on the vessel's last trip north from Mexico, ten natives of the stormy republic were landed here and immediately ordered deported. They were returned to the Peru, with orders that they be locked up till the vessel left port. Instead, it is asserted, they were given deck liberty and two succeeded in making their get-away.

The government will maintain that officers of the ship and company failed to exercise due precautions for the holding of the forbidden aliens, and seeks to have a fine imposed therefor.

PAYS ALIMONY WITH PIANO.

What Is More, the Instrument Disposed of by Husband Was Taken from the Home of His Wife.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OAKLAND, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] There are various ways of procuring money with which to pay alimony, but Judge Fred V. Wood of the extra sessions department of the Wood today to explain why he had discovered one of the strangest. R. Lancaster appeared before Judge Wood today to explain why he had taken a new piano from the home of his wife, Mary Lancaster, who was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from him recently.

According to Judge Wood, Lancaster had helped himself to the piano, sold it and used the proceeds to pay his spouse her alimony allowance. Mrs. Lancaster complained to the court when she missed her piano. Lancaster is now wondering how he can procure enough money to buy the piano back and restore it to his one-time spouse, in accordance with the orders of Judge Wood.

RIDS JOHNSON OF RAT.

But Not of Those in the Governor's 6Belfry—Executive Messenger Uses Carnation for Bait.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, July 26.—A campaign of three months to rid the Governor's office of a big rat that gnawed cut flowers in the weird hours of the early morning, was ended successfully today.

Yesterday the Governor's messenger noticed that a fine bouquet of white carnations had been badly chewed and he got an inspiration. He took one of the flowers and baited the trap with it. The rat was caught.

PUSH CAMPAIGN FOR PURE MILK.

Federal Officials Reply to Protests of Dealers.

More Than Hundred Illinois Dairymen Convicted.

Inspectors Instruct Farmers in Sanitary Methods.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In response to the protests and threats of milk dealers' associations, the Department of Agriculture issued a statement today defining its aims and policies in protecting consumers from the sale of impure milk.

The department explains that its endeavors in this direction are twofold:

1—Shippers of impure milk are prosecuted under the provisions of the Federal food and drug act.

2—Farmers and dairymen are educated to promote the purity of their product by the improvement of sanitation, the adoption of scientific methods of handling milk, Pasteurization and the tuberculin test.

The government has been conducting a widespread campaign against shippers of impure milk, having obtained convictions of more than 100 dairymen in Illinois alone, who were selling their product in St. Louis.

Recently, several organizations of dealers met in Washington and protested that the standards of purity set by the department were unfair and increased the cost of production. They threatened to raise the price of milk if the department should persist in its policy.

"It is erroneously supposed that the Department of Agriculture has established absolute standards and bacterial counts to which all milk coming under its jurisdiction in interstate commerce must comply," the department's statement says. "The department has established no absolute standards. It certainly has not and will not establish any rule declaring that milk containing less than a certain number of bacteria per cubic centimeter, is good milk. Under such a standard milk containing less than a certain number of typhoid or tubercule bacilli would be passed automatically as coming up to standard.

"A simple count of the bacteria is not in itself sufficient to determine absolutely its safety. The nature of the bacteria as well as their number must also, if possible, be considered.

"Whatever power the department has to compel milk dealers to produce safe, clean milk, comes to it from the food and drugs act. Under this act, the department has power to request the Department of Justice to order prosecutions or seizures only in the case of milk that enters into interstate commerce. In this work, the department does not set up standards, but accepts the standards of the city into which the milk is being shipped across State lines."

MODEL DAIRIES.

The statement describes the educational work in detail. Dairy inspectors instruct farmers in conducting model dairies, such demonstrations having improved the quality of milk supplied to more than 200 cities.

"These demonstrators," the department says, "have no power to compel the farmer to follow their advice, they merely try to show him that these measures are for his own good. They do not and cannot require the farmer to Pasteurize his milk. Where they find a herd that is not tested for tuberculosis, or milk being produced in an unclean way, they advise that the milk be Pasteurized, using any one of a number of competing machines or a home-made Pasteurizer.

"As a result of this work thousands of farmers have introduced new and sanitary methods of producing and shipping milk, and not because they were forced to do so."

FELICITATIONS FOR PERKINS.

Colleagues Congratulate Californian on His Twentieth Anniversary in the Senate—Masons Represented.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Senator Perkins received many congratulations today on the twentieth anniversary of his admission to the Senate. The three Democrats in the delegation called on him early and in their own names and as representatives of the Masonic Grand Lodge, offered him congratulations and a big bunch of flowers, which the Senator later ordered taken to his home.

The other members of the delegation and many persons as far away as California, sent letters and telegrams expressing their satisfaction over the Senator's long term of service to his State.

Concession.

EASTERN ROADS AVERT STRIKE.

RAILWAYS WAIVE THEIR RIGHT TO FEDERAL ARBITRATION.

Only the Demands of the Conductors and Trainmen Will Now Be Considered Under the Provisions of the Newlands Act—Decision Will Not Be Retroactive.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, July 26.—The eastern railroads today withdrew their demand that their grievances against the employees should be considered by the Federal board appointed to arbitrate the demand for better wages and working conditions made by conductors and trainmen.

This concession apparently removed the only remaining obstacle to arbitration and averted a strike. With this issue disposed of, the railroad managers and the labor leaders expected to reach a speedy agreement on the text of the questions to be laid before the Board of Arbitration.

In a statement explaining their position, the managers said they have made this concession but they felt it was their duty to protect the traveling public.

After a brief conference with the labor leaders, the mediators announced that the articles of arbitration would present the sixteen original demands of the employees without change. The only point won by the railroads was an agreement that the decision of the arbitrators should become effective October 1 instead of being retroactive.

MEN NAME ARBITRATORS.

The conductors and trainmen announced the names of their representatives on the Board of Arbitration this afternoon. They are Lucius E. Sheppard of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, senior vice-president of the Order of Railway Conductors, and Daniel L. Cease of Cleveland, O., editor and manager of the Railway Trainmen, official organ of the trainmen's organization.

The managers' decision was announced after they had spent the morning in consultation by telephone and telegraph with the presidents of their roads. It was announced in the form of a letter addressed to the Board of Mediation and Conciliation. The letter said:

"To preclude the possibility of another crisis such as this arising when the railroads should desire to have considered important questions relative to the pay and working conditions of conductors and trainmen, the conference committee of managers on July 16, announced that in the interest of the public as a whole these matters, which were given in detail, should be passed on by the board which would arbitrate the demands of conductors and trainmen for increases in pay.

"The managers' committee has never refused to arbitrate the demands of the men under the provisions of the Newlands act but they thought that in all fairness matters which the railroads desired passed on should be considered at the same time. They presented a question of inequity and excessive wages that the railroads felt should be corrected.

"The right to include these in the agreement to arbitrate was denied by the men; they also declined to let the United States Board of Mediation and Conciliation decide whether these matters should be so arbitrated; they then refused the suggestion of the railroads to arbitrate the question of the introduction of these matters, and announced that unless the railroads withdrew their requests, a strike would be called.

"It is evident that the conductors and trainmen's organization would go to the full extent of subjecting the company to the calamity that a strike on the eastern railroads would cause rather than have all matters pertaining to the questions at issue submitted to fair and comparative arbitration.

"The railways must protect the public. Therefore they waive their right to include their requests in the articles of the agreement to arbitrate at this time, without prejudice to any other rights of the railroads."

ARTICLES ARE SIGNED.

Representatives of both sides met and signed the articles of arbitration this afternoon. Under the Newlands act the questions at issue will be decided by six arbitrators, each side to choose two and these four arbitrators to select the remaining two members. If the original four cannot agree on the two "neutral" members they will be chosen by the permanent Federal Board of Mediation and Conciliation.

Hearing must begin within thirty days after the completion of the board. The hearings will be in New York City and probably will start early in September. The award of the arbitrators will remain in effect one year, at the close of which period the railroads may give thirty days' notice if they desire change.

HOUSE-HUNTING WITH FIANCE.

Miss Jessie Wilson, Her Mother and Francis B. Sayre Spent Forenoon With Real Estate Agents.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PITTSFIELD (Mass.) July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Jessie Wilson and Francis B. Sayre, put in a busy morning in Williamstown today, where they have been house-hunting.

The wife of the President is personally selecting a cottage which will be the residence of Mr. Sayre and his bride-to-be, and which they will occupy some time after the first of next year when Mr. Sayre will become Secretary to President Garfield of Williams College.

President Garfield is to seek a $2,000,000 endowment for Williams College, and Mr. Sayre's duty will be largely to aid President Garfield to raise the fund.

The Wilsons and Mr. Sayre are passing the week-end with ex-President and Mrs. Franklin Carter of Williams and they motored about the college town this morning with real estate agents, visiting and scrutinizing cottages for lease.

MONOCLE HIS NEMESIS.

It Ruined the Sight of One Eye of a German Who Went to St. Louis to Become a Hero.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS, July 26.—A monocle has shattered the dreams of Dr. Otto Gordon Goldfeld of Germany, of his father, vice-president of the corporation of Hamburg, and of a beautiful European chorus girl, whose identity shall remain a secret until her hero's dream has been rebuilt and realized.

Dr. Goldfeld, a self-confessed lover, spendthrift and temporarily disinherited son, recently came to the United States with the intention of joining the army. He wanted to forget the pretty chorus girl, the bright lights of Monte Carlo and the memory of the $32,000 he lavished on his fiancee in one year.

Three years in the American army, Goldfeld, his father and the girl decided, would make a man of him. He would then return home, be reinherited and would marry the girl. Goldfeld enlisted at Chicago last Tuesday and was assigned to Jefferson Barracks in St. Louis.

He arrived with a monocle in front of his right eye, with a cane hanging on his left forearm, and his clothes were made in the latest style. His physique was Apolloesque. He could ride, hurdle and swim.

But—he wore a monocle, and could not see, at least not perfectly. The strain caused by its constant use has made him unfit for the United States army. The local examining officer therefore rejected him and the German's dream was shattered.

ROMANCE OF STOLEN NECKLACE

Pearls Which Disappeared Are Said to Have Been Intended for Royal Wedding Gift.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Observer prints with reserve a rumor that the $675,000 pearl necklace which was stolen from a package in the registered mail somewhere between Paris and London, was to have been submitted to the Princess royal for examination as a wedding present to her daughter, the Duchess of Fife, when she becomes the bride of Prince Arthur of Connaught.

TalksonTeeth

Good Teeth and Digestion

Keep your digestive apparatus in good working order and you can defy old age. Indigestion is the cause of most of the ills of mankind and womankind.

What causes indigestion?

Poor teeth, or no teeth, in nearly every case. "Stomach trouble" is generally traceable to "teeth trouble."

What's the remedy?

A perfect set of teeth.

OUR REX METHOD OF ALVEOLAR TEETH, AS PERFECTED BY DR. RANKINE

In Restoring Missing Teeth

When these teeth are in place it is a difficult matter for any one, even the one who is wearing them, to tell which are nature's teeth and which "Alveolar."

In shape, size, color, looks and action they are a perfect substitute for teeth which grew in the mouth and as firm as a rock.

We don't say, "Now, be careful when you eat," But, "Use these teeth just as you would if they grew in your jaws."

Let us tell you what we can do and refer you to the people who have had this work done for them. That's the fair plan, isn't it?

An examination of your mouth and teeth won't cost you a cent. It won't obligate you to spend a cent unless you are satisfied that we can do as we promise.

You will be the judge of all these things when you come.

Chiefly Slits.

embroidered in gold, and a raspberry chiffon peplum is superimposed on the tulle.

GRECIAN ROBE.

Then there is a Grecian robe of perfectly plain white satin falling in straight folds to the ankle. The bodice is cut low and square and caught in just under the breasts with three rows of narrow gold cord. Around the hips is loosely twisted a white satin scarf, ending in a gold tassel. There is no other trimming.

Another gown gives the impression—possibly erroneously—that if the wearer walked a bit faster the two halves of the skirt would separate in the back up to the waist. Even at a snail's pace the slit extended above the knees in the back and beginning at the waist line, one lengthwise fold of the skirt appeared to be laid over the other, disdaining all fastening. This skirt is also slit in the front to a point half-way between the ankle and the knee. It is of blue-green brocaded silk, with a black net bodice and pink chiffon under the sleeves.

THE ZOO GOWN.

The zoo gowns, and there are several on exhibition, will evidently be popular. They are made of leopard-skin cloth and a collection of them gives a real jungle effect.

Coats show great diversity of length, plain tailor-made models being shorter than dressier models, in which coats may reach to the knees. Coats are semi-fitting and break at the waist line. Sleeves are full length and close fitting, the arm hole showing no fullness. Cuffs are turned back and trimmed.

HATS SMALL AND ROUND.

Hats are small and round, but the fantastic trimmings make up for the demure shapes. Many of the bows and feathers seem to grow out from the exact center of the head. Others soar just over the forehead. Sometimes feathers are laid flat along the helmet shapes, instead of standing upright. There are a few poke effects and a saucy modification of the Tam O'Shanter is very popular.

MADERO BOLERO JACKET.

Then there is the Madero bolero jacket, the gunnie-sack coat, the veil sash, the leopard-skin cloth, the bathing-skirt coat, the half-and-half waist, (not so naughty as it sounds,) and the bandana frock. Accordion pleats have come back. The peg-top skirt, fuller at the top than at the bottom, will be worn.

There is an adaptable train, six feet long by two wide, which can be thrown over the head as an evening scarf or twisted about the waist like a sash, while dancing.

ENDS LIFE IN A MANSION.

Solitary Occupant of a Palace in Jackson Hole is Thought to Have Committed Suicide.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DENVER (Colo.) July 26.—News has reached here tonight of the recent finding of the body of John B. Sargent, the solitary occupant of the famous half-million dollar Swiss cottage built by Robert Ray Hamilton, a wealthy New York man, in the remote Jackson Hole district in Northwestern Wyoming. Sargent was found in the house and evidently died of self-inflicted gunshot wounds. Two letters, one addressed to his aged mother in New York and the other to his wife in California, were lying upon a table and these were mailed without opening. Hamilton built the house in 1890 and lived there several years with Sargent and his wife. One day Hamilton's body was found floating in the lake and the mystery of his death has never been explained. Some months later Mrs. Sargent fled to a neighbor's, bearing evidence of terrible mistreatment which she refused to explain. She died shortly after and Sargent left the region, returning about two years ago with the second Mrs. Sargent.

WRECKS TRAIN, SAVES LIVES.

Towerman Derails Pennsylvania Special to Clear Track for Wabash Flyer at Chicago.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, July 26.—Scores of lives were saved today when a towerman in Burnham, Ills., threw the Ohio River special on the Pennsylvania railroad into a derail and averted its collision with a through Wabash train from St. Louis. The train took the ditch at high speed. The Pennsylvania locomotive was overturned in the crash, but aside from minor injuries suffered by the fireman no one was hurt.

A moment after the Pennsylvania train hit the derailer the Wabash train clicked across the frogs at the track intersection less than 1000 feet away.

"I was taken with Bright's disease of the kidneys. I went to a doctor. He analysed my urine and said I could not live. I began taking Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy and Warner's Safe Nervine. In four months I was cured."—H. B. Sparks, Hydesville, Cal.

Bright's Disease

is a disease, the thought of which holds terrors for most people, yet all cases are not necessarily fatal. Bright's disease follows neglect of the early stages of kidney disease and failure to take a good efficient remedy and correct kidney trouble in its incipiency.

Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy has proved most effective in the condition which makes possible the insidious advances of disease of the kidneys when taken in time. Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy has brought welcome relief and a return to health to sufferers for over 36 years, as thousands testify.

GOVERNORS' CONFERENCE.

Chief Executive of Kansas Calls a Meeting to Be Held in Wichita in October.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TOPEKA (Kan.) July 26.—Gov. Hodges today wrote the Governors of all the States west of the Mississippi River asking them to meet in Wichita, October 22, to discuss State and national legislation. The trans-Mississippi Commercial Congress is to meet in Wichita October 21 and continue in session for four days. The conference of the Governors will be in conjunction with that organization.

Gov. Hodges proposes that the Governors decide the various problems which are now confronting the Western States, both in State and national legislation and appoint a special representative of the Governors to appear before the Congressional Committees at Washington.

EACH WANTS A DIVORCE.

And in the Row Between Actress and Theatrical Manager an Ex-Minister Is Knocked Down.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Issues were joined in the Supreme Court today in the divorce suit brought by Frederick Esmolton Bryant, the theatrical producer, against his wife, Louise Power Bryant, an actress, known on the stage as "Jule Power," and her cross-action for divorce from him. H. B. Badbary, counsel for Bryant, filed his client's answer to his wife's charges, which deny all accusations, and demands a decree in his favor.

Bryant's complaint caused a stir in theatrical circles by the declaration that Mrs. Bryant had transferred her affections from him to the Rev. Cader Russell Davis, who is known as "the Talmadge of the West."

Ten years ago Davis resigned his pastorate of the Central Christian Church in Oakland, Cal., and became an actor.

Under the stage name of "Edward Davis" the one-time clergyman has been appearing in a sketch called "The Kingdom of Destiny" with Mrs. Power as his leading woman. A few days after Mrs. Power was served with a summons and complaint in her husband's suit, the latter saw his wife and Davis meet on the sidewalk in front of a hotel in West Forty-seventh street, and knocked him down.

LANE WILSON VISITS BRYAN.

He Suggests a Policy for Dealing With Mexico.

Wants the Privilege of Enlightening the Public.

Expects to Return to His Post Next Thursday.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson, on his arrival here for conferences on the [illegible] situation with Secretary Bryan, announced he had prepared a memorandum suggesting the policy the American government should pursue.

"I was impressed," said Ambassador Wilson, after his conference with [illegible], "with the receptiveness of Secretary Bryan and his breadth of view. Our interview was very pleasant and Mr. Bryan impressed me as [illegible] having reached any determination on the situation but as desirous to know the facts."

The Ambassador declared that at Mr. Bryan's request he had dictated [illegible] a resume of the situation. It took him four hours and in it he covered all the occurences of importance from the beginning of the revolution in Mexico, against Diaz. The Ambassador said he had made no references [illegible] personalities.

Mr. Wilson said he would ask the President to permit him to speak publicly about the situation, as he believed the public was not generally informed. He will confer with the President on Monday.

While declining to divulge the nature of his plan until he had submitted his views to the President, the Ambassador [illegible] characterized as impracticable proposals for mediation by an [illegible] commission.

EXPECTS TO RETURN.

Ambassador Wilson said he expected to return to Mexico City by the steamer sailing next Thursday from New York. As to his conferences with the officials here, he understood, he added, that he merely was to transmit information of the situation and resented the suggestion recently made in the newspapers that he would be called to account for his personal acts.

"I recognize that the President and Secretary have a right, however, to [illegible] me about anything."

WILSON'S CRITICISM.

The Ambassador described his treatment by President Wilson and Secretary Bryan hitherto as courteous in every respect except once—the sending of separate agents to investigate conditions in Mexico. He severely criticized both William Bayard Hale and Reginald Del Valle whom he declared were acting for the administration [illegible] there.

"I don't think Mr. Del Valle should have been given the State Department code," said the Ambassador. "I [illegible] he had it because he went to the secretary of our legation in Havana to get help in deciphering it. And I believe the Senate committee might investigate the distribution of the State Department code to private individuals."

The Ambassador said he had every intention to carry out the wishes of the President and Secretary Bryan. Mediation, however, he looked on as impossible because the Mexican Federal government would not entertain [illegible] suggestion.

"[illegible] mediation," he added, "as [illegible] on dangerous seas."

Mr. Wilson was vehement in his [illegible] of the Constitutionalists and the Madero family.

"The Madero family," asserted the Ambassador, "have maintained a paid [illegible] in Washington to poison the public mind. As to the rebels there are none except in Sonora where there is an organized movement. Elsewhere there are bandits."

The Ambassador was asked about [illegible] where Gov. Carranza is in [illegible] of the Constitutionalist cause.

"There are bandits in Coahuila," he answered. "I don't mean to say Carranza is a bandit, but in order to keep his men together he must allow them to loot, and they, [illegible], become bandits."

Mr. Wilson suggested that hardly [illegible] in Washington really understood the Mexican situation and the [illegible] of Latin people.

"Some of the proposals I have [illegible]," he remarked, "sound like the [illegible] of mere children. For instance, the proposal to have foreign [illegible] from Central and South America [illegible] with us in mediating the [illegible] in Mexico. Why, that would [illegible] overthrow of the principles of the Monroe doctrine and the Mexicans would resent interference.

"When this proposal was once made by John Barrett, director-general of the Pan-American union. Mr. Barrett and I are personal friends and I have great respect for him, but I [illegible] think much of that suggestion."

MEETS HIS FAMILY.

The Ambassador met Mrs. Henry Lane Wilson and his two sons who [illegible] him here. Asked just when he would finish his conferences he said:

"[illegible] certainly hurry them," and added with a laugh: "I understand from the newspapers that my [illegible] in Washington is costing [illegible] $3000 a day by losing his [illegible] engagements. Well, I must be an expensive visitor."

BRYAN WAITS.

After he had breakfasted, Ambassador Wilson hurried to the State Department where Secretary Bryan was [illegible].

PRESIDENT PLAYS GOLF.

President Wilson had left to play golf. At the end of a half hour's conference with the Ambassador Secretary Bryan, saying the talk would be resumed at 3 o'clock this afternoon, hurried to the Capitol to meet the Foreign Relations Committee. [illegible] would only discuss the [illegible] treaty there.

Mr. Bryan would make no announcement of his conference with the Ambassador further than to say Mr. Wilson had made a preliminary [illegible].

[illegible] was asked about the [illegible] that Del Valle had been given a copy of the State Department code, but beyond saying he [illegible] any knowledge that Del Valle was an agent of the State Department he refused to discuss the [illegible].

Ambassador Wilson, however, received the correspondents in Mr. [illegible]. While he was questioned, Secretary Bryan's private secretary made a stenographic record of the interview, which turned out to be not at all illuminating on the situation, further than bringing from the Ambassador a denial of the statement that he had been asked to prepare a report on the mediation proposition. The Ambassador spent the first part of the day going over copies of his previous reports to the State Department.

Later is was definitely determined that Ambassador Wilson will not confer with the President until Monday. He spent the remainder of today conferring with Mr. Bryan.

Del Valle also had a conference with Secretary Bryan at which it was understood he submitted something in the nature of a report or recommendations based on his observations in Mexico. Whether it related to Ambassador Wilson was not established. Both he and Mr. Bryan declined to discuss it.

It became known today that Del Valle came to Washington from Mexico on the same trains and the same ship with Ambassador Wilson.

As a result of the conference with Secretary Bryan, the Foreign Relations Committee will call on Ambassador Wilson probably early next week for an explanation of Mexican conditions. The Ambassador's appearance will be arranged to occur after he has concluded his conferences with the President and the Secretary. The committee will indorse no line of action and reach no conclusion as to policies until after the conference with Ambassador Wilson and a further one with Mr. Bryan.

Intimations were given by Secretary Bryan to the committee today that the administration was prepared for any developments in Mexican affairs, but the nature of the policy being shaped at the White House and State department was not disclosed. The proposals for mediation were not brought up at the Senate conference and no suggestions on that subject were volunteered by the Secretary of State.

Del Valle is a former California State Senator from Los Angeles. President Wilson recently stated he had received letters indirectly from him on conditions in Mexico. He is supposed to be Secretary Bryan's personal representative, but Mr. Bryan has not disclosed Del Valle's connection with the department.

OBREGON HEARS GOOD NEWS.

Exhibits Telegram at Nogales Telling of Desertion of Battalion of Rurales From Ojeda.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NOGALES (Ariz.) July 26.—Gen. Alfaro Obregon, the Constitutionalist leader, who is at Nogales, Sonora, recovering from a recent operation, today exhibited a telegram from the front that announced the desertion of a battalion of rurales from Gen. Ojeda's forces. The deserting rurales were reported to have been pursued by Federals whom they engaged in a short battle before joining the Constitutionalists.

Obregon stated that he indorsed the statement of Gov. Maytorena of Sonora, that the Constitutionalists would decline to engage in any peace negotiations in which the Huerta administration was represented.

Constitutionalists Repulse Sortie from Monclova—Their Capital Is Threatened by Federals.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EAGLE PASS, July 26.—Five hundred Federals who made a sortie from Monclova yesterday were driven back by Constitutionalists, according to reports to Piedras Negras today. Considerable losses on both sides were reported.

Federals were said to have executed two well-known Mexican business men of Monclova, Francisco Delgado and Francisco Garda, because they sympathized with the Constitutionalists. Refugees assert there have been many other executions in Monclova. Preparations to resist a threatened attack on the Constitutionalist provisional capital, Piedras Negras, were made today. Federals were reported advancing along the Rio Grande from Nuevo Laredo. A Constitutionalist column was sent out to meet them.

Rebels Expect to Market in United States Thousands of Heads of Stock From Terrazas Ranches.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) July 26.—Thousands of cattle, taken from the ranches of Gen. Luis Terrazas and other prominent Mexicans, will be brought from Chihuahua, entered through Douglas and sold in the United States by the Constitutionalists, according to information received here today. One herd of 2000 head, coming by way of Bavispe, was reported due here in a few days.

The destruction of railroads in Northeastern Mexico and the fact that the Federals are in control of Juarez make the shipping of the cattle into Texas and New Mexico impossible at present.

Relief for Catarrh Sufferers Now FREE

You Can Now Treat This Trouble in Your Own Home and Get Relief at Once.

How the Remedy for Catarrh Was Discovered.

By the new method the nose and throat are treated by an effective local remedy applied directly to the afflicted membranes.

The Elixir, taken into the stomach, has a direct influence upon the mucous membranes of the body and cures the disease by removing the cause.

THIS terrible disease has raged unchecked for years simply because symptoms have been treated while the vicious germs that cause the trouble have been left to circulate in the blood, and bring the disease back as fast as local treatments could relieve it.

C. E. Gauss, who experimented for years on a treatment for Catarrh, found that after perfecting a balm that relieved the nose and throat troubles quickly, he could not prevent the trouble beginning all over again.

On test cases, he could completely remove all signs of Catarrh from nose and throat, but in a few weeks they were back.

Careful experiments and investigations have shown that as the troubles were expelled from the nose and throat, the real cause of the disease was overlooked and in a short time the Catarrh would return stronger than ever. Mr. Gauss has gone way ahead of the ordinary methods of treatment and has provided a remedy that Kills the Germs in the Blood and immediately gives relief to the nose and throat.

He perfected the New Combined Treatment, since admitted to be the logical, sure, scientific method.

Reese Jones, of Scranton, Penn., says that after trying many other treatments, he used this new method and—"My nose is now entirely clear and free and I am not bothered by the disease any more. The New Combined Treatment is worth its weight in gold."

Temporary relief from catarrh may be obtained in other ways, but the New Combined Treatment must inevitably be accepted for permanent results.

Sarah J. Cape, Mount Pelia, Tenn., says, "I suffered the pains and distress of catarrh for thirteen years and needless to state, tried nearly every method. But by your new method I was completely cured and you cannot imagine the joy that has come over me."

Can YOU Make a Living on a Little Land?

Typical Figures in the Drama of the Little Lands

The young lady and her chum, formerly artists and members of the Friday Morning Club of Los Angeles, are at the beginning of their career as Little Landers—their "Adventure in Contentment," as they call it. One of them manages the garden, the other the poultry yard. The man nearest the young lady is an expert gardener, making $1800 a year net profit from half an acre, while the other man is an expert flower gardener, making $600 a year above a comfortable living from less than half an acre. One advises the novice about her tomatoes; the other shows her how to trim her chrysanthemums to get the best results. Experienced and successful men in various lines, themselves engaged in making a living from little lands, show Little Landers "how to do it."

YOU can do it—if you know HOW or have the capacity to LEARN. All WE can do is to create the best conditions; then it's up to YOU.

We find THE BEST PLACE.

Buy land as CHEAPLY as we can.

Sell it at prevailing market prices ON EASY TERMS.

Dedicate largest possible share of net profit to Improvement Fund.

Use the Fund in various ways to raise the common standard of living.

So organized as to enable the colonists to buy their supplies on best terms by means of GENUINE ROCHDALE CO-OPERATION—one man, one share and one vote.

And also to enable them to sell their products DIRECTLY TO CONSUMER, thus getting the nearest possible approach to retail prices.

These things go to the question of EFFICIENCY on the productive and commercial side. The Little Lander aims at the highest possible efficiency.

On the Social and Intellectual side, the word is "REFINEMENT"—the highest possible refinement.

Our beautiful civic and social center, "Bolton Hall," will be dedicated for public use on Saturday, August 16. The motto over its great fireplace reads: "To the Spiritual Life of the Soil." Our aim is to give the Little Lander every enviable thing within reach of the millionaire, including the millionaire's security against the haunting fear of want.

The growth of Los Terrenitos ("The Little Lands") during the last four months surpasses anything of the kind in the wonderful history of Southern California for a similar period. And yet we have only begun. It seems safe to predict the most extraordinary success for the Little Landers Movement in Los Angeles.

We All Grin.

OUR BABY CROP NATION'S BEST.

Southern California Natural Infant Hot House.

Product Unexcelled in Size, Intellect and Chest.

Comparison of Statistics Is Proof of Honors.

More eugenic babies blossomo right here in Los Angeles than in any other city in America, announced Dr. Rex Duncan in an address yesterday afternoon, when the prizes were awarded in the baby show at the Million Club's Melting Pot on Hamburger's roof garden.

The doctor said that his conclusions had been reached after he and his committee had made mental and physical examinations of 1000 Southern California babies and compared the figures with similar statistics from other cities.

Dr. Duncan asserted that the baby product of Los Angeles excels in intellect, size for their age, and chest measurement in proportion to the size of the head and abdomen.

High average intelligence of the populace, the climate and the absence of slums are said by the physician to be responsible for the "better babies."

THE PRIZE BABIES.

The prize baby of Los Angeles, under 1 year of age, is Marian MacDougall, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart MacDougall of No. 165½ East Thirty-fifth street. The prize was a handsome engraved miniature holder.

Durwald Lauer, 1½ years old, was awarded a silver loving cup as the first prize in the children's closs between 1 and 3 years. The parents are Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Lauer of No. 628 Heliotrope drive.

The first prize in the children 3 to 5-lear-old class went to Anne Elizabeth Keyes, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis A. Keyes of No. 146 North Hope street.

The prize twins are Kurtasa and Kurtesa Kelly, 3½ years old, the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. K. K. Kelley of Glendale.

Mrs. W. C. Tyler presided at the meeting. Miss Josephine Doherty was superintendent of the baby show.

"We can now say without fear of contradiction that there is no place in the world where better babies are produced than in Los Angeles," Dr. Duncan said. "This statement can be proved by comparing the results of our examination of 1000 babies with the statistics published by various authorities in other sections of the country.

COMPARES DEVELOPMENT.

"Almost without exception our babies are much larger for their age and better developed than those in other States. In many instances the Los Angeles baby of 6 months has tthe physical development of 1½-year-old babies born and raised in other sections.

"Another point of considerable significance is the fact that our babies have a much greater chest measurement in proportion to head and abdomen measurements. This is one of the most positive indications of a robust baby. As a whole, our babies also excel in mental development.

"I believe Los Angeles and Southern California produce better babies than any other section of the country because we have an ideal climate that permits the babies to be out of doors most of the time; we have a superior class of people, the mothers here giving their babies better and more scientific care than they do elsewhere, and we have a class of people whose average incomes are greater than those in any other city of its size.

SLUMS AND MORTALITY.

"The essentials in raising perfect babies are healthy parents, proper parental influence, proper care at the time of birth, proper food for the baby, proper clothing, plenty of fresh air and sunshine and the early correction of defects."

Baby-show figures.

At the top, Durwald Lauer, winner in children's class between 1 and 3 years, and his mother, Mrs. Taylor Lauer; middle left, Marian MacDougall, prize baby, and mother, Mrs. Stewart MacDougall; below, Anne Elizabeth Keyes, first in children's class 3 to 5 years. Dr. Rex Duncan at middle right.

Dr. Duncan discussed at some length the relation of slums to unhealthy babies and infant mortality. He said that he believes that the absence of slums in Los Angeles is largely responsible for the high average excellence of the babies here.

"Objects of this monster baby show," Dr. Duncan continued, "were to stimulate the interest in developing better babies that has been shown for a number of years in the raising of better live stock; to cause the mothers whose babies are below the standard to try to remedy defects; to educate parents and public regarding the care and development of better babies; and to help prepare Los Angeles to care for the great number of immigrant babies who will come with the opening of the Panama Canal.

RUSH UNANTICIPATED.

"We did not anticipate one-fourth of the number of babies registered in this contest. I believe that the mothers who were compelled to wait or were turned away will understand that it was no fault of ours and that all of us did the best we could in the face of the unexpected rush.

"I assure you that a most difficult task confronted the judges, for the reason that hundreds of the babies were almost perfect. I venture to say that almost any one of them would have been a prize winner in an eastern baby show.

"It was necessary to select the most perfect baby in each class by careful examination and by judges comparison of score cards."

The evening programme was short. Most of the time was given to dancing and general frolic. The stock on hand at the various booths was sold at bargain prices.

The merchants' prizes were awarded as follows:

First prize—Hand-painted portrait, valued at $100, offered by Hartsook, No. 636 South Broadway, won by P. J. Henshaw, No. 2864 North Sichel street.

Second prize—One dozen portraits, valued at $35, offered by Hartsook, won by Mrs. C. N. Jones, No. 1128 Logan street.

Third prize—Sterling silver toilet set, presented by Joseph Rittigstein, No. 500 South Broadway, won by Mrs. W. B. Bullard, No. 249 Avenue Twenty-three.

Fourth prize—Large hammered brass jardiniere, presented by Parmalee-Dorhman Company, No. 436 South Broadway, won by Mrs. Mahn, No. 724 West Fifty-first street.

Fifth prize—Portrait, presented by Hartsook, won by Mrs. S. E. Hull, Venice.

"GET'S-IT" for Corns and Away They Go!

"GETS-IT" the New-Plan Corn Cure, Gets Any Corn Surely, Quickly.

You'll say, "It does beat all how quick "GETS-IT" got rid of that corn. It's almost magic!" "GETS-IT" gets every corn, every time, as sure as the sun rises. It takes about 2 seconds to apply it. Corn pains stop, you forget the corn, the corn shrivels up, and it's gone! Ever try anything like that? You never did. There's no more fussing with plasters that press on the corn, no more salves that take off the surrounding flesh, no more bandages. No more knives, files or razors that make corns grow, and cause danger of blood poison. "GETS-IT" is equally harmless to healthy or irritated flesh. It "gets" every corn, wart, callus and bunion you've got.

"GETS-IT" is sold at all druggists' at 25 cents a bottle, or sent on receipt of price by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago. Sold in Los Angeles by The Owl Drug Co.'s Stores.

"Never Could Do This Before. "GETS-IT" Made Every Corn Vanish Like Magic."

"HANDS OFF IN ALASKA!"

That Is the Advice of Attorney for Territory to Congress in Opposing Government Railroad.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Strenuous opposition to government construction and operation of an "Alaskan railroad" was made today before the House Territories Committee by W. J. Boland, attorney for the Alaskan territorial government.

"Keep hands off!" in the Alaska railroad field, he said, adding that two groups of American and British capitalists stand ready to build a railroad from Resurrection Bay to Tanoana. That the President be given authority to decide whether the proposed railroad shall be built by public or private capital, was requested by the railroad attorney.

SPECTS HARBOR AND FORTIFICATION SITES.

Secretary of War, Working Rapidly and Thoroughly, Goes Over the Entire Situation in Half a Day, but Declines to Discuss the Prospects for Immediate Government Work Until He Returns to Washington.

From the harbor the visitors were given a splendid view of the coast from San Pedro to Redondo, returning by way of Slauson avenue. The Secretary enjoyed the ride, admired the climate and scenery and listened to stories of the growth and achievements of Los Angeles as told by Willis Booth and other Chamber of Commerce boosters.

"You have a magnificent city," he said, "and the climate is as good as it has been represented. If I liked it any better I should plan to come here to live. Even in so short a time I have caught the spirit and I'm about ready to join the band and toot for Los Angeles, too."

The Secretary upon his return to the hotel last night was willing to talk at length on the climate and his impressions of Los Angeles, but was inexorable in his decision not to discuss any government plans for fortifications or the establishment of an army post at the harbor.

Brig.-Gen. Weaver will accompany the party on the remainder of the trip, which will extend from San Diego to the Columbia River. They will leave here for San Diego at 3 o'clock today, returning to Los Angeles tomorrow night.

WHARF OWNERS ACCOMMODATING.

TORPEDO BOATS TO DOCK IN THE CITY'S HARBOR.

Officers on Occasion May Take Their Craft to Long Beach—Police Judge Sentences Without Compunction Drunken Beggars Even Though They Are Halt and Blind.

SAN PEDRO, July 26.—A report that the submarine tender Alert and submarines F1, F2, F3 and F4 may be compelled to go to Long Beach because of inadequate docking facilities here is denied by officers of the naval vessels.

Capt. J. V. Ogan, commander of the Alert, said this morning that he had always found the wharf owners here very accommodating and had no trouble in finding a berth, although it was expected that they would have to shift to another berth in case they tied up to a wharf that might be needed a any time.

"Our orders are to remain here until December," said he, "and we expect to pass five days a week at anchor outside, coming in to the harbor Friday nights to remain over Sunday to give the men shore leave. We shall probably alternate week-end stays between Long Beach and San Pedro if we find we can get into the Long Beach harbor. On account of the right angle turn which has to be made after passing the drawbridge the Alert not handling very easily at the slow speed which would be required at this turn, it is possible that the width of the channel is not enough to permit her to stand in towards the dock when making the right-angle turn required."

There are about 200 men aboard the boats, many of whom have families that will live here. It is expected that the torpedo boats will also make headquarters here for the remainder of the year at least, although they will go to San Diego for coal and target practice. The Hopkins arrived here this morning with the naval militia and the others are expected Monday.

HALT AND BLIND.

Police Judge Chesebro's court this morning indicated that the police round-up last night was a literal compliance of the injunction of Luke xiv; 21 to "Bring hither the poor and the maimed and the halt and the blind."

Ed Wagner, blind and deaf; Jack Logan, with one leg, and Frank Yanders, with one arm, all pleaded guilty to being drunk. All gave their occupations as lead-pencil peddlers. Officer Denman found them on the sand at Wilmington with a quart bottle of wine. "I wasn't feeling very well yesterday and I guess I took one too many," said Wagner, after a question from the court as to the cause of his dissipation had been loudly repeated in his ear by a companion. The other two told much the same stories.

Judge Chesebro gave each three days. Yanders and Logan were given the option of a fine of $3, but neither had the funds. The blind man was given a straight jail sentence on the theory of the court that the rest would do him good.

George Adlesberger appeared on crutches. He got into a fight at East San Pedro over the crutches. Having been in trouble before Judge Chesebro fined him $10, but suspended the sentence on account of his condition.

POLICE AFTER RED FLAGGERS.

FIFTY GIRLS, SOME IN SHORT SKIRTS, WITNESSES.

Young People's League Involved in Accusations Made by Four Complainants—Juvenile Officer Begins Investigation Which Is Expected to Result in Sensational Expose.

Charges that little girls, some but 15 years of age, are solicited to attend the dances of the Young People's Socialist League, No. 116½ East Third street, have been made to the police and City Prosecutor, and formal charges are to be filed tomorrow. It is alleged that not only are minors attending the dances, but that the "league" is operating without permit, and that the hall in which the dances are held is unsanitary and without sufficient fire protection.

William Coyle, No. 849 West Fifth street; Harry Miller, No. 435 South Main street; Alex Gordon, No. 938 Cottage place, and Antonio Montal, No. 107 East Second street accuse the Headquarters Committee of the league of violating the law.

The Headquarters Committee is composed of Lawrence Powers, Frank Walcott, Chairman Harry E. Richmond and George Reesland.

Unless satisfactory explanation of their methods of running the public dance hall are made to the authorities, warrants will be issued against these men, charging them with conducting a menace, according to the City Prosecutor.

Names of fifty girls, all under 18 years of age, who have been constant frequenters of the "league" dances, have been placed in the hands of Juvenile Officer Marden, who will begin immediate investigation of the case, and further prosecution of the organizers may follow.

Some of the girls mentioned are said to dress in short skirts.

Beach Citizens Organize to Get Cheaper Fares—Ocean Park Plans Celebration.

OCEAN PARK, July 26.—Committee of citizens from Sawtelle, Santa Monica, Ocean Park and Venice will assist the Los Angeles Rate Association in its efforts to get a 25-cent round trip fare to the beaches. At a meeting last night in the Chamber of Commerce the co-operative movement was given a great boost.

Chairman Hile appointed committees from each of the bay cities to meet the Los Angeles rate fighters Friday evening in the office of Attorney Oscar L. Horn.

Ocean Park will celebrate on the last day of August and the first three days of September the year of progress made in upbuilding this place. The last day of the celebration will be the anniversary of the big fire. There will be swimming races, a Labor Day celebration and picnic, a masked ball and confetti battle.

Yet Lots Are Only $750 and Up

Culture and refinement are already established there.

That asset is worth more than mere price, yet the price is lower in comparison, because you buy of the owner, on only a small margin above the cost of raw acreage.

When you compare these highly improved lots with other properties, even in less desirable localities, you will realize that the standing of this residential neighborhood, the quality of the improvements and the character of the surrounding homes in this preferred section of the Southwest, are advantages not figured in the price. Day by day they grow into greater importance.

They are only at 30th street, on the way to the big $6,000,000 Baldwin estate, now being improved and built up; continuing the artistic Arlington bungalow district. In the region of the Manual Arts High School, Exposition Park, two modern grammar schools, served by four car lines at 5¢ fare, and improved up to the latest specifications.

Eckman's Alterative

The makers of Eckman's Alterative, which is doing so much good for Lung Trouble, are continually in receipt of wonderful reports of recoveries brought about solely through the use of this medicine. Investigate the case of this writer, who used Eckman's Alterative and who is today enjoying good health:

421 Second Ave., Aurora, Ill.

"Gentlemen: Pardon me for not writing sooner, but I wanted to see if I would stay cured. I can now truthfully say I am perfectly well. I have no pain, no cough, no night sweats, no hay fever. Since a child of two years I have been ailing with lung trouble, which grew worse as I grew older. At the age of fourteen the doctor said if I could not be sent South I would surely die of Consumption. Every winter I would be sure to have either Bronchitis, Pleurisy or Pneumonia. I had Typhoid-Pneumonia one time. I had catarrh of the stomach and bowels and had Hay Fever for the last few years; but have not anything of the kind this year. I will answer all letters sent to me, asking a history of my case, from any one suffering with lung trouble."

(Affidavit) ETTA PLATH.

(Six years later reports still well.)

Eckman's Alterative has been proven by many years' tests to be most efficacious in cases of severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stubborn Colds and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain narcotics, poisons or habit-forming drugs. For sale by The Owl Drug Co. and other leading druggists. "The Times" Scholarship.

TIE BROKEN AND POLLY SHOOTS TO TOP AGAIN.

Big Scores All Along Line—Santa Paula Cora's Great Jump With Biggest Single Score Yet—Santa Ana Girl Up to Fifth—Maurer Goes Up Five—Coronado Boy Up Nine.

Maurice Johnson,
Coronado scholarship contestant, who brought in a big score yesterday.

HUSTLE! Excitement! Dash!

This doesn't half express the way things have been going at scholarship headquarters since the offering of those Wayside prizes.

It seems as though the contestants had but just really learned how to work; and yet we thought they were working before.

Just glance over the scores which came in yesterday. They were record breakers!

The tie of the previous day between Jerome and Pasadena Polly was broken and Polly shot to first again.

Pasadena Polly brought in 3100 points yesterday and do you know he was obliged to visit just forty places to get those subscriptions! If that is not work and hard work, what is? Work! Why, that Polly boy is up at daylight and at it, out after every trace of a subscription and at it until late at night. Work! Why, some one has said that he works seventeen hours a day. Does he not deserve to be where he is today, at the top of the tally list?

Polly has several kinds of talent as well as a talent for hard work. He is fond of newspaper work, has done considerable of this work on his school paper and hopes to do still more during the coming session.

But, you remember what his real aim in life is. To become a financier—a banker. That is what he means to bend all the other talents and all the ability toward, and that is what he means to focus all his work and all his winnings upon.

A most likable boy is Polly. Everyone likes him—boys, girls, men, women—even the elusive Subscriber (with a big S,) likes Pasadena Polly. Perhaps that is why they make him come back so many times before giving him the sub.

Poor Jerome went down to second place as gracefully and as politely as possible, and you know Jerome is always courteous, whether rising or falling. By the way, he has never yet fallen below second, since the race began.

The great sensation of yesterday was the huge score sent in by Cora Norton of Santa Paula. Think of one girl sending in 6175 points in a single day! If we mistake not, this is the largest single score yet sent in. When shall we ever have a picture of that hustling girl? We all want to make her acquaintance. We want to know more about a girl who can do such great things. What scholarship is she after? For whatever she is after, it begins to look as though she would get, and we want to know what we must relinquish. Cora went from twenty-second up to ninth on this day's score.

The next highest score—aside from Polly's, which is chronic—was that of Maurice Johnson of Coronado, who sent in 2850 points. Coronado is a lively place if we may judge it by young Johnson and his scores. We are glad to have a picture of this hard-working boy.

George Maurer brought in the next highest count—2600 points. George deserves especial credit for his work, as he is engaged a part of each day and has little time for getting subscriptions. George is bent upon securing the $5 in gold—the Wayside prize—and if he keeps up his present pace he is likely to do so.

It was a day for feminine saints, for in addition to the wonderful Santa Paula score, came another score from Santa Ana, from the lovely girl of that beautiful little city—Theona Lovelay. Theona went to fifth place on the impetus of this fine score. Make way there, boys, for Theona!

Marvin Allen, the newsboy from Alhambra, doubled his score. How many days do you suppose he can keep that up? If he does so very long he will soon distance some of the top-notchers.

A word of explanation about those Wayside prizes, as there seems to be some misunderstanding.

THOSE WAYSIDE PRIZES.

These prizes are:

A $5 gold piece for the one having the highest score by next Wednesday, July 30, at 5 o'clock, p.m.

A $5 gold piece for the one below 3000 on last Thursday, a.m., July 24, who by Wednesday, July 30, at 5 o'clock, p.m., is farthest into the five-figure column, or nearest to that column.

A two-pound box of candy for the one who, on last Thursday, July 24, below 3000 who, by next Wednesday, July 30, at 5 o'clock, p.m., comes nearest to the five-figure column or enters it.

This is what has given additional impetus to the workers in this contest, for they are not losing sight of the fact that every point which can be gained before next Wednesday at 5 o'clock p.m., will not only add to their chance of winning the Wayside prizes, but will also add to the probability of winning the final prizes; and never for a moment are these lost to view, while these enterprising young people work, plan and hope.

THE PRIZE LIST.

The list of prizes is as follows:

Capital prize, $1000 to defray expenses of a course at Berkeley or Stanford.

MAKING FORUM OF GRAVEL PIT.

EXCELLENT ACOUSTICS DISCOVERED IN SOIL'S INDENTATION.

Seventh Regiment Band to Try Out Its Properties Before Money Is Expended—Mayor and Street Superintendent Inspect Paving to Make Recommendations.

POMONA, July 26.—The City Park Commission is seriously considering the proposition of converting the former gravel pit at Ganesha Park into a large open-air amphitheater. The location was leveled a while ago and converted into a baseball grounds and the acoustics are so favorable, together with the location being so well defined by the walls of the hillsides that its natural possibilities are considered extraordinary. Thousands of persons could be seated and accommodated.

It is proposed to have the Seventh Regiment band give a concert on the site and invite the public and prominent musicians and acousticians to be present to accurately test the properties before expending money to provide for the theater. If it is built, the Seventh Regiment band will have a regular place ready for its out-of-door concerts and the present crowded quarters on the east side of the park will be abandoned.

INSPECTING PAVING.

Street Superintendent Baker and Mayor Vandegrift have been visiting several towns inspecting the forms of paving to aid them in selecting the kind which they will recommend for the proposed work to be done following the bond election.

The City Council will probably call this election for September 10. There is a general sentiment here favoring the voting of these bonds and the cause of good roads is a popular one.

APRICOTS TO PEACHES.

The Pomona cannery closed its work on the apricot crop this noon after a successful season during which the growers have received splendid prices for their crops. The bulk of the crop has been dried. The cannery will soon begin operations on peaches and will be busy for several weeks on the peach crop.

FEARS FOR BROTHER.

D. M. Vandegrift of this city is concerned for the welfare of his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Vandegrift, who are at Madera, Mex., where Vandegrift has employment with the Madera mills, associated with the El Paso Mining Company. Madera is being beseiged by bandits and no recent word has been received from the American residents there.

SCHOOLS REPAIRED.

The local public school buildings are being repaired and renovated preparatory to the reopening of the fall term in September. The High School desks are being refinished.

Work upon the new lath house at the High School, which will be used in connection with the studies of the agricultural department for propagating purposes, is being continued. Part of the structure will be used for a regular greenhouse.

The grade schools about the city are undergoing needed repairs, and at the Central school on Holt avenue a new staircase is being put in.

STILL IN A HAZE.

The condition of Floyd, son of Edward Brubaker, who fell from a swing in Ganesha Park and struck upon his head, rendering him unconscious, remains about the same at the Pomona Valley Hospital, where the boy was taken. He is not wholly conscious yet, but the physicians express hopes for his ultimate recovery.

San Bernardino.

GHOST CARRIES HEAVY SHOTGUN.

Six Investigating Youths in Hands of Sheriff.

Desert Towns Incorporating to Sell Liquor.

Right of Way Bonus Raised for Pacific Electric.

SAN BERNARDINO, July 26.—Six young Riverside men who determined to find out whether the old unoccupied Bunker Hill house near this city was inhabited by ghosts found themselves tangled up in real trouble.

On emerging from the building through a window after having successfully defied the apparition in a search over the entire structure they found a double-barrelled shotgun poked in their faces, and behind it stood a determined Mexican caretaker of the property, who gave no indication of being able to speak a word of English.

He motioned them up against a stone wall, made them hold their hands high over their heads and kept them there a half-hour until Sheriff Ralphs arrived.

The Sheriff, after investigating the affair, took their names and let them go, saying he would send for them if they were wanted. It is possible a burglary charge will be placed against them. They gave the names of Douglas and Britton McConnell, Garnet Scott, Clyde Skeen, Frank Record and O. L. Sears.

FOR INCORPORATION.

Steps have been taken by the residents of Barstow for incorporating as a city of the sixth class so they may control the question of saloon licenses. The petitions asking for an incorporation election will be presented to the Supervisors August 11, the election to be held early in the fall.

Needles has already taken steps toward incorporation. The action of the desert towns results from the recent passage by the Supervisors of a prohibition ordinance for the entire county, closing all of the saloons on the desert where they have flourished for many years undisturbed.

SCHOOL ENROLLMENT.

The report of County Superintendent of Schools McPherron shows a marked increase in the number of school pupils in the county. The total enrollment in both grammar and high schools for the past year was 11,188 as against 10,544 for the year previous. The average daily attendance the past year was 8860 as against 8435 for the year before. In the grammar grades the enrollment was 9595 as compared with 7538 in 1912, and in the high schools 1593, as compared with 1342 the year before.

The Redlands Union High School has the largest enrollment, San Bernardino second and Chaffey Union of Ontario third. In grammar grades San Bernardino leads the county.

FOR RIGHT OF WAY.

The sum of $40,000 has been raised by the business men of this city to secure the right of way for the Pacific Electric main line into this city and the site for the big shop plant the company will erect. The report submitted by Chairman W. M. Parker of the special committee shows that but a few straggling subscriptions are unpaid, and even most of these will come in.

Most of the right of way deeds have been paid for. The title to the shop site has passed to the railroad and it is now engaged in filling the low ground in readiness for erection of the shop buildings.

ON HER WAY.

Through the kindness of friends here and in Redlands, Meia Okuba, little more than a mere slip of a Japanese girl, is on her way to Japan to visit her parents and possibly to remain.

Some years ago she came here and was married to a man she had never seen, through an exchange of photographs. She lived with her husband but a short time and was taken into the home of M. P. Chubb in Redlands. Homesick, Mrs. Chubb and San Bernardino friends have arranged for her return to Japan. Miss Dillon of this city accompanied her as far as San Francisco.

FIND MISSING GIRLS.

Two Los Angeles Maids at Ventura Fruit Ranch—Detained by Authorities.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

VENTURA, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Sheriff McMartin of this city, on advices from Los Angeles picked up yesterday two girls, Edith and Mable Hoyt, 16 and 18 years old respectively, who ran away from their home about the 1st inst.

The girls were found working at the Warring fruit ranch. They were accompanied to the place by a man named Knight and a woman purporting to be his wife.

The two girls were brought to this city and are detained. A friend of the family will arrive from Los Angeles to take them home.

Knight was arrested last night on a charge of assault. He had gone to Piru and got into difficulty with another man, when a knife was drawn.

SEE TROLLEY EXPANSION.

RIVERSIDE, July 26.—The establishment today of a camp by the Pacific Electric at the company's yards near First and Main streets, has given rise to the rumor that one or more of the projected trolley improvements for this city will soon be under way. As a result of the visit of Chief Engineer Pillsbury this week, it is believed some tentative understanding has been reached with regard to various matters pending for settlement between the city and the Pacific Electric corporation.

SALT WATER SYSTEM.

Grand Jury Commends New Method of Fighting Fire in the Beach City. News Briefs.

VENICE, July 26.—In contrast with the report of the grand jury on the Santa Monica water system was the commendation of that body on the excellence of the Venice salt water fire protection system which has been brought to a state of high efficiency this year. Fire Chief Hubbard today received a letter from William Meeks, foreman, and R. E. Wirsching, secretary of the grand jury, stating that the inquisitorial body had found the Venice system one of the best in the county, and entirely adequate.

The grand jurymen passed through Venice today to inspect facilities for fighting fire at Playa del Rey. It is stated that, outside of the Venice chemical auto the place has no means of fighting fire.

A picnic of colored folk at Playa del Rey last night ended in the stabbing of Mrs. Ella Hicks by her husband, Henry Hicks, according to the police. The two have been separated for some months and Hicks endeavored to drag his wife from the hall. She resisted and Hicks is said to have drawn a knife and stabbed her in the breast. Physicians at the St. Catherine Hospital found a wound two inches deep, but not seirous. Hicks is awaiting a hearing on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

Charles Becker, of No. 2021 Third street, sustained the fracture of two ribs when he was thrown out of his wagon after a collision with an auto driven by Frank Calhoun on the Washington road last night. Becker says Calhoun was driving at a breakneck speed, and, rounding a curve, ran full tilt into him. The auto was badly damaged, but Calhoun was not injured.

Nicholas Dikus, who resides at the North Beach Hotel, is at the St. Catherine Hotel suffering from a concussion of the brain resulting from falling from a moving Pacific Electric car at Seaside Terrace.

N. G. Shapiro, who was recently arrested on the charge of passing two fictitious checks, the amounts being $150 and $90, was discharged in Justice Brown's court today. It was shown that Shapiro had no thought of defrauding those who accepted his bank paper.

Puente.

LUCKY'S WALNUTS NOW BEAR FRUIT.

FIRST CROP TO BE HARVESTED WAS SET OUT BY HIM.

Growers' Association Takes Care of Large Output, Which Is Especially High Grade Because from Young Orchards—Canning Factory Is Building.

PUENTE, July 22.—An $80,000 English walnut crop will be sorted, bleached and sacked this year by La Puente Valley Walnut Growers' Association in the new packing-house just completed near the Southern Pacific tracks here. The orchards are in what is known as the West Covina and Walnut Center districts, on what was originally a part of the E. J. "Lucky" Baldwin plains, now set to over 4000 acres of walnut trees, averaging seven years old. Walnut growers say that these trees, just coming into bearing, promise one of the finest walnut districts in California.

Of the 4000 acres, there are only about 2000 that can be said to have come into the bearing state, the others being from one to five years old. The association expects to ship about twenty-five ten-ton carloads, and the indications are this year that the nuts will fetch as high as 15 cents the pound for the best quality. Owing to the fact that the shipments from Puente will all be from young orchards, the product is practically all of the first grade.

A complete set of washing, drying and bleaching machinery is being installed in the new plant. The building is 100x50 feet in size, and is set on a lot 175x50 feet, with the idea of adding to the plant as the orchards get older. The board of directors having the work of building the new plant in charge consists of S. L. Watts, president; Robert Neely, secretary; S. H. Robinson, B. F. Maxon, C. J. Hurst and W. S. Sawyer. The nuts will be ready for shipment in September.

FOR DECIDUOUS FRUITS.

W. W. Irving, a well-known physician of Santa Ana, is building a canning factory on the boulevard near the center of the town, which will take care of the growing acreage of apricots, peaches and plums. In a canvass made recently it was discovered that there are nearly 800 acres of deciduous fruits within hauling distance of the cannery. A large business is contemplated in canning tomatoes, of which there is a large acreage here. The tomatoes and other fruits have in the past been hauled to the canneries at Pomona.

BLACK-EYE BEANS.

W. E. Newton, in charge of the shipments of the famous black-eye beans of the valley, said yesterday that in the past three years the agricultural business of the valley has changed completely from an immense shipment of grain to that of the marketing of beans. In September the old "Lucky" Baldwin grain houses, and the new warehouse on the boulevard, will be filled with these beans, which have been contracted for as high as 3½ cents the pound. These are the cheap beans raised so extensively in Mexico. One man, J. J. Graham, has 250 acres planted to these beans, and the acreage extends across the valley to Valencia Heights, near Covina. There is also a large acreage planted to the bush lima, and the "old reliable" navy bean.

A nice, cool room at Hotel del Coronado will keep you cool and comfortable.—[Advertisement.

Imperial.

HUE AND CRY AFTER SCALP.

Liquor - Serving Councilman May Be Recalled.

Promised to Resign, but Is Not Making Good.

Recent Rain Does No Damage to Grape Crop.

IMPERIAL, July 25.—For the first time Imperial will resort to the recall. For a long time some of the people have been dissatisfied with Councilman Charles Fernald, because he is holding a restaurant liquor license, and at the same time continues to serve as a member of the Council, acting in the capacity of Police Commissioner.

This is a condition which Fernald himself, created, as he entered the saloon business since the election, and it was the spirit of the Progressive League platform—the platform upon which Fernald was elected—that no member of the Council was to hold any connection with the saloon business.

The dissatisfaction found expression last week in a meeting of some thirty-five of the business men of Imperial, when, with one exception, the vote was unanimous, asking Fernald to resign his place on the Council, for the best interests of the community.

A committee of two was appointed to wait upon Fernald and notify him of the action of the business men, and ask him to resign. This, he consented to do, stating that his resignation would be in the hands of the City Clerk by July 23—the next meeting night of the Council.

When the Trustees met at the time stated, neither the man nor the resignation appeared, and all efforts to get either the one or the other failed, and so the matter rested for the time. Many of the business men of the city are indignant at Fernald's attitude in the matter, and have invoked the recall against him, and it will be put through without further delay.

GRAPES NOT HARMED.

In response to a query concerning the probable damage to the grape crop by the recent rain in the valley, Prof. F. L. Husmann of the United States viticultural station at Brawley, said that an occasional rain would do no harm to the grape, unless the shower was exceptionally hard.

"Some of our two or three-year vines at the station," said Prof. Husmann, "have borne good crops and are doing very well this year. We had some good carriers that ripened as early as June 8. Some varieties of the black muscat are particularly promising. Nothing of the sort has as yet been raised in the valley. One kind is especially good, and may prove the best seller you have."

ALLEGED BAD CHECKS.

A. A. Baitts, for some time the representative of A. B. Curtis & Co., of San Diego, is in the toils of the law because of passing alleged bad checks. He maintained an office in Imperial and his scheme was, it is charged, to enter a store, buy a small bill of goods and give in payment a large check and pocket the change.

He left for San Diego Thursday morning, giving the driver a bogus check for $20, receiving $10 in change. During the day it was discovered that the check was bad and on telegraphic instructions from Imperial Baitts was arrested in San Diego and will be brought back tomorrow for a hearing. He had also been selling lots at La Jolla strand to the negroes of Imperial in violation of the agreement between the former purchasers and A. B. Curtis & Co., and it is alleged he pocketed the money for his own use.

KING COTTON LEADS.

The first load of cotton of this season has been ginned. It was raised by L. J. Izey, a rancher living near Calexico. He gathered the cotton from a volunteer patch. This marks the beginning of the cotton harvest as it is ripening fast all over the valley. According to conservative estimates the present crop will aggregate 20,000 bales, an output that may inaugurate the real reign of King Cotton in the Imperial Valley.

TO THE JUVENILE COURT.

Melvin Prince, who is in the County Jail charged with the killing of B. F. Wood last week, will be turned over to the Juvenile Court for trial, as he is only 17 years old, and, therefore, too young to be tried in the Superior Court. This was the decision of Judge Cole yesterday.

Grape packing is now in full swing in the valley. The fruit this season is of a fine quality, conditions having been very favorable to its maturity. The dealers are confident of a good price. A few of the new varieties of grapes will be marketed this season for the first time and the grape men are watching the outcome with keen interest.

DR. MASON BACKED UP BY SESSION MEMBERS.

LONG BEACH, July 26.—Rev. O. H. L. Mason, who left Long Beach a few weeks ago for the benefit of his health and allegedly on the advice of an advisory board and who later forwarded his resignation from Berkeley and then came back in person to face the congregation and has since been fighting for letters of recommendation, has succeeded and driven to the woods older members of the church, who opposed such action by the church.

At a meeting of the session last night, which was secret and lasted several hours, he managed to get the signatures of nearly every member present to a resolution of exoneration and commendation, but it was at the cost of two members of the Session, men who are old in church work and have been identified with the sessions for many years.

One of these is Albert Johnson, clerk of the Board of Education and for many years clerk of the Presbyterian session, who attended the meeting last night and before it opened for business presented his resignation and walked out of the room after remarking that he wanted his resignation accepted before the board took other action. Johnson has been session clerk for eight years.

The other resignation was that of W. Patton Wilson, a retired business man, who has been a member of the session for nineteen years. He remained during the session but flatly refused to sign the report and finding at last that he was alone, told the board he would no longer stand in their way but would resign.

The meeting of the session last night was to consider a report which had been drafted by a committee of five appointed by the session to get something tangible before the congregation, Dr. Mason having asked for a clearance, with the assurance:

"If you give me this clearance paper," he said. "I will leave Long Beach. If you do not give it to me I will stay right here until I die. I have too much at stake. My character has been assailed and for my family's sake I must stay right here in Long Beach. The church is now in a chaotic state and it will be the best thing if we can get together on this statement. That is the only thing we can do."

He was asked if he would not make a full statement before the church tomorrow morning on his own initiative and without having any resolution from the board.

"I could not do that," he said, "my relationship with the church will not allow it. If you call a congregational meeting and withdraw my resignation, then I would be willing to do so."

His "relationship" is still officially that of pastor and his opponents today profess to believe that Dr. Mason would not be averse to resuming his pastorate, which they say would cause an open rupture of what is now only a split in the congregation.

The resolution finally adopted was before the session for two hours and efforts were made to follow certain forms but Dr. Mason was insistent that scuh for mdid not agree with his ideas of a good send-off and stood by his guns successfully. The resolution in effect is as follows:

"Whereas, the session is empowered to act on matters pertaining to the pastor, and

"Whereas, as a result of various street rumors, the session recently accepted the voluntary resignation of the pastor, Dr. Mason, and

"Whereas, Dr. Mason admits certain facts to be true, but denies the truth of the street rumors and insists that he is not guilty of criminal or other wrongdoing; Therefore, be it

"Resolved by the session, that we are convinced that our pastor has not been guilty of doing any intentional wrong and that we commend him heartily to any field of Christian endeavor to which God may call him."

As at present planned this resolution will be read at tomorrow morning's service by Dr. Mason who will preface it with a personal statement. During its delivery he will be backed by the remaining board of session members, to make the affair as formal as possible. The church will then be asked to accept or reject the report after which Dr. Mason will preach, his theme being "Bitterness and Joy." His subject for the evening is announced as "This One Thing."

The adoption of this report tomorrow, it is thought, will settle a vexed question and make it past history as the Presbytery acts on the resignation next Friday and if accepted Dr. Mason's connection with the local church ends. It also indicates willing forgiveness and readiness to recommend their pastor to another church.

Addressing the session last night Dr. Mason said: "I am sorry, brethren, that we did not have a prayer meeting when I came back last week. That should have been the first thing done. But when I read this resolution today after it had been prepared by your committee, I felt that we had at last come to just the right step. I felt that we had met God."

Superintendent of Circulation, The Times.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 30th day of June, 1913.

[Seal] T. L. CHAPIN,

The Times is the only newspaper in Los Angeles that does not make a practice of permitting agents, newsboys and dealers to return unsold copies of its issues. Neither does it misbrand or predate its editions, or inflate its circulation by printing more copies than are actually necessary to supply its patrons.

The Times' entire circulation is practically net, and it is more genuine and superior in every respect to that of any other newspaper in Southern California.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STOCKTON (Cal.) July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] On the ground that Chief of Police D. A. White and Detective Thomas O'Connell of San Francisco were illegally holding the personal property of his client, Joseph Berger, Charles Light, a local attorney, this afternoon filed a suit against them. The attorney declares that when Berger was arrested some months ago on the charge of swindling a San Francisco tailor, the officers took possession of his personal belongings consisting of $535, a diamond ring, a watch and a locket. The complaint avers that White has refused to return the money and jewelry and the suit is instituted to recover them.

I CURE PILES
FISTULA AND ALL RECTAL DISEASES
WITHOUT AN OPERATION
BY MY PAINLESS DISSOLVENT METHOD
I TREAT NO DISEASES EXCEPT THOSE OF THE RECTUM AND BOWELS.
For twenty-five years I have been curing diseases of the rectum and lower bowel. During that time my experience as hospital and railroad surgeon, as college lecturer and professor, has enabled me to develop a method that is superior to all others. I cure without surgery and my patients are never confined in bed and never lose a moment's time from their business.
My method is not a "home cure" or a "correspondence treatment," but it is an application of skilled treatments administered under the most rigid antiseptic conditions in my office.
I solicit old, severe and obstinate cases of fistula, prolapsus, fissure and ulceration that have heretofore resisted all treatments employed. If you are a sufferer from rectal trouble I invite you to investigate my method thoroughly by talking or writing to any of my cured patients. If you will call at my office I will be pleased to give you the names and addresses of many well-known Los Angeles people I have cured, whom you may interview in regard to my treatment.
Read what a few well-known Southern California people have to say of my method. Many similar letters are on file in my office.
WELL KNOWN SANTA MONICA MINISTER CURED.
This is to certify that Dr. C. H. White has cured me of a distressing hemorrhoidal ailment of 25 years' duration. His method of treatment is effective, but not severe. He has the appliances, the knowledge and the skill born of many years of specialization in this fruitful source of physical disease. He accomplishes all he claims in his advertising and at reasonable expense.
I take pleasure in heartily commending the man and his methods.

90 Years Old—Strong and Vigorous

Mr. C. W. Ruland, who is nearing the century mark, wishes to add his words of praise to that of the thousands who extol the virtue of this great tonic stimulant and renewer of youth.

"I am 89 years of age, near 90, and am strong and vigorous. I had a severe attack of grip and catarrh 12 years ago, and began using Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. It did me a world of good, and now, when I feel the need of medicine, I use it. I know it has prolonged my life. I can honestly recommend Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for general debility, and as the best tonic and stimulant for aged people. I have had twelve children." —C. W. Ruland, Mattituck, L. I.

DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY is a gentle, invigorating stimulant and tonic that influences for good every important organ of the body. It brings into action all the vital forces, and makes digestion perfect.

Its rare purity and honest richness have won the friendship of the entire world. It is more than a medicine—it will keep you well.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the only whiskey that was taxed by the Government as a medicine during the Spanish-American War.

Sold by most druggists, grocers, dealers, $1.00 a large bottle. Medical booklet and doctor's advice sent free on application.

TO PULL OFF LATEST STUNT.

BOYS IN "TIMES" CAMP KEEP THEIR FELLOWS GUESSING.

Sky Is the Limit and It May Be Reached Sunday Morning—Tommy Southwick, Mascot of the Camp, Writes Letter of Appreciation of Good Times at Catalina.

AVALON, July 26.—Every boy in The Times Camp announced this morning that sometime during his stay he is going to pull off an entirely new stunt of some kind which would be of interest to his fellow campers.

"The sky is the limit," said Manager Johnson, "only don't you fellows get yourselves into trouble or hurt each other. Remember there is a difference between vacation and work, and your trip to Catalina is a vacation."

The larger boys are now wondering what kind of antics the smaller fellows will pull off early Sunday morning.

The following letter has been received from "little" Tommy Southwick of Elsinore who spent four days at The Times Camp during the early part of this month. Tommy became one of the camp favorites and when he left the island he expressed his regret and stated that he would do all he could to make a second trip.

"Dear Mr. Gillett: I had such a good time at Catalina in The Times Camp that I wish to thank you all.

"You called me the mascot because I was the smallest boy in the bunch, but I am a big Times booster from now on.

"Papa would like to have one of the pictures Mr. Johnson took of me hold of the sheep's horns and he will call at the office if you let him have it.

"Everybody was so good to the boys and we had such good things to eat that I never will forget my trip.

"Your little friend,
"THOMAS S. SOUTHWICK.
"Elsinore."

The Times camp is open during the months of July and August. Any boy in Southern California who turns in six new subscriptions, each for one month until ordered stopped, will be given a four days' outing at The Times Catalina camp. All expenses are paid from Los Angeles to Catalina and return.

Come in or write to The Times office for full information and subscription blanks.

It is believed that the four courts at Central Station will be better able to handle the business.

JOIN ON SEWAGE PLAN.

Pasadena, South Pasadena and Alhambra Ready to Adopt Proposed Solution of Chicagoan.

SOUTH PASADENA, July 26.—Pasadena is ready to join with South Pasadena and Alhambra for the prompt solution of the sewage problem. The Pasadena commissioners have stated that as soon as the city engineers of the three cities report favorably on the feasibility of the plan to construct a joint sewer to the Whittier Narrows, and the erection at that point of a special sewage disposal plant, as outlined by C. D. Crouch, representing the Sewage and Garbage Disposal Company of Chicago, Pasadena will be found prepared to do her share.

The proposition of Mr. Crouch would eliminate the construction of an outfall sewer from the Whittier Narrows to the sea, at a saving of $1,000,000, and at the same time would give to the people of South Pasadena, Pasadena, Alhambra and lesser cities a solution of the sewage problem which for almost two years has been occupying the attention of the engineering experts.

GREAT LAND OPENINGS TO BE ARRANGED FOR.

Washington Expert Here to Inspect Two Hundred Thousand Acres in Imperial Valley and Decide Best Way of Making It Available to Entrymen—Angeles Reserve Question Also to Be Settled.

HON. J. W. Whitten, superintendent of land openings and chief law clerk for the General Land Office at Washington, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday, and his mission is of great importance to homeseekers of Southern California.

For more than a quarter of a century Judge Whitten, as he is familiarly known, has been in charge of the opening of government lands for settlement, and his experience covers the entire United States. When a complicated situation arises as to the best method of throwing open a forest reserve, an Indian reservation or a tract withdrawn for conservation purposes, it is always put before Whitten for investigation and decision. A few weeks ago the question arose as to the best method of opening the Angeles reserve and of course the matter was referred to Whitten. Then came the Imperial Valley land opening which covers nearly 200,000 acres of land that is considered valuable. Whitten decided that the only way to do justice to all parties concerned was to come here and look over the ground.

SEE IT HIMSELF.

Accompanied by Raymond H. Satterwhite, special field agent, Whitten will leave for Imperial Valley tomorrow. He will then spend a week making a thorough personal investigation of all the local conditions pertaining to the settlement of the land. Upon his return he will make such recommendations as he considers justifiable.

The land in question in Imperial Valley was open for entry prior to 1907, when desert land filings were withdrawn. In 1910 the land was withdrawn absolutely—meaning that no form of entry would be accepted—and the reason given was that it was required as a part of the Laguna reclamation project.

Recently it was decided that the land is of no value to the reclamation people and it was restored to entry subject to conditions to be approved by the department.

Since 1907 and 1910 a considerable acreage has been settled upon by squatters, who, in some instances, have made considerable improvements and who hope thereby to have established a prior claim to the land when it is thrown open.

The local land office has held subsequent to 1910 that no improvements or "squatters' rights" would be entertained, inasmuch as the land was withdrawn.

DELICATE POINT.

Land attorneys in Imperial Valley and in Los Angeles have advised their clients that possession and improvements would constitute a prior claim. This is the delicate matter which Whitten will be called upon to decide and upon his decision rests not only the rights of several hundred "sooners," but also the rights of numerous of American citizens who have obeyed the law and have not tresspassed upon forbidden ground.

Field Agent Satterwhite, who has been in close touch with Imperial Valley affairs, has accompanied Judge Whitten to the valley and Mr. Satterwhite's advice will undoubtedly be of great value, as he is thoroughly familiar with existing conditions and has proved himself an expert on land problems there the past five years, and his aid and advice will be of value to Whitten.

TO GO BEFORE COMMISSION.

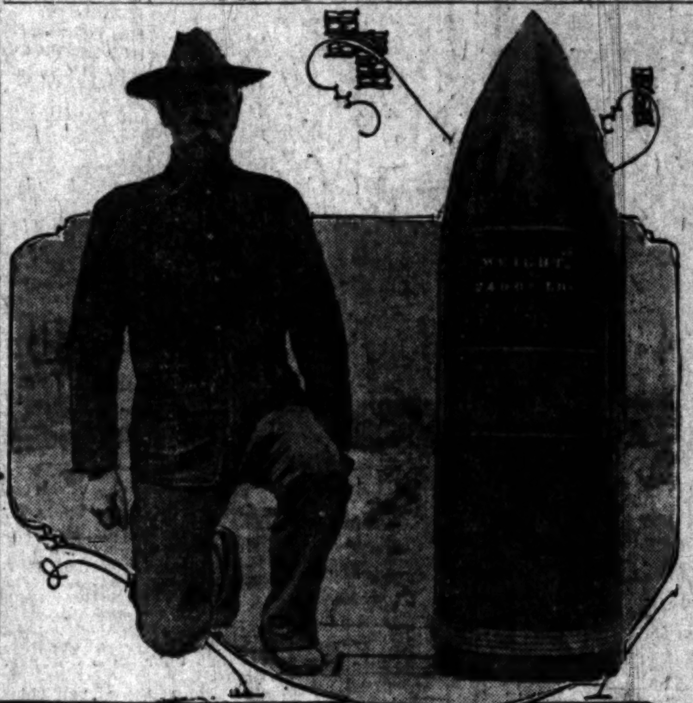
Mrs. Helen Weir, the aged woman who wandered into the Central Police Station a week ago saying she did not know where to find her relatives or friends, will probably be taken before the Lunacy Commission within a few days. In the meantime she is cared for by the county authorities. The police learned yesterday that the woman has been for the past few years in the hands of relatives who declare they are unable to get along with her. Mrs. Weir says she was a teacher in the public schools of this State for more than twenty years.

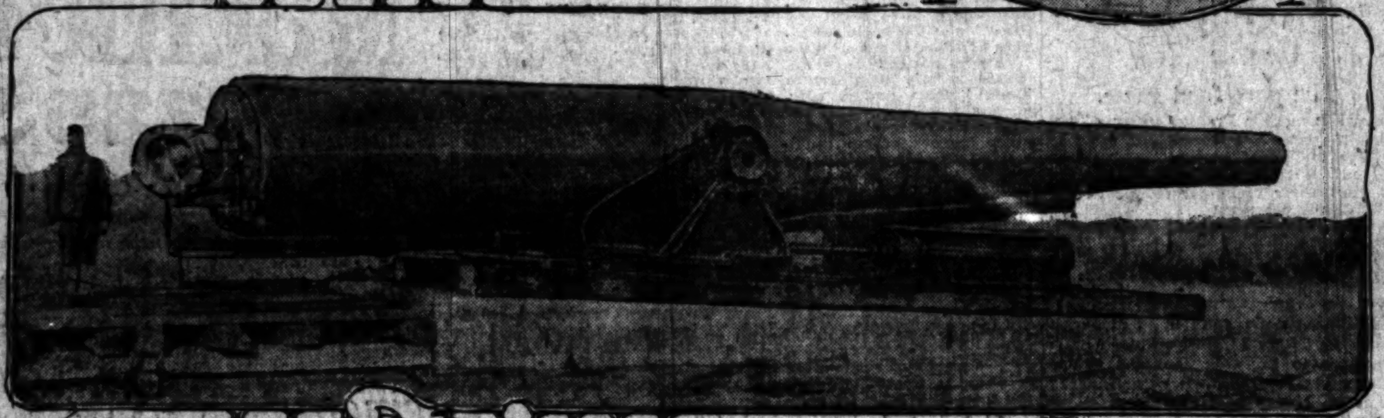
NOT BUILT FOR SPEED.

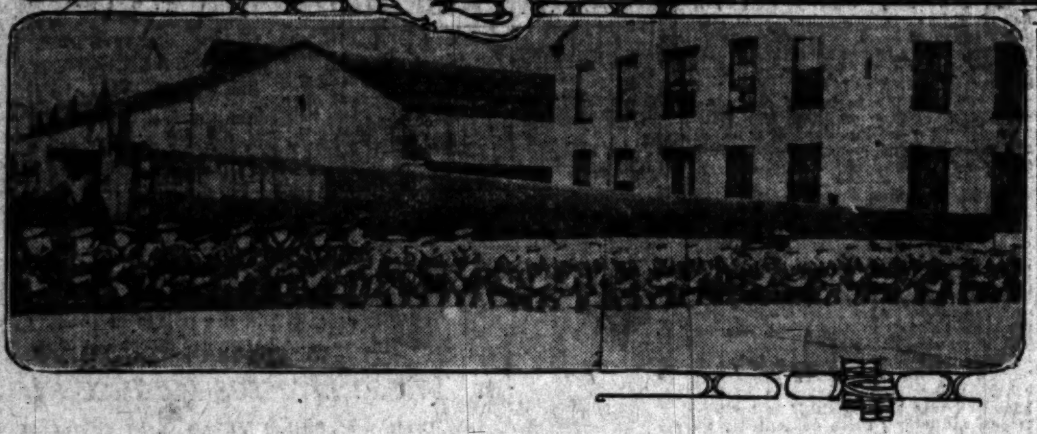
Well-Boring Outfit Is Not a Vehicle Within Provisions of Law Applicable to Automobiles.

Upon appeal to the Superior Court from a fine imposed by the lower court upon W. H. Slocumb for not carrying a red tail light on his mobile well-boring outfit, Judge Cabaniss ruled yesterday that the regulations governing vehicles did not apply.

In vain Deputy District Attorney Veitch argued that the driver might get frisky and allow the boring apparatus to attain the speed of a fire engine. The court said that while some might like to ride in such a safe apparatus, it could not properly be called a vehicle.







Protection for the harbors of Los Angeles, Panama and the Philippines.

In the middle is the sixteen-inch United States army rifle, the most powerful weapon in existence, to be mounted at the canal entrance on the Pacific side. It is forty-nine feet seven inches long, weighs one hundred and thirty tons, or more than three ordinary locomotives, and throws the twenty-four-hundred-pound projectile shown above twenty-three miles. Its muzzle energy is eighty-eight thousand foot tons. In one discharge of this gun is a force sufficient to lift four inches in the water the entire battleship fleet sent to these waters six years ago by the President. The six-hundred-and-forty-pound charge of smokeless powder used for one discharge is two feet longer than the projectile itself. Below is the new fourteen-inch army rifle to be used at the three places above designated. It is forty-eight feet long and has disappearing mount.

HASSAYAMPA PICNIC.

Arizona Folks to Meet at Venice, But Date not Set—Form Permanent Organization Here.

August 12 has been set as the date this year for the annual Hassayampa Society picnic, which will be held in Venice. This was decided on by a committee of Arizona people and former residents of New Mexico at the Hollenbeck yesterday afternoon. Various committees in charge of different events were named and they will proceed at once to elaborate on a programme.

The Hassayampa Society in the past has been only a temporary organization of interested residents of the copper State, which disbanded as soon as the festivities came to an end each summer. Yesterday a permanent organization was formed, which will continue along the lines of all of the different State societies now organized.

The first officers elected are Alonzo Bailey, president; Oscar Roberts, vice-president; Maurice Salzman, secretary, and Charles H. Wilde, treasurer. Members of the Executive Committee are John S. Mitchell, Charles Long, Thomas Carrigan, Thomas Drennan, C. E. Baker and W. T. Webb.

Shortly after the annual reunion new officers will be elected, by-laws adopted and permanent clubrooms secured.

BOY'S EXPERIENCES.

Robert Finerty, 13 years old, son of Mrs. O. J. Finerty, San Diego, went to the Central Police Station yesterday to relate his experiences in Los Angeles since arriving here Friday night. The boy had never traveled before, but when a sister failed to meet him upon his arrival he went to a restaurant and afterward attended a picture show. He then went to a lodging-house, secured a room and stayed until yesterday, when he sought advice. He was sent home.

LOOKING FOR WESTERN PACIFIC TO COME IN.

WITH the announced intention of the Western Pacific to construct a line from Stockton south along the Coast Range into the Bakersfield oil fields, the eyes of the local railroad world again turn northward and many are fain to see the approach of the day when the Western Pacific will slip through the San Fernando Valley into the metropolis.

Especially eager in their questioning of the northern railroad skies are Santa Fe and Southern Pacific officials, who have long looked upon the San Joaquin as their exclusive perquisite. They also believe, nearly unanimously, that with the Western Pacific once in the Bakersfield territory, the next step will be across the mountains into the country where it is always summer and where tourists and big freight revenues thrive and grow fat.

The Western Pacific's invasion of the oil fields has long been looked upon as a long-headed solution of some of the Gould line's difficulties. That road needs revenue; it also needs a supply of cheap fuel for its locomotives. Both would be obtained by tapping the Bakersfield district.

Other feeders that are understood to be under consideration by the Western Pacific are from Oroville into the rich grain and dried-fruit country around Chico and from Doyle into the wool country around Reno. Added to the proposed extension from Niles into the Santa Clara Valley, it would give the Western Pacific a bunch of productive feeders that would counteract the drains of a long road through a country that in part has long been pre-empted by the Southern Pacific and in part is largely non-productive.

In connection with these rumors, it is also heard that J. R. Stephens, chief engineer of the Missouri Pacific, has been called West by Bush for consultation. As Stephens has been Bush's right-hand man in all construction work, this may mean that he is to be put in charge of construction work on these feeders.

As offering some confirmation of these various rumors, it is pointed out that Bush as president of the near-moribund Western Maryland put new life into that road by the construction of feeders.

Great Guns!

POWERFUL CANNON FOR DEFENSE OF HARBOR.

Uncle Sam's New Big-Bore Rifles the Most Formidable on Earth—Fourteen-Inch Weapons Likely to Be Placed Back of Point Firmin Capable of Throwing Ton Projectile as Far as Catalina.

WHEN the fortification plans for Los Angeles Harbor have been finally determined it is practically certain they will include the installment of several of the new fourteen-inch rifles, rated the most formidable and affective ordnance in the world.

These rifles will be placed on the high hill back of Point Firmin, which commands all the harbor and which was especially pointed out by Gen. Bixby, chief of the Corps of Engineers, U.S.A., and other Washington officials as an important strategic point.

When these big guns are in position it would not be safe for any hostile vessel to approach within twenty miles of the inner harbor, for they throw accurately a projectile weighing nearly a ton as far as from San Pedro to Catalina Island.

The exact nature of the fortifications, including the big guns for the hill, a secondary battery below, searchlight stations, mines, etc., will probably be determined soon, now that the chief army and naval authorities of the United States have had an opportunity to personally inspect the harbor and to acquaint themselves with the conditions.

Recommendations made by a special fortifications board four or five years ago provided for an ultimate expenditure of more than $3,000,000. The general fortifications bill now pending in Congress includes an item of $665,000.

The government controls about 100 acres at the harbor, the land having been purchased two years ago, and is now in a position to go ahead with an adequate fortification programme as soon as the details can be satisfactorily worked out.

BEST IN THE WORLD.

Uncle Sam possesses the most powerful cannon in existence with which to defend his domain, inclusive of the Panama Canal and Philippine Islands.

No weapon ever constructed compares in power with the sixteen-inch bore rifle of the United States Army, while the fourteen-inch guns of the army and navy exceed in effectiveness for ton-weight of gun anything heretofore built by any nation. The navy rifle develops 65,637 foot-tons of muzzle energy, giving the unheard-of quality of 1037 tons muzzle energy for each ton of weight in the gun, and throwing a shell of 1400 pounds weight to an extreme range of twenty-six miles.

The fourteen-inch army rifle throws a projectile weighing 1660 pounds, and though modified in design for considerations of longer life than the navy gun, develops 58,300 tons muzzle energy, and throws its heavier

Cocoa or Chocolate?

MERCHANTS HARASSED UNDER FOOD LAWS.

"Reform" Inspectors of State and City Persecuting Los Angeles Dealers, the Latter Declare, by Arresting on Trifling Technicalities—Punishing Distributors Instead of Manufacturers, Who Are Responsible.

TECHNICALITIES of the State pure food law and city ordinances and their administration by inspectors who have been bitten by the reform bug, are hampering the business and wrongfully injuring the reputations of Los Angeles merchants. While admitting the desirability and propriety of Federal and local espionage of foodstuffs, the harassed dealers object to present conditions, and are inquiring if there is no possible escape from persecution by the State "reform" ring.

Responsible produce men are perfectly willing to submit to such requirements as are necessary and reasonable and to assist in their enforcement, but promiscuous and unwarranted arrests with the attendant publicity which might give the impression that law-breaking is their favorite pastime, is another matter.

Recently the news was disseminated from Sacramento that the State Board of Health had brought prosecutions against several Los Angeles concerns, including Walter E. Smith Company, grocers. This case is typical.

The company was cited to appear before the State Board of Health—cited in a long, mysterious legal-looking document filled with whereases and therefores, to answer before that august body for the awful crime of having sold a certain brand of chocolate that was cocoa. The company, in spite of its recognized probity, became the subject of widely-printed press dispatches, and a great to-do was made over the matter.

Cocoa and chocolate are twin sisters. Each looks and tastes more like the other than the other does like itself. The line of demarkation is so slight that the imaginary Equatorial rim of schoolday memory looks like the foul lines at Washington Park in comparison. Chocolate, it appears, contains 45 per cent. of fat and cocoa worries along with only 40 per cent., which is about as clear or important to the layman as the rule in Shelley's case.

FINE, BUT WRONG KIND.

Under the Federal pure food law all samples must be "bought in the open market." Frank Oakley, local inspector for the State Board of Health, went into the Smith store and selected a tin labeled "Somebody's Chocolate;" flashed his badge of authority; affixed the great seal of Holy Hiram and sent the tin to Sacramento.

Sure enough, Oakley's worst fears were confirmed. The blooming chocolate wasn't quite fat enough. It lacked 1 or 2 per cent., so the chemist at the capital said, and instead of being a fine chocolate, it was a fine cocoa, which is more highly esteemed by many than its more fleshy relative.

The fact that the chocolate had been inspected under the government pure food law and approved and carried a serial number, was not sufficient to save the company from embarrassment. The guarantee of the manufacturer also failed to satisfy the Sacramento "reform" agent, and protect the company. After the concern had been humiliated the manufacturer of the product immediately sent a communication to the State Board of Health of which the following is an extract:

"In their behalf we wish to say that they (the Smith Company,) are innocent parties, we guaranteeing the goods by a serial number on the label. We respectfully request that no action be taken against them, as we assume all responsibility."

"The serial number and the name and address of the manufacturer were plainly on the cans of chocolate," said Walter E. Smith, president of the company, yesterday. "I cannot understand why I was made the goat and damaging publicity given to my firm when the State law provides that the retailer is exempt from prosecution if he holds a guarantee from the manufacturer.

"In this case neither the guarantee of the manufacturer nor the O.K. from the government thereon, was sufficient to save me from embarrassment. The present system of administering the State pure food laws is a menace to every firm that handles foodstuffs. It is time that we were having relief of some sort."

The samples of all foodstuffs taken by State inspectors in Los Angeles are sent to Sacramento for analysis and the preliminary hearing of the cases are set there. Thus if a Los Angeles dealer wishes to contest prosecution or persecution he must be at the expense of going to Sacramento to defend himself.

Usually local dealers let the first hearing go by default and permit the case to go to trial in the local Police Court. In the past year thirty-five prosecutions under the State pure food law have been tried in the Police Courts here.

The custom of having the tests made in Sacramento and setting the preliminary trials in State pure food cases for hearing there, works a great hardship on merchants.

NOT OF THE SPIRIT.

The spirit of the city ordinance is often lost sight of, it appears, and prosecutions started for offenses that could easily be corrected without resort to drastic measures. A merchant becomes a victim because a select fly dancing club chooses a watermelon in front of his place to pull off a benefit soiree. The melon has its lid on, but the fly net is disarranged. The officious official one notifies the bundle boy that the law is smashed to smithereens and tells him that it must not happen again. The boy, after the manner of boys, forgets to share his knowledge with the boss, and the result is an unpleasant and undeserved publicity. The storekeeper doesn't know a thing about the watermelon rink, and is as much opposed to flies as any "swatter" in the land.

Merchants Harrassed.

The absence of a strawberry to round out a box is also made a high crime, and a cucumber may easily form a misalliance and become a felony, while in the higher jurisdiction, where the State and United States laws are enforced, a French pea may gain for the unlucky possessor as much notoriety as though he killed his best friend.

THE FRENCH PEA.

The French pea question is especially pertinent just at present. There are plenty of peas in town from that dear Paree or wherever it is the French manufacture the succulent little vegetable so difficult to balance on the end of a knife. A pure-food law requires French peas, on and after a given date, to appear in the altogether.

Now, for fifty years there have been brunette French peas and blonde French peas so that the purchaser might have his choice. Under the new law French peas must be au naturel, that is, sans any make-up whatever. Los Angeles grocerymen would just as gladly sell pale peas as those all dolled up, but they do think it a little unfair to be stuck with a lot of peas that their customers are crying for, but which they may not sell if they would escape the penalty of a prison cell and a bread-and-water diet. Not even a doctor's prescription can get a French pea in this city today because the new batch has not yet arrived, and the old ones possess potential possibilities in the making of criminals.

A certain Spring-street produce man has several cases of the peas put away in his vault. If you know him well enough he will permit you to look at the innocent-appearing tins; he might even give you a can of them with his own hands. He has sold them for many years and maintained his standing in the community, but he knows full well that a bulldog of the law may be lurking at every corner of his establishment, and he must be careful. Yet, he insists, he is not a natural law breaker.

A system of State inspection to harass and annoy men who have invested large sums in their business and are as intent upon conducting it as perfectly as any law-making body could desire, is declared by some of the interested dealers to be in line with the pestiferous policy of business destruction for which the Johnson "Progressive" administration has developed so curious an affinity.

It appears that in other States the pure-food laws are administered with fairness and equity. The California method is, according to business men, just another outcropping of the "reform" bug; the insane desire to do something to somebody that will pull down instead of build up. If able business men can be "charged" with selling dill pickles with a capital "D" instead of a little "d" and sent to jail for it—hurrah for the "reform" administration, the "people's friend!"

It is a lot more productive of newspaper space, these men say, to arrest a well-known merchant for an unsuspected, merely technical violation of a fool section of a half-witted law than it would be to quietly inform him wherein the fault lies that it may be corrected. It sounds great for the "reformers" to have the word go throughout the country that so and so of such and such is cited to appear for selling 42 per cent. cocoa instead of 43 per cent. chocolate, when as a matter of fact, the citation should have gone to the manufacturer who makes the goods, knows what is in 'em, and who guarantees them to the retailer and the public.

The motto of the powers that be at Sacramento —:— appear to Los Angeles merchants:

"Great is reform; great is Johnson; great is Oakley; great is the French pea (in the East the French pea is said to be still in circulation pending the disposal of stocks on hand) and t'ell with the honest merchant who is trying to conduct an honest business to the credit and the advancement of the community in which he lives and trades and has his being."

The Imperator's Colossal Anchor.

[Youth's Companion:] The new 919-foot steamship Imperator, latest and greatest addition to the fleet of the Hamburg-American Line, carries anchors and chains in keeping with her size. Steel chains with a total length of three-quarters of a mile secure five massive anchors. The main anchor weighs 26,455 pounds, the two bow anchors, 17,630 pounds each, a fourth, 11,462 pounds, and the warp anchor 4960. The anchors and chains together have a total weight of 485,[illegible] pounds.

FOOD AND HEALTH.

[Erasmus Wilson in Pittsburgh Gazette Times:] How did people manage to get along so well before the world became filled with doctors? And they seemed to get along right well, at that, if history be dependable.

You know what splendid fellows the Greeks were, and the Romans were not far behind. And there were others, millions of them equal in point of endurance to our trained athletes, and that in spite of the fact there were not as many restaurants, French cooks and printed menus to show people what to eat.

There were a few high livers in all ages, but as even now, they didn't live out their days.

And if we read with care the histories of these countries we find that when high living became more general, and the countries rang with the complaints of the high cost of living, even as now, it wasn't long before they began to decline physically, morally and politically until hardly a vestige of their vaunted greatness was left.

When these countries were at their best they had few doctors, and these were for the most part sorcerers. The people roughed it, and when they broke down they died. That accounts for the fewness of invalids. Possibly if there had been dcotors to keep them alive these countries would have become filled with weaklings.

Practically all delicate, sickly children died, leaving only the more rugged to possess the earth. At one time Greece would not tolerate a defective child, but put it to death.

FOOD AND MEDICINE.

As you know, the olive was a staple food in all eastern countries, and in some the chief food of all the people, save the rich. And it so remains in Palestine and the Mediterranean countries to this day.

The people did not eat the green pickled sort so common on the tables of good livers in this country. The pickled articles at which we nibble and pretend to like so well—some even say they love them—is not known in the countries where the olive is rated as food.

For food the olive is taken at a time when it contains most oil, and is then palatable, at least to natives of olive countries. This stage does not last very long, so as to preserve it as a food it is gathered at that time and salted just enough to prevent fermentation, and packed away.

BECOMING POPULAR.

In that form the olive is shipped in large quantities to this country where it is sold mainly to those who had learned to regard it both as food and medicine.

Learning of the virtues of the salted olive from foreigners our people are beginning to regard it with more respect than formerly, and its use, both as medicine and food, is increasing.

The salted olive is not as good looking as the green article, nor does it taste the same. The green olive has no more oil in it than a cucumber, therefore has no virtue other than any other tasty green thing. Besides it has precisely the opposite effect upon the digestive organs, serving to hinder rather than to assist elimination.

To the salted, or ripe olive, the people living in olive growing countries are indebted for their freedom from bowel and liver troubles, and especially from that bane of health and comfort, constipation, to which doctors everywhere attribute headache and various forms of auto infection, and auto intoxication. It is from these that women suffer greatly rather than from complications of disorders that so completely baffle the skill of the doctor.

While the salted olive will not prove a panacea for all ills it has proven very efficient, surprisingly so, in many instances, doing away, as it does, with the necessity for taking purgative and laxative medicines.

NATURE STORIES.

Flounders Can Change Spots.

[Dallas News:] In recent experiments with flounders, made at the famous aquarium in Naples, by Dr. Sumner of the United States Bureau of Fisheries, it was shown that these fish have the power of making themselves inconspicuous against almost any background and, unlike the leopard, can change their spots whenever they so desire.

Not only were these particular flounders able to adapt themselves to the color of the background, says Popular Science Siftings, but to the texture and pattern as well. They assumed a very dark shade upon a black bottom and a very pale one upon a white bottom. They took on one pattern for a sandy bottom, another for one of fine gravel and still a third when the bottom was of small stones.

Various painted strips of glass were prepared and laid down for the fish to practice upon. Some were done in draught-board pattern and others in white "polka-dots" on a black ground.

The fish did remarkably well, considering that some of the patterns were previously unknown in their little circle of life. Their splotches of black, white, gray and brown approximated the pattern so closely that very careful study was often necessary in order to trace the exact outline of the fish.

It was also proved that the flounder has individuality that, in some cases, at least, is capable of cultivation. Some of the fishes had much greater powers of adaptation than others. Certain of them acquired with practice the power of changing more rapidly than at first. The time necessary for a complete change of shade or pattern ranged from a few seconds to several days.

Bear Gets a Free Lunch.

[Chicago Inter Ocean:] When Charles Johnson, a farmer living near Seven Kitchens, was driving to Sunbury, Pa., with a load of potatoes, he heard some animal trotting along behind his wagon and thought it was another team. At a wide part of the road he turned to the right, thinking he would let the team pass.

When nothing passed Johnson looked around and saw a big black bear. It had torn open one of the bags and was helping itself to his potatoes, munching them contentedly as it trotted along.

Having no weapons, he sat still, while his horses plodded along, the bear keeping up with the wagon and eating the potatoes. After ten minutes, evidently having eaten its fill, it dropped back and then disappeared in the woods on Blue hill, close by. Johnson declares the bear was as big as a six-foot man.

A Deadly Water Foe.

[Chicago Inter Ocean:] Probably one of the most dangerous and least known of man's watery enemies is the canderu, a fish three to eight inches long and guilty of the extraordinary habit of diving suddenly into the human anatomy by the most convenient channels.

There are two distinct species, one eel-like in appearance, blunt-headed and smooth-bodied, the other armed with a sharp, bony snout two to three inches in length, swallow-tailed, and covered from snout to tail by small barbs. It is particularly attracted by the orifices of the human body, into which it dives suddenly and with great force, producing a shock somewhat akin to a powerful electric discharge. In the case of both types a serious surgical operation is involved, but in the case of the Beni variety the more the fish or the victim wriggles the farther the fish penetrates—and it cannot get back. It frequently causes death, for a surgeon is a rara avis in these wilds. I saw two cut out of a woman in Riveralta, South America, where victims are common. The fish is a blood-sucker, and can be easily caught with a lump of raw meat, into which it dives in a much similar way—the proboscis being probably its usual means of securing blood.

Coon Mother's Guinea Chickens.

[Philadelphia Record:] "Smoke," a pet raccoon belonging to Franklin Sauter of Monessin, Pa., has adopted a brood of young guinea hens that were hatched in the oven of Mrs. Sauter's stove a few days ago. Local naturalists and woodsmen assert that this is the only instance where a 'coon is known to have overcome his natural instincts to kill all feathered creatures.

Several months ago Sauter captured a young 'coon that had been pulled down and injured by the dogs. It soon became domesticated and became a great pet around the house.

Sauter is also a breeder of guinea fowl, which are prone to leave their nests and go to the fields and woodlands. Missing one several weeks ago, Sauter traced her to the fields and took ten of her eggs, which were within a day's time of incubation.

Not having an incubator Sauter put the eggs in the oven of his stove, and when they hatched he placed the chicks in a box behind the stove. He was greatly surprised to find the 'coon in the box "mothering" them.

Pacing Hen Beats Track Records.

[Chicago Inter Ocean:] All railroad track records have been broken by Louisa, the fast pacing hen, owned by Edward Short, proprietor of a hotel at Cresskill, N. J.

Early one morning Louisa strolled up to the Erie tracks at Demarest, picking up bits of grit on her way. At 8:45 o'clock the telephone rang in the hotel and Short was excitedly informed by a Demarest farmer and chicken fancier that Louisa was standing in the middle of the down track and that the Nyack express was only two miles away and headed for New York.

"That Louisa hen is going to be killed dead!" yelled the Demarest farmer through the telephone.

"Don't you believe it," replied Short. "That Louisa can beat any Erie train that ever crawled. Just watch Louisa."

At exactly 8:52 o'clock the express rushed by Demarest. Louisa heard it coming and began to pace her way back to Cresskill in a good swinging stride.

All the Cresskill commuters had heard of the peril of the hen and were assembled at the station to see what would happen. Louisa never lifted a wing. She kept about fifteen yards ahead of the snorting locomotive all the way down the track and as she came in front of the Cresskill depot she paused, scratched her beak and strolled to one side.

HIGHER STUDY OF WEATHER.

Balloons at Catalina Tell the Story.

Up, Record, Expand, Burst and Float Down.

Instrument that Hangs by a Human Hair.

Every morning at about 6 o'clock after tugging at their slender lines for several minutes, two government balloons are released on Santa Catalina Island by B. J. Sherry, W. R. and P. H. Hathway, United States Weather Bureau officials. The site is the elevated ground back of the golf club. The rubber spheres rise gracefully from the mooring, carrying a wicker basket and its recording instruments as steadily as if they were remaining stationary. Balloons will be sent up each morning for twenty days to complete a series of experiments to ascertain actually the temperature, pressure and humidity of the atmosphere. The scientific reports after the experiments are completed will be of great value. Weather forecasts will be materially improved. Prof. Sherry says that each pair of balloons will easily reach an altitude of eight miles before one of them bursts, then the other sphere is gradually dragged down by the weight of the recording instruments.

The bureau officials ask that anyone finding a balloon or part of the instrument after the highest altitude has been reached and the sphere has burst should return the same to B. J. Sherry, Avalon, and receive reward. Hundreds of miles may be traveled after one of the spheres explodes, but the officials are of the opinion they will drift toward the mainland rather than out to sea.

REWARD FOR RETURN.

The following notice is securely attached to the wicker basket in a heavy manila envelope and the finder is asked to return the inclosed card to B. J. Sherry, Avalon, Cal., or to Mt. Weather Observatory, Bluemont, Va. Each envelope contains the date of ascension and other scientific data:

"NOTICE.

"Hydrogen gas. Keep away from fire.

"The finder will pack in a box the balloon, cover, and basket (the basket contains a meteorological instrument and record,) without opening or disturbing the contents in any way and return by express, collect, to Mt. Weather Observatory, Bluemont, Va. $2 will be paid for its return. Please fill out and mail the card inside this envelope, also the inclosed tag on the express."

The finder is cautioned not to disturb the contents of the basket because the least tampering will spoil the records and make them useless. The little machine carried in the basket records upon its cylinder the entire story of the balloon's flight. On its soot-covered surface the stylus points trace their snake-like way. An altitude of a few yards will vary the line made by the stylo as the cylinder revolves very slowly by a clockwork device for a period of three hours. The record thus made is translated by experts after the balloon descends and is returned.

ON ONE HUMAN HAIR.

A most interesting part of the record-making device is the hygrometer which depends entirely upon a single strand of human hair. By a chemical process all trace of oil is removed from the hair before it is brought into use, and upon the stretching or shrinking of this particular connecting link depends the accuracy of the record made upon the cylinder. Should there be an increase in moisture in the atmosphere surrounding the balloons the hair lengthens and the minutest change is recorded. If, however, the air becomes dry, the moisture in the hair is withdrawn and the hair shortens, the metal arm with its needle point responding upon the cylinder to the action of a tiny tension spring, which is identical with that which governs the balance wheel of a watch.

All movements of the balloons are registered upon the soot-covered cylinder and are measured in thousandths of an inch. The record taken from the cylinder inside the basket, when the balloon descends to the earth, is deciphered from three marks—wavy lines—but each curve means much to the weather man, no matter how slight the scratch. In the event that any one of the three stylus refuse to work it does not prevent the others from performing their respective functions. Each of the three measuring devices is tested a few minutes before released and again as soon as captured. A thermometer carried by each balloon consists of two strips of metal, each sensitive to the changes in temperature by contraction and expansion, the strip being connected with the arm of the recording device.

Fifty tubes of hydrogen gas each with a pressure of 1800 pounds for each tube is needed to conduct the experiments. The balloons are made from pure rubber and cost $40 each. The balloons can be used only once, but the rubber is melted and used for other purposes.

Two years ago an international test was made with the aid of balloons and kites. The sunrise balloons will be watched daily by experts located at Mt. Wilson Solar Observatory and Mt. Whitney Observatory and wireless telegraph communication will be kept up continually.

THEY'RE EXPENSIVE.

Each bag holds from 100 to 120 cubic feet of gas and at starting measures about eight feet in diameter, but as it ascends the atmospheric pressure is reduced and the balloon expands to fifteen times its size at starting, and finally the larger one explodes and the instruments descend slowly, arriving on earth supported by one balloon and unbroken. The wicker basket is lined with cork so that if the apparatus should fall in the sea the instruments will remain floating until picked up by some vessel. Owing to the cold atmosphere soot is used to cover the cylinder to make the marks of record. Experiments made with liquid indicators are often spoiled by the ink freezing. The soot will not wash off if the cylinder covering is not removed.

EDUCATIONAL FOOD PRODUCTS EXHIBIT.

Successful Cooking School of "The Times" Closed Until Autumn, When Rare Display of Foodstuffs Will Open on Second Floor of the New "Times" Building. A Picture from Wisconsin.

BY SYDNEY FORD.

MRS. HAFFNER-GINGER announced on Friday that The Times Cooking School would take a vacation till fall when a great educational food products exhibit would be installed on the second floor of The Times building where everything pertaining to the kitchen would be displayed in a most educational and attractive way.

She said that she should be occupied the balance of the summer in superintending the placing and arranging of this exhibit which will openSeptember 1, when she hoped to see there all the women who have been interested in the exhaustive course of lectures she has given during the last six months.

Friday's Demonstration.

When the curtains separating the model kitchen from the auditorium were drawn aside Friday afternoon, our eyes were greeted with a tempting display of meats, a plump chicken all ready to be stuffed and baked, a leg o' lamb ditto, a platter of ground meat; some green-bell peppers and numerous ingredients for seasoning and stuffing the aforesaid fowl.

First the cook lady concocted some meat balls from the minced veal. She said there was some pork also in the ground meat, and she mixed it with moistened bread crumbs, seasoned it and molded it into little balls to bake in the oven. She also filled some of the green-bell peppers with the mixture; put them up-standing in an aluminum pan into which she had poured some hot water; covered the pan to keep the steam in and set it in the oven.

Then she stuffed the leg of lamb, and the chicken, making them all ready to pop into the oven.

She Misses the Farm.

I have met the most interesting people at these lectures and demonstrations from time to time and on Friday I chanced to sit next a quaint little old lady whose conversation and shrewd observations were exceedingly interesting to me. I had noticed her on the car coming down town—a demure little figure with such a sweet, placid smile on her face. She wore an immaculate white apron which fell in full folds from her waist to the hem of her gown, and she was such a comfortable, homey-looking woman that I was just naturally attracted to her.

No tight tube skirts for her, if you please. No, her's was made on the good old-fashioned lines—the gathers as full as possible about the waist and its ample folds fell to her feet—just clearing as she walked. I had no idea she was bound for The Times Cooking School, but was delighted to find her going up in the elevator with me, and so it happened that we sat side by side on the front row.

"My, my," she commented when the cook lady took the pan of dainty little meat balls from the oven, "how my hired men back in Wisconsin would laugh at the size of those balls. 'Twouldn't be a mouthful for 'em."

Smelling something interesting, I questioned her, "So you are from Wisconsin?"

"Yes, my dear—I lived on the same 400-acre farm there for fifty years and cooked for a gang of hired men—we used to have as high as thirty in harvestin' and thrashin' time—and oh, how I enjoyed it—and how I miss it now. Seems if my hands was idle—I can't somehow get used to it. You see my husband's health gave out and so, five months ago, we came to Los Angeles. Oh yes, we like it here, and he's ever so much better—but I miss the farm so—and the hired men I cooked for so many years back there. The reason I come to these cooking lectures is to learn how to cook for a small family. I don't know anything about it. Why, dearie, back there in Wisconsin in hayin' time I used fifty pounds of flour every week and I made tons of cake and pie. We had fried cakes every morning for breakfast, and we bought coffee by the sack and tea by the chest, and sugar by the barrel, and three-gallon crocks of butter every week. We sent the milk from our thirty cows to the cheese factory, so we had to buy our butter, but aside from that and the groceries, we raised everything on the farm.

"Why, that leg o' lamb she has there would be just enough for one of our hired men—and as to chickens—I always allowed a chicken to a man. Working in the open air in the harvest fields sure does give men powerful appetites. I had the name," she went on with a touch of honest pride in her voice, "of setting the best table of any farmer's wife around there, and so we never had any trouble getting plenty of help. One of our hired men worked for us twenty-four years. My, how they'd laugh at some of the farmer's wives who tried to put on style and to serve ice cream and jelly—and frosted cake. Didn't they like 'em? No, dearie, they wanted the substantials—meat and potatoes and beans and bread and the like. They cared more for the cooking than they did for their wages. My potato kettle held four pailfuls of water and you should have seen my woodpile. I never handled gas i nmy life until I come here. I'm just homesick for work—and hired men—and a big family like I've been used to all my life. Why, I used to make biscuits by the dripping-panful—and I can't get used to cooking just for two. Don't you know some place I can get where I can help in a big family." And there was a wistful look in her blue eyes.

Really, it was like a breath from the wide meadowlands of the Middle West, this graphic picture of farm life that she gave me.

"When you go back to Wisconsin," I pleaded, "take me with you; I want to see it too."

Revenues from "Deodands."

[Harper's Weekly:] If it were customary or possible for the King of Great Britain and Ireland rigidly to exercise his royal prerogatives, he would, in the course of a few months, become the owner of many vehicles, especially motor cars, that traverse the streets and roads of his kingdom, since he is entitled to all deodands. A deodand is "an article which has proved the immediate and accidental occasion of the death of any reasonable creature." This right was for hundreds of years enforced as a means of swelling the royal exchequer and, legally speaking, could still be enforced. If a man were killed by being run over the vehicle and its contents, as well as the horse, become the King's property. The number of "reasonable creatures" (and dogs might be included by some within this category,) run over by motors in England, would keep the King in automobiles until he would be obliged to construct many garages.

The Public Service: City Hall, and Courts.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

The Board of Public Works has approved the plans of the City Engineer for a temporary drainage system for the easterly Brooklyn-avenue district and will ask the City Council tomorrow for funds to carry through the work.

The City Council confirmed ex-Mayor Snyder yesterday as a member of the Public Service Commission, only Councilman Reed voting in opposition to the confirmation.

The safety of foot bridges in Mineral Park is questioned by the City Engineer and he recommends that notice be served upon Ralph Rogers, the owner, to discontinue their use. Crowds use these foot bridges at campmeetings and religious gatherings in the park.

The Board of Public Works wants permission from the City Council to immediately advertise for bids for underpinning piers of the Downey-avenue and Macy-street bridges across the Los Angeles River, so that the work may be completed before the rainy season arrives.

The Harbor Commission yesterday filed a statement to the City Council, declaring that it must have more office room, equipment and clerical force, and stating that its business is hampered for lack of facilities.

The Board of Public Works yesterday formally awarded to C. D. Crouch the contract for disposing of the city's garbage for ten years.

The wife of wealthy fruit grower named her younger sister as co-respondent in the divorce court yesterday. Her attorney was not present and the judge enacted that role. He denied her a decree.

The constitutionality of the State automobile law was attacked yesterday when the attorney for a wealthy Wyoming youth obtained a writ of habeas corpus from the presiding judge of the Superior Court to secure his client's release.

RELIEF FROM STORM WATERS.

TEMPORARY AID PLANNED FOR BROOKLYN AVENUE.

City Engineer Recommends Use of Wooden Structures to Create Drainage Ways Until Permanent System Can Be Provided—Council Will Be Asked for Necessary Funds.

The Board of Public Works has approved the recommendations of the City Engineer for a temporary drainage system across Brooklyn avenue and the territory tributary thereto, and will ask the City Council for funds to carry through this work.

Last winter storm waters accumulated in large quantities in this district, and the City Engineer, after a thorough study of the situation, recommends that a series of channels be cleaned out and culverts be constructed in a temporray way, so as to relieve the conditions for several years, or until the city is in a position to install the permanent storm drainage system for that section of the eastern hill district. The installation of such a permanent system is the only way to obtain permanent and proper relief, says the City Engineer.

The total drainage area of this district is 1697 acres. About 80 per cent. of this area is to be served directly with storm sewers and laterals when the city's general system is installed. It is estimated that the approximate cost of this will be $200,000, or an average cost of somewhat over one dollar per front foot for all lots within the assessment district.

There is not sufficient time to plan or carry out such a system before the next rainy season, and in lieu thereof the City Engineer recommends the temporary relief work.

The request of the Board of Public Works for funds to carry on this work will go before the City Council tomorrow.

REROUTING CARS. ORDER HAS BEEN ISSUED.

The Public Utilities Commission has issued an order to the Los Angeles Railway Corporation to put into effect the car rerouting schedule worked out by Engineer C. K. Mohler of the public utilities department.

The working-out of details of schedules and the placing of some special work will require some time, but the new plans will be put into effect as speedily as possible.

President McReynolds stated yesterday that the Public Utilities Commission has not received a single protest against the Mohler plans, but that they have been commended by persons who have called at his office to express their satisfaction with the scheme.

Under these plans, five cars each way will be added to the car service on Broadway, while the various districts of the west and northwest are given a service that it is believed will prove satisfactory.

SNYDER CONFIRMED. FOR PUBLIC SERVICE BOARD.

Ex-Mayor Meredith P. Snyder was confirmed by the City Council yesterday for a position on the Public Service Commission, there being only one dissenting vote—that of Councilman Reed.

When Snyder's name was presented for the third time to the Council's consideration, Councilman Reed wanted to know whether anybody had received an answer to the letter he had sent to Snyder, containing a list of questions he wanted answered in writing. Nobody would admit that they had received such a letter from Snyder. Reed then declared he would never vote for Snyder until he answered his letter.

Councilman Betkouski is absent on his vacation, and Councilman Bryant was not present, he being ill, but all other members of the Council, with the exception of Reed, voted "aye" on the roll call for confirmation.

Councilmen McKenzie and Wheeler explained that they had personally talked with Snyder and were satisfied that he is in full accord with the municipal ownership policy of the city.

UNION DEPOT. SUBJECT OF INTEREST.

The check in the plans of the Southern Pacific for the new Arcade depot, caused by the protest of the Board of Public Utilities and the resolution introduced by Councilman Reed, caused the subject of a union depot to become a general theme of conversation yesterday.

President McReynolds of the Public Utilities Commission thus expresses his position:

"I have never seen a city of the size of Los Angeles where the possibilities for a union station are as easy as here. It must come, and I believe now is the time to bring it about."

Questions Safety of Bridges.

The City Engineer has reported to the Board of Public Works that the two foot-bridges across the Arroyo Seco at Mineral Park, just south of the northerly city boundary line, do not comply with the requirements of the Los Angeles building ordinances or with the usual engineering requirements as to strength and safety for structures to support sidewalk traffic. He recommends that notice to discontinue the use of these bridges, in their present condition be served upon the property owner.

Mineral Park is the property of Ralph Rogers and is leased for a three weeks campmeeting by the People's Spiritual Church. It is also used at various times for religious revival meetings and the foot-bridges may be called upon at any time to support crowds of people.

Underpinning for Channel Piers

The City Engineer has made an estimate of the cost of underpinning the channel piers of the Macy-street bridge across the Los Angeles River, placing the cost at $2200. This amount has been provided in the new budget and the Board of Public Works has asked the City Council for authority to advertise for bids for the work, so that it may be done before the rainy season arrives. A special bond will be required of bidders to insure the bridge against any damage by their work.

The board also asks for authority to advertise for bids for the underpinning of the Downey-avenue bridge, the estimate for which work is placed at $4000. Provision for this has also been made in the budget.

Must Have More Room.

The Harbor Commission has joined the universal chorus at the old City Hall and demands more room. It filed an appeal to the City Council yesterday, in which the general situation regarding its need for office room and equipment is outlined. This statement says:

"Not only is the work of this department hampered by lack of adequate quarters, but we are even lacking in sufficient deskroom to accommodate the members of the board."

The Harbor Commission wants more clerical help and office equipment, and it also desires some arrangements made whereby it can have adjacent to its offices those of the special counsel for the harbor and a portion of the harbor engineering force.

Elden-street Paving.

The Board of Public Works has awarded to the Barber Asphalt Company the contract for the paving of Elden avenue, from San Marino street to Pico street. The price is $19,769.24. The contractors are allowed 120 days within which to complete the work.

Cited to Appear.

The only work done by the City Board of Equalization yesterday was to authorize the issuance of a citation for Margaret J. McMillan to show cause why she should not be assessed for 500 shares of Pittsburgh Clay Pottery Company stock. The subject will be before the board next Thursday.

Awards Garbage Contract.

The Board of Public Works at its session yesterday formally awarded to C. D. Crouch the contract for the destruction of the city's garbage for the next ten years, deliveries to begin as soon as the plant to be erected by Crouch is ready for operation. The City Attorney is instructed to prepare the necessary contract, and it may not be actually signed by representatives of both parties in interest for three or four weeks. Crouch estimates that he can have his plant ready for operation within eight months. He has gone East to confer with his principals, but expects to return here within two weeks.

City Hall Brevities.

Property owners on Oro street want that thoroughfare widened to a width of sixty feet from Temple to Court streets. The City Engineer reports that such widening is desirable, but that a few cottages within the lines of the proposed street would have to be condemned and he recommends that the property owners be asked to suggest the lines of an assessment district to meet the costs of the condemnation and widening. This recommendation is approved by the Board of Public Works.

Certain property owners on Marathon street have petitioned for the vacation of the street to a width of twenty feet between Hubbard and Merwin streets, because of the steepness of the grade. The Board of Public Works has decided to hold the matter in abeyance until such time as the property owners on Marathon, between Rampart and Waterloo streets, present a petition agreeing to such vacation.

A petition was filed yesterday, asking the City Council to change the name of Vincent place for its entire length to East Fourth street, its former name, and that that portion of Fourth street formerly known as Short street be given its former name.

The North-East-West Commercial and Improvement Association yesterday filed with the City Clerk a resolution indorsing Charles N. Mills for a position on the Park Commission.

A resolution asking the City Council to take immediate steps for the purchase of rights of way for a municipal railroad from the Los Angeles Harbor to the Plaza was filed with the City Clerk for presentation to the Council by the North-East-West Commercial and Improvement Association yesterday.

FERRIS TIRES OF JAIL LIFE.

HIS COUNSEL DECLARE SPEED LAW IS INVALID.

Presiding Judge Grants Writ of Habeas Corpus Returnable Tomorrow in Department Twelve—Wife Names Sister as Co-respondent in Divorce Court and Denied Decree.

Though fed upon the best edibles that the "Hammel Club" affords, Ralph Sterling Ferris is wearied of jail life. Yesterday he urged Paul Schenck to use every means in his power to get him out. The lawyer sued out a writ of habeas corpus based on the supposed invalidity of the State law regulating speeding.

Tomorrow Schenck will argue to Judge Cabaniss that the law under which Ferris is now awaiting trial in the Justice Court is unconstitutional in that it allows motorcycles, motor bicycles, traction engines and road rollers to go at any speed, but places restriction on all other vehicles not "propelled by muscular power."

This point was raised when Ferris was on trial in Justice Young's court. Inasmuch as the jury disagreed, the law point availed nothing. The township justices, moreover, do not like to rule on legislative enactments.

But Judge Cabaniss is well prepared to discuss the question and make a ruling. Schenck threatens to take the case to the United States Supreme Court if necessary, but before that is done, perhaps young Ferris will be cavorting over the mud roads of Rawlins where it is said an automobile is allowed to go as fast as it can in the rural districts, especially after a rain.

The fast Mercer racer has changed ownership and Ferris has informed his lawyers if he escapes clear of the charges now pending against him he is more than willing to leave Los Angeles. He says it is too expensive here to indulge his proclivity for "letting her out" on the smooth county boulevards.

If the habeas corpus writ is denied, Ferris will probably be tried for speeding. As Justice Young expects to be away on his vacation, the case was tentatively set for August 4 in Justice Reeve's court. The manslaughter trial is set for the following day in the Superior Court.

JUDGE-LAWYER DENIES A DIVORCE.

Judge Monroe played the role of lawyer on the bench yesterday in Celia Rundquist Schaefer's suit for divorce from Martin Schaefer, a fruit grower and ranchman in [illegible], Cal. When Mrs. Schaefer's case was called she notified the judge that her attorney was missing.

"Never mind him," said the judge. "I'll look after that part."

Mrs. Schaefer named her younger sister as co-respondent. "It started in 1908," said the plaintiff. "My sister came out from Nebraska that year and she stayed at our house. My husband showered his affections on her, but I didn't know a thing about it until 1910. Then she told me herself and said he was a 'grand man.'

"Then he admitted that he had made love to her."

Judge-Attorney Monroe declared that Mrs. Schaefer's witnesses did not corroborate her testimony fully enough and advised her to seek other witnesses to substantiate her testimony, and continued the case without granting a decree.

"But that was not the straw that broke the camel's back," according to Mrs. Schaefer, as she left the courtroom.

"I had to support them both," she said, "for two years."

"You're a bum attorney," chirped Bailiff Jack Birdie to Judge Monroe later.

"Well, it's the first case I've had for a great many years," replied the judge. "Give a young fellow a chance."

COURTHOUSE NOTES. BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS

Mrs. Delia B. Rawson, who has been confined in the County Jail for two months on a defraud judgment charge, was temporarily released by Judge Dehy yesterday. She will remain in the custody of her counsel until 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. She is held on a default judgment obtained by Mrs. Gertrude Ryckman for $1900.

LA CASSE AGAIN. William La Casse, automobile agent charged with contributing to the delinquency of Miss Evelyn Quick, motion-picture actress, will be arraigned tomorrow morning in Judge Wilbur's court when date for a new trial will be set. The jury in the first case disagreed. Deputy District Attorney McCartney, who prosecuted the case, declared yesterday he will prosecute the case to the limit. Report was current yesterday about the Courthouse that the case against La Casse would be dismissed, but McCartney vigorously denied it. La Casse is out on bail.

INCORPORATIONS. [illegible] Mining Company, capital stock [illegible], subscribed $25, incorporators C. E. Schmerber, M. Johnson, W. V. [illegible], W. H. Hazel and J. W. [illegible]; U. S. Aluminum Oxide Extracting Company, capital stock $100,000, subscribed $50, incorporators I. A. Brown, D. W. Robinson, A. E. [illegible], H. F. Brook and [illegible].

SLAYS IN ANGER. [illegible], found guilty of murder in the second degree, will be sentenced in Department Twelve on Wednesday. At that time J. Friedlander, his attorney, will probably make a motion for a new trial. The defendant was convicted of breaking into a house in Glendora where a party was in progress and fatally shooting another Mexican. The defendant was intoxicated at the time. He was angered because he was ejected from the place.

INFORMATION FILED. An information charging Louis A. [illegible] with wife murder was filed in Department Twelve yesterday. He will be arraigned on Tuesday. His attorneys will probably try to prove an alibi.

MINISTER WINS SUIT.

Sues Woman Friend to Recover Twelve Hundred Dollars—Court Gives Two Hundred and Fifty.

Rev. John O. Lee, understood to be an ex-missionary, brought suit against Catherine Taylor to recover $1248 alleged to be due him on account of money loaned her. The case was heard by Judge Cabaniss, who finally awarded the plaintiff [illegible].

At one time the evidence showed the missionary and the defendant were very friendly. When he brought suit she was much surprised, she said. She presented a counter-claim for board. She conducted a rooming house on Maple avenue, but said he didn't pay.

NEW TRIAL ORDERED.

HOME RULE.

The Commons notified the Lords that unless they passed the home rule bill the House of Lords would be abolished. And Ulster notified the Lords that if they did pass it civil war would be immediately precipitated. The Lords, thus pinioned upon the horns of a dilemma, voted by 302 votes against sixty-four not to pass the bill. Home rule in Ireland appears to be dead at present.

DISCOVERED.

Last week Secretary Daniels of the Navy, and this week Secretary Garrison of the War Department! What is happening? Who has told Washington there is a West? How have they learned of the Pacific Ocean? Is it possible they knew something about it? Are we to be recognized as a part of the United States? Washington should explain and relieve us of this dreadful tension.

SURE THING.

The Secretary of the Navy came, saw and was conquered. He promises that the harbor shall get what it deserves. That is a large pledge. Our harbor deserves more than any man now living has the vision to see. Only the centuries can give it what it has the right to claim. In the ripeness of time this promise will be fulfilled. In those years that intervene we who yet live will see a splendid beginning. May the Lord preserve us all, and time will preserve the harbor! Be sure that it has taken all the march of time to bring humanity to the threshold of such an enterprise. What man has been ten thousand years in sowing he will assuredly be as long in reaping.

HOLY HIRAM.

The Oakland Enquirer in a double-leaded, double-barreled, double-columned eulogy of Holy Hiram says of him with its editorial voice vibrating with emotion that "No Californian before him has ever shed abroad so much luster upon the Golden State as this honored Native Son."

What kind of luster? That of a sunbeam? or a moonbeam? or an arc light? or an incandescent bulb? or an evil-odored natural-gas jet? or a pig's oil lamp? or a sputtering tallow candle? or the miasmatic glow of a dead mule in a swamp?

And what kind of a son? of a gun? of a biscuit? or of a brass foundry?

"Marry come up gossip, and unyoke."

LEARNING WHY.

The first question a born thinker asks is, why is there any life of any kind? It is not long until he joins all other men in asking, why do I suffer pain? The last is much easier answered than the first. Why the universe exists at all is not nearly so easy to explain as how the people in it are sometimes hurt. Perhaps no man would suffer pain after he learned the lesson it held for him. On the other hand, a man who knew the cause of his own misfortune might yet be willing to bear some of its sting with the hope of making clear a part of life's meaning to others. The difference is that the pain which comes in blindness is misery while that which comes with understanding is only suffering. So may the Master say, "Suffer it to be so now."

THE HOPE OF MEN.

The only criminal in the world is that person who asks, what is the use? Yoked with him in the same bondage is the one who disparages the unexpressed powers of another. You have not done all you meant to do. Make the same allowance for the other fellow. You have not accomplished half what you could. In this your brother is like you. Life never suffers the existence of a man whose heart and brain did not contain the pent-up forces of the universe. There is not an atom of life that may not touch the center of being. It is only the courage of life and not audacity which permits a man to think of the ground on which he himself stands as the center of the universe. The key to the storehouse of life is in the hands of every man. Only spiritual blindness and mental laziness withhold its use.

A FOOLISH ATTITUDE.

Perhaps women have not yet become entirely accustomed to their citizenship. Perhaps their very fineness makes them backward at some points. At any rate, one of the difficulties which confront leaders in women's work is the disposition on the part of so many other women to wait for personal invitations to join in public enterprise. This works a great hardship on the few. Their energies are sadly taxed in planning and executing some large event and it is bitterly unfair that the rest should sit back and wait to be begged for their patronage, as if such affairs were restricted by the "nice proprieties" of something given in a home. There is nothing private about public welfare. The significance of woman's work today is that she is endeavoring to reach the masses with her influence. This is essentially a work for all women, and not for the few. Such projects are distinctly not invitation affairs. Any intention of restriction upon them is a mistake in public service. This may not be quite gracious, but we are certain that it carries the approval of the many noble women in Los Angeles who are working for the good of their city and not at all for activity or for political or social prestige or any selfish motive. It is a work which demands the common-sense support of their sisters at large.

HO FOR HOLY HIRAM!

The Oakland Enquirer declares that "the hour is come when formative sentiment should be crystallized and the convictions of Progressives united in the formation of an invincible army of all who are willing to enlist for social and industrial justice"—by renominating Hiram Johnson for Governor.

Is this attempt to treat a Progressive nomination as if it were a land claim to be located by pre-emption a fair deal? Here is Gates Ajar rehearsing before a looking glass the speech which, as the Progressive nominee for Governor, he intends to deliver in halls, in tents, and from open-air stands, and an auto all the way from the snow-capped heights of Shasta to the sunlit and surf-washed strands of San Diego. Must he abandon his well-matured aspirations because Holy Hiram wants the gubernatorial job once more?

Here is Chattering Chet from the vineclad valleys and bending orchards of the upper San Joaquin Valley, where every apricot tree is appealing and every pear tree is puling and every olive tree is 'owling "give us Chet or give us anarchy."

Here is Heney of the roaring trachea and the sure-shot 44 caliber, the bad man from Bitter Creek, the pride and joy of cactus land. Are his gubernatorial aspirations to be ignored?

Here is Toopious the Jibbenainosay, the roaring rebater of orange land. Are all his plots and machinations, his collection of vituperative adjectives and his rare ability to weld the churches and the bagnios in a coalition for his own uplifting—is he no longer to be IT?

The Enquirer says of Holy Hiram:

> "He found conditions at Sacramento putrid with political corruption; submerged with inefficiency and wastefulness and overrun by an army of time-serving supernumeraries. His task of regeneration was stupendous. It required the hand of a man of fearless and indefatigable energy, unswerving integrity and a deep acquaintance with legal aspects of departmental management. It required a man of iron will, fired by an unconquerable spirit. Few men are fitted for such a trial, and when one is found enlisted in the cause of the people the people will not let him retire from their service.
> "Hiram Johnson has made good. Not all of the reforms which he undertook have yet been accomplished, and for that reason his able helmsmanship is needed for another term."

It may seem ungenerous to allude to the failures and omissions of this saint from heaven, but the truth ought to be told. Holy Hiram did indeed put through a bill to enable blue-sky commissioners to plunder and harass and dominate and paralyze business. He performed a great public service in providing commissioners to examine the right of a farmer (at $10 a day for the commissioner at the farmer's expense) to continue to irrigate his acres by means of a water right he had used without question for twenty years. He did himself proud when he secured the passage of an act to make employers pay for all injuries suffered by their employees from sore toes to the mumps. He endeared himself to the three gentlemen whom he sent to Europe at the public cost, there to study rural credits in London, roulette at Monte Carlo, and the turkey trot at Paris.

But how about other and equally-needed laws? What became of the law to divest the feet of the school children of patent leather shoes? Why did he fail to press the proposed law to turn loose high-priced commissioners to mulct in damages or else put to the torture barbers who used unsterilized razors? Shall Holy Hiram escape criticism for these lapses from duty? Let him face his record of omissions as well as his record of commissions.

UNCERTAIN.

At last Los Angeles has had a marriage based on eugenics. Let us not run away with the idea that we are going to do too much for the future without regard for the past. Very humble parents sometimes bear great sons to the world. The marriage of persons in health and possessed of wealth or genius often results in disappointing offspring. Life's secret wisdom, its irony and its humor lie in the fact that the gift gate closes upon a potential reservoir. Children are not committed to either the expressed virtues or the faults of their parents, but they include as possibilities for their own expression every latent force in the entire line of their forebears. Heredity is vastly more than some pronounced faculty of an ancestor. It is the potentiality of all ancestry. Babes are born good enough. The fact that a breath of life is drawn is proof enough of its great purpose. The important consideration is the development of the child's character and use after its eyes are struck by the light of the world.

INTELLIGENCE AS A FERTILIZER.

It is an old proverb that "the eye of the master is manure to the soil." That is true where the master farmer understands his business. Intelligence is a better fertilizer than guano. With all his opportunities of acquiring knowledge that he can use the American farmer is away and away behind his European brother in the practical results of agriculture.

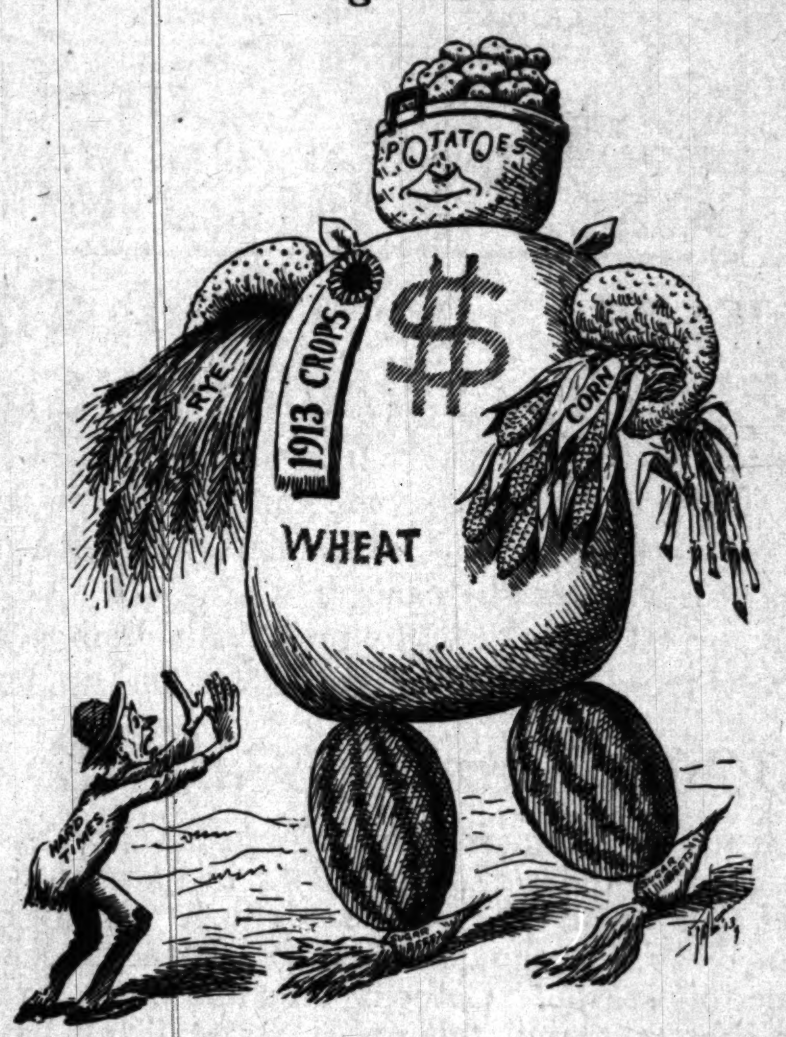
America is the native home of the potato, and the best potatoes in the world are grown in the Rocky Mountain and Pacific States. The mineral salts in the soil give to the potato a mealiness and a peculiar palatable flavor. Yet our production per acre of this vegetable does not compare with that of Germany and other European countries.

Georgia and other Southern States are able to produce corn enough to supply the whole country, yet over 90 per cent. of the corn they consume is shipped to them from the North.

In dairy products we are far behind Norway and Sweden, both in the quality and the quantity, yet we have longer summer seasons than the Scandinavian countries and as succulent grasses. But they exceed us in growing root vegetables and in the art of feeding cows. In the British Islands and in France and Germany the grain yield per acre is double that of the United States.

The crime of our farmers is soil neglect. The government agricultural stations are doing much in instructing farmers in crop rotation and fertilization, but the stations are infrequent and far apart. There should be a corps of traveling instructors to practically direct farmers in the planting, fertilization and care of crops. The cry of "back to the farm" might be heeded with advantage by hundreds of thousands who now live from hand to mouth in the great cities. But "back to the farm" with success does not mean back to cultivation with castiron plows and wooden harrows. It means intensive and intelligent cultivation of acres now unintelligently cultivated. It means scientific knowledge of soils and seasons and fertilization and crops. To cry "back to the farm" without these is as if one were to say to the girl who directs the movements of the power loom, "back to the spinning jenny of your great-grandmother."

Too Big to Scare.



IN CHINA.

You see, the trouble with China is that the first revolution was over before it was well started. The people were not altogether up to it. Millions of Chinese citizens in remote provinces of that big country have just heard there was a war and they resent having been left out of it. The Chinese never were much for excitement and now that they have a little taste of it, all of them want into the game.

A few of those who had the most of the fun have rather overplayed their hands. Take this greedy Yuan Shai Kai, for instance. He just walked into Peking and said to Dr. Sun Yat Sen and other perfectly good heroes, "You guys beat it from the throne room, for I am the only real thing in the way of a President that the Chinese republic ever had. I am not only the most august chief executive these pigtails ever kow-towed to, but I am probably the only one they will ever need as long as my own pigtail lasts. This is my queue to stick, and I don't care how you spell it."

That was not a politic speech for a man who is not quite sure of his premises. Dr. Sun Yat Sen bowed three times, with a mental reservation on his dignity, and then went back to tell the people that they had all they wanted and so much with it that they didn't want that maybe they had better keep on fighting a while. Everybody's doing it now, and the head of Yuan Shai Kai is not worth one fiddlestick, much less two eminently purposeful chopsticks. When the present uprising gets through with him he couldn't even hold down a comic opera bill on the American stage.

This new war is more interesting than the last because the missionaries will be able to see more of it without going to heaven for the view. The Chinese are becoming so civilized that they now prefer beheading one another to shooting foreigners. After again predicting an early and a sumptuous funeral for the present head of the government and thanking you for your very flattering attention, we bid you one and all a kind good morning. Also long live Dr. Sun Yat Sen. He is the real thing.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS.

So many profitable and pleasant home occupations are possible to the lucky dwellers in Southern California that a whole volume could be written on the subject and still only half the tale be told. Flowers in their wonderful variety and prolific abundance afford a constant source of joy, a pleasing stimulus to enterprise, for every suburban resident between the Sierras and the Pacific.

On a 50x200 foot lot on a two to ten-acre tract of land thousands of blooms can be grown for the pleasure of the amateur or the profit of the professional gardener. Between the amateur and the professional class there is also a large body of nature lovers, who make the study of plants yield them a new interest in life and add materially to their spending money. All hobbies are good; none better than that employed in the service of Queen Flora.

For variety in color, shape, size and general characteristics, as well as for a study in the scientific development of plants, no flower offers so complete a subject for experiment as the gorgeous chrysanthemum. Nor does any other flower seem so specially adapted to climatic conditions in California or so eagerly responsive to sympathetic treatment.

The possible combinations of nature, science and art are nowhere better exemplified than in the treatment of this favorite fall flower. Because it needs more scientific attention, because it affords a greater scope to the artist, because it calls for a fund of natural sympathy, the growing of chrysanthemums has become a favorite occupation or pastime with many residents in and around Los Angeles. All have not the time to raise choice blooms for the market, but there are not many flower lovers who do not cultivate a few chrysanthemums for their own satisfaction. Patience and perseverance, a keen eye for color, a power of scientific observation and an inborn love for the true and beautiful are necessary to raise chrysanthemums on a commercial scale. Those who have not time to cultivate blooms for sale may yet grow flowers that will be a welcome gift to their friends and a boon to city dwellers, denied the advantages of a garden. And, after all, isn't the making of friends as noble a business as the making of money?

TAXING BANANAS.

Of all tropical fruits the banana is the cheapest and the most nutritious. The African explorer—Stanley—when searching for Dr. Livingston subsisted his command for weeks on fresh and dried bananas. The banana—cooked or raw—is, more than any other fruit, favored by the workers of our land, and bananas, under the tariff which is now suffering revision by Congress, were admitted free of duty.

The Democrats who, in their zeal to reduce the cost of living, are struggling to place sugar on the free list, are proposing to place an import duty on bananas of five cents per bunch. Call you that "reducing the cost of living"?

While other foodstuffs and commodities necessary to living have, during the past few years, been materially advanced in price, bananas are sold as cheaply as they were in 1905. From Alaska to Florida, from Maine to California, may be seen signs in the fruit stores reading, "Bananas 10 to 15 cents per dozen." In the winter months, when local fresh fruits are at a premium or cannot be obtained at all, bananas are still cheap and plentiful, for the banana tree bears every month in the year.

The cheapness of the banana is not affected by the fact that it is carried thousands of miles by steamer from the tropical islands and coasts where it is grown. The banana is a staple food with the worker. The Republican party placed it and kept it on the free list. The Democrats propose to add to its price. They propose to legislate after the fashion of the fighting Irishman at Donnybrook Fair, who walked around among the tents and whenever he saw a head bulging against the canvas he hit it a whack with his shillelah, regardless of whether it belonged to friend or foe.

Debt After the Civil War.

[Philadelphia Ledger:] Civil war means something besides battle. When Lee surrendered at Appomattox each person then living in the United States had on his or her shoulders a Federal debt of about $80. Today each inhabitant's share of interest-bearing debt is approximately $10. At the earlier date two-thirds of all the government debt paid 6 per cent. interest, and now over two-thirds pays only 2 per cent.

Thus, measured by the yearly debt burden, each American in 1865 carried about twenty-four times as much as he does today.

The wheat which is consumed in a year by each person in the United States is now worth very little more than what it cost every individual to pay his share of interest on the national debt when Andrew Johnson became President.

She Wanted to See.

[Philadelphia Ledger:] A lady went into a butcher shop and ordered thirty-five pounds of meat. The clerk went to the ice-chest, put his arms around a large piece of meat, and, after struggling across the store, managed to reach the scale, which read forty-seven pounds. This was too much for the lady, so back went the meat and out came a different piece. This time the scales read thirty-eight pounds. After slicing off a piece he got it to weigh exactly thirty-five pounds.

"There, lady," he said, "where shall I have it sent?"

"Nowhere," said the lady. "You see I have been very ill, and the doctor said that I had lost thirty-five pounds, and I only wanted to see what it looked like."

OLDEN NEVADA DAYS.

BY TOM FITCH.

In the middle '60's two employees of the Mexican mill on the Carson River near Empire, which mill was run on Comstock ore, managed to steal and hide in the course of a year $100,000 worth of amalgam. Comstock bullion was as easily distinguishable from that of other mines as an orange is from an apple. The problem was to market the stolen stuff without exposing the source from whence it came. The thieves called into consultation a man who was a thorough metallurgist and a practical milling expert. In addition he was a business man of no mean capacity, and he had a bank account.

His first step in the campaign for disposing of the stolen amalgam was to quietly purchase for a few cents per share all the stock of the Hornet Silver Mining Company. The Hornet company owned a mine in Humboldt county which had not been worked for years because the ore, which was rich on top had, at a depth, decreased in values so that it could not be mined or milled except at a loss. Its little five-stamp mill had begun to rust and the property was practically abandoned.

He purchased a team and wagon, on which the three or four tons of the stolen amalgam was loaded by the thieves one dark night. He drove the team across the desert to the Hornet mill, taking a week to make the trip. There he cached the stolen amalgam. Then he put a force of men to work in the mine and began the extraction of ore. He acted as amalgamator and melter without an assistant, and did his work at night after all the miners had retired. He mixed the stolen amalgam with the regular product of the mine, and it soon became known that Hornet ore was yielding $160 a ton. As week after week the bullion shipments were received in San Francisco the demand for Hornet stock and the price of it increased. He disposed of his stock which had cost him 3 cents a share at $2, $3, $5 and finally $10 a share, and, having worked up all the stolen amalgam, he stepped down and out as melter and refiner. He was several hundred thousand dollars ahead after dividing with the thieves the value of the stolen amalgam and keeping to himself the profits of the stock deal.

A curious circumstance was that the ore in the mine trebled in value, and for nearly a year after his retirement the Hornet company paid dividends on a legitimate basis.

He went to San Francisco, and for a time enjoyed in peace the fruits of his ill-gotten gains. He became known to certain undesirable citizens for his ability to deal with shady problems in mining and metallury, and was on one occasion taken into the confidence of a few amateurs who cherished an ardent desire to make a coup d'essai in the gold-brick business. He was an amiable gentleman, proud of his proficiency in his art, and he willingly gave them instructions in the manufacture of a gold brick that enabled them to evolve a masterpiece.

But gold bricks must be melted in time, and the melting will disclose the fact that their "innards" are lead or brass. When this happens, the purchaser usually prefers to keep the details of his venture locked in his bosom, a foolish sense of pride contributing to his desire for perfect silence. But in this instance the victim was a "piker" without any sense of honor and without beastly pride, and when he found that he had invested a lot of good money in a parallelogram of plated brass, he emitted a raucous howl that might have been heard at the Farallones. Worse than that—in the eyes of the gold-brick men—he took his troubles to the Chief of Police of San Francisco.

The Chief was a wily old bird, and he was a terror to such evildoers as did not have a "pull." He was wise in the ways of criminals, and his enemies did not scruple to asert that his profound knowledge of the ways of the wicked was the fruit of a personal experience therein. Some even asserted that in the days before he joined the San Francisco police force he had been a "Sydney duck."

With such knowledge as he possessed of the tracing of crimes and the tracking of criminals, he began an investigation into the gold-brick episode that eventually illuminated the true inwardness of the whole affair to the most minute detail. Even the part that the Hornet operator had played in the job, remote as it might appear to the ordinary observer, was revealed to the searching eye of the Chief.

The Chief, in the course of his official duties, had been apprised years before of the part that the Hornet operator had played in marketing the amalgam stolen from the Mexican mill. There had been no opportunity to punish him for that misdeed, but now the Chief thought he saw such an opening. The Hornet man had not profited by the gold-brick operation and had taken no part in it beyond counseling the gold-brick operators how to manufacture the brick. But the Chief was not above "railroading," and he reached out his tentacles for the person of the Hornet operator. But that individual had been rendered alert by his many experiences, and getting wind of the Chief's intentions concerning him he was well on his way to Arizona, while the Chief men were searching for him in his accustomed San Francisco haunts.

In the sun-kissed land his quick wit came into play. Before the California officer, armed with requisition papers and charged with the duty of bringing him to San Francisco, could reach the Territory, the amalgam marketer caused himself to be arrested on a trumped-up charge of selling whisky to Indians, and placed in the custody of the United States marshal, who, as it conveniently happened, was an old personal friend.

Of course, the California official was unable to take a Federal prisoner away from the United States marshal. He remained constructively in custody, but really as free as any man, until the gold-brick case in San Francisco was finally disposed of and he was no longer liable to arrest for that cause. The charge of selling whisky to Indians was dismissed, and the gentleman went to New York glad and free, with conservative views on the subject of giving gratuitous advice on shady problems in metallurgy.

Cotton. One member was appointed from each Senate and Assembly district; four members from the Ninth, and five members from the Tenth Congress districts. The list of members follows:

"The Melting Pot" is the appropriate title that has been bestowed upon the recent gay and festive gathering of Democrats at Santa Monica when Fred H. Hall, the Kern county statesman, made his debut as a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination. It was the greatest gathering of political antagonistics ever assembled in this section. About every shade of Democratic faction was on toast. There were "long hairs," and "short hairs;" and real and imitation "reformers" of high and low degree; Bourbons who would no more think of "reforming" than an A. P. A. would think of making application for membership in the Knights of Columbus; highbrows and lowbrows and some without any brows at all, to speak of; old "machine" politicians and meek and sanctimonious Goo-Goos; all there to share in the best dinner ever enjoyed under Democratic auspices in Southern California. It sure was a meal long to be remembered with joy by those who were favored with the little complimentary pasteboards that were sent out and which covered transportation fare to and from the scene of activities. Hall certainly got in right as the most down-to-date candidate for office that ever turned loose hereabouts. Another meal like that and he will have the Democrats fighting for seats at the tables.

The collection of guests under the Bourbon ensign was the most confusing possible, and it will forever remain a source of profound wonderment and mystery how it was possible to get them together. Hypnotism may have been practiced to get some of the bunch anywhere within such easy reach without the breaking out of hostilities. For instance: John T. Wilson, one of the pioneers of San Fernando Valley, and Al Norton, acting chairman of the County Committee were within two tables of each other, and never missed a bite or drink. And yet only a measly year or so ago, Wilson marched in high dudgeon out of a San Francisco hotel when he learned that Norton was permitted to roost in the same building. There was Mattison B. Jones, one of the oratorical gushers of the evening, and a high brow of note, seated within hailing distance of T'dore Bell's lively bete noir, the Hon. R. Frank Goings, one-time Democratic nominee for railroad commissioner, and popular idol of Hon. Bill Moore, Hon. Joe Simons, Hon. Richmond Plant, Hon. Bill Harris, et al. But Goings wasn't the only bright and conspicuous evidence of an affirmative answer to the query: "Can a Democratic 'has-been'" come back?" There were others, and they can be picked out of the subjoining line-up of a few of the choicest representatives of the factions that for years called each other about everything to be found in the category of hate, envy, jealousy and ambition, towit:

Joe Mesmer and J. Harvey McCarthy.

Jim Hanley and Alfred Moore.

Patsy Clark and Minor Moore.

Dr. Houghton and Dr. Malaby.

Ona Morton and Albert Lee Stephens.

Jim Craig and Prof. Kirk.

Abe Lincoln Smyser and Lloyd McAtee.

Jack Steele and George Collins.

And others.

Bad feelings are in evidence among the Pasadena Progressives because Justice of the Peace McDonald has succeeded in seducing about 2000 denizens of that glorious city to sign a paper urging Gov. Johnson to appoint him as one of the six new Superior Court judges that Los Angeles county is to have. McDonald quit the Democratic party and became a Republican to secure office in the Crown City; and this accomplished, he foxily rode on the Roosevelt bubble to the term he is now serving.

The new judgeship isn't the only thing that is worrying the Pasadena politicians. The postmastership is still a bone that is growled over. If Clark McLain is the successful aspirant there will be a howl of agony go up that will be heard as far as W. Wilson and P. M. General Burleson may wander. Banker W. H. Hubbard is among the most active objectors to McLain, who is being lambasted on all sides. His temperament is figuring in the opposition. Friends of C. T. James are showing signs of renewed activity, and there may be a hard fight made in his behalf. James is a popular Elk, and an active realty dealer. However, Dolph S. Bassett and Richard T. Blow are also figuring close to the top. Whether W. B. Loughery can be prevailed upon to enter the list is still an open question. Loughery, I believe, is satisfied with his present job as city commissioner. If no one else wants it, give it to Joe Josephs.

The worst has fallen. Hearkening to the reverberating and insistent demand of many friends and admirers that he lay aside his personal feelings, the Hon. Adam Dixon Warner, pal of Jim Ham Lewis and Gov. Bill Sulzer of the Empire State, has consented to become a candidate for the chief deputyship in the United States District Attorney's office, when Schoonover begins drawing that much-coveted salary. Warner is known the length and breadth of the land under the sobriquet of "Silver Dick," and he was first aid to the injured on the Bryan battlefield in the woozy days of 1896.

THE WATCHMAN.

New Things to SAVE Your TEETH and Cure Sore Gums

A recent dental clinic in New York City showed a number of wonderful and new advances in dentistry, but most of all it proved how little the average man knows about the work done to his teeth.

For instance, how many patients are aware that the porcelain cement or artificial enamels are spoiled when the dentist trims them into shape with his little whirling disk? If the dentist lubricates his disk with cocoa butter or other lubricant, no heating and no harm results. Heat causes the filling to expand in the cavity and later, in contracting, to pull away from the tooth and to leave space for saliva and decay to enter.

Few people have heard of a real painless dentistry known as Analgesia, which works by means of a little mask that fits over the nose, but leaves the mouth free for the dentist's work and for the patient to breathe air whenever he sees fit. This little machine supplies a mixture of nitrous oxide and oxygen. As soon as the usually painful part (the actual cutting) is done, the little nose mask is removed. When the filling or other work is finished the patient steps out of the chair feeling just as he did when he got in. There is no dizziness or nausea.

This is the real painless dentistry, for which I have especially equipped my office and anyone whose teeth are sensitive enough to make it worth while owes it to himself to see me without delay.

It is a startling fact that about 75 per cent. of the people living in the United States are suffering from pyorrhea or conditions that lead to it. The majority of the dental profession heretofore have regarded this malady as incurable, but thanks to the untiring efforts of a few sincere scientists, pyorrhea can now be cured. It is my aim to select and use only methods which have been tried and proven, whether original, or originated by my fellow practitioners.

Don't neglect your health, but come at your earliest convenience and allow me to personally examine your mouth, for which there is no charge. Should you need crowns, fillings or plates, remember, I have specialists for each branch of the profession and personally plan all work done in my offices.

WILD REQUIRE NEW FORMS.

Because of the amendments in the Vrooman Act passed by the last Legislature, it is necessary to have new ordinance forms prepared for the city departments handling Vrooman Act street improvement work. The Board of Public Works will ask the City Council tomorrow to instruct the City Attorney to furnish the necessary forms under an emergency order, so that copies may be ready for use before the amendments to the act become effective.

RECOMMEND PERMITS.

The Board of Public Works will send to the City Council tomorrow a request that the excavation ordinance be amended so that revocable permits may be issued to public utility concerns for excavating or placing manholes in the space between curb lines and four feet back thereof, a space now reserved by the ordinance for the exclusive use of the city. It is found that there are situations where it is advisable for the utility concerns to use such space for their manholes instead of digging up existing gutters or pavement.

CHANGE STREET NAME.

The Board of Public Works will recommend to the City Council tomorrow that it adopt the report of the City Engineer proposing that he be allowed to change the name of Arlington avenue, between Santa Barbara avenue and Slauson avenue, to Van Ness avenue, so as to relieve a duplication of street names in the city and just outside the city limits.

CRY FOR MORE WATER AT BEACH.

PLENTY OF IT THERE, BUT NOT IN THE PIPES.

Complaint Filed With State Railroad Commission Against the Hermosa Beach Water Company. Health of Residents Endangered and No Fire Protection, Is Plea.

Complaining that the Hermosa Beach Water Company and Dr. Quintin J. Rowley, a subdivider, have been "negligent, inattentive and indifferent" to their water needs and, that as a result there is grave danger of "pestilence and fire," residents of Hermosa Beach, Manhattan Beach, and the Redondo Villa tract, will appear before Commissioner Edgerton of the State Railroad Commission at 10 oclock Wednesday morning, with a concerted demand that the commission use its power to compel the defendants to better service.

The complainants in the case are Stephen A. D. Clark, E. C. Auchmoody, John B. Jordan, Joseph L. Hale, R. W. Wright, and Lavinda Yendes. They allege that the commission's order of February 4, that the Hermosa Beach Water Company furnish a pressure of twenty pounds to the square inch, has not been complied with; that they have been without water in some cases for three days at a time; that the supply is commonly inadequate for the flushing of toilets, and that the danger from fire and disease is great. As for Dr. Rowley's connection with the case, the complainants allege that when purchasing from him they were assured that the watter supply would be adequate; further, that he made himself personally responsible in the deeds for a sufficiency of water.

As a portion of the evidence in the case a document will be presented, signed by seventy persons, setting forth that Miss Grace Darst, resident on Longfellow avenue, Hermosa Beach, was compelled to pay $12 for the installation of a one-half-inch meter and service connection and was further coerced into signing a statement that she would not make complaint regarding the service.

"We have asked the commission to adjudge the Hermosa Beach Water Company in contempt," stated Clark, one of the complainants, yesterday. "The citation, however, merely asks the company to appear and show cause why it has not fully complied with the commission's order. This wasn't what we wanted, but we hope that it will serve the purpose, as we are tired of being the under dog, especially where the health of our families and the safety of our homes are endangered."

COMES AND GOES.

Unannounced and unsuspected, a representative of the Hamburg-American Line, the largest of all German maritime concerns, spent two days at the harbor last week collecting data on dockage and other facilities. His exact object in making this trip is not known, though it is suspected in local shipping circles that it had some connection with a project to make this city a port of call in the German company's around-the-world service.

In this connection it is of interest that the Hamburg-American has cancelled the proposed tour of the steamship Cleveland through the Canal in February and will send it east from New York on its around the world cruise. This may mean that the ship will call at this port on the European-bound leg of the voyage.

Traffic Record.

INCREASED PAY ON FAST RUNS.

Pacific Electric Volunteers Men More Money.

Local Lines Not Included in New Wage Schedule.

Enlarged Passenger Traffic on Coastwise Lines.

Voluntary increases in the pay of trainmen ranging from 8 to 10 per cent., retroactive to July 1, were announced yesterday by the Pacific Electric. The increases affect all conductors and motormen in the "high speed" passenger service, as well as all men employed in work-train and yard service. Under these increases men working full time will receive from $5 to $10 more a month.

In connection with these increases the Pacific Electric also announced that the seniority system will hereafter apply exclusively in the assignment of runs. In other words, the oldest and presumably the most competent men will be assigned to the more important runs. In this way increased safety in operation will be assured.

Under the old pay system, first-year men received 25 cents an hour in the passenger service. Under the new system, the first year pay will be 27 cents an hour; second year, 28 cents; third year, 29 cents; fourth year, 30 cents; fifth year, 31 cents, and sixth year and thereafter, 32 cents. Motormen in freight, work-train and yard service will receive 33 cents an hour; brakemen and switchmen, 29 cents an hour; trolleymen, 25 cents an hour; yard foremen, 33 cents an hour, and yardmasters, $125 a month.

In assigning the new increases, they are made applicable on all lines with the exceptions of the following: Watts-Pasadena local, El Molino-Arcade Depot, Edendale-Arcade Depot, Long Beach, San Pedro, Santa Ana and Colegrove-Venice locals, Orange motor, Hawthorne, Ninth street, Hollywood, West Sixteenth - Echo Park, Lagoon, Brush Canyon, Beverley Hills, Port Los Angeles, Santa Monica Eighth-street line, Soldiers' Home, Western and Franklin avenue, Westgate and Highland avenue.

Employees of all departments who may wish to enter the train service are to be allowed to do so, with a preference over other applicants, by passing the usual examinations.

NEW RECORDS.

COAST TRAFFIC GROWS.

With each succeeding week new records are being established for coastwise passenger business, according to local shipping men. Nearly every ship in and out of the local port last week carried a full passenger list, while the number of bookings that had to be carried over a week on account of full listings was larger than any time this summer.

Epecially notably has been the run of passengers southbound from British Columbia and the northwest. As a complement of this the rush of travelers to the lakes and woods of the northwestern States and the Dominion has also been unusually heavy.

Because of the increased coastwise passenger business, rumors are rife in local shipping circles that more coastwise steamers are to be built by the leading shipping companies, particularly as exposition year is expected to see a remarkable acceleration of business.

EGG MARKET STRONG.

High Prices Anticipated This Year. Local Supply Short and Eastern Receipts Fall Off.

After passing through a period of comparatively low prices last fall and winter, eggs show a strong tendency of maintaining a higher rate than usual the summer and fall of this year. The market is very firm owing to the shortage of local supply and the present light receipts of eastern eggs, and an advance of 4 cents in quoted wholesale prices has occurred the past two weeks.

There is a large quantity of eggs in storage here now, but in view of the fact that recent arrivals have been so light, it is doubtful whether the quantity has been added to materially.

The market on fresh candled stock at this time last year was about 27½ cents, while this year the same stock is bringing 31 cents, and as high as 33 cents for some fancy grades.

Receipts of eastern eggs have been cut down owing to the shortage of fancy stock because of hot weather, while the local supply has dwindled to very small proportions. The heavy laying season is over in Southern California, and the limited supply of green feed is also held partly responsible for the very light incoming shipments. It is not unlikely that the height of summer and the fall will witness as high, if not a higher market than for several years.

The egg market differs materially from butter and cheese, in that it will be unaffected by tariff changes, which are expected to mean lower prices for the other two products during the season of high rates.

The storage supply of eggs for the country as a whole, is now estimated to be somewhat smaller than last year. Taken altogether, receipts of eastern and Petaluma stock here have been much larger than last year, due to the short supply of "locals."

Getting Busy Up North.

Application to construct a railroad at grade across highways in Tulare county has been made to the State Railroad Commission by the Minkler Southern Railway Company, which was recently incorporated here by Santa Fe officials. This road is to run from Minkler, Fresno county, to Exeter, Tulare county, forty miles, with a branch from Cutler, Tulare county, easterly for one and one-half miles. Grading work on the Minkler end of the line was started some weeks ago by the Sharp & Fellows Contracting Company of this city.

Large Pipe Shipment.

Thirty-one flat-cars loaded with pipe arrived here yesterday from Birmingham en route to San Diego. It was one of the largest single shipments of pipe in late years to be transported across country on flat cars. The shipment is part of a 4500-ton order placed with the Birmingham concerns by San Diego interests. The pipe ranges in size from six to twenty-four inches.

MILITARY ENGAGEMENT WITH BUT ONE SOLD

SOCIETY has a delectable bit of news this morning in the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Woodhead of this city, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Lora, to Lieut. Thomas I. shell with a muzzle velocity of 2250 feet per second, controlling all targets within sighting range. This gun is to be mounted in various coast fortifications, including those of Los Angeles, as well as at Panama and in the Philippines, giving a defensive power against which no ships have ever contended.

With this increase of power, the accuracy life of the fourteen-inch army gun has been raised to 250 rounds, as against 100 rounds of the existing twelve-inch gun. This is accomplished by lowering the powder pressure.

KING OF ALL WEAPONS.

King of all weapons of warfare, however, is the great sixteen-inch United States army rifle, two of which have been built, and which have been proposed as dominating forces at Panama.

This mighty gun, 49.7 feet in length, develops a muzzle energy of 88,000 tons—a force sufficient to elevate four inches in the water the entire fleet of sixteen battleships sent around the world by this government in 1907. Discharged effectively under the heaviest warship afloat, it would lift her bodily three feet above her normal water line.

Weighing 130 tons, the sixteen-inch rifle propels a 2400-pound projectile at 2306 feet per second, muzzel velocity, to an extreme range of twenty-three miles. Within the hour required by an opposing ship, if approaching from extreme sighting range, the sixteen-inch gun could throw on her deck 62,000 pounds of 2400-pound-weight shells, with force sufficient to penetrate the heaviest armor in use.

This inconceivable force may well be compared with the heaviest foreign gun, the English 16.25-inch Armstrong rifle, built twenty years ago.

The Armstrong, using a charge of 960 pounds of cocoa powder, develops but 54,290 tons muzzle energy, being only 492 tons per ton weight of gun, as the gun itself weighs 110.5 tons. It throws an 1800-pound shell with 2087 feet muzzle velocity, and is, in all respects, inferior to the four leading guns built by the United States, in bores of 16, 14 and 12 inches.

British authorities have attempted to produce a 15.5-inch rifle of high power, but it failed to stand the test of modern powders, the muzzles being destroyed in each instance of trial.

Germany is testing for naval purposes a fourteen-inch gun, and has ordered them installed on four battleships now building, but no reported tests indicate equality with our heaviest.

ORDNANCE COMPARED.

An instructive comparison of leading ordnance is presented in the following table:

COMPARISON TABLE OF MOST POWERFUL

TYPE.	Inches bore.	Foot length.	Tons weight.	Pound weight	[illegible]	[illegible]
United States Army	16.00	49.7	130.0	2,400	[illegible]	[illegible]

United States Army	12.00	42.00	59.1	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

Nitro-cellulose smokeless powder is used in the army sixteen-inch gun, while the Armstrong consumes slow burning cocoa powder. Nitro-cellulose is used in all the other rifles compared in the foregoing table.

Muzzle energy per ton weight of gun is twice as great in the United States fourteen-inch guns as that developed in the English Armstrong, and the United States sixteen-inch rifle passes this highest test of efficiency by a 40 per

Walker and of his more conspicuous antagonism of James Smith, Jr., friends of the President were not surprised to learn that Mr. Wilson was indignant that Chancellor Walker should have chosen Mr. Smith for membership upon the insurance commission.

The change in the character of the life insurance company is made under authorization of a law passed at the last session of the New Jersey Legislature. The law requires that all stock of a corporation desiring to make the change shall be turned in and that a commission of three persons shall be appointed by the Chancellor of the State to determine the value of this stock.

It is understood the commission, while not salaried, will receive a large remuneration in the form of fees upon the stock they appraise.

Speaker Clark does not expect there will be any vacation between the present special of Congress and the next regular session which will begin December 1. When asked what his prediction would be regarding the wind up of the present session, Mr. Clarke said: "Eleven fifty-nine o'clock on the morning of December 1." He said that from what he has heard as to the number and length of the speeches promised for the Senate debate on the tariff, that body will hardly get through with the bill until after September 1. By that time the Senate probably will have the currency bill and the debate in connection with that may be prolonged, according to Mr. Clark.

On the other hand Representative Underwood thinks that by September 15, the House will have passed the currency bill and will have agreed to the tariff bill, after which the length of the session will depend upon what course the Senate adopts with respect to the currency bill.

The story has reached Washington that "Col. Roosevelt is considering the advisability of going into training for the regular Republican nomination for the Presidency in 1916."

It is the assumption that the next Presidential candidates will be chosen by the primaries, which is said to be at the bottom of the colonel's alleged new idea. Many public men share the belief that somehow or other the candidate will be named by popular vote three years hence, and in such a contest Col. Roosevelt regards himself, it is declared, as still popular with the rank and file of the people and a possible likely winner.

As Roosevelt dodged the tariff question when he was President, the Senators wonder what would be his position upon this question, particularly if the Democratic tariff works out disastrously. He has never taken a stand on the tariff question since he has been in public life.

If Mr. Bryan makes a sacrifice in remaining at the head of the State Department at a salary of $12,000, he need not do it any longer, for a theatrical manager has made him the following offer:

"If the newspapers are correct in quoting you as saying that your salary as Secretary of State is insufficient, that you are therefore compelled to add to your income by 'outside work.' I beg leave to offer you a position that will pay you twice as much as the United States government and which will call for your undivided attention—in other words, I offer you $24,000 a year as chief publicity promoter of 'Within the Law.'

"The position is one of importance and, like your present 'high office,' of world-wide influence. The position is one that will call for the highest quality of intellect and resourcefulness, the combination for which we are willing to pay a good living wage."

Champ Clark has let the secret out as to how he has such a hold upon the people of his home Congressional district, observes the Armstrong Herald. He subscribes and pays for forty-six papers published in the district, and he has his private secretary to read all these papers and to report to him items of interest. If a child is born to a friend in the district a letter of congratulation is at once forwarded to the parents; if there is a death in the home of a friend, words of sympathy and condolence are forwarded to the bereaved ones, and so on down the line. And it is in this way that Mr. Clark keeps in close touch with the people of his district. And it is no wonder that it is useless for any man to oppose him for Congress as long as he wants to hold office.

In Maryland Gov. Goldsborough has decided that under present law nominations can be made for the short term in the United States and a Senator can be chosen at the general election in November. An appeal will probably be made to the courts to settle the doubt whether the present primary election law provides legal machinery for the nomination of candidates. The same doubt also applies to the general election machinery. There has been no session of the Legislature since the constitutional amendment was adopted relative to the election of Senators by popular vote, so that the election law has not been brought up to date. The same condition of affairs exists in many other States, and an appeal to the courts of one State would undoubtedly be welcomed by the officials of other States.

Since Ambassador Page went to England, Senator Bacon of Georgia, chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, has learned that at one time in the past wrote a book in which he reflected on the South. This was treason in the opinion of Bacon, and hereafter no man guilty of any irreverance for the South, whether he was born in the South, as Page was, or not, will receive the indorsement of the committee. He is therefore causing all diplomatic nominations referred to the committee to be held up until the limelight can be turned upon their past lives.

Gov. Major of Missouri has recently turned down a flattering Chautauqua offer, alleging that he believes his business cares are too numerous to permit him to accept. He says he does not want to be understood that he is financially independent, as Mr. Bryan is supposed to be.

Since Gov. Blease of South Carolina has had the pardoning power in his hands he has released 716 convicts, most of whom had committed felonies.

GLIMPSES OF SAN FRANCISCO.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25. — The rain fell on the just and the unjust alike. It came somewhat in the nature of a surprise and the oldest inhabitant was right in his element telling that it never fell before in San Francisco the latter part of July. Some people said that it did harm. The majority of citizens welcomed it and are convinced that summer rains would make our glorious climate perfect.

No one is inclined to dispute the statement of President Bush of the Western Pacific that in a few years we will have 1,000,000 inhabitants. About 300 members of the Commercial Club entertained him at luncheon and he gave them an informal talk. He believed that the Panama Canal would benefit the city greatly and he hoped that public sentiment in time would be less hostile to the railroads.

The hitherto intrepid bachelors living at the Bachelors' Hotel, are in despair. For years they have laughed at women as the feminine persons was not allowed to enter. Now Proprietor Herbert has wedded Miss Georgia Snyder and the trembling guests are wondering whether he has made the entering wedge into their once impregnable fortress.

This so seldom happens that it is worthy of note. The bureau of public buildings reports that it has saved the taxpayers 35 per cent. Last year it cost $56,839, and this year the expenses were only $37,190. It may never happen again, but the economical officials are entitled to creditable mention for breaking the record.

A jury has disagreed as to the guilt of John Barneburg, charged with conducting a gambling house. His defense was that he managed a social club called the Waldorf. Of late the police have been busy raiding a number of the social clubs. They found functions in progress with none of the members in full dress and no society leaders present.

The Press Club has sung its swan song to its Market-street quarters. Hereafter the organization will be at home in its new building corner of Sutter and Powell streets, within speaking distance of most of the other clubs. The newspaper men are a little farther away from their offices but the associate members are nearer their homes. It is deemed a progressive step and everybody is apparently satisfied.

Sir Joseph Porter, K.C.B., rose from polishing the handle of the big front door to be ruler of the Queen's navee, but that has nothing to do with Josephus Daniels, ruler of the United States navy. He had a nice time with us and said that when he returned shortly that he would give us a big surprise. Of course by that he means a mammoth naval dock for this city.

In order to make a more spectacular oriental section, Chinatown property owners are planning to remove the Japanese from the western addition and put them in Chinatown. They think that this will be more attractive to the tourists. It is doubtful if the Nipponese will consent without international complications.

Arthur A. Beck, civil engineer, has sued Philip K. Gordon, general agent of the Sunset route of the Southern Pacific, for $50,000 for alleged alienation of his wife's affections. He thinks it is little enough for a broken home. The outcome of the suit will be watched with interest by other husbands whose homes have been more or less fractured.

Eight directors of the Western Fuel Company, charged with defrauding the government out of $1,000,000, have been arraigned on a second indictment and pleaded not guilty. The amount is a little too large for the gentlemen to admit that they did any wrong. A speedy trial has been assured and the result will be awaited with interest.

WILL ATTACH ALIMONY.

Balance Alleged Due for Tuition of Daughter in Fashionable School Near San Francisco.

An unusual move has been made in the Justice Court, where counsel for Saraph D. Hamlin, owner of a fashionable school for girls near San Francisco, is trying to attach alimony paid to Mrs. Ella W. Goodrich.

"Mrs. Goodrich has been drawing alimony since 1910," said Attorney Lady of Powers, Marioneaux & Lady, yesterday. "She placed her daughter in Miss Hamlin's school. According to our contention a balance of about $100 is due on account.

"We propose to attach the alimony paid Mrs. Goodrich. It is a somewhat novel move. I don't know how the matter will be received by the justice of the peace."

FINED FOR CRUELTY.

Francisco Mumalo, a peddler living at No. 782 New Depot street, was fined $20 yesterday in Police Court for cruelty to animals. A dog belonging to him was run down and fatally injured by a street car at Fourth and Figueroa street. Instead of putting the animal out of its misery he shrugged his shoulders and drove on.

ADVENTURES OF A REFORMED EDITOR.

Col. Eugene Brown, who for some twenty years spread facts and fancies over the editorial page of the Daily Herald, of Quincy, Ill., the pioneer Democratic paper of the Prairie State, threatens to become a permanent resident of California. He has been here for some months, and has fattened on the country after the true manner of the bushwhacker. When he came here he scaled down to about 100 pounds, live weight, and his wish-bone stuck out like a prune-pit. Now he is as sturdy as a Rocky Mountain goat and his pulse throbs with the tireless vigor of a dollar watch.

Back in Illinois the colonel held some interest in politics, but is trying to forget it now. He says there is too much initiative for his referendum, and if he voted every time the whistle blew he would have to neglect his asparagus beds.

Says he:

"The Democrats in the Illinois Legislature one day gave me forty-five votes for United States Senator and I was high man for a few minutes. The next day they turned in and elected Billie Lorimer, and my kite came down. That's really as close as I ever came to the emoluments and perquisites of public office. However, I have done more for my State than Billie has. I have left it."

In the Golden State the bucolic life appeals to Mr. Brown and he is living amid his hens and kale in the merry sunshine at Eagle Rock. He says he has gone to a college community on account of his family—said family consisting of a Brazilian parrot and an Angora cat.

There is also a massive flock of poultry on the premises and Mr. Brown has become quite a fancier—albeit he would wish to specialize in the fighting breeds. He is striving to uplift the fair name of California in the feathered industry.

Says he:

"When a dinky little State like Rhode Island can have a tribe of chickens named after her it is time the majestic empire of the sun-swathed slopes got a hickey on herself. If it is up to me to do something or somebody, I will not be found slumbering at the wheel. I am going after some of Lute Burbank's medals. I have already produced the voiceless rooster. Every now and then there are pieces in the paper knocking Maj. Gallus for his crowing habit and there is talk of an ordinance forbidding his vocalizing in the city. I have made it unnecessary. I have invented the noiseless chicken. My poultry ranch is as quiet as the tomb of Rameses. How did I do it? It was distressingly simple. I had one rooster that was a regular Caruso—he crew so. He opened up his vocal batteries before he had fairly retired for the night and he kept it up until two milking times had passed. Finally I was driven to the expedient of putting a clothespin over his nose when I put him to bed. That smothered him off nicely. He soon got so used to it that he would refuse to go to roost until I put his muzzle on. Gradually his vocal chords closed up until finally when he wanted to attract my attention he had to flag me with his spurs. All this time I had a deaf and dumb hen in my collection. I used to call her Xanthippe, because she was so different. She couldn't even cackle when she came off the nest. I saved all her eggs and when they were hatched there was a remarkable offspring. Those chickens have never peeped to this day! Now I am crossing them with a white owl and I have a strong breed that lays both day and night without making any fuss about it. When a hen lays two eggs a day there is big money in poultry and I will soon have Andy Carnegie looking as shabby as an old vest.

"At 730 eggs a year a hen is good for sixty-one dozen every twelve months. For these eggs I can get the fancy price of $1.18 a setting for incubating purposes. That would mean an annual revenue of $71.98 from each hen. With a capital of only one hundred hens there is an assured income of $7198 a year. These figures are correct, as I have had them gone over by an auditing company—and figures cannot lie anyway.

"If you keep a 200-egg incubator going all the time and save your own progeny there's millions in it! The young hens commence laying in seven months and you have a new producing outfit every three weeks. Don't you want a block of stock in the company?

"My hens cannot cackle when they lay, and so to encourage them I put a little bell in each nest, which they ring when they get through. On a busy day this continuous tinkling reminds one of an operatic selection on the xylophone.

"Another problem I have overcome is that furnished by the sitting hen. As a general proposition there is nothing in the world more fixed and determined than this pesky critter. She is as constant as the stars in their courses, and nothing short of a dynamite explosion will dislodge her from her nest. But I got the best of her. Now when she starts on her hibernation I merely stick a bit of white court plaster at the base of her bill. A hen is like a Socialist in that she can think of but one thing at a time. This hen in the attempt to focus her eyes on that strange, adhesive spot of white becomes fuddled. While wondering what it is she gradually forgets her matronly impulses and is soon wandering around after the dazed manner of a man looking for a seat at a moving-picture show. The first thing she knows she is back laying eggs with her old-time vigor.

"This new strain of poultry I have named the 'Angel,' after our beloved city, and also because they have wings. I have a number of valuable and radical suggestions in connection with the care and keep or poultry which will be made public in my forthcoming work, 'Hens I Have Met.' Can I take your order for a copy now?"

Mr. Brown was at one time identified with the Weather Bureau and can tell a barometer from a jug of cider on the darkest night that ever stole o'er Stygia. He has had samples put up of all the climates between Baffin's Bay and Ensenada, but likes this best of all.

Says he:

"In these expensive days it is fortunate for those who have to live on climate that they are getting more of it than they used to. Since I have been here we have had more frost, more fog, more sunshine, more draught, more June and July rain than was ever known in California before. This initiative and referendum is certainly a wonderful thing.

"But, honestly, this is a magnificent section of a marvelous country. When God made California it was indeed a labor of love. He opened the verdant hills and made them the treasure chest for his gold and precious stones. Upon her sunny slopes He set His own fair garden and there established the fragrant flower, the golden fruit and the towering pine and palm. He seized a comet as His mighty brush and ravished the rainbow of its radiant hues to paint the gorgeous colors of the towering mountains, crowning their loftiest peaks of the immaculate snows of eternity. And when the burnished banners of the setting sun were dipped into the majestic expanse of the blue Pacific, and the star-flecked curtain of the perfumed night mantled the earth, it was an imposing and impressive finale of creation's grandest day."

At least that's what Brown says.

DEAD LETTER SALE IS HELD.

Uncle Sam Makes Over Thousand Dollars From Carelessness in Directing Mail.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 26.—When officials of the dead letter branch of the Postoffice Department Friday finished counting the dimes, nickels and pennies derived from the annual dead letter sale they discovered that the United States government was $1105.75 richer as the result of carelessness on the part of those who in the last year intrusted badly directed packages to the mails. No parcel post matter was in this sale as that service has not been established long enough to permit of a sale of uncalled-for or misdirected packages.

The articles disposed of were of the usual variety and under a recent ruling by the department were opened for inspection by would-be purchasers before being offered for sale. Objection in the past to the "lottery" form of selling the packages at auction to the highest bidder, who trusted to luck to win a prize, aroused so much criticism that it was abandoned.

One purchaser bought thirty-five cases of picture postal cards, containing more than 500,000 cards, for $171.50. A case of cheap jewelry went to another purchaser for $155. The bidders were largely dealers from Philadelphia and Baltimore.

STANDARD TIME IN BRAZIL.

South American Country Finally Adopts Greenwich Meridian as Basis for Calculation.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Brazil, which has been one of the few commercial nations holding out for its own meridian as a base for calculation of time, finally has fallen in line with the great nations of the world and has accepted the meridian of Greenwich for the reckoning of official time as set forth in advices just received here. Furthermore, the country has been divided into zones and a system of standard time established such as prevails in the United States.

Some idea of the geographical extent of the country is conveyed by the fact that there is three hours' difference in time between Eastern and Western Brazil, corresponding to the standard time limit in the United States.

RETIRED BANKER'S DEATH.

Aged Man, a Canadian by Birth, Passes Away Among His Relatives in This City.

R. F. Buller, a former bank president, who for four years past had made his home in Los Angeles, leading a retired life, died yesterday morning after a long illness at his residence, No. 529 Harvard boulevard. He was 73 years of age and a Canadian by birth.

While a very young man, he moved to Idaho and in 1845 established the First National Bank of Hailey. He remained president of this for many years and finally sold his interest. In 1907 he organized the Pacific National Bank of the same place.

He lived for some time in Missouri and during that period was elected a member of the State Legislature. A few years ago he was elected State Senator of Idaho. His widow, a son, Charles O. Buller of this city, and nephew, Frank W. Buller, are the near relatives who mourn his departure. Funeral arrangements will be completed today.

CRICKETS EAT GRAIN.

TULARE, July 25.—Remarkable yields of grain are being reported from the Tulare Lake district. The first eighty acres cut on the Jones & Crow ranches went twenty-six sacks to the acre. Estimates made by grain men of the yield of the district are that the entire acreage about the lake this year will average better than fifteen sacks to the acre. During the past few days crickets in great numbers have invaded the acreage harvested and in some cases have been numerous enough to eat the bags, causing some loss of grain stacked in the fields. Practically the entire yield has been contracted for immediate delivery to buyers for coast mills.

AUTO TURNS TURTLE.

EXETER, July 26.—Mrs. Myron J. Sophy, wife of a real estate dealer of this city was painfully hurt, and she and two boys narrowly escaped death when an auto she was driving to this city turned turtle on Carney road, a short distance from the city limits. Mrs. Sophy was cut about the head and shoulders and received a painfully sprained arm. The children escaped with bruises. All of the victims were pinned beneath the machine until passengers from a passing auto released them. Mr. Sophy, in Los Angeles, was advised of the accident.

DYNAMITE IN COWS.

PORTERVILLE, July 26.—Dynamite is apparently not a wholesome food for dairy cows, according to reports from Mineral King, a foothill settlement near here. Bert Wells, a dairyman of that district alleging that six of his favorite bossies died suddenly from the effect of eating sticks of the explosive. According to Wells, an open box containing some of the powder was left in the pasture and shortly after the animals munched on the sticks they sickened and died.

SUNDAY SCHOOL YELLS.

A New Thing in Religious Education that Comes Out of Kansas and May Excite Competition.

[Independence (Kan.) Reporter:] Wichita, which has always been slightly off on religion ever since Billy Sunday laid siege to the citadels of sin there about a year ago, now proposes a new idea. The Epworth League of the Methodist Church there is going to adopt a series of "yells" much after the fashion of colleges. The dispatches say that a "yell-master" has been appointed, and that the various organizations of the church will hereafter compete with each other in the volume and ingenuity of their vocal explosives. So we may expect something like this in the near future from the Old Testament class:

"Hippity hop; hippity hop;
Rah for Moses; he's on top."

Then from another part of the Sunday school room will come this:

"Hold it, hold it—Joseph's coat;
David got Goliath's goat."

After these the infant class will pipe out:

"Hully gee, who are we?
We're the kids from Galilee."

It's great business, this Sunday school class yell affair.

SMALLEST BANK TOWN.

STRATHMORE, July 26.—This town, the newest orange center in Tulare county, will soon have wrested from Ducor the distinction of being the smallest village in California to support a banking institution. On petition of the residents, the State bank examiners have issued a charter to the Pioneer Bank of Porterville, to operate a banking house in the Pfrimmer building, Strathmore, about August 1. Ducor boasts a population of 250, and has a national bank, while Strathmore has a few less population and will have a State institution for the present.

The Week.

TWO GREAT SHOWS WIN SECOND WEEK SUPPORT.

"Madame Sherry," Which Is Booking Selma Paley Into the Morosco Constellation, Breaks All Records at Burbank—"Hawthorne U.S.A." Brings Best Houses Yet to Morosco—Bills at Vaudeville Houses.

WITH the biggest first week's attendance record in the history of the Burbank Theater to "her" credit, "Madame Sherry" will enter upon the second week of her triumphant reign at the Main-street playhouse this afternoon.

Nothing—either of a musical or dramatic nature—that has ever occupied the Burbank stage has proved such an out and out success, so tremendously popular and so satisfying as Oliver Morosco's superb production of this famous French musical farce, and no young actress who has ever appeared on a local stage has scored such a pronounced personal success or created such a favorable and lasting impression as Selma Paley has in the prima donna role of Yvonne Sherry, the little girl from the convent.

Miss Paley has clearly demonstrated what a happy combination real histrionic ability and a beautiful singing voice is, and some of our older prima donnas might do well to play a couple of seasons in stock and combine more acting ability with their voices.

Not only has Miss Paley scored a deserved success, but this is true with every member of the cast. James Darling, who staged the production has scored an unqualified hit as the old connoisseur of Greek art; Percy Bronson has found the role of Edward Sherry entirely to his liking; Lillian Tucker has repeated her original success in the role of Lulu, and Little Winnie Baldwin has provided a fiery but winsome and fascinating type in Pepita, the Spanish girl. Two especially fine characterizations in the performance are that of Grace Travers in the role of Catherine, the housekeeper, and Morgan Wallace as her husband, Phillippe. In the matter of a chorus, Mr. Morosco has provided eight beautiful and statuesque show girls, who lend grace and color to the twenty-six musical and dance numbers, everyone of which never fails to attract from three to six and seven encores.

Morosco.

James Bernard Fagan's speedy and fascinating romantic farce, "Hawthorne, U.S.A.," has proved so genuinely popular during the first week of its presentation at the Morosco Theater and the demand for seats has been of such uncommonly heavy proportions that it will be continued for just one more week, beginning with the performance this afternoon.

"Hawthorne, U.S.A.," is a play quite unlike anything that has been seen on the local stage this year—or, in fact, in the last three years—for it is written in a purely modern new vein that seems to have found great favor with audiences not only here—but in New York and Chicago, where Douglas Fairbanks appeared in it with great success last season.

It is the romantic, but at times delightfully humorous adventures of a carefree young American, who with his friend, Rodney Blake, wanders into Monte Carlo, taps the banks for a cool hundred thousand dollars and then proceeds to the kingdom of Borrovina in Southern Europe, where his love for the young Princess Irma gets him into a series of situations that one minute make an audience grip their seats and the next minute rock in their chairs with laughter.

Young Hawthorne, proceeds with true American spirit to unearth a revolution plot directed against King Augustus III, father of his Princess, by another suitor, Prince Vladimir, and with all of his youthful Star Spangled Banner spirit, young Hawthorne proceeds to throw the "hooks" into the revolution, put the kingdom of Borrovina on a sound financial basis and win a Princess for a bride.

Charles Ruggles has never given the local theater-going public anything better than his breezy portrayal of the young American, Anthony Hamilton Hawthorne, while Frances Ring is seen to splendid advantage in the role of the Princess Irma. Harrison Hunter, Thomas Meighan, Grace Valentine, James K. Applebee, Howard Scott, Richard Barbee, Thomas McLarnie, and all of the others of the Morosco organization are cast to exceptional advantage, while the production is one of unusual beauty.

Orpheum.

Six new acts, three of them headliners everywhere else, come to the Orpheum for the week opening Monday matinee.

The top-liner is Gladys Clark and Henry Bergman, now no longer merely a team, but the leaders of the big Lasky musical comedy act, "The Trained Nurses." This is one of the most pretentious acts ever put out in vaudeville; a very large company is enlisted and a strong chorus; it has seven striking musical numbers, in one of which every girl is individualized; there are many changes of costume, and much scenic effect is obtained. Also, there is a plot, with a clever little story, and there is ample opportunity for Clark and Bergman to demonstrate by individual work that they are still one of vaudeville's best teams.

Another top-notch act is that of the London Palace Girls—an octette of beautiful pony dancers, from the famed John Tiller school, London. They made a hit here before.

The dramatic act of the new bill is furnished by Hal Davis and Inez Macauley, well remembered as stars in "Pals," but long absent from here. In "The Girl from Child's," they have a most acceptable vehicle, with a strong story of a waitress who has wed unhappily, and later, re-enters her former husband's home as a maid, only to find that he still craves the white light illegitimately. How she brings him to his senses and cures him is the real story, admirably told and perfectly acted by these two clever players and their fine company.

Cecile Beresford is a young English comedienne who is on her first tour of the States, but whose work has won her instant recognition. Costuming her act admirably, she has the ability to get her songs and stories over in masterful way.

Four le Grohs furnish the acrobatics; Europeans they are, with the style and finish of the foreigner, and their work is admirable. The five Musical Gormans, promised in this week, will positively be here Monday, and furnish the musical turn, which will class well with the rest. The only holdovers are Norton and Nicholson in "A Dramatic Cartoon," and Coombs and Aldwell, with new songs.

Empress.

The interesting and attractive headliner of the new Sullivan & Considine bill opening at the Empress Theater tomorrow afternoon, will be Oliver White's powerful new one-act drama, "Scandal" presented by the distinguished actor Porter J. White.

"Scandal" contains the four gripping elements of love, intrigue, pathos and comedy all welded together in a manner that has made Mr. White famous as a writer of one-act plays.

It is splendidly suited for the talents of Porter J. White, showing him in the best role in which he has ever appeared in vaudeville. He is excellently supported by John C. Tremayne, Harry Stevens and Adelaide Fairchild. The act carries its own stage setting which is said to be a distinct feature in itself.

Second in importance and interest among the newcomers are Pisano and Bingham, a team of clever vaudevillians, who offer everything from songs of the minute to comedy characterizations of the keenest and most amusing sort.

Third on the bill is the Booth trio with their happy combination of skill and fun. They have won an international reputation as droll and daring cyclists who offer a series of sensational exploits, mingled with a goodly bit of tomfoolery on the bicycle that never fails to make them strong favorites wherever they appear.

Emma Francis and her Arabian Whirlwinds should prove one of the distinct novelties of the new programme. Neither vaudeville nor sawdust arena boasts of more skilled or daring tumbling than the flying Arabians, while Miss Francis is admittedly one of the cleverest and most graceful dancers occupying a position in the vaudeville world today.

Hibbert and Kennedy, the white comedians in blackface fun will provide their share of fun with their rapid fire patter talk of the burnt cork variety, always highly appreciated by vaudeville audiences, and Morris and Beasely, a young man and woman who offer some new and catchy songs and original dances of the most unusual sort will complete the list of the acts.

Pantages.

Semi-tropical songs and dances with all their lure, will charm the audiences at Pantages for the week beginning with Monday's matinee, when Alinsky's ten Hawaiian Serenaders will appear in a spectacular scenic presentment of "A Night in Hawaii." The sensation of the act comes in the wonderful reproduction of Kilauea, the "House of Fire," in eruption, a spectacle at once gorgeous and entrancing. The gigantic volcano erupts masses of smoke, followed by huge columns of fire, and streams of molten lava.

The Princess Ruth Kauleanau, a representative of the fast-vanishing native nobility of the Hawaiian Islands, will be seen in a series of dances that are distinguished by their beauty and fascination. The Hawaiians are also more than attractive, with their weirdly beautiful music from native instruments.

Upon the motive of the police "third degree," Harrison Armstrong and Clay M. Greene have based their

DEANE WORLEY QUITS HIS COSY CHAIR AT EMPRESS.

"Wallingford" Is Now Personal Representative of John W. Considine, One of Vaudeville's Greatest Nabobs—Was Baseball Manager Once and Used to Pass Out Lurid Melodramas—Belittles War Talk.

BY GARDNER BRADFORD.

THERE is a big, open-armed, pathetic chair in the tiny, cartoon-splattered office of the Empress Theater. The threadbare cushion gaps wide for company, and the glittering arms, polished to paintless smoothness by long use, are stretched widely apart, dusty and neglected.

Deane Worley has gone.

Of course to those of us who realize that even now the popular manager is pounding the rails for all corners of the continent as personal representative of John W. Considine, head of the great Sullivan & Considine circuit of popular-priced vaudeville theaters, there is nothing sad about the lonesome chair.

TOURS WHOLE CIRCUIT.

Being the personal representative of one of the biggest men in vaudeville is no small job. It entails constant travel over the entire curcuit, the straightening out of all sorts of tangles, bearing the brunt of whatever friction may arise with other circuits, caring for contract disputes and in fact all the hundred and one details of theater life which are always behind the scenes as far as the general public is concerned.

There is to be a big conference in the near future, which may have a telling effect on the vaudeville situation. There are rumors of another great vaudeville war such as brought the K. & E. advanced vaudeville into being, and gave birth to the William Morris Circuit, which brought over Harry Lauder.

Worley does not believe that it is going to materialize, however. I had a good-by chat with him while waiting for the train, and he summed up the situation in this way: "The so-called big time does not dare fight, and the rest of us don't want to."

LAUGHS AT WAR.

"Once the bigtime tried to blacklist players but found that by so doing they were losing all their acts. Most of the really good things on the Keith & Beck circuits today came from the lower-priced houses. We are the source of supply. Also, we can make more money for recognized artists. They realize that now, more than ever, which puts us in a position to laugh at the occasional tirades of abuse that are sometimes hurled in our direction."

I asked him, if, in his official capacity of personal representative to Considine, he wished to comment on the latter's withdrawal from the Managers' Association, but Mr. Worley refused to be drawn out. "Those things are formed for the benefit of the many, and when they fail in their purpose, what good are they?" was all he said.

LONG EXPERIENCE.

Those who have only known Deane Worley as he sat, broad and bland, in the capacious chair in the tiny office at the Empress can scarce picture him as a skinny, hustling manager of a tiny theater in the backwoods, where they paid a sack of potatoes or a barrel of apples for a pair of seats, but that is how he was initiated into the show business.

For a long time he never set the world on fire, but one day he stepped into the Stair and Havlin Theater in Tacoma as its manager, and put on these weird 60-40 melodramas we used to love so well. If Deane didn't set the world on fire that time, it wasn't his fault. Certainly the plays did, and it got so hot, and the houses so big, and the name Worley became so synonymous of success that when the loyal legion of fans crowded around him Deane succumbed.

BASEBALL MAGNATE.

Yes, it's a fact, Deane "Wallingford" Worley was once on a time manager of the Tacoma baseball team. He won't say how many times they won a game, but the fact remains that his success on the diamond was so great that when the Sullivan & Considine people began looking for a manager, Deane Worley was garnered into the fold.

No one is better acquainted with the needs and desires of local theatergoers than Worley, and the near future ought to bring about many important changes in the complexion of the vaudeville bills of this city.

And if there is a war—well, they are even now talking about a bigger, better, busier Empress. But oh, where, oh, where will they get a bigger, better, busier manager for it?

Turn o' the Tide.

The tide flows in to the harbor—
The bold tide, the gold tide, the flood of the sunlit sea—
And the little ships riding at anchor
Are swinging and slanting their prows to the ocean, panting
To lift their wings to the wild wide air
And venture a voyage they know not where—
To fly away and be free?

The tide runs out of the harbor—
The slow tide, the low tide, the ebb of the moonlit bay—
And the little ships rocking at anchor
Are rounding and turning their bows to the landward yearning
To breathe the breath of the warm sweet strand
And rest in the sight of the high hill land—
To hold their heaven and stay!

My heart goes round with the vessels—
My wild heart, my child heart, in love with the sea and the land—
And the turn o' the tide passes through it,
In rising and falling with mystical currents, calling
At morn to range where the far waves foam,
At night to a harbor in love's true home,
With the hearts that understand!
—[Henry Van Dyke in the Outlook.

ART AND ARTISTS.

BY ANTONY ANDERSON.

From "Audley Court."

We sauntered home beneath a moon, that just
In crescent, dimly rained about the leaf
Twilights of airy silver, till we reached
The limit of the hills; and as we sank
From rock to rock upon the glooming quay,
The town was hushed beneath us: lower down
The bay was oily calm; the harbor-buoy
With one green sparkle ever and anon
Dipt by itself, and we were glad at heart.
—Tennyson.

Keszthelyi.

In the spacious studio of Helma Heynsen Jahn on Hill street, A. S. Keszthelyi, artist and mechanical inventor, has been living and working quietly since last September, with the promise from Mrs. Jahn that he may stay there till the coming October, and no longer, as then the owner of the studio returns to Los Angeles from her year of study and travel in Europe.

Keszthelyi, however, is not at all anxious to move. He has occupied the studio ever since he came here from Canada, and he likes its glooming spaciousness, which is particularly attractive to a painter of portraits. He has asked several people to build a studio for him, but so far nobody has responded.

Though Keszthelyi's name is Hungarian and he has been in America only eight years, he learned English when a boy in Ungvar, and speaks it remarkably well. His first three American years were spent in Pittsburgh, where he taught in the Carnegie schools and where he opened the first art class, in 1907. Three years were passed in Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Ungvar, where the artist was born, is literally Fort Ung, and the fort that has stood there for a thousand years has now been converted into a school. Every county in Hungary has a capital of its own, and Ungvar is the capital of County Ung. Ungvar and Munkacs have the distinction of being the first cities taken from the Slavs by the Hungarians, momentous events that happened ten centuries ago. Ungvar has another mark of distinction. It has given more famous artists to the world than any other city of its size. It contains only 14,000 people, but no less than eighteen living artists of fame have come from there. The following men from Ungvar, for example, are all winners of gold medals in international exhibitions: Vedres and Samovolysky, sculptors; Margittay, Roskovics, the two Karvaly brothers, painters.

Keszthelyi's father is a mechanical civil engineer, and A. S. once thought he would take up his father's profession. Indeed, he studied it for some time, but finally got switched off into paint. But he holds that every artist should interest himself in a line of study entirely outside his vocation, so he devotes much of his time to mechanics and invention. He and I talked of art the other day, but before long we found ourselves immersed in mechanics. Dare I confess to my constituents that the second part of our dialogue interested me even more than the first?

The artist-inventor has won lasting reputation for his portraits in charcoal. These are done with a delicate distinction and have, besides the charm of a sure technique, the interest of keen and subtle characterization. Though these men and women are mere black and white representations, they are very much alive and decidedly individual. Keszthelyi's portraits in oils are also strong. Since coming to Los Angeles he has painted the portraits of E. P. Clark, W. S. Collins, Mrs. W. S. Collins, Col. W. C. Greene, and others. He has also painted portraits of Premier Scott of Saskatchewan, Mrs. D. C. Cameron, wife of the present lieutenant-governor of Manitoba; Prof. J. A. Brashear, and so on. De-Pachmann and Alfred Tennyson Dickens, son of Charles Dickens, were among his sitters for charcoal portraits.

Keszthelyi has great faith in the artistic future of Los Angeles, and he hopes and expects to remain here where the light is favorable for work every day in the year. "No other city of its size in this country has so many good artists," he declared. "There is not much art atmosphere, however, but that will come in time. Los Angeles is bound to become a center of culture—everything points to that consummation. Then she will come into her own. In all periods art was the interpretation of the higher thought. It is through art handed down to us that we judge the character and height of culture of the people of remoter ages, and distinguish them from the ancient nations who had no art, and whom we call barbarians. It was art, all the time, that manifested inspiration to higher and nobler things, and in accordance with the development of their art we measure the height of a people's intelligence and culture."

"By 'art' you don't mean only painting and sculpture, of course," I suggested.

"I mean all the creative arts—for literature, music, architecture, sculpture and painting are all the products of the same artistic impulse, with simply a different medium of expression. So, if I speak now especially of one of the arts, I want to emphasize the fact that no artist is really worthy of the name unless he can comprehend and appreciate all branches of art; just as a man is not fully a man if his education is too one-sided. In a brilliant man, in an accomplished man, you will find that outside his chosen profession he is interested in other phases of culture. Would you think of dressing one of your limbs more than another? Would you ever think of going out of doors in cold weather with your right or left arm bare and the remainder of your body clad? On the contrary, you'll take good care that your body is completely protected, if possible.

"Well, then! Why should we neglect part of our spiritual desires—paying more attention, for instance, to an art which gives pleasure to the ear than one which gives delight to the eye? Has not creative art—plastic art—just as much importance as musical art? The comparison between such arts as architecture and music is not very hard to draw, because the parallelism is so obvious. A little rap, or the whistling of the wind, or any other slight sound, may give a theme for the creative musician's mind. Instantly his brain assembles tone upon tone; harmony upon harmony; and the scientific construction of a symphony will be executed with just as much precision as an architect, with the same regard for harmony and values, will draw his plan for a building.

"I make this comparison because architecture is scientifically more comparable to music than the other creative arts, not because there is any actually greater difference between sculpture or painting, for example, than the other two. As a matter of fact, sculpture and painting are just as much sciences as music and architecture, and the time is not far off when they will be both treated upon such a scientific basis that the artist will be the master over his knowledge and not science over the artist. Composition is as essential in painting as in music; in both arts you speak of tone, value and harmony. In a word—the fundamental creative power is the same, only the means of expression are different.

"To come down to the essentially practical, art has very materially helped out Italy—as it will some day help out Southern California. Not all our wealth will lie in real estate. Italy's greatest source of revenue, as you know, is the foreign traveling population—the tourists, as we call them. The tourists do not go there merely for the beautiful sky and exquisite climate, both so like those of Southern California. Italy has more foreign visitors than any other country in the world, and we all know why. Art is the magnet that draws them there—art that was the product of the earlier days of the Christian era and of the time of the Renaissance, thanks to the generous pontiffs—and most to the liberal Medicis and Borgias."

"But Italian art is the work of centuries," I protested.

"Granted. But I will show you a more modern rival—Munich, the capital of Bavaria, which was not an art center seventy or eighty years ago. King Louis of Bavaria recognized the necessity of encouraging art, and dipped into his own personal treasury, also inducing the Bavarian government to foster art most generously. What was the result? In a few years Munich became one of the art centers of the world. Students flocked there to pursue their studies, and now hardly a traveler misses seeing Munich. In consequence, the wisely invested capital of that branch of culture has been reaped directly by the people of Bavaria a thousandfold. Other cities have also recognized art as an important factor in their development. The German Kaiser is using his influence to do the same for Berlin as was done for Munich. The Hungarian government is doing likewise for the city of Budapest."

"May the city fathers do the same for Los Angeles," said I.

Notes and Comments.

An exhibition and sale of the water color paintings of Laura M. King, who died recently, is now being held at No. 422 Blanchard Hall, to continue to the end of the month. Miss King was the possessor of a fine and delicate talent, and she painted flowers, landscapes and shore marines with much feeling and charm. Her more recent work came from Laguna Beach and the mission of San Juan. Some beautiful things from both these places are shown. Miss King handled flowers with a poet's interpretation and had a sympathetic appreciation of the loveliness of the wild flowers of Southern California, which she often painted against their particular and appropriate landscape background.

An interesting art event, to take place next Saturday evening at Santa Monica, is the dedication and opening of the new Rosamond Borde gallery in Hotel Windermere. This gallery will permanently house the nature pictures of Mode Wineman in photography, and will be one of the attractive art places of Southern California. A thousand invitations have been sent out, and the affair promises to be socially as well as artistically brilliant.

Next Wednesday afternoon and evening, from 4 to 9 o'clock, the mural decorations that Maynard Dixon has been painting for the home of Mrs. Anita Baldwin McClaughry will be shown at the artist's studio, No. 431 South Hill street.

A new art gallery has just been opened at No. 294 East Colorado street, Pasadena, with paintings by J. Bond Francisco, Helen Balfour, Benjamin Chambers Brown and Hanson Puthuff.

BITS OF VERSE.

Thanks.

Thank God for this bright frailty of life,
The lyric briefness of its reckless spring;
Thank God for all the swift adventuring,
The bold uncertainty, the strengthening strife.
Thank God the world is set to such a tune,
That life is such a proud and crashing wave;
That none but lifeless things shall be time's slave,
Like the long-dead but never-tiring moon;
That godlike passion strangely leaps and runs;
That youth cannot grow old nor beauty stale;
That even death is fragile, and must fail
Before the winds of joy that speed the suns.

Today.

Sure, this world is full of trouble—
I ain't said it ain't.
Lord, I've had enough and double
Reason for complaint.
Rain an' storm have come to fret me,
Skies were often gray;
Thorns an' brambles have beset me
On the road—but, say,
Ain't it fine today!

What's the use of always weepin',
Making trouble last?
What's the use of always keepin'
Thinkin' of the past?
Each must have his tribulation—
Water with his wine;
Life it ain't no celebration,
Trouble, I've had mine—
But today is fine.

It's today that I am livin',
Not a month ago.
Havin', losin', takin', givin',
As time wills it so;
Yesterday a cloud of sorrow,
It may rain—but, say,
Ain't it fine today!

[Christian Herald:] In the Shah-in-Shah's country, far away across the seas in Southern Persia, the astrachan trade has its origin. Before the little lambskins become valuable in the eyes of the fashionable world, all Persia wore hats of real astrachan, but nowadays the genuine skins have become so expensive that only the wealthiest of the people can afford to use them. The poorer classes wear either caps of felt or imitation lambskin hats made of cotton.

It is said that a real lambskin kollah, like the genuine Panama, last more than a lifetime, and descends from father to son, or is the subject of special bequest to some valued relation.

The finest lambskins were formerly obtained from the unborn lamb, by sacrificing both mother and young, for by this cruel and extravagant method the fine curls of the jet-black wool were preserved unopened and the beautiful glossy sheen on the wool was preserved intact.

Wife of the Junior Senator from New Jersey, a Pleasing Combination of the Modern Woman With All the Old-Fashioned Virtues.

BY MARGARET B. DOWNING.

Mrs. Senator Hughes of New Jersey and her daughter.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—An impressive aspect of public life at the present juncture in the history of the republic is the number of men and women now in exalted places who began with little else than high hopes and lofty purposes. None more clearly typify this than the junior Senator from New Jersey and his pleasant, practical wife. In the truest sense they owe their present path through pleasant ways only to themselves, for neither had inherited wealth nor rich and influential friends.

Senator Hughes is another in the long list of men now serving in Congress who has found this country a land of golden opportunities. He was born in Ireland not quite forty years ago, but was brought to New Jersey in his infancy and his parents selected Paterson as their scene of endeavor. The public schools gave "Billy," as the grave and dignified Senator was known in his early days, what education he got from books. But his family was a large one and when a lad not yet in his teens he began to work as a reel boy. Later he got a more remunerative place in the silk mills and at the same time began a course in the night schools. That was his youth, working when it was imperative to aid his struggling parents and when he was compelled to have suitable garments to attend schools and between times digging at his books. He was almost 21 before he attained the dignity of attending a business college, for his ambition soared beyond a good place in the mills. He dreamed of the law, for he came of a race of legal minds "back home." He would make bookkeeping, stenography and typewriting bread-winner while he drudged with "Biles on Bills" and other somber tomes among the legal text-books. Before he was 30 he had mastered the exacting task mistress and he succeeded beyond even his rosy dreams, for when he was gaining an enviable reputation as a stenographer along came the Spanish-American War with its splendid opportunity for the patriotic, the industrious and the trustworthy. But previous to this something equally as momentous had happened. He had met his fate, a summer visitor to Paterson, Miss Margaret Hughes of Wilkesbarre, or Irish parentage like himself, but no relative that he could trace. It was a mutual attraction and when Miss Hughes returned home that autumn there was mutual understanding. But it seemed as though a long engagement was ahead, for the future statesman had not yet completed his law studies and it was tacitly promised that no obstacle should be placed in his way until his shingle proclaiming his readiness to take cases swung to the breezes of Paterson. But then, on the following spring, the Maine tragedy came and things happened.

Senator and Mrs. Hughes have two pretty daughters, one nearing 12 and keenly interested in family history, so they always solemnly deny that they ran away to be married or eloped or had any romantic, silly accessories about their nuptials. The plain, unvarnished truth is that, being of Irish blood, young "Billy" just had to get in the fight and he was one of the very first volunteers and served with the Second New Jersey. He was at first bitterly disappointed when it seemed that his knowledge of bookkeeping and stenography was deemed more useful to his State than his willingness to draw his sword and decapitate every Spanish subject in Cuba. He was made official stenographer to Gov. Voorhees. The New Jersey military headquarters in the active days of June, July and August, 1898, were in that same picturesque resort more recently famous as the summer residence of a President, Seagirt. Miss Margaret Hughes was sympathetic and a constant correspondent and she even consented to spend a few days in Atlantic City so that her soldier lover might have a glimpse of her on his occasional furloughs. Then came the order to report at Jacksonville and the panicky thought of what might happen in that cruel war.

The records say that William Hughes and Margaret Hughes were married July 16, 1898, and the happy anniversary was celebrated with due ceremonial a few days ago. On a furlough for a day the young soldier went to Atlantic City, persuaded Miss Margaret Hughes that as he was going into peril for his country's sake, it was her duty to permit him to give her his name and protection to his betrothed before sailing away. His arguments proved as successful with his lady-love as they have since proved with many a jury. The two were quietly married in Seagirt, he joining his regiment at once and the bride leaving by the next train for her home where she waited patiently until the Second New Jersey was mustered out. In Jacksonville, Lieut. Hughes was confidential secretary to Gen. Fitz-Hugh Lee and the sturdy

John Mason Coming.

After appearing in New York for over a year and a half in his new play by August Thomas, "As a Man Thinks," John Mason will fill a local engagement of one week at the Majestic Theater, beginning Monday night, August 11, opening the regular season at the Broadway playhouse.

With Mr. Mason will come his Thirty-ninth-Street Theater players, seen with this distinguished actor during his remarkable Metropolitan season and the Messrs. Shubert promise every particle of the original scenic and costume display seen in the New York presentation.

Augustus Thomas wrote "As a Man Thinks" especially for Mr. Mason—just as he did "The Witching Hour" and the character of the gentle old Dr. Seelig in "As a Man Thinks" is said to fit the magnetic genius and odd personal traits of Mr. Mason better than any other stage character type he has ever portrayed.

"As a Man Thinks" is in four acts, these depicting scenes associated with New York's smartest social set, but all centered about the love life of two young sweethearts, influenced by the mysterious sympathetic power of an old family physician, in which Mr. Mason appears. Julie Herne, the beautiful and talented daughter of the famous actor-author, James A. Herne, is chief among the feminine support in Mr. Mason's organization.

Majestic.

An amusing enterprise which incorporates all the essential elements of a liberal education is that which exploits "The Undying Story of Captain Scott" and "Animal Life in the Antarctic" as recorded by Herbert G. Ponting, F.R.G.S., official photographer and raconteur of the ill-fated polar expedition, and which will be the attraction at the Majestic Theater for five days, beginning Wednesday afternoon, August 6.

The remarkable nature of these pictures and the finess with which they are shown, make them quite the most imposing ever exhibited. Every scene is graphically illuminated through an intimate lecture, inspired by the expert who took them.

There are soul stirring dramas of human life, thrilling and laughable comedies of the animal kingdom, and exciting adventure, following each other in rapid succession, each vieing with the other for supremacy.

One scene alone will forever perpetuate the life of the animated record of the greatest scientific polar expedition ever organized; it is that which shows the heroic little party in action for the last time, headed for the pole, just twelve degrees distant.

Auditorium.

The Auditorium Theater has presented a number of interesting moving picture films, the Durbar, the Coronation, intensely interesting views of Alaska and our own northern country, and the novelty of pictures accompanied by the noises attendant with the action of the picture, and now they announce a series of three films of the ever interesting dramatic, "Quo Vadis," starting the week of August 4. This exquisitely religious and historical drama pictures with startling and extraordinary dramatic effect, the tragic martyrdom of the early Christians, and the golden profligacy of Rome under Nero and the riot of imperial pomp and a pageantry, with a sublimeness of conception that is the acme of motion photography.

In conjunction with the above will be shown the intensely interesting and instructive production of W. J. Stroud's "Wildest America," depicting scenes in this country seldom witnessed by the average American; phases of wild animal life, the great work that the government is doing in recent years in endeavoring to save the remaining herds of buffalo and elks that were so rapidly diminishing with the advance of civilization.

Lyceum.

Beginning today the Lyceum Theater will hereafter offer at an extremely popular scale of prices, two new programmes each week of first-run motion pictures—the films being shown continuously from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m.

The programmes being changed on Sunday and Thursday, will comprise the pick of the releases of all the big producers who release through the General Film Company, which assures the Lyceum patrons of twice a week having an opportunity of viewing the best of the newest motion picture productions.

Each programme will contain from five to six and many times more, features of 1000 feet or more of film, the subjects ranging from the melodramatic and dramatic to the comedy and educational sort.

The Lyceum Theater is one of the few first-class theaters west of Chicago offering first-run feature films at a scale of prices ranging at the evening exhibitions from 5 to 15 cents, and throughout the morning and afternoon 5 and 10 cents, and still making it possible to buy reserved seats and not be forced to wait on the sidewalk outside.

The reserved seat policy and the splendid films that have been shown at this house has made it exceptionally popular with all lovers of the best in motion pictures.

Clunes.

Two intensely powerful heart interest dramas will be shown on the screens of the two Clune theaters for the first three days of next week, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. These will be shown in connection with high-class programmes of motion pictures, including travel, scientific, drama, comedy and educational topics, and illustrative songs, sung by accomplished vocalists, and a few down-to-date vaudeville turns.

At Clune's Broadway Theater the featured attraction is "A Prince of Evil," in two reels. It is a Vitagraph drama and many of their noted actors take part in the production. It also points a strong moral lesson and the theatergoer will leave Clune's Broadway a better person for having seen this picture.

At Clune's Fifth-street Theater the special feature of the week will be "Honor Thy- Father," a two-reel production, brought to Los Angeles especially for Clune's. It is said to be a remarkable film and should draw big houses at Clune's Fifth-street next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Hamburger's Arrow.

The Arrow Theater shows for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday a strong Reliance, "Maria Roma," the story of an Italian opera singer. While performing, Maria and Lawrence become good friends, to the great jealousy of Capucci, Maria's manager. Seeing her enter the theater on Lawrence's arm, Capucci protests his love. He forces his attention on her until she, frightened and unnerved, refuses to go on that night. Lawrence, in his box, hears the announcement that, owing to a sudden indisposition of the great soprano, there will be no performance that evening.

Worried, he hurries around to Maria's dressing-room, where she tells him the trouble. He wants to go after Capucci, but she refuses to allow this. Putting her cloak about her he insists that she leave the theater with him and be married at once. She consents. After the wedding Maria and her American husband live happy in Naples, until one day she receives a letter from Capucci stating that he will never die until he has found a way to be revenged on her and her husband. To avert this vengeance from her husband, Maria decides to leave him at once.

During Lawrence's absence his wife embarks on a steamer bound for America, where, under an assumed name, she sings in the cheap Italian theaters. Lawrence, finding Capucci's note, realizes why Maria left him. His detectives trace her to America, and in the hope of finding his beloved wife there Lawrence returns to his own country. Capucci also goes to America and discovers Maria in the cast of an East Side Carmen company.

Seeing a chance for revenge he goes to the tenor of this organization, who is an old friend of his, and prevails upon him to let him sing his role that night. Lawrence, wandering about the Italian quarters, also happens into the theater. Maria recognizes Capucci when he comes out on the stage, and, seeing the dagger in his hand, realizes that he intends to turn the stage tragedy into a real one.

As he advances toward her, knife in hand, she shrinks away. Lawrence, in a stage box, recognizes Maria, and starts forward. Then he sees Capucci and, realizing his wife's danger, jumps over the box rail just in time to grab the Italian's dagger. Maria falls into her husband's arms, and Capucci, in the grasp of two policemen, snatches a knife from the belt of one of the actors, and kills himself.

The "Peddler" and "Love and Courage" are the subjects of a split reel Keystone, which are also on the programme. Both are clever comedies, befitting Keystone quality. "Palmistry," a Gaumont, and "Calamity Anne Takes a Trip," American, are the other two reels.

Mozart.

The travelogues for this week at the Mozart, embrace historical, scenic and educational subjects, all arranged with a view to artistic harmony. One of the special features on the programme will be the Rocky Mountains. The unfolding scenery of these mountains is one of the awe-inspiring sights of the world. The clear, cold air and high altitude brings out in detail the beauty and wonderful scenery plainly. The majesty of the canyon, picturesque drive and a mining district are among the splendid scenes in this film.

A picture that is sure to please is "Ancient Rome." This film will show some of the more important relics and ruins of this city's former greatness, a city which has made some of the most interesting history the world has ever known. One of the scenes which will be long remembered is the historic Constantine arch. Venice, the ancient city on the Adriatic, is a picture worth while. Wonderfully interesting will be the scenes showing the Venetian glass and lace, as well as the hundreds of pigeons of St. Mark's Cathedral.

Another subject of more than passing interest is promised in the views of the Laplanders. A pretty scene in this picture is the thousands of reindeer, grazing on the hillsides. Along with this feature and others named will be scenics giving a glimpse of Paris, Riva, Austria and Korea, besides any number of other surprises.

These delightful little journeys are proving more popular each week.

Tally's Broadway.

Another big two-reel feature will head the new programme at Tally's Broadway Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The "Girl and the Gangster" is the title of the latest Kalem thriller. G. De Luchi, basso cantante, who is a singer of rare ability, will appear for the first time here in a pleasing selection of arias from well known operas.

YIDDISH ACTOR'S FAREWELL.

Jacob Adler in Two of His Best Plays to Appear Twice at the Auditorium.

Jacob P. Adler, who has done much for the artistic advancement of the Yiddish drama, is to make his last appearance in Los Angeles at the Auditorium Theater on Wednesday and Friday evenings, July 30 and August 1.

Adler holds a unique position in the theatrical world of today. He is unquestionably the largest producer and manager of Yiddish playhouses now before the public. He is the owner of two theaters in New York, one in Philadelphia, and one in Chicago, and has in his employ no less than 300 players.

Jacob Gordon's works are controlled exclusively by Adler, and it is in two of Gordon's most successful plays that he will appear here next Wednesday and Friday evenings, supported by Mme. Sarah Adler, Mme. Mary Epstein, the famous tragedian who is a sister of the well-known Yiddish star, Boris Thomischefsky, Miss Frances Adler and Joseph Schoengold, who came here direct from the National Theater, New York.

Mrs. Adler is herself well established as an actor-manager and in support of her husband is quite a factor in making the productions the important hits that they are. On Wednesday evening the play is "The True Power," and on Friday evening a big production of Gordon's sensational drama, "The Tree of Knowledge" will be offered. This work is said to rank with the author's "Kreutzer Sonata," which in English was as big a success as it was in Russian and Yiddish.

Mme. Bertha Kalish and Blanche Walsh won much success in this play. Gordon wrote for a number of years the most successful plays for the Yiddish stage, both in this country and in Europe. Mme. Bertha Kalish and other famous stars who have since taken up the English-speaking stage, played with and under the management of Jacob P. Adler.

BRIGHT YOUNGSTERS.

Cristabelle Millgate, though only 12 years old, is lady Mayoress of the town of Newport, Eng. Her father is Mayor, and her mother being dead, she performs acceptably the duties of the position on all public occasions. She is undoubtedly the youngest person holding such a position in England.

Carrying a heavy suitcase, Miss Margaret Delmont, 18 years old, of Chicago, arrived in St. Paul, Minn., completing a walk of nearly seventy-four miles, begun at Menominee, Wis. She was picked up by the police in an exhausted condition.

Cleveland's youngest champion gardener is Rhea Lyon, 14, who began gardening at Willard School when she was 6. During the eight years she has received more than 100 prizes in school garden festivals and received, approximately, $300 from the sale of her products.

A 6-year-old boy climbed upon the piano stool in a country home on Parallel road, six miles west of Kansas City, Kan., and thumped the keys while mother did the dusting. Suddenly mother's duster paused in mid-air. The chubby baby fingers were playing clearly the soft, sweet notes of "Suwanee River," playing them as well as a visitor had played the song earlier in the day. That night, over the dinner table, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hosp discussed the wonderful performance of their little son. "He must be a musical genius," they both agreed. In the end they decided to move to Kansas City and give the child a musical education.

Forthcoming.

IMPORTANT MUSIC SEASON PROMISED.

Impresario Behymer Announces 1913-1914 Programme of Musical Events—Stars of International Repute Coming—Echoes from Music Convention—Los Angeles Composed Song for Pine Tree State.

BY HECTOR ALLIOT.

CERTAINLY the year preceeding the great exposition year of 1915 is one that will be long remembered by music lovers in California, but especially in Los Angeles, where all the artists will be heard in at least one recital.

In October we will have Geraldine Farrar, of the Metropolitan, then Emilio de Gogorza, the well-known Spanish baritone; in November the always beloved Schumann-Heink, Mme. Frances Alda with La Forge at the piano, and Guitia Casini, cellist, and Harold Bauer, pianist. In December two pianists of international reputation will visit us, neither one of whom has been here for a number of years, Mme. Bloomfield-Zeisler and Mme. Teresa Carreno, while the "piece de resistance" will without doubt be the concert by Mme. Nellie Melba and Jan Kubelik, December 9; as previously announced this brilliant duo of artists will have in addition on their programme the gifted Edmund Burke, baritone and a pianist-accompanist of merit as well as a flutist for the benefit of the Melba high tones.

After the first of the year we will be visited by the American of whom we may be justly proud, Charles W. Clarke, whose success in the recital world has kept everybody interested for a number of years past. In London and Paris the Clarke recitals are among the best attended of the season. In January also we will have the great Polish pianist, Ignace Paderewski, Josef Hofmann and Wilhelm Bachaus the brilliant piano virtuoso who delighted the music lovers last season in the East by his brilliant technique, fine programmes and the general polish of his art. Kathleen Parlow, the Canadian violinist, will also make her debut to Los Angeles audiences, probably in conjunction with Bachaus.

February will bring to us five varied attractions, Fritz Kreisler, who needs no introduction to this city; John McCormack, in the same class; the Butt-Rumford duo, who made so many friends when heard here last spring; Francis Macmillen, the American violinist, and the incomparable Anna Pavlowa, the Russian danseuse, with an excellent company.

In March the one single musical event will be the return of Jean Gerardy, the Belgian cellist, and Gabriel Ysaye, the Belgian violinist, in joint recital. Of course, the Chicago Opera Company will be with us with Mary Garden, Titta Ruffo and Alessandro Bonci, not to mention an equally brilliant cast.

Elman returns for a single appearance in April—on his way to Australia, while that marvelous ensemble organization, the Flonzaley Quartette, will give a programme of chamber music in May. This will practically close the musical season, surely one of the most brilliant yet given the public by Manager Behymer. The prices of the course tickets will remain the same, and for the benefit of the out-of-town residents a special matinee series will be inaugurated, with the same artists who appear on the evening series and at the same prices.

Echoes from Musical Convention.

While it can be said that our local musicians are not "without honor save in their own country," it is pleasant to find them recognized elsewhere.

At the recent music teachers convention special mention was made of the work of the Brahms Quintette.

Among many flattering comments the statement of Alfred Metzler in the Pacific Coast Musical Review is the best:

"It did not take very long until the observing listener was struck with the unquestionable individuality of the members of the Brahms Quintette. They had selected their programme with unquestionably fine judgment, for it surely seemed to suit their respective artistic temperaments to a nicety. The most attractive characteristic feature of the Brahms Quintette is a spontaneous vivacity of execution and an emphatic uniformity of attack that appeals strongly to everyone fond of throbbing tempi and dash of execution. This exhilarating mode of interpretation was especially noticeable in the Grieg Quartette which was rendered with a singularly happy grasp of its peculiar rhythmic contrasts and its occasional excursions into the Terpsichorean phase of the composer's art. That the Brahms Quintette was also able to interpret more tranquil musical literature was evidenced in its beautiful singing quality manifested in the Andante Cantabile from Mr. Tandler's exceedingly able quartette.

The most impressive part of the Wolf-Ferrari work is surely the piano part. Mr. Grunn here did some of the very best pianistic reading that we have heard in this city. His tone is "liquid" and exceedingly charming. His technic is facile and lacking in disagreeable hitches. He does not permit the piano part to predominate too freely nor does he make the mistake of subduing it unnecessarily. In short, Mr. Grunn is a born pianist who grasps the intricacies of his instrument to such a degree as to present it at its very best advantage. We have never heard a pianist more suited to his surroundings than Mr. Grunn was on this occasion, and the Wolf-Ferrari Quintette gave him an excellent opportunity.

It would hardly be fair to speak of this concert without mentioning Mrs. Selby, the soloist. This exceedingly gifted lady possesses a warm, pleasing mezzo soprano or even alto which she uses with delightful enunciation which is a treat by itself. She seems to grasp the poetic meaning of the lines and she succeeds in imparting their musical value to her audience. We were especially delighted with a song by Mr. Grunn entitled "Life's Meaning" which proved one of the gems of vocal literature heard by us during the last few years.

Mrs. Senator Hughes.

warrior became deeply attached to the future statesman.

After the mustering out of troops, young Hughes went back to his law, his wife proving her mettle by being all that a loving, thrifty and sympathetic companion could be. Mr. Hughes studied with the former Attorney-General, John A. Griggs, and later with John Nelson. He has the unique record of being admitted to the bar less than a year before he was selected to run as Assemblyman, and though defeated in this ambition, in less than two years was elected to Congress. He served one term in the lower house and was then defeated. Since 1908 he has been continuously a member of the popular branch until he was the choice last autumn in the direct primary, and in January the New Jersey Legislature declared him elected to succeed Senator John Kean. He has been practicing before the New Jersey bar a little more than twelve years and he has attained the highest of political honors, saving alone that of Governor.

It is to be expected that the wife of such an energetic go-ahead and get-there sort of man should be the exceptional woman. Mrs. Hughes, of course, modestly disclaims responsibility for the brilliant and rapid success of her husband, but she is intensely proud of it and makes no secret of her unbounded confidence in everything which he advocates. Senator Hughes has from his boyhood been intimately associated with labor organizations, and with every manner of reform associated with organized work. That Mrs. Hughes should be sympathetic and in some cases an active laborer goes without saying.

"I am a member of the State of New Jersey Suffrage Society," said Mrs. Hughes, "and took an active part in organizing a local branch in my home city, Paterson. I believe in woman's responsibility and I think a good way to learn to meet the grave issues of life is by means of the ballot. I do not expect the millenium when women vote, but I do expect that they will take broader views of life and endeavor to correct some evils which are principally due to thoughtlessness. It is sound philosophy which tells that every one is responsible for the results of her actions and not her intention in doing them. Many kind hearted women have no desire to inflict injustice on other women, but they certainly do so when they buy garments made under unsanitary conditions and for wages which mean starvation. All this agitation about giving the vote to women has resulted in placing before them some excellent things for them to know, about working women and their families, about the results of certain kinds of work on the health and general condition. Take a certain kind of match for instance, that is lighted with least trouble, known commercially as the phosphorous kind. In the making of it, men go blind, get what is familiarly known as the phossy jaw, get many awful and incurable diseases. Do you suppose for one minute that any woman worthy the name would take in consideration that this match was more convenient than one which is made with no such tribute in blood and brains? Rather would she go back to kindling a light with tinder or in the primitive way of knocking two stones together. The thing is to let her know what certain so-called modern improvements really mean. If the suffrage agitation does nothing more than bring home such truths, it is worth while, but I think it will accomplish much more and just as worthy things for the home and for the country.

"I believe in the home and motherhood being woman's highest mission, but taking an intelligent interest in the broad issues of life does not interfere with this any more than it makes a man less affectionate and considerate at home because he gives clean politics a certain part of his time. Every woman should study politics where it relates to what concerns her and organized as society is now, every phase of politics does concern her home. I believe when women have a voice in law-making, we shall have more equitable laws for all, that is laws which dig down beyond the surface and really provide for the community, young, old and middle-aged alike, for rich and poor for the struggling as well as for the ones who control the vast enterprises."

Though resident in Washington for nearly ten years, Mrs. Hughes has never been socially conspicuous except where something of moment was concerned. She has lived in a small hotel near the Capitol, The Driscoll, the favorite domicile of many other women in official life who find greater joy in serious pursuits than in the senseless round of pleasure. Here has lived William Bauchop Wilson and his charming young daughter, Miss Agnes Wilson, so truly honored by all the labor organizations of the country, and here also one will find Representative Henry J. Rainey of Illinois, and his wife; and they are connected with every up-lifting movement which comes before the public. These made a congenial little group and spent their days devising measures which—figure more largely as home benefactions than in a mere social sense.

There are two daughters in the family, Miss Phyllis, who is almost 13, and Ruth, who is less than 4. A prettier little family is not to be found in Washington and it is Mrs. Hughes's pride that she has personally reared her daughters, giving them every attention and abstaining as far as possible from the intervention of nurses. Miss Phyllis is attending a near-by school, but little Ruth is learning all that the usual kindergarten teacher gives from her mother. Of graceful presence and charming poise, Mrs. Hughes seems at her best in her own rooms reading or playing with her children.

Senator and Mrs. Hughes are among the younger members of the Senatorial set. They have taken their ascent very coolly nor have they changed their mode of life in the least. Mrs. Hughes may, however, join the householders next winter in order better to meet the demands of her husband's resources by good food cooked the way he relishes it best. Both her children are of the age when hotels are not the best environment, and so she has joined the growing army of those searching the highways and byways of the Capital for a home to be leased without incurring danger of financial smash-up. Mrs. Hughes remained here until the end of June, where her children demanded imperative tonic from the growing heat. Atlantic City is always a favorite place since that memorable visit in July of '93, and she has been spending some time there and the Senator has been going down for the week-end and whenever he could spare the time.

Owing to the great size of his head a new crown is being made for King Constantine of Greece. The royal head, it is asserted, is the biggest known in the world since the early part of the middle ages, when King Robert of Sicily made a world's record in the circumference of crowns.

Temperamental Insurance.

London Lloyd Insurance Company is known the world over as a corporation that will insure anything from a ship to a pianist's finger.

Summer Foods As Cause of Dyspepsia

Many Also Get Diarrhoea—What to Do in Either Case.

Summer ought to be the months of most perfect health, but owing to contaminated water and milk, unripe fruit, germs and insects the average of health is not good at this time of the year. There is much skin trouble from acid fruits, and much dyspepsia and diarrhoea from cold foods and iced beverages.

The skin trouble is easily stopped by discontinuing fruit for a few days, and by the use of a mild laxative to clean the bowels and tone the blood. The dyspepsia is likewise corrected by the use of a laxative that has combined with it the elements of a digestive tonic. Hence the best remedy to use is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which, as its name indicates, is a pleasant laxative combined with the virtues of pepsin, which we all know is the best cure for indigestion.

Use Syrup Pepsin also for summer diarrhoea. Avoid astringents, physics and cathartics, as they are unnecessarily harsh. Thousands of good American families prefer Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, among them those of Mrs. W. A. Taylor, Beloit, Wis., who finds she can give it to her baby without causing cramps or pains, and Mrs. Wm. O. Richter, Clayville, Va., who considers it a laxative tonic absolutely unexcelled. They know of no pleasanter cure for constipation, liver trouble, indigestion, summer diarrhoea, etc. It is valuable to all the family from infancy to old age. Children like its taste. All druggists sell it at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, the latter being the family size.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it, postpaid, by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 418 Washington Street, Monticello, Ill.

MEN AND EVENTS.

For two years Edward Dormer has worked faithfully as a garbage collector and has a good record. Denver officials in the sanitary department who employed him did not know that he was blind until recently.

A party of Ellsworth (Me.) fishermen, including C. H. Leland, J. P. Eldridge, C. W. Hopkins, Perry Langley and Edward Downey, were surprised during an automobile ride to Dublois to see a large bull moose step out into the road in front of the machine. The automobile gave chase, at times registering twenty-five miles an hour, but the moose easily kept ahead for three or four miles before taking to the woods.

Said to be the only living member of the little band of thirteen men who captured Jefferson Davis, Casper Knobel lives in Philadelphia, and though at an advanced age, is still hale, with an intellect undimmed by the years. During the war he was a member of the Fourth Michigan Cavalry.

A ribbon fish, the first caught off the Jersey coast since 1830, when Beeseleys Point was a rendezvous for naturalists, has been caught by William B. Davis of Ocean City, N. J. The fish measures four feet in length.

George Yardley has completed forty years' service as flagman in charge of a level crossing on the Great Eastern Railway at Lowestoft, Eng. No accident has ever been recorded against him and he has never been absent from duty owing to illness.

Charles Page of Tulsa, Okla., has adopted 300 children and hopes to increase the number to 1000 before he dies. He selects children from poor homes in the city, gives them work in spare hours and promises every child who completes the course in the free schools which he conducts at his home a college education in any college it may choose.

Notwithstanding he has been a resident of Pana, Ill., twenty-seven years, it was not made pulic until recently aht Pana has for a resident one of the most noted war veterans of the Republic of France. This veteran is Julius Usquin, 79 years old. His record became known as the result of his receipt of a beautiful bronze medal from the Republic of France, as a testimonial of the appreciation of his services in the Franco-Prussian war of 1870-1871. The medal was sent to reach Mr. Usquin on the anniversary of the national independence of France, but a delay in the steamer prevented its arrival.

Mr. Usquin served in the Crimean war of 1855 and assisted in reducing the City of Sebastopol during the memorable campaign. For this service he today wears a silver medal awarded him by Queen Victoria, and which bears her profile. He also wears a gold medal awarded him by the French government for special valor and bravery. A fourth medal is of silver and was presented by the King of Italy for his services with the French army in behalf of Italy during the war between Austria and Italy. He served a total of seven years in the French army and was never wounded and never taken prisoner.

SUFFRAGETTE ANNOYANCE.

nsiderable annoyance has been d this season in London among t set mothers anxious to see daughters well married by the form of suffragist activity, owes its origin to the Spiritual cy League.

marriage service of the British ican Church is the subject se- ed for attack and the plan of aign adopted certainly does not daring. The league has issued ifesto, written in very plain lan- on the "moral indignities" im- on the woman by the service, not content with sending it to clergyman of the established has gone a step farther. No sooner is an announcement made in the social columns of the newspapers that "an engagement has been arranged," that a copy of this manifesto is sent to the prospective bride and bridegroom.

Many society girls, bored with the social round, have turned to the suffragist movement, especially in its more extreme stages, as a new form of excitement. It is therefore quite easy to imagine the effect of the manifesto on their matrimonial arrangements, especially where the marriage arranged is purely and solely one of convenience. Several matches have been broken off this season for this and other advanced Feminist reasons.

PRINCESS GOES SWIMMING.

It is not generally known that Princess Mary, King George's daughter, is a first-class swimmer.

The other day at the London Bath Club she took part in the contest for the Ladies' Challenge Shield—fifty yards breast stroke, floating, diving and ornamental swimming—and though she did not finish among the first three she proved that she is a graceful and accomplished swimmer.

"The open-air Princess," as she has been called, certainly deserves her name; young as she is, she can already hold her own in most sports. She is a frequent visitor to the Bath Club, of which, with the Prince of Wales, she has been a member for the last five years.

SHAM JEWELRY AS PRESENTS.

One of the most popular adornments of the moment is sham jewelry. Women with heirlooms in their safes have almost as much pleasure in wearing imitations as if they were, like their own pearls, worth a king's ransom. But, of course, these substitutes are totally different from the sham ornaments of the past. They are beautifully made and the stones flash so gaily that detection is almost impossible.

Men have been known to give gorgeous shams to their fiancees, and the recipients have not thought the worse of them for doing so. At recent weddings some highly effective necklaces were charming shams, and there was no secret whatever about them.

By the way, the latest craze in Paris usually finds its way to London and New York, but for the sake of our women folks it is hoped the fad of keeping the watch on the toecap does not. I am told that in view of the minimum of dress now affected by smart Parisien women there is no possibility of even a watch-pocket, so the ingenious idea of having the watch fixed on the toe of the shoe has obtained.

Nevertheless, all the changes that are taking place every day in dainty footgear are eloquent of the originality of the moment. In fact, the dressing-up of the foot has become a most interesting performance.

"The latest cry is that you must plant a small rose at the instep. It may be pink or gold, and in its beautiful heart it may have real seeds or diamond ones. The lady's maid must be capable of making shoes. For it is a bit of old-time brocade or a piece of the cloth-of-gold of the tea-gown which is constantly employed for the footgear of women who are of the elect.

IS ENGLAND LESS MORAL?

Churches Are Only Half Filled and Clergymen Comment on Apparent Religious Apathy.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, July 26. — [Exclusive Dispatch.] "Is England becoming less moral?" This question is now being seriously discussed in Great Britain, and there have been found quite a large number of public men and women ready to come forward and assert that there is no fixed and infallible standard of right and wrong here, and that it is practically impossible to be certain when anybody is doing right or wrong in morals.

If the state of the churches of this country be any criterion, there is this fact to face. Most of them are now only half filled. This has stung Bishop Welldon, who is a dean of the great manufacturing city of Manchester, to utter a very outspoken indictment on the way in which English people at present are drifting away from the old moral standards and ideals.

"There is not now, as there once was," he declares, "any sense of absolute authority in morals. Modern criticism has set the Bible in a less cogent relation to human lives; the moral law which the church has inculated, in marriage especially, is challeneged on all hands. It is the fashion to regard all such questions as open. I am amazed at the levity with which men are prepared to undertake the supremely difficult task of building morality anew from its foundations. Utilitarianism, even if it is an adequate motive of moral conduct in an enlightened and disinterested society, can never speak to the conscience with the same commanding voice as revelation.

"I notice then that not only are the moral standards and principles of the past called in question, but that the sense of law itself is waning in the community. It is easy to pass laws and inscribe them in the statute book; but behind all law, if it is to be imperative, lies the moral sanction which alone invests law with dignity and permanency. It is an ominous feature of the times that such widely different sections of the people as the ritualists, the passive resisters, the suffragettes, and the Ulstermen should unite in repudiating allegiance to law, whether actual or perspective.

"At such a time, any gerrymandering of the Constitution, any precipitancy of legislation, any violation of the mutual understanding which has made one political party acquiesce, however reluctantly, in the acts passed by the other, is a serious peril to the stability of the nation."

And the Rev. F. B. Meyer, the veteran leader of British Nonconformists, points out: "The code of morality on which modern civilization, i.e., the civilization of the foremost races of the world, is built up, is monogamous—one man for one woman. Our power as a nation is due to the integrity and purity of our home life, which is built on that principle. As Christians we believe that that principle has the highest sanctions, but we are prepared to argue for it on lower grounds. It is the emergence of the loftiest conception of self-control, in sexual matters, because it has shown itself to be the strongest, and fittest, and most capable of all the methods that have one after another presented themselves to humanity for acceptance.

"It is therefore not only essentially divine but absolutely human. And it would be a blunder and crime to return to a lower code which has been discarded as a working basis for human society."

George Yule, president of the Bain Wagon Company, has probably the most unique record of any man in a responsible position with any big manufacturing concern in the country. Yule has rounded out his seventy-first year in the employ of the Bain Wagon Company. Although nearly 89 years of age, President Yule has no intention of retiring from active work at the head of the company.

Health and Beauty Answers

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN

Ada: The unlovely condition of your skin is due to the powder and the greasy cream you use. Make up and use this dainty lotion and your complexion will be the envy of your friends. Dissolve 4 ounces spurmax in either ½ pint hot water or witch hazel, and add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. This delightful lotion dries quickly after being applied and gives to the skin an exquisite tint and velvety smoothness. The spurmax lotion cannot be detected when on and will make rough, oily, "muddy" skins smooth and clear. Use it for freckles, tan and sunburn.

Myrtle: That unwelcome fuzz on your cheek will vanish after one application of a delatone paste, made by mixing enough delatone and water to cover the hairs not wanted. After it is on 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be smooth and hairless. This method is unfailing, but be sure to get delatone.

Mrs. Geo.: You can have pretty eyebrows and lashes by rubbing a little pyroxin on eyebrows nightly, and for short, straight lashes, apply pyroxin at lash-roots with thumb and forefinger. This treatment will give you thick, glossy eyebrows and long, curly lashes. Be careful and don't get any pyroxin where no hair is wanted.

Margie: From what you say, I believe your weakness and languor are traceable to your anaemic condition. Make up and use this old-fashioned cleanser and tonic and your health and strength will soon return: Dissolve 1 ounce kardene in ½ pint alcohol (never use whisky,) then add ½ cupful sugar and hot water to make a quart and take of this 1 tablesponful three times a day. This rids the blood of poisonous accumulations, builds up worn tissues and fortifies the body against disease. The kardene tonic is especially good for banishing pimples, blotches, "muddiness" and other complexion blemishes, and after a regular course of this treatment your skin will be clear and soft.

Lydia: You hardly need to consult an oculist. Try this simple home-remedy: In 1 pint clear water dissolve 1 ounce crystos, then put a few drops in each eye twice daily. This will reduce inflammation and take out the soreness. If after this is done, your vision still remains blurred, you, of course, will require glasses. The crystos eye-tonic is excellent for granulated eyelids and weak, watery eyes.

Miss G.: The cause of your hair being streaky and unmanageable no doubt is the use of soap or some other harmful thing for shampooing. Cleanse your scalp and hair with a solution of canthrox. Just dissolve a teaspoonful of it in a cup of hot water and you will have ample mixture. This creates an abundance of white, thick lather that dissolves every atom of dust, dandruff and excess oil, and rinsing leaves the hair and scalp wonderfully clean. After a canthrox shampoo the head feels good and the hair dries quickly without streaking and is soft, fluffy and easy to do up.

Alma: You can soon get rid of that burdensome fat if you take the parnotis treatment, made by dissolving 4 ounces parnotis in 1½ pints hot water. Strain when cool and take 1 tablespoonful before each meal. This parnotis treatment is entirely harmless and reduces the weight without resorting to dieting or tiresome exercises.

Frankie: You can cure your hair troubles. Use a plain quinzoin hair-tonic and you will soon restore your hair to its former rich color and soft fluffiness. To make the tonic add 1 ounce quinzoin to ½ pint alcohol, then ½ pint water. Applied regularly, this quinzoin tonic banishes the dry and scaly or excessive oily condition and when your scalp and hair-roots are healthy and vigorous a bountiful growth of beautiful hair is sure to result.

Rose: You can quickly remove wrinkles and keep the face velvety and smooth at very little cost by making at home and using regularly this greaseless vegetable jelly-cream, which does not grow hair. Get from your druggist 1 ounce almozoin and dissolve it in ½ pint of cold water or witch hazel, adding 2 teaspoonfuls of glycerine. Stir and let stand one day. Apply to wrinkled surface and leave through night, then wash off and use more of the cream as a massage. This treatment will remove and prevent the most obstinate wrinkles or finest crow's feet, while softening the skin to a velvety texture.

A DEBUTANTE'S LETTER.

BALBOA, July 27.

Dear Old Tubby: It is perfectly lovely to hear that you are in town and, of course, you must come down here at once. How soon can we expect you? Pater says you are fatter than ever, but we don't believe it. Hope it is true, all the same, for we cannot possibly have too much of you.

Lots of friends of yours here. The Bullas have built such a jolly place on the sea front and opened up with a house party last week. The Senator, still a widower, wears a perpetual smile, tempered with care, and dotes on the girls, upon whom Mrs. Welfare continue to keep a chaperonical eye.

Such a neat arrangement for another widower, S. Melvin Butler, whose progeny are all boys, has built next door! They, too, start hospitality operations this week and things begin to look very promising.

Then there is a haughty English family with patrician noses and a sacred past that has rented a large place here—two lofty maidens of unimpeachable pedigree and irreproachable manners, and a perfect duck of a son who talks American slang in unctuous slabs with the voice of a cultured princeling. Has made a dead set for me and makes love beautifully. The mother is a dainty, fragile bit of superb dignity and the father looks like a duke at least, but only claims a plain "Mr."

And don't they just know how to entertain, that's all! Little Mrs. B. introduced them here and we think them the jolliest thing that has happened for ages. The mater has taken the duke under her wing and I heard her coaching him on the subject of bugs. It appears they only have one kind of bug in England and that is not admitted as a subject of conversation in polite society. A forbidden word, in fact. So when the duke was asked to close the screen door last night, to keep the bugs out, the poor dear nearly fainted. The duchess shuddered visibly and the girls wore a tortured look as though an unapproachable pin was taking a mean advantage. The son, who really is bright, grasped the situation and acted as interpreter. It appears they are "insects," dear boy; never, never bugs.

The bathing is so good here (the lofty daughters wear white-serge suits with queenly deportment) and we have the jolliest parties. Yesterday afternoon we commandeered the pavilion all to ourselves and danced every kind of dance we had ever heard of. Edythe did her Pavlova stunt, and the English boy cried "Bravo, first rate, by Jove, you know, how corking."

Hope you enjoyed the affair at the San Gabriel Country Club last night. The pater thought we might go up for it, but somehow that billboard-cum-advertisement invitation put us off. Fancy a decent club issuing a thing like that! Can't think who was responsible for such poor taste.

It reminded us irresistibly of a "free-barbecue-to-open-up-on-new-subdivision" idea. Altogether too primitive—but I suppose that sort of thing does really appeal to some people. You must tell us who was there. You went in the Hickox party, I suppose.

We are aching to hear about the Governor's garden party up at Victoria. So Bootie cut quite a dash, did she? No wonder they have delayed their return home until August. It all sounds sublimely aristocratic. I'm sure our English family here will know Bootie's Governor and his wife. They seem to have relations in important posts all over the British empire.

That little Mrs. W. is down here, too. You remember her. Rather piquant type. Her sister-in-law married Admiral May's eldest son in Canada last year. They say she has just come into $10,000 a year, left her by an old lover, whom she jilted when she married W. seven years ago. Corinne, who can't resist spicy remarks, said it was doubtless gratitude. Mrs. W. heard her and went up to her. "Corinne, dear child, leave off sacrificing your friends to your wit," she said with the softest kind of smile—and I think poor Corinne would gladly have cut her tongue out.

All the same, little Mrs. W. is something of a mystery. Wears a pensive air, but can and does look quite distractingly roguish in flashes. They say she simply adored her husband and continues to quote him on every possible occasion. Yet she seems to have a fatal attraction for all the nicest men and none of us feel secure when she is in the vicinity of our best boys.

Oh, yes, Tubby dear, and talking of best boys, I have some thrilling confidences to pour into your dear old sympathetic ears. I'm getting so experienced. You remember you always told me to get all the legitimate experience I could—to "have my adventures, but stop at half-way house." Very well, I am. You are such a dear old thing. I always feel as if you are playing Mr. Carter to my Dolly in the "Dolly Dialogue." I've missed you horribly all these months and think you might have written oftener.

Oh, by the way, the duchess is a suffragette! It simply staggered the mater to hear that refined, stately, cultivated little creature assure us that she absolutely sympathized with the whole militant movement. The duke hems and haws a bit and, prefaces most of his remarks with, "will you allow me to make myself clear on the subject . . . ? But he really is not such an old bore as that would indicate.

Tubby dear, it isn't true that you are wearing a bow at the back, is it? The pater says you were resplendent in a new Panama with the bow very pronouncedly in the rear. Now, Tubby dear, men cannot afford to be foolish like that. We women are so very clever that we instinctively handicap ourselves every way so as to give the men a sporting chance. We can afford to look a little foolish, but men cannot. Please have the bow restored to its traditional position or leave that hat behind.

We all send our love and look forward to seeing you.

Your irrepressible TRIXIE.

Accompanied only by two Indian guides, Miss Mary L. Jobe, professor of history in the Normal College of New York City, has started from Prince Rupert on a long trip into the unexplored wilds of Northern British Columbia and Southeastern Alaska. Miss Jobe is the veteran of several explorations into the Selkirk Mountains, and says the purpose of her present trip is largely ethnological: that she expects to make a study of the traditions, ceremonies, habits and language of the Athabascan or "Carrier" tribe of Indians along the Skeena and Peace rivers. The only knowledge of this tribe has been brought by trappers from the Hudson Bay trading posts. She will be ten weeks away from civilization, and expects to discover some tribes that have never been seen by a white man.

The affair was a delightful success, and it came as a surprise to discover so many charming society debutantes still in town.

Have Returned.

Col. and Mrs. Freeman G. Teed who have been away for three months are once more at their home, No. 1315 West Forty-first place.

Home Wedding.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Woodford, No. 2501 West Jefferson street, was the scene of an interesting wedding last Tuesday evening, when their daughter, Miss Mildred Woodford, became the bride of Elfred Leroy Wright, Dr. W. G. Mills of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, performing the ceremony at 8 o'clock, in the large living-room before an improvised altar of pink hydrangeas.

The bride, gowned in a white brocaded charmeuse with trimmings of chiffon and pearls and carrying a shower bouquet of white carnations, was atended by Miss Sabra Ballinger as bridesmaid. She wore a pale pink charmeuse and carried an arm bouquet of enchantress carnations. Harry George stood with the groom. The home had been turned into a bower by the use of pink and white California blossoms, and about forty guests were included. The young couple left for Catalina on their honeymoon, and will make their home in this city upon their return.

At Matilija Hot Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Grinnell, No. 1129 Harvard boulevard, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Trombarr, No. 1951 Norwood street, are passing their vacation at Matilija Hot Springs.

Dr. and Mrs. R. B. Diamond, who came to Los Angeles recently from Hot Springs, Ark., have as their house guest at the Bryson Mrs. Albrecht, mother of Mrs. Diamond. She arrived just a few days ago and will remain over the summer season, and possibly permanently. Mrs. Diamond entertained at a bridge party for her and had about twenty invited guests at the affair.

Informal Bridge Luncheon.

Delightfully informal was the bridge luncheon given Friday by Mrs. Fred Hudson at her home on Occidental boulevard. The long banquet table was covered with lace dollies, and centered by a brass basket filled with marigolds and Shasta daisies. Following luncheon card tables were arranged in the conservatory for the games of auction. Included were Mrs. E. T. Beta, Mrs. Waggenheim, Mrs. Milton Hesselberger, Mrs. Harry J. Pieper, Mrs. Murray J. Page, Mrs. B. J. Coakley of Boston, Mrs. Robert Hardy, Mrs. Norman F. Marsh, Mrs. Jessie Cairns Shoebottom and Mrs. William Henry Mott.

To Salt Lake.

Mrs. J. C. Armstrong and daughter, who have been making their home at the Bryson for several months past, left during the week for Salt Lake, their former residence place. They are only going to visit friends and will return here in a few weeks to make Los Angeles their permanent home.

At Balboa.

Balboa Beach has been the scene of several home parties this week. Two large new homes have been opened up and duly given the hospitable baptism. Senator Bulla's beautiful house on the ocean front was finally ready for occupancy last week, and the Misses Vivian and Lois Bulla, with Mrs. Elmer Wellfare, their aunt, lost no time in entertaining a large party of guests, chiefly relatives.

Next door to them S. Melvin Butler's house is just completed. He and his four sons also propose to do much entertaining this summer and interesting preparations are afoot. A womanless household with a Chinese cook as sole mentor, hospitality may be confidently expected to take an interesting and novel turn.

Mrs. Alma Whitaker has also been hostess at a sort of continuous nouse party all this week. Her guests included Mr. and Mrs. Ogilvy Wood of Alhambra, Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Foster of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. W. Swift Daniels and Miss Margaaet Daniels, H. N. H. Woodcock, S. Melvin Butte, Capt. S. At a signal from the hostess the telegrams were opened announcing the engagement of Miss Lela Eli to Graham Elmore, the wedding date announced as August 16, 1913. To Overcome Sunburn, Tan, Freckles, Wrinkles
(From Outdoor Life.)

If you are freckled, tanned or sunburnt, dab a liberal amount of mercolized wax on the face and allow it to remain over night. When you wash off the wax in the morning, fine, flaky, almost invisible particles of cuticle come with it. Repeating this daily, the entire outer skin is absorbed, but so gradually, there's not the slightest hurt or inconvenience. Even the stubbornest freckles yield to this treatment. The underlying skin which forms the new complexion is so fresh and youthful-looking you'll marvel at the transformation. It's the only thing I know to actually discard an aged, faded, muddy or blotchy compelxion. It is fine for a discolored neck. One ounce of mercolized wax, procurable at any drug store, is sufficient in most cases.

If sun and wind make you squint and frown, you're bound to cultivate wrinkles and crowsfeet. To overcome these quickly, bathe the face in a solution made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel.—[Advertisement.

Coming Event.

Honoring her daughter, Miss Sarah Goldberg, whose engagement was recently announced to Isadore O. Assisting ladies will be Mrs. Myer Abrahams and Mrs. Paul Jacobs, daughters of the hostess, Mrs. Samuel Hersh, Miss Gabrielle Rueff, Miss Gertrude Goldberg and Miss Laura Harris. A pleasant feature of the entertainment will be a musical programme.

Wedding Date Announced.

Miss Gladys Allen, No. 1619 West Twenty-second street, entertained with a series of affairs this week. The first of the parties was given Tuesday and honored Mrs. Paul Drennon Dodds, a recent bride, formerly Miss Delight Stevens. Five hundred was the pleasure provided by the hostess and prizes were won by Miss Black and Miss McGuire. Members of the Theta Sigma Mu Sorority were the invited guests and included Miss Ismar Black, Miss Nelle Rogers, Miss Gladys Wilhelm, Miss Myrtle Bailey, Miss Mary McGuire, Miss Dorothy Bailey, Miss Grace Rogers, Miss Gertrude McClellan, Miss Lucretia del Valle, Miss Smith, Miss Miller and Miss Allen.

The second of the series was given Wednesday and the honor guest was Miss Florence Nelson, who will wed Carl Knopf in August. The early part of the afternoon was passed in hemming napkins for the bride-to-be, after which refreshments were served. Miss Nelson was then presented with a rain barrel filled with gifts caught in a miscellaneous shower.

At both affairs the date of the wedding of the hostess was told by little yellow birds perched on the punch glasses, holding tiny envelopes in their beaks, in which was a card announcing her wedding to Stuart Dodds Sanson, October 1, at Grand Isle, Vt., where the groom-to-be has business interests. Mr. Sanson is a graduate of the Amherst Agricultural College and a member of the Kappa Sigma Fraternity. All the appointments for the affairs were carried out in white and yellow, even to the refreshments, a profusion of Shasta daisies and coreopsis arranged in baskets and vases adorning the home.

FACE DISFIGURED WITH ERUPTION

Spread Over Entire Face. Itched and Burned Terribly. Heavy White Crust. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Made Complete Cure.

810 East Elm St., Streator, Ill.—"A running sore broke out above my right eye, which spread over my entire face. It started as a small pimple. I scratched it open and the contents of this small pimple ran down my face. Wherever this ran a new sore appeared. They itched and burned terribly; I couldn't touch my face it burned so. It disfigured my face terribly and I couldn't be seen for everyone was afraid of it. It looked like a disease of some kind; it was all red and a heavy white crust on it. Everybody kept out of my way, afraid it would spread. I lost rest at night and I couldn't bear to have anything touch my face, not even the pillow. I had to lie on the back of the head. I was always glad when morning came so I could get up. It was extremely painful.

"I used ——— salve with small results. At last I thought of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I commenced using them. I used the sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, one twenty-five-cent cake of Cuticura Soap and a half box of the fifty-cent size of Cuticura Ointment. It took three weeks to complete the cure." You know that when you drink Puritas, you are absolutely safe as to its purity—it is thoroughly distilled by the most modern, sanitary methods.

Then, too, you'll like the palatable taste of Puritas—that refreshing, satisfying taste is due to Puritas having been aerated with pure ozone.

Moreover, PURITAS quenches thirst as no ordinary water will.

Isn't PURITAS the water you want your family to drink? Are you willing to run the risk of their catching some infection from impure drinking water—of their getting rheumatism or kidney ailments from taking into their bodies mineral substances with which the ordinary water abounds?

You know, also, that Puritas is inexpensive—costs but a trifle—forty cents for a five-gallon demijohn, delivered anywhere within the old city boundary lines. A little more to outside points because of the longer haul.

For your Health's sake, for your Comfort's sake step to the telephone and order Puritas Distilled Water.

South Pasadena.

SOUTH PASADENA is furnishing its share of people flocking to the mountains and beaches. Many of the residents, on the contrary, find it a comfortable place in which to reside, even during the hottest weather, and they are content to remain at home. Most of the affairs given during the week were informal in nature and arranged on the spur of the moment.

A delight of the week was the neighborhood party given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Alonzo B. Cass, in the beautiful garden of her home, Fair Oaks avenue and Oak street. It was informal in nature and the guests pleased themselves as to the matter of entertainment. Cards, needlework and pleasant conversation employed the afternoon, and delicious refreshments were served.

Among the guests included were Mrs. H. W. Westlake, Mrs. David Vail, Miss Marie Crow, Mrs. Ernest V. Sutton, Mrs. Mary Stringfellow, Mrs. William Boothby Stringfellow, Mrs. George Patterson, Mrs. Lionel Redpath, Miss Maud Turner, Mrs. Norman F. Marsh, Mrs. Jessie Cairns Shoebottom, Mrs. Rebecca Cairns, Mrs. T. W. Bishop, Mrs. Thomas Sanson, Mrs. Otis Byers Manchester and Mrs. Guy Crump.

Mrs. Mary Anderson Warner of New York City, who has been the guest of her son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Warner, for a month, has returned to her home, via San Francisco. Upon reaching New York she will sail for Europe August 2.

The setting of a green lawn and a canopy of trees with the blue sky peeping through formed a summer idea for an outdoor luncheon that members of the Tuesday Afternoon Luncheon and Bridge Club gave at the home of Mrs. George Patterson, No. 1707 Oak street, honoring their first president, Miss Bertha Moore, who has just returned from Brooklyn, where she has been taking a two years' course in the Pratt Institute. All the guests were seated at one long table under a large oak tree, which was centered by baskets filled with California fruit. After luncheon Miss Moore told of her work and experiences in the eastern metropolis.

Members present were Mrs. Norman Marsh, Mrs. Frederick Warner, Mrs. B. F. Huntington, Mrs. Howard Kelly, Mrs. W. D. Newerf, Mrs. Mary Stringfellow, Mrs. George Patterson, Mrs. T. W. Bishop, Mrs. Robert Hardy, Mrs. George C. Bush, Mrs. Roy Hunger, Mrs. Otto Kuencer, Mrs. C. J. Balfour, Mrs. Jessie Cairns Shoebottom and Mrs. Raymond Moore of El Centro.

Mrs. P. B. Speers, No. 1966 Milan avenue, has returned from a visit to her daughter in Fresno. Another daughter, Mrs. L. R. Robertson, and little son, Garnett, who was the house guest of her mother and accompanied her to Fresno, has returned to her home in San Francisco.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Cope, No. 1130 Diamond avenue, was the scene Tuesday evening of an interesting wedding, when their daughter, Miss Myrtle E. Cope, became the bride of Dr. Herman E. Beckwith, also of this city. The ceremony at 8 o'clock was performed in the large living-room under a bower of roses and ferns by Rev. Robert Maynard Beckwith of Burbank, a brother of the groom, assisted by Rev. George Carol King, pastor of the local Methodist Church. The bride, who entered on the arm of her father, was attired in a white crepe meteor with trimmings of Brussels lace, and she carried a bridal shower of lily of the valley. Miss Minnie Cope, sister of the bride, attended as maid of honor, while a brother of the bride, Clarence Cope, stood with the groom. The "Lohengrin" wedding march was played by Miss Elsie Martin, a cousin of the bride, from Santa Paula. For the service the home was decorated throughout in garlands of asparagus plumosus, ferns, palms, pink and white carnations and Cecile Bruner roses. Following the ceremony, after a short reception, a buffet supper was served. The young people left on a several weeks' wedding journey to the beaches. The bride has been a resident of this city for five years, during which time she has taught in the local grammar schools. Dr. Beckwith, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elbridge Beckwith, No. 1126 Oxley street, has lived in this city most of his life and is favorably known, both as a physician and an eye specialist. Both the bride and groom are prominent members of the local Methodist Church.

Mrs. John W. Shenk, Jr., and her mother, Mrs. S. Custer, who are enjoying their cottage at Hermosa, entertained Mrs. John W. Moore, her daughter, Miss Bertha Moore, Mrs. Raymond Moore and little daughter, Elizabeth Raymond, Wednesday. On Thursday they had as their guests Mrs. Estella Johnson, Mrs. N. Harter and Mrs. Rebecca Cairns.

Glendale.

THE elusive little fellow, Dan Cupid, has been working overtime here during the past few days and as a result four marriages of well-known people have taken place in almost as many days. Possibly the most important of these was the marriage of Harry S. Duffield, the grand old man of the Burbank Theater of Los Angeles, to Miss Jessie B. O'Dell, a newspaper woman.

Another wedding was that of Miss Dora Johnson, a student of the Glendale Sanatorium training school, to V. H. Lathe, a third-year medical student of the Loma Linda Sanatorium, the affair being held in the sanatorium gymnasium, lder Berg, president of the Southern California conference, performing the ceremony. Miss Johnson was accompanied by Miss Mamie Boyd, while the groomsman was T. H. Harrison. Following a short trip Mr. and Mrs. Lathe will reside at Loma Linda.

The third wedding reported this week was that of Miss Mary Blair of Kansas and Vernon Hilliard of this place, the ceremony being performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Hosford, No. 219 Central avenue, by Rev. Mills, pastor of the Episcopal Church of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Hilliard will live here.

On Monday afternoon Beverly Smith, an employee of the Shaver Grocery of this place, and Miss Lulu Leak, also of Glendale, were married at Santa Ana. After a short honeymoon the young couple will be at home to their numerous local friends at a pretty bungalow prepared by the groom on Jackson street.

The engagement was made public this week of Miss Maude East and Ralph Wright, both well-known young people here. Wright is employed at the California Savings Bank in Los Angeles. Although the date for the wedding has not yet been set it is believed that it will be some time in August.

The following officers have just been installed to serve for the ensuing year in the Carnation Rebekah Lodge, o. 257, of this place: N. G., Martha Klamm; V. G., Cora E. Griffith; R. S., Mary Arbuthnot; Chaplain, Eva Gilson; R. S. N.G., Winhie Hartley; L. S. N. G., Ida Smith; R. S. V. G., Allen Bullis; L. S. V. G., Elizabeth Lang; I. G., E. J. Fish. The installation service was put on by District Deputy President Alice I. Carder, assisted by the staff from the Boyle Heights Rebekah Lodge, No. 55, of Los Angeles.

Inglewood.

BEAUTIFUL in all its appointments and one of the most enjoyable social events of the past year in Inglewood was that of Tuesday afternoon when the members of the Inglewood Woman's Club gave an elaborate course 1 o'clock luncheon, the guest of honor being Mrs. Milton R. Kerr, the retiring club president. The beautiful home of Mrs. W. G. Brown at the corner of Regent and Redondo streets was the scene of the event and the spacious rooms were made beautiful for the occasion with great bowls and baskets, of Shasta daisies, (the club flowers,) pink roses and asparagus ferns.

Mrs. Kerr, who has served as the popular and capable club president for the past year and who soon will leave Inglewood for El Centro where Prof. Kerr will have charge of the High School next year, had been invited to the Brown home to "meet a friend or two" and was therefore very delightfully surprised when greeted by the club members and a number of out-of-town guests, who were awaiting her arrival.

One large and five smaller tables had been placed about the rooms and on each was an attractive center of pink roses. The place cards were dainty creations on which were hand-painted Shasta daisies, while the pretty flowers themselves were used as favors and when pinned on the pretty afternoon gowns of the guests added another artistic touch to the occasion.

The guest of honor occupied a place at the large table as did also the incoming president, Mrs. I. K. Wilson and other officers of the club. At the close of the luncheon and while all were still at the tables, Mrs. Wilson, the new president, in behalf of the club, in a speech filled with delightfully clever and original thoughts presented to Mrs. Kerr a handsome cut glass bowl. Following the applause occasioned by this feature of the affair, Mrs. Kerr very charmingly responded, thanking the donors for this second delightful surprise of the afternoon.

Besides the club members there were present: Miss Bertha Palmer of Portland, Or., Miss Grace Kerr of Florence, Colo., and Mrs. E. M. Calkins of Hemet, a former member of the club.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hawk of Ingledale, was the scene of a pretty wedding Monday evening at 8 o'clock, when their only daughter, Miss Olga, became the bride of Jesse Tell of Holtville, this State.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Thomas E. Stevenson of the First Presbyterian Church of Inglewood in the presence of about thirty-five relatives and intimate friends.

The bride wore a handsome embroidered gown of white and carried a shower bouquet of sweet peas. She enjoys a large circle of friends in this community, her parents having resided in their present home for about twenty-five years.

Following the ceremony and congratulations, dainty refreshments were served.

Bay City.

THE PICNIC of the Federated Improvement Societies of Los Angeles was perhaps the biggest event of the year for Bay City. Aside from the fact that more than 4000 persons enjoyed the outing, which included a barbecued luncheon followed by dancing in the pavilion, the event was one of social importance. Residents kept open house during the day and evening, and a number of automobile parties from town participated. D. W. Pontius of Los Angeles entertained a party in his private car.

Those who came as the guests of Mr. Pontius and who were entertained at luncheon on board the car were: G. L. Bugbee, E. C. Thomas, Col. and Mrs. R. W. Richardson, C. M. Taggart, Miss Musa Rawlings, R. J. Goeppinger, B. F. Groves, H. C. Schofield, H. M. Chapman, Mrs. C. Heimann and Mrs. C. B. Thompson.

The handsome loving cup offered for the improvement association bringing the largest percentage of membership was won by the North Main-street Improvement Club and presented by Mayor Rose.

Mrs. Joseph Kaets of Fresno and her small daughter, Maria, left this week for home, after a visit of several weeks at the home of W. F. Edwards. Mrs. Edwards, who is a sister of Mrs. Kaets, entertained on Sunday at a family dinner. Covers were laid for twenty-four, and sweet peas with ferns were the decorations used. Guests on this occasion included Mrs. Kaets and her daughter, Miss Hazel Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Rogers, Miss Christine Rogers, Mrs. John Edwards, Miss Sadie Bowlsby, Ray Bowlsby, and Miss Sylvia Edwards.

Sierra Madre.

ONE OF the most enoyable summer porch parties which have been given this season was given last Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Mary Davis Goodfellow. The spacious veranda was transformed into a bower of greenery and Japanese lanterns threw a soft glow over the many small tables, where five hundred was enjoyed. About forty were present.

The pleasant evenings have afforded great opportunity for picnics and motor parties. Most enjoyable was last Friday evening, spent by a number of the younger set, when they motored to Eton's Canyon and enjoyed a most sumptuous supper. The party was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ingraham and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Nourse. Others in the party were the Misses Hallie Kuhn, Dorothy Camp, and Marine Brown, Dona Moses, Frances Edwards, and Adalaide Walton of Los Angeles, McDonald of Oakland, Shapard of New Orleans, the Misses Carter, who are guests at the Hotel Maryland, Pasadena, and Katherine Mason, Messrs. Marshall Wright, Lawrence Nourse, Robert Ingraham, Raymond Andrews, Victor Hill and John Moses of Los Angeles.

Miss Verna Trible entertained delightfully on Friday evening, complimentary to Miss Ethel Powell, who leaves on Saturday for Chicago, where she will be for some months. The evening was spent with games and music and dainty refreshments were served. Among those present were Mrs. Dennison, the Misses Ethel Powell, Hilda and Maybelle Caley, Avis Preston, Anna Janson, Ruth Sparks, and Marion Decker, Messrs. Edward Pellitier, George Hannaford, Royden Pool, Rudolph Hartman, Arthur Lyttle, Merton and Robert Clark and Convers Twycross.

IRISH VICEROY IS NO SINECURE.

Nationalist Leaders Favor the Duke of Connaught.

Americans Honor Memory of Late Michael Davitt.

Plan on Foot to Finance Stockyard in Dublin.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DUBLIN, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The announcement that the Duke of Connaught has decided to return to Canada has disappointed many Irishmen who had conceived the notion that he was to be the first Lord Lieutenant of Ireland under a home rule Parliament.

They understand the difficulties that will surround such a delicate position, but they would not bring themselves to realize that the Duke would ever decline such a responsibility, although his close relationship with the sovereign might render the position almost impossible for him. The first suggestion that he would make an ideal viceroy had as its basis the feeling that a member of the royal family occupying such a position would go far to conciliate the hostile attitude of the Orange forces. John Redmond and his followers would willingly have supported the appointment of the Duke, but the Unionist element gave out that they would feel themselves seriously compromised if he accepted such a post. If home rule comes along they prefer to have a viceroy with no royal connections.

The man who finally takes the position will have to stand whatever comes his way without claiming any immunity on account of superior aristocratic associations. The post will never be a sinecure.

HONOR MICHAEL DAVITT.

Every local effort to do honor to the memory of Michael Davitt has been eclipsed by the message which Patrick F. Hastings, a prominent member of the A.O.H., has conveyed from the Mayo Men's Societies of New York to their compatriots at home.

Pilgrimages to the grave of Davitt have become a common feature of western celebrations, but the appearance of a representative from the United States placing a wreath on Davitt's tomb is so unique an incident that the whole of the county of Mayo has been stirred to unprecedented depths of patriotic emotion.

People who had not hitherto, through a variety of circumstances, found it convenient to travel to the last resting place of the dead patriot came along to witness the ceremony and mark their appreciation of the thoughtfulness and patriotic spirit that moved their exiled brethren in far away New York. As became the occasion, a certain amount of solemnity was observed, but the strains of numerous bands playing patriotic airs sent the people home in anything but a melancholy mood.

Nothing arouses Irish enthusiasm more than the feeling that the exiled Irish do not forget those whom they have left at home in the old land.

STOCK YARD IN DUBLIN.

Commercial men throughout Europe are watching with some interest the development of an ambitious scheme to establish stock yards in Dublin.

The supporters of the undertaking are men of substance and an encouraging feature of the scheme is that it is setting out on its career backed by American experience. J. C. Laudy, who was for some years intimately associated with Cudahy Brothers of Milwaukee, has been called in as chief advisor, while the firm of David Davis & Co., the well-known engineers of Chicago, will be entrusted with the equipment of the necessary premises.

The operations of such a concern will have a far-reaching effect on the meat and cattle trade of Ireland. At the present moment 70 per cent. of the meat consumed in the country is imported from England and the United States. Students of economics have long been puzzled to explain why Irish people exported their live stock—cattle, sheep and pigs—and imported inferior meat at high prices.

Under the new arrangement Irishmen will be supporting a home industry.

HELP FOR FISHERMEN.

A great effort is to be made in the British Parliament to secure state bounties for Irish fishermen. An agitation has been already started in Ireland to secure help for these poor struggling men, whose conditions of life and whose difficulties are practically the same today, in 1913, as were those of their remote ancestors in the days of Queen Elizabeth.

"Almost the only change effected in 400 years," says J. M. Conrey of Araglass, the leader of the bounty agitation, "has been the substitution of a swifter craft for the clumsier old forty-tonner used in the olden days. Nets have undergone a change. We are now using finer, deeper and longer trains, but hung on the same lines, viz., the thirds. But it is only within the last five years that steam appeared as a rival on the Irish sea, although not as yet a dangerous rival.

"The German government, on the other hand, offer special inducements to build up its fishing industry, giving a premium of about $250 a year to sailors and $375 to steam drifters. It also grants a subvention to herring sailing companies of $1600 towards the building of each sailing vessel known as a lugger, and $500 for outfit, and lends money to fishermen on extremely low terms. And the Canadian government grant their fishermen a bounty. Now, if we wish to keep Irish fishermen at home we must follow the example of Canada and Germany. As a source of our country's food supply Irish fisheries are second only in importance to agriculture.

"If we intend to supply our population with pure, wholesome, cheap fish food free from the germs of tuberculosis, and if trades that are allied to our fishing industry are to be kept working, then I say England must help the fishermen of Ireland."

RUSSIAN CRAZE PERVADES STAID BRITISH METROPOLIS.

English People Suddenly Bitten With Mania to Get Everything from St. Petersburg, from Tea, Perfume and Bathcrystals to Cigarettes, Dancers and Ballets. Pioneer of Invasion Predicts United States Next.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] England has certainly gone "Russian mad." The people who pretend to be in the fashion in London nowadays not only drink Russian tea with the aid of a slice of lemon and use Russian perfumes and Russian bathcrystals. They smoke Russian cigarettes and they race nightly from one vaudeville show to another—from the Palace Theater to the Alhambra, and from the Empire Theater to ancient Drury Lane—to see the best Russian dancers. Even the craze a la Russe invaded the great international horse show at Olympia; and the two gold cups that were given by King Edward and King George were won with ease by a contingent of Russian officers. Where will it all end?

Edwin Evans, the celebrated musical critic who is one of the pioneers of this terrific Russian invasion of England, said yesterday that this new movement would never end—that it was a perfectly orderly geometric progression in art and good taste—and that it was inevitable that the United States would also soon go "Russian mad."

"As a matter of fact," he added, "I have a trip to New York, Boston, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Washington, San Francisco and other large American cities already in contemplation." And Edwin Evans was the man chosen by Sir Joseph Beecham, the manager of the Russian novelties at the Drury Lane Theater, to give a series of introductory lectures on the novelties promised during the Russian season.

BEECHAM'S IDEAS.

"Exotic forms of art," said Beecham in effect, "are apt to need some form of initiation, and nobody is better qualified to give it than Evans, who has been before the public for some years as a musical pioneer. Like all enthusiasts, he has known the experience of being regarded with suspicion, but he is in the happy position of being able to point to his past record and claim that he has been right.

"Many years ago, when London commenced to rave about Tschaikovsky, he claimed a hearing for the nationalist group of Russian composers, who have since come to their own, thanks to this Russian craze. More recently he was the first in England to draw attention to Debussy and the modern French school. The examples he then gave were regarded with derision by the academic element, but there are few names held in such high esteem today by the London musical set as that of Debussy." And Robin Legge, the great musical critic, added, "there is probably no Englishman alive who knows more of this Russian ballet development than Edwin Evans."

"If Diaghileff takes his ballet to America, as has been suggested," Evans says, "I shall certainly deem it a privilege to precede him in New York, Boston and elsewhere and familiarize those who possess artistic curiosity with all the various happenings of which the Russian ballet is either a symptom, a result, or a stimulating cause. But even without that I have started to go into the details of a trip to the United States in the fall, for I should love to help a little to set things moving in the Russian direction in the big cities of America."

Evans, of course, is in close touch with the most advanced men of the day, and bases his opinions on an intimate knowledge of the tendencies underlying each new manifestation in the world of art, music and the theater.

DENIES HE'S A FUTURIST.

"I am no futurist," he declares. "It is, perhaps, necessary to emphasize the fact in a country so conservative as England, where to be up-to-date is to be under suspicion. Futurism, post-impressionism, and the rest of the current 'isms' are for the most part meaningless labels. The Russian ballet is anything but meaningless. It is the most vitally important thing that has happened in my time in the art world.

"Think of it. Wagner's much discussed synthesis of the arts in the opera has ended in a splendid blind alley. His followers can make no further progress along his lines. The so-called version of Brunean and Charpentier, typified in the latter's popular 'Louise,' lacks staying power, as is proved by the failure of 'Julien.' The one salient event in opera since Wagner is the production of Debussy's beautiful 'Pelleas and Melisande,' which is, however, not opera in the accepted sense, but a drama performed with a musical screen or backcloth. The operatic convention, grand as it was, has become as stationary as Chinese art.

"While this is going on another convention springs up, fully equipped with the best musicians, the best decorative artists, the best exponents and the most perfect organization. In short, we are confront with as complete a synthesis as that dreamed of by Wagner, but more advanced, more in touch with contemporary art. That is the ballet of today.

"Of course, it is not ballet in the old-fashioned sense of the word, consisting of a bevy of girls executing entrechats and toesteps in muslin skirts with a set, sugary smile. That has now become prehistoric. The contemporary ballet is an expressive art with the widest possible range of subject matter, and, if one may put it so, an enormously wealthy vocabulary. It adapts itself readily to every important phase of art, from the romantic movement in literature to that which is clumsily termed post-impressionism in painting.

"It has inspired the best efforts of painters like Bakst, Roebuch, Souderkine and others. In the field of music it is allied to all that is best in the modern tendency. The most interesting feature in modern music is the reaction against the tendency of the nineteenth century, from Beethoven to Richard Strauss, to import into music a foreign, rhetorical element to the detriment of its pure arabesque-like art function. That is why the vanguard of present-day composers stand in reality much closer to the sceptical eighteenth century than to any music that has happened since.

"The roots of this reaction were planted from the seventies onwards by two great and closely related geniuses, Moussorgsky in Russia and Debussy in France. The former died in 1881 and bequeathed no music adaptable to the purposes of the ballet save the Russian dances in Khoranchina, but his friends and contemporaries Balakireff and Rimsky-Korsakoff furnished it with two splendid motifs in Thamar and Scheherazade."

COMPOSERS OF TODAY.

Turning to composers alive today Evans added: "The ballet has already attracted many of the most advanced men, such as Claude Debussy, Igor Stravisky, Maurice Ravel, Paul Dukas, Florent Schmitt and Albert Roussel, representing the progressive movement in France and Russia. Elsewhere the twentieth century spirit is less in evidence. Germany is very reluctant to turn from a tradition which brought her so much musical glory. Even Strauss has invented little. That which passes for new with

ITALY TO TAX ONLY THE RICH.

War in Libya Necessitates Heavy Expenditures.

Favorite Music Hall Star Robbed by Camorra.

Police Arrest Assailants, Who Are Identified.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ROME, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "If it becomes necessary an appeal will be made to the whole of Italy in the interest of national defence. It is the firm intention of the government to demand nothing from the lower classes, but to levy the new taxes on the sole basis of real wealth."

This was the important declaration which the Prime Minister, Signor Giolitti, made in the Italian Chamber of Deputies during the last debate on the new army bill. Needless to say, this policy on the part of Signor Giolitti, which would inaugurate a new era in the Italian fiscal system, occasions immense rejoicing among democratic groups in Italy. There is no country in Europe where the poor are so iniquitously burdened by taxation in comparison with the rich. Every year $30,000,000 is extracted from the pockets of the masses by a tax on bread alone.

As for the fresh military expenditure, it is rendered imperative by the war in Libya and the need for further measures securing Italy from foreign attack. Recruiting regulations are to be so modified as to enforce a two years' service system by abolishing the one-year volunteer principle, by reducing the minimum stature, and by abolishing the practice of exemption from conscription for a monetary consideration. It is also proposed to abolish the exemption for only sons.

According to a forecast of the government, this measure will have the effect of bringing 40,000 extra men under arms annually at an extra cost of not more than $1,000,000.

CAMORRA SEIZE ACTRESS.

Mary Fleur, a favorite Italian musichall star, was returning to her hotel the other night, after singing at a fashionable gathering at the seaside resort of Leghorn, when she was seized by a gang of Neapolitan Camorristi, who had followed her from Naples.

The theater attendant who was accompanying her fled to summon help. A couple of the ruffians seized the artiste's handbag, wherein she was carrying $20,000 worth of jewelry. With great courage the lady wrenched herself free and felled one assailant with the bag, the contents of which rolled onto the ground. She then threw herself flat on the earth, in order to cover the treasures with her body.

Balked of the booty, and hearing approaching footsteps, the Camorrist ringleader pulled out his revolver and twice shot the prostrate woman, and then jumped into a carriage which was waiting round a corner. His accomplices had already taken their places in the vehicle, which was driven off at a gallop.

The proprietor of the theater, who had arrived on the scene with several others, went in pursuit, and exchanged pistol shots with the miscreants without effect. By her bravery the actress had succeeded in saving all her jewels except a mounted British piece. Her wounds will detain her in hospital for a month.

In the struggle to prevent her assailant's escape, a large piece of his jacket was torn off in her hands. This clew enabled the police to arrest the three Camorrists who have since been identified as the authors of the outrage.

ASK AMERICANS TO COMPETE.

London Horse Show Promoters Are Desirous that United States Officers Take Part.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] There was a feeling of genuine regret among the spectators and exhibitors at the Horse Show at Olympia that American officers had again not competed for the jumping prizes. The Americans were very successful in the harness and coaching classes, but practically did nothing at all, even in the civilian class, in respect to riding ponies and hunters.

It is now hoped that by next year the Earl of Lonsdale will be successful in persuading the United States government to send over a group of U.S.A. officers to compete with other officers in the international classes. This year the Russians carried everything before them in the military jumping competitions, and, considering the great impetus that these international shows give to a better understanding between friendly powers, it is most desirable that the United States should be represented—most of all it is desirable that they should be represented in England.

It has also been brought to the attention of American horsemen that if they wish to succeed in winning prizes in this show's jumping competitions both hunters and chargers must be schooled over covered tan-bark in a riding school similar to the arena at Olympia. However excellent hunters may be in outdoor work, they are useless at this exhibition if they have not been thoroughly schooled in their work under cover.

The question of expense certainly need not debar U.S.A. officers from competing at this great international tournament. The show authorities pay all expenses of transporting horses and grooms, and even meet the hotel bills of all foreign officers that travel to London for the exhibition. The uniforms of an American contingent would make a most striking addition to the international blaze of uniform seen year after year at this tournament.

GERMAN SHIP GIVEN UP.

HAMBURG, July 26.—The German sailing ship Klio, with her crew of twenty men, has been given up as lost by her owners here. She sailed from Talcahuano on May 11, for Mejillones and is believed to have gone down on the coast of Chile. She was a vessel of 1571 tons net, built at Glasgow in 1888.

KING GETS RACING CRAZE.

Lipton's Challenge to America Has Renewed Interest in the International Sport.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, July 22.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge for the America cup and its prompt acceptance by the New York Yacht Club have given a big stimulus to yacht racing in England. Among other well-known people who have got up a sudden enthusiasm for the sport is King George, who has just caused it to be formally announced that his famous cutter Britannia will compete in a number of handicap races during August. And His Majesty intends to follow this up by building a new yacht for racing in one of the international classes next year.

"Yacht racing in England," explains Francis B. Cooke, the well-known international expert, "was really at its lowest ebb in 1892, when King Edward, then Prince of Wales, commissioned Watson to design a first-class cutter, but the appearance of the Britannia led to an immediate revival, and whilst the Royal cutter remained in the class the sport enjoyed a popularity that has never been equalled before or since.

"There can be no doubt that some such fillip is needed at the present moment, and it is hoped that the colors of either the King or the Prince of Wales will fly from the truck of a redoubtable class racer before very long. The Britannia has been given a new outfit of spars and sails, but she will not appear in her old racing trim. In the days when she competed against Vigilant, Navahoe, Satanita, Ailsa and other famous craft, the Watson flyer carried some 10,300 square feet of canvas, but according to her official measurement taken recently her present sail area is only 8815 square feet.

"The yacht, moreover, is now fitted with comparatively high bulwarks, an addition that was made some years ago for the safety of the young princes. Nevertheless, yachtsmen will rejoice to see the fine old cutter racing again, particularly as she will probably find among her opponents the yawl Bona, another Watson creation of a later year."

DANGER IN THE MOVIES.

Outcry Is Started in England Against Ultra-Sensationalism Which Is Injuring the Young.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "I spoke to a boy about 12 years old who had attended a motion-picture show in a little country town a week or two ago, and he positively trembled as he reported what he had seen. He said: 'I shall never go again. It was horrible.' I said: 'What was horrible?' He said: 'I saw a man cut his throat.'"

"This is no exaggeration," says Canon Rawnsley, a well-known poet and minister, who is heading a big agitation in England against unwholesome motion pictures. "It was told to me personally, and is really only one of a number of incidents that have come under my notice this month, proving that there is passing over England a real craving for scenes of horror."

Among the titles of films which are being, or have recently been exhibited he instances the following:

"Massacre: A Terrific Tragedy."
"The Wheel of Destruction."
"The Auto Race." The auto when going at a prodigious rate overturns and buries its living occupants.
"Dogs Killing Rats in a Rat Pit."
"Champion Prize Fight."
"A Public Execution in the East."

To those picture proprietors who maintain that their exhibitions are for the moral improvement and amusement of the masses, Canon Rawnsley replies: "Look at your posters and the items of horror or fierce excitement or degrading sensationalism, which, in spite of the British censorship, are still being exhibited up and down the country to the detriment and discouragement of the nobler feelings of gentleness and compassion."

"The worst of it is," he adds, "that neither the police nor the agents of the motion-picture firms who are sent out as exhibitors are sufficiently educated to know what is horrible and what is not.

"What the public really needs is that in every town where motion-picture halls are springing up like mushrooms there should be trained inspectors, men or women, who should know at a glance a downgrade or demoralizing film and should at once report it to headquarters.

"If," he adds, "the English people wish to commit race suicide they can do it by overtaxing the brain energy of the very young, and never has human ingenuity invented a device more efficacious for this sinister end than the motion pictures.

"Further, I have seen it stated by a scientific expert that one of the results we must look forward to is a development of a disease of the eye, already known as the motion-picture eye, and he incidentally mentions that one of the symptoms of this pleasing complaint is an increased activity of the lachrymal glands.

"If this is true—and it is quite credible—let us contemplate the England of the next generation as peopled by men and women who have had their nervous systems spoilt, their imaginations ruined, their curiosity crushed, in order to learn one thing only, viz., how to weep at nothing at all."

WAR OF EXTERMINATION.

A MISSIONARY'S REPORT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, July 26.—A private message received by the Rev. Dr. Henry O. Dwight, secretary of the American Bible Society, from an American missionary now making his way from Scutari into the devastated regions of Albania, says that the Servians are engaged in what is believed to be an attempt to exterminate the population of several of the Albanian districts.

Guards of the Servian army, the message says, are patrolling territory definitely assigned to Albania, at a distance of as much as twenty-five miles from the boundary to prevent anyone getting out of, or going into the region. Thousands of refugees are in the mountains without shelter or food, expatriated and starving, feeding on roots, grass, bark and twigs.

"I found near Leah," the message said, "and all the way from Scutari, a great many villages burned and few fields planted. The country has been ravaged by the Servians, by the Montenegrins and by the Turkish army under Essad Pasha, who thus punished the inhabitants for refusing to help him save Turkey. At Kroya we heard of four women and forty-eight men who had been wantonly hanged, shot or cut to pieces with swords by the Servians."

Declares Old Age Infectious Disease.

Elie Metchnikoff,

The Russian scientist, who wages war on old age and death. He is lionized in Paris where he has his laboratory. He is the director of the Pasteur Institute.

Ponce de Leon.

FINDS IN SOUR MILK THE ELIXIR OF YOUTH.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Dr. Elie Metchnikoff, who is being lionized by Parisians, owes his popularity in considerable measure to his crusade against death. He has laid down the axiom:

"Old age is an infectious chronic disease."

But he has not stopped there. The famous scientist has gone forth to find a remedy for old age, and he contends he has discovered man's saviour in sour milk.

Among the friendly microbes he regards the lactic acid bacilli. These act upon milk, converting it into lactic acid, which is destructive to the millions of harmful microbes which swarm in the large intestine. This wonderful youth-endowing bacillus has been named the Bulgarian bacillus. "If you would remain young and escape senility," says Metchnikoff, "introduce a thriving colony of the Bacillus Bulgaricus into your internal system and add a few billion recruits from day to day."

But long before he evolved this elixir of life, and before he became the director of the Pasteur Institute of Paris, the Russian scientist had made an epochal discovery in tracing the mission of the phagocytes of the blood, which war against the malignant germs that try to enter the body through wounds.

Russian Craze.

him is, for the most part, as a Paris critic describes it, 'a perverted use of threadbare procedure.' The significance of Schoenberg is still obscure, though his followers are rendering much valuable assistance in unraveling the problem by their exaggeration of his mannerisms. Vague rumors reach me of remarkable doings by Bartok and Kodaly in Hungary, and in Spain a handful of pupils of Albeniz are striving to make themselves heard, though the influence of Paris still predominates in their music.

"England, as usual, remains distinctly suburban in the sense that it is content to ape, a few seasons late, the fashions of other European centers. Curiously enough, the most hopeful signs are to be found in works whose technical finish is below the average. Those authors are less obsessed by training and are better able to liberate themselves from preconceived notions than those who have sought salvation in the study of the 'best models.' The rediscovered English musical consciousness is scarcely yet strong enough to discriminate between acquiring the proficiency and the actual musical idiom of great composers.

"But to return to the ballet, to which music furnishes only one element, though certainly a vital one. I have already mentioned the direct contribution of the painters, headed by Leon Bakst, one of the most remarkable decorative artists of the day, but beyond this there is also an indirect influence, such as that of Matisse, and especially Janguin. The latter, who is classed with the post-impressionists, is remarkable for the simplicity to which he reduces the poses of the human figure. He seems to extract the quintessence from every movement.

"This is not new. It is closely related to the conventional method of simplification by which speed, fear, toil and so on are represented on the Egyptian monuments. At a later date the Greek vases furnish admirable examples. Still more recently the illuminated manuscripts of the Middle Ages abound in what I venture to call 'dessicated gesture.' In Nijinsky's three ballets 'L'Apres du Nidi d'un Faune,' 'Jeux' and 'Le Sacre du Printemps,' this principle has been applied to the ballet with excellent though startling effect.

"Finally, there is the literary side which has a much wider range than in opera. It may reflect the early romantics as in 'Le Spectre de la Rose,' or it may deal in exotic religious festivals full of symbolical meaning. It may flirt with realism one day and venture into philosophical abstraction the next. That seems a bold claim to make for the ballet, but behind the mimed tragedy of Petroushka there lurk some great truths.

"Do not misunderstand me. I am not claiming that the ballet is the greatest of the arts, now or at any time. I merely state that in the form of ballet organized by Serge de Diaghileff are associated some of the most remarkable manifestations of the music and graphic arts of today, and even tomorrow. It may be a temporary phenomenon, or it may indicate some new and still more startling development. I hesitate to prophesy, though some of my earlier forecasts have been realized. I am content to say: There it is, draw what conclusions you like. The role of Diaghileff himself in this movement deserves attention. His is the talent of kings to surround themselves with the genius of their day. It is no mean gift.

"For myself I cannot say whether the Russian ballet is to me more a pretext to speak of modern music, or modern music a pretext to speak of the ballet. I regard both as allied symptoms of a movement which spreads far and wide throughout the arts. It has been my good fortune to be in touch with many of the men who are 'doing things' today. The men I have mentioned, and a number of others—painters, composers, poets and critics—form a kind of unofficial freemasonry, to belong to which is to be kept au fait with every new development. Mentally it solves the problem of eternal youth.

"I am no futurist. I do not share Signor Marinetti's anger with the past. I yield to none in my respect for the classics, but I confess that I am more than a little impatient at the continued sway of the nineteenth century over the twentieth. Hang it all, we grow, don't we? Then we must outgrow some things, and where is the sense of obstinately continuing to wear them?"

NEWSPAPER COMMENTS.

Meanwhile, however, some of the more stolid British newspapers are at their wits' end to know what to make of these amazing Russian ballets. The London Daily Graphic, for instance, heads its criticism of "Jeux" with this plaintive question, "Is it a joke?" and its critic writes of the actual production in this mournful but bewildered strain:

"If the Russian Ballet, who are now dancing at Drury Lane for the first time, are to meet with the same success in their present season as they have always won and deserved in their career over the way at Covent Garden, they must instantly banish from their repertoire an amazing piece of futility entitled 'Jeux,' which was the central item in their entertainment last night. 'Jeux' has excited a good deal of interest; the 'dance poem,' as it is described, is by the greatest male dancer in the world; the music is by Debussy, and the scenery has been designed by Leon Bakst. Besides, the prospect of seeing M. Nijinsky in flannels, with a tennis racket, must have tickled the curiosity of his numerous admirers.

"But the combined efforts of three men of genius have in this case resulted in preposterous nonsense. Possibly the more charitable thing is that the whole thing is a joke and intended to be a joke. If it is, it scarcely succeeds on its own plane, and the move is distinctly an unwise one. A certain amount of material for graceful dancing and posing might have been found in the hunt for a lost tennis ball and incidental flirtations with two fair assistant searchers, although there seems to be no particular reason why such a subject should be chosen. M. Nijinsky has carried in it the bizarre to such lengths that it becomes feebly comic. The ball is a large, flabby thing of glazed India rubber; the garden is a mass of emerald green interlarded with cardboard arc lamps (it is night,) and Debussy is in his most incoherent mood. It was sad to see the beautiful Mme. Karsavina, clad like a child of 6, striving to be ungraceful. 'Jeux' was received with some very audible hisses.

"The beauty and sanity of 'Le Pavilion d'Armide' and 'Scheherazade' redeemed what might have been an unfortunate evening."

KING WINS WILL CONTEST.

Spanish Monarch Awarded Half-Million-Dollar Legacy Bequeathed by Ex-Mayor Who Died in Asylum.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

ST. GAUDENS (France) July 19.—King Alphonso of Spain will be able soon to enjoy a legacy of $500,000 bequeathed to him by Albert Sapene, formerly Mayor of a small town near Toulon, who died in an insane asylum some time ago.

The Civil Court here today pronounced judgment upholding the testator's will, which his sister and other next of kin had sought to have set aside on the plea that he was insane when he made it.

Ambition.

HAIL CHURCHILL NEXT PREMIER.

Naval Secretary Coming Man in British Politics.

Has Healed Old Breaches in Admiralty Circles.

Wise Ones Predict He May Start a New Party.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The enigma of British politics today is Winston Churchill. Public interest in the issues that divide the two principal parties is steadily decreasing. In its place there has arisen a maze of personalities and violent sympathies and antipathies for individual leaders.

Party platforms no longer have the weight they carried even a few months ago. Tariff reform is being prepared for a decent burial. Home Rule, by the English voter, is accepted as inevitable. Both Liberals and Conservatives agree that the antiquated land laws must be changed. The menace of war in Europe is too real to admit any serious differences as to the advisability of keeping up a gigantic navy. And as the party questions dwindle, the personality of the opposing leaders take on a new and vivid attraction for the public; all of which promises to make of Winston Churchill an even greater figure in English life than his best friends prophesied.

MAN OF ABILITY.

Lady Randolph Churchill's son has held up his cards well and he has still to put them on the table. When he deserted the sinking ship of the Unionist party and became a Liberal Minister, he was, probably, the most unpopular member of the House of Commons. His former associates never tired of flinging "Judas Iscariot" in his teeth, and his new allies openly mistrusted the genuineness of his conversion. He was generally considered to be a young man of unbounded ability, utter lack of principle, and only in politics for what he could make out of them. His aggressiveness in his defense against these attacks heightened his unpopularity.

His first real bid for a hold upon the public was when he fought under the fiery mantle of Lloyd-George. He seemed to have caught the enthusiasm of that orator, and his speeches began to sway crowds that formerly were only impressed by his clearness. In this way his own party began to share the conviction of his audiences that at last Winston Churchill was sincere. He became the alter ego of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, although always a little overshadowed by that versatile Welshman.

CHURCHILL NAVY POLICY.

The great change came when Mr. Churchill took charge of the navy. By this time he had learned that while he might share the control of Demos with Lloyd-George, he could never oust the Chancellor from his throne. He changed his tactics and with such success that today he is recognized as a great administrator. His supporters and many of his bitterest opponents proclaim him a statesman. This impression has been mainly created by the studiously fair and non-partisan attitude young Winsion Churchill—he is only 39—has adopted in the House of Commons and elsewhere in connection with all naval matteas. Critics on both sides, imperialists who wanted more money spent and Socialists who deplored the existence of any navy at all, have been answered in great detail and with much sweet reasonableness. Bitter personal feuds in the navy itself have been healed by this diplomatic First Lord of the Admiralty, who, though a soldier by training, quickly grasped an amazing knowledge of naval affairs. Far-reaching changes have been inaugurated, yet in the navy itself no First Lord has ever been so popular. A new Winston dawned on the political horizon. Calm and wise administration without any suggestion of cocksureness, took the place of pessimistic rhetoric and bitter invective.

FAULTS OF IMPULSE.

While the transformation was in progress Winston Churchill's former ally and model was suffering from the faults of impulse. The wave of popularity which enabled Lloyd-George to pass almost any legislation that he liked ebbed as the public suffered from the effects of hasty laws or had to pay for what they expected would be free. Marconi scandals gathered in thick clouds and Lloyd-George, with his back to the wall, had to fight for his political existence. And while the fate of this picturesque figure hung in the balance the whilom fiery Winston Churchill was absent inspecting his battle fleets or silently concocting some new scheme of imperial defense. He was far too busy to take part in such paltry squabbles as centered around the honesty of one or two of his fellow-Cabinet Ministers. War was not only in the air, but actually proceeding in Europe. The ideal First Lord of the Admiralty must not be distracted from his guns.

SIR EDWARD GREY BUSY.

Another Cabinet Minister was also busy with the affairs of the nation. That was Sir Edward Grey. He kept studiously aloof from the passion that held the House of Commons and the country over the Marconi scandals. As Sir Edward Grey pulled the strings of Europe so that peace came instead of the great war that once seemed inevitable, he was hailed on all sides as the next Prime Minister. Every thing pointed to him as the legitimate successor to Mr. Asquith, who is notoriously tired of office. And then, at the last moment, at the last hour to be exact, Sir Edward Grey flung himself into the Marconi fray. Ostensibly an impartial and therefore powerful defender of Lloyd George and Rufus Isaacs, he failed to effect any purpose, and pleased neither party. The methods which had averted a European war fell flat on a Parliament stirred by personal and party passion. In one speech on the Marconi issue Sir Edward Grey lost almost all the prestige he had won by his foreign diplomacy.

Winston Churchill made no such mistake, and by silence put himself in the direct line to become the first son of an American mother to be Prime Minister of the United Kingdom. He rose to an amazing pinnacle of respectability. A Unionist member, having grown accustomed to the daily innuendos made by the leaders of his own party against the honesty of Cabinet Ministers, asked a harmless little question suggesting that Winston Churchill might have been entertaining rather freely on the Admiralty's official yacht. In addition to an emphatic denial from the First Lord himself, this unfortunate Unionist received severe reproof from the Times and other newspapers of his own party for daring to suggest that such a praiseworthy administrator could be guilty of such an action.

SCENTS DANGER.

In the eulogies which this incident evoked from his political foes Churchill, with his quick intuition, scented danger. Lloyd George had been acquitted by the House of Commons of any dishonorable action. It was now time for the First Lord to speak. Continued silence and too much praise from his opponents might hurt him with his own supporters. So at the love-feast which the Liberal party organized the other day to celebrate the rehabilitation of Lloyd George, there duly appeared Winston Churchill. He made just the kind of speech which his party wanted. With all the fervor that marked his former electioneering speeches he championed the cause of the maligned Chancellor of the Exchequer. But he was no longer the disciple. He was the apostle, magnanimously urging the country to overlook the minor fault and still believe in the splendid qualities of the man who took a little flutter in Marconis. Lloyd George must have writhed under the righteous patronage, but it was so cleverly done that it could not be resented.

With this last stroke Winston has put himself into a stronger position than any member of the present British government, excepting, of course, Asquith himself. His attitude upon almost any current topic has more weight both in and out of the House of Commons than any of his fellow Cabinet Ministers. He has secured the confidence of the imperialists, he has got what is a priceless advantage in England, namely, being considered "sound," and he has not antagonized the more advanced and socialist of his followers. Yet he is more of an enigma than ever.

A LIBERAL'S VIEWS.

A prominent Liberal said the other night:

"I should not be surprised to see Winston Churchill chuck up his party and become a Conservative once again, or even start a party of his own. It is palpable that there are several points on which he is, at heart, not in sympathy with the rank and file of Liberals. We never know which way the cat is going to jump where Winston is concerned, yet he is too great an asset to overlook or to antagonize. He is as clever as they make them. If his father, Lord Randolph Churchill, had played his cards half as well as his son he would have been Premier long before his death. Lord Randolph could never play the waiting game. Winston has done this to perfection and unless he makes some big mistake it looks as if he had outdistanced Lloyd George and Sir Edward Grey in the race for Asquith's shoes."

Remedy.

PEER SUGGESTS SHRAPNEL DOSE.

WOULD USE HARSH CURE FOR WILD MEN OF ULSTER.

Earl of Clonmell Tires of Continuous Opposition to Home Rule and Believes Government Should Take a Hand to Silence Those Who Are Trying to Start Trouble.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DUBLIN, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "A little shrapnel" is the prescription that has just been offered for the cure of the wild men of Ulster, who say they "will die rather than have home rule." The author of this remedy is the Earl of Clonmell, an Irish Nationalist peer, who, like a good many other Irishmen, is heartily tired of all the drilling and marching and flag-waving that goes on by day and night just now around Belfast in opposition to the Nationalist claims.

The Earl said bluntly that he had not the slightest doubt that home rule would be good for Ireland, and he did not believe that the large majority of Ulstermen would fight.

"There is a section of them," he said, "who, if they continue to be inflamed by the speeches of Sir Edward Carson, Lord Londonderry, and people who ought to know better, may give trouble.

"I do not fear any trouble unless it comes from that small Ulster crowd, and I think that if a little shrapnel is burst over their heads it will drive them back into their armory."

Lord Clonmell, who is the seventh Earl, succeeded to the title in 1898. He is a very plain-spoken and public-spirited man and has served as a soldier. The Ulster leaders, however, are very furious with him, and have formally warned him to keep away from Belfast if he values his life.

Although Prince Olaf of Norway is a keen little auto driver, he is to cultivate horsemanship as well, and he is said to be very much alive to its possibilities. His mother, Queen Maud, has presented him with a Kerry pony, which was recently shipped from Dublin.

This kind of Irish pony is popular at all the courts of Europe for the children, and the little princes of Spain and the Imperial children of Russia have all ridden them. Queen Maud has her own horses from Sandringham at Christiania. British and Irish grooms are in much request at foreign courts, and the Dowager Empress of Russia has one from the neighborhood of Sandringham, who was picked especially for her by Queen Alexandra.

The campaign against emigration to Canada and the United States has just received substantial help by the return to Ireland of James McGurin. He is a New York Irishman, who claims to have an extensive knowledge of the conditions under which emigrants have to work and live in both countries.

The Irish Anti-Emigration Society now see in McGurin a most invaluable asset, and they have already enlisted his co-operation. He will be asked to undertake a tour through the province of Connaught, applying himself chiefly to the areas where the emigration fever has been for some years most pronounced. His own county of Leitrim has already commenced to show the fruits of his activities. Thus, in comparing last month's figures with the corresponding month of 1912 emigration statistics show a decrease of 45 per cent.

This is said to be entirely due to his vivid stories of the hardships which young men, and especially young women, have to encounter in the great industrial centers of the United States before they succeed in commanding anything like a tolerable return for the time and labor expended.

Abuse.

SNOBBISH RED SCORES AMERICA.

English Socialist Vents His Spleen on New York.

Authorities Doubtful About Allowing Him to Land.

Takes It Out by Writing Screed for Newspapers.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Victor Grayson, the ex-Socialist member of Parliament, has been on a visit to the United States recently, and has returned to England to write a series of articles for the British newspapers that are really the limit in blind, senseless fury and abuse.

Had he succeeded in winning the affections of Christabel Pankhurst, the militant suffragist, as he once hoped and tried, he might presumably have learned to hold his tongue a little and to weigh his words a lot. As it is, however, time seems to have taught this extremely vocal young man nothing since he has wandered so glibly and swiftly from engineering to theology, and from economics to journalism—not even to write with reticence and good taste.

SCORES NEW YORK.

His first contribution is entitled "The Ugliness of New York: Where the Dollar is Almighty and the Swindler is At Home," and in the two columns these quaint, gaudily-colored jewels of Socialist illumination may be found:

"While there may be no democracy, in the strict sense of that term, there is a refreshing democratic atmosphere surrounding the relations of Americans to each other. The million-dollar goal shines alluringly before the eyes of all, and in the adventurous struggling and jostling towards that goal Jack is counted as good as his neighbor.

"Even the favored graduates of Yale and Harvard are distinguished only by their greater versatility, rather than by a defective intonation and accent, as is so often the case in Britain. Even in swindling transactions, corrupt bargains, and gross briberies, of which there is such an amazing abundance, there is a bold, a breezy frankness which robs them of half their ugliness.

"Carlyle, I think, somewhere observed that the fraud and the fool were the upper and under sides of the same commodity, and it may be said in palliation of the evils mentioned that the duped democracy of the United States reserve very small space in their esteem for the person who is incompetent to deceive and swindle them successfully.

"They are as tenderly worshipful of the bravely cunning scoundrels who have 'arrived' as are British Sunday-school scholars of the fragrant memories of Robin Hood, Dick Turpin and Tom King. And if the commercial ethics savor somewhat of the pig trough, there is a certain consistency of character between the candidates who win the front places and those who wait wistfully and hungrily behind.

"Someone once said that England must be left for a while in order to be loved. Well, I have said and written some angry and bitter things about my native land, but I must confess that I have rarely felt a more patriotic yearning than when I stood fatigued and disconsolate in the customs shed at Hoboken.

"Firstly, there was an almost intolerable difficulty in getting off the ship at all. For hours I had cudgeled my brains in filling up a most intricate and elaborate form in order to declare that I had nothing to declare. This, however, was only a sort of preliminary canter. After passing the doctor the passengers were ordered to the cabin, organized into weird alphabetical processions, and filed past suspicious-looking officials who curtly demanded still further particulars.

"These inquisitive Januses being gratified, we were allowed to disembark and take our stand beside our luggage in the dreariest of customs sheds. When certain of the officials had finished exercising their banal wit at the expense of my wife, there emerged one of the most important elements of the American character—the element of suspicion and mistrust.

"There is a well-worn British maxim to the effect that a man must be assumed to be honest until you have proved him a rogue; in the States (and especially in New York,) you are blandly and confidently assumed to be a rogue in any case.

"The people of wealth control the politicians; the politicians appoint the officials, the officials indict the people of wealth who are arraigned before courts practically constituted by the aforesaid politicians—and one is confronted with a most bewildering circle of downright crime, whose only virtue lies in its universality!

"This will seem strange to the British reader, as it seemed strange to me. But in my next article I will relate stark, every-day facts of New York life which will strike the stolid Britisher as being more incredible than the wildest fiction.

"I shall tear the veil from the colossal corruption known in American politics as 'The Machine;' I shall take a peep into the bewildering maze of graft and lies which Uncle Sam designates 'the world of business;' I shall endeavor to lay bare the fetid rottenness of the most blackguardly police system in the world; I shall show you the ghastly poverty and wholesale murder out of which New York has wrought its greatness; I shall show you its hundreds of thousands of degraded daughters of Babylon—and then, perhaps, you will understand why I do not bow the votive knee beneath the folds of the Star Spangled Banner."

It seems to me that Victor Grayson must have been taking lessons in New York and writing dime fiction, and that Upton Sinclair will have to look to his laurels pretty smartly when this young British rubberneck gets his fountain-pen properly fixed to his writing-pad!

EXPLODE BOMB IN LISBON.

LISBON (Portugal) July 26.—A bomb exploded in a coppersmith's workshop here Monday and seriously injured the proprietor who opened a drawer, in which it had been concealed. All his employees were arrested. The police made a number of raids on revolutionary labor clubs today. They seized a quantity of bombs and arrested many of the members.

WIFE OF A DIPLOMAT DOUBLE OF ANTOINETTE.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mme. De la Rocca, wife of the first secretary of the French Embassy, is considered one of the handsomest women in the diplomatic set. She is youthful in appearance and is said to resemble in features the famous beauty, Queen Marie Antoinette, and, when appearing in fancy dress in the character of the unhappy French Queen, the resemblance is considered striking.

Mme. De la Rocca has a large family of interesting and beautiful children, to whom she is extremely devoted. She is very talented, and among other accomplishments, enjoys a reputation as a playright, one of her plays having been produced here last season by a local society before a fashionable and enthusiastic audience. The authoress herself took part in the performance and rendered a fancy dance, which was described as one of the features of the occasion, with captivating grace.

The De la Roccas have been in Washington seven or eight years and are among the best-known members, not only of the French colony, but of local society. At present they are enjoying their vacation with the diplomatic summer colony.

CANALS TO FIGHT RAILROADS.

Merchants of England Have New Plan to Compel Lower Freight Rates.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The merchants of England have just taken serious alarm at the great increase in railroad freights which it is proposed should come into operation in England next year. The railroad corporations, of course, blame their servants and say they must put up their charges to meet recent rises in wages and the new cost of raw materials, but the tradesmen say they cannot bear any further impositions on their business. And they have looked around of late to see how they can get the best of the railroads.

Even if one leavs out of account the possibilities of cheap auto traction, the merchants and traders are not likely to take new railroad taxes without a good stand-up fight. The railroads seem to have forgotten that England is intersected with one of the finest canal systems in the world, headed by the Manchester Ship Canal, and these canals are to be utilized in the coming great fight between the railroad corporations and the public if the corporations do not quickly reduce their new schedules and talk good business sense.

True, most of these waterways have been purchased for a few thousand dollars at different times by the railroads, but when the quarrel comes to a head that will not weigh heavily against the traders. What the British Parliament has given to the railroads it can take from them. And if Parliament says to the railroads, "Give up the canals and take paper stock for them!" the railroads will have to take the script, even if the price offered to them is merely nominal.

A new organization of merchants is now at work to make this canal question a burning one in England during the fall. They call themselves "The Waterways Association," said the object of this Waterways Association is that the four great canal routes connecting London with Liverpool and Bristol with Hull, and all four, of course, with each other, should be acquired by the state and vested in a newly-created Waterways Board, which would issue guaranteed stock in exchange for the property of each canal corporation.

The effect of these proposals would be:

To put an end to the present system of divided ownership, which makes any general improvement in canal-borne transport impossible and hinders long-distance transport.

To eliminate the ownership of canals by railroads, who are accused by the association of having strangled canal transport "in their own supposed interests."

To widen and deepen existing canals, so as to allow of improved methods of traction, and to diminish the enormous number of locks which now waste time and water.

It is not proposed that the state should act as a carrier. The board would simply maintain the waterways and take the tolls which would, however, be reduced far below their present level.

The association believes that their proposal would reduce the cost of canal transport 25 per cent. They have attracted support from most of the great cities, and on the Parliamentary Comittee, which has been formed to promote the objects of the association, there sit many Unionist members who cannot be suspected of any hostility to railroads or of admiration for any proposals with a Socialistic bias.

As a consequence, the big British railroad corporations are now in for a lively fight with the men who provide most of their best freights.

MIX TEA, MUSIC AND POKER.

Despite Occasional Police Raids, Paris Gamblers Openly Advertise Their Establishments.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In Paris the "tripot" of the gamblers is a flourishing institution. Of course, these establishments are raided from time to time by the police, especially just after the papers have worked themselves into a fit of virtuous indignation, or someone has asked a question in the Chamber. But these raids are quite farcical. A few roulette wheels and counters are swept up, a few names taken, but, as there is always duplicate apparatus, gambling is in full swing again almost before the police have left the building.

The proprietors of these tripots know perfectly well that they can snap their fingers at the law, and one of them has just been sending out a flood of circulars, quite openly, advertising his saloon, which he terms, with delightful humor, "The Philanthropic Association of the Eighth Arrondissement." Here is his seductive programme for the opening ceremony:

"At 4 o'clock, tea and concert. At six, little horses, poker, ecarte and bridge. At eight, gala dinner and musical evening. At ten, opening of the gaming-rooms. First room, great table baccarat, with a bank minimum of $10,000; tables two and three, chemin de fer, minimum of $20 and $5 respectively. Little room, table reserved for small players, minimum stake $1. N.B.: To facilitate the entrance into our saloon of strangers who have come for 'la grande semaine' of the Grand Prix, temporary tickets will be supplied on request."

Dr. Carel Predicts Marvelous Surgical Operations After Biological Difficulties Involved Are Overcome.

PARIS, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Amazing predictions were made by Prof. Carel, the winner of the recent Nobel prize, in his recent review of the triumphs of surgery, at the Broca Hospital in Paris.

Dr. Carel, who, though a French scientist, is now working at the Rockefeller Institute in New York, is of the opinion that however marvelous the progress of organic surgery and biology during the last fifty years, much greater progress might be expected shortly. Operations on the heart, brain, liver, intestines, aorta and the joints would soon be of every-day occurrence. Hitherto they had only been attempted in the case of animals, where they invariably succeeded, because they were technically of extreme simplicity and only required coolness and operative science.

From the surgical point of view, Dr. Carel said it was quite easy to change a kidney, and as easy, for the matter of that, to change a leg. It was all a question of technical knowledge and dexterity, which had already been fixed five or six years ago. According to his view, although certain precautions were necessary, such operations were almost as simple as that for appendicitis. But the biological point of view was very different. Individuality intervened in a manner still enveloped in some mystery. Thus a limb taken from a dog could always be re-inserted and the animal sometimes lived many years, but if, for example, a kidney taken from one dog were implanted in another, the latter died in forty days with serious lesions in the grafted organ, which, nevertheless, would have performed its functions thoroughly meanwhile.

"We do not yet know," said Dr. Carel, "the conditions of biological relationship necessary to ensure success in similar operations upon human beings, but laboratory research has led to the successful surgical grafting of fragments of skin, the cornea, and therefore we can expect with confidence fresh advances in surgery in the same direction."

UNINVITED GUEST PROBLEM.

London Hostesses Are Worrying as to How Crying Evil Can Best Be Abated.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] All the hostesses who have given fashionable parties in London this season complain that at the critical moment they found several uninvited guests in their rooms.

"It is no matter for surprise," said Lady Naylor-Leyland, who has suffered in common with other famous chatelaines from the same evil. "And, as hospitality is at present dispensed, it is difficult to see what remedy can be effective against such intruders."

With the present craze, indulged in by the so-called smart hostess, of entertaining everybody else's friends, preferably at a hotel, and of asking twice as many guests as the place will hold, the effort to keep a check on the list of the uninvited is beyond human power. The prospective hostess, from the date of the public announcement of her entertainment, is bombarded with requests for permission to send a card to this man or to add that girl to the dinner party that is being brought on to the function in question. Acquaintances, however slight, think nothing of importuning the dance-giver in the most unblushing fashion, and even of issuing verbal invitations to some uninvited friend to meet them in the hall and be introduced along with the rest.

On the night of the party the real hostess is far too occupied with the details of the entertainment to be able to devote anything except a casual glance at guests of whose names and faces she is, for the most part, completely ignorant. In short, the indiscriminate hospitality of the smart set of the present day has produced a race of promiscuous pleasure-seekers who flock where the roast quail are fattest and the champagne flows most freely, with scarcely a thought for those providing the delicacies.

It is a matter of common gossip that there are individuals going the social round, familiar figures at nine out of ten functions, whose only qualifications are unbounded effrontery and the art of wearing dress-clothes with an air of distinction. They study the columns headed "Fashionable Intelligence" and arrange their movements accordingly. Should their presence at a particular function be commented upon by some person more observant than his or her fellows, it is nobody's business to interfere. If he or she did, they would risk the consequences of a possible mistake, such a mistake as occurred recently when the host, noticing a man he particularly disliked, and who he was under the impression had not been favored with an invitation, demanded an explanation. The suspected guest at once withdrew in high dudgeon, and the next day forwarded two cards received from different sources for the other's party, with an intimation that a subscription to a certain charity had better accompany the subsequent apology.

REFUSE TO BE PHOTOGRAPHED.

Eighteen Hundred Municipal Cashiers in Berlin Would Rather Strike Than Be "Mugged."

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Eighteen hundred cashiers of the municipality of Berlin have raised the slogan "No photographs!" They refuse to be photographed and declare that sooner than look pleasant by order they will abandon their posts and go upon strike.

Two years ago a municipal cashier absconded with $18,000. After long considering how it would prevent future embezzlements, the Executive Council issued a decree requiring all cashiers in the employment of the city "to come and be photographed in order to facilitate the tracing of future embezzlers."

This is taken by the 1800 cashiers as a gross insult. To make the sting worse the municipality voted payment to the official photographer at the rate of 14 cents per cashier.

To be treated in advance as an embezzler and to have one's portrait officially valued at 14 cents is too much for the cashiers and serious trouble is impending.

ASQUITH WARNS TURKEY.

SAYS THEY VIOLATE TREATY.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

BIRMINGHAM (Eng.) July 26.—Prime Minister Asquith characterized the spectacle presented by the Balkan states as "disheartening and repellant" in a speech at the Chamber of Commerce centenary banquet here Monday night. On the other hand, he said, were the Balkan states drenching with one another's blood the territory their united efforts had freed from the Turkish rule; on the other hand was Turkey, disregarding the treaty of London, on which the ink was scarcely dry, and taking advantage of the differences between her late enemies to recover her lost territory.

The powers, continued Mr. Asquith, were doing everything possible to bring the disputants to a peaceful conference. Today it seemed likely that such a conference would take place.

"We believe," he added, "that it must result in the immediate suspension of arms and a speedy settlement, upon the terms of which, with a view to what has happened, the great powers must and will preserve their own judgment."

The Prime Minister warned Turkey that if she were ill-advised enough to set the provisions of the treaty of London at defiance, she must be prepared for the introduction of questions which it would be by no means to her interest to bring into the debate.

Squads of police defeated the efforts of suffragettes to mob Premier Asquith. Hostile crowds forced the suffragettes to take refuge in shops and offices. The women, however, succeeded in smashing several windows of the hotel where Mr. Asquith is staying. Six of them were arrested.

Colton.

ONE of the most enjoyable events of the summer season here was the luncheon party given at the Glenwood Mission Inn at Riverside Thursday by a trio of charming hostesses, Mrs. M. A. Bausch, Mrs. D. W. Willets and Mrs. E. G. Palmer, the affair being complimentary to a quintette of ladies who are visiting in the city, namely, Mrs. Henry Roller of St. Paul, Minn., Mrs. A. H. Griswold of El Centro, Mrs. Charles Watlington and Mrs. D. H. Carnes of Albuquerque, N. M., and Miss Muriel Howatt of Honolulu. Automobiles conveyed the guests over to the inn and at noon-time the large company, numbering near forty, was seated around tables in the main dining-room, which had adornment of masses of yellow coreopsis blooms and white daisies. The place cards were in the form of upturned parasols and garden hats filled with blossoms. Following the luncheon an organ recital was given for the benefit of the visitors, with afterwards a tour of the hostelry. Mrs. W. C. WEEK-END parties with beach picnics and swimming parties are the chief social gaiety here now. Many hostesses are entertaining week-end parties at their beach homes this week. One of the gayest of these house parties was that entertained by Mr. and Mrs. E. Avery McCarthy at their home on the Esplanade for Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. McPherson, nee Severance, a bride and groom of the summer. Among the guests were Miss Caroline Trask, Jack McFarland, Arthur and Herbert Howard and Joe Marsh. Valeska Suratt's Beauty Secrets
Removing Superfluous Hair

Miss Valeska Suratt

By Miss Valeska Suratt

REMOVING superfluous hair is a problem to many women. On the stage the continued use of a hair remover is necessary. Therefore it should be quickly efficacious and absolutely harmless to the skin. The formula I have perfected I believe solves the problem as nothing else has ever done. That is why it has become so tremendously popular. This formula never irritates, reddens or spots the skin. It dissolves the hair as by magic. Try it and you will be convinced. Hundreds of women could beautify themselves to a remarkable degree if they would remove not only the heavy hairs that appear on the face, but the soft down that is so frequently seen on the arms and face. This down is seen more often on those whose complexion is very light or very dark.

Get one ounce of simple sulfo solution. This you can get at the drug store for one dollar. Apply it with the finger tips to the superfluous hair, keeping the hair moist with it for two or three minutes until it has been dissolved. Then wipe it off with a damp cloth and wash the skin.

TAUNTED—You can stop your hair falling in a few days' time. My modesty will not prevent me from saying that I am known as the only woman on the American stage who wears no switches, puffs or other hair makeshifts. All the hair I have is my own. I grew it all through my own efforts. Here is the formula which is doing the same for hundreds of my readers and friends as for me:

Mix half a pint of alcohol with half a pint of water. To this add one ounce of beta-quinol. Shake thoroughly and then it will be ready to use. If you prefer, you can use imported bay rum instead of the water and alcohol. The beta-quinol you can get at almost any drug store for not more than fifty cents. This formula should be applied very freely to the scalp after brushing it generously for a few minutes all over. Rub the tonic thoroughly into the scalp with the finger tips.

Secrets Few People Know. Valeska Suratt, the Famous Self-Made Beauty Actress, Reveals Some of Her Treasured experience.

Any head of hair needs a shampoo to keep the scalp free from scurf, and let the roots breathe. Do not use soap. Use eggol, which you can get at any good drug store for twenty-five cents. It has no equal as a shampoo.

STELLA S.—It is no uncommon thing for a woman to develop her bust several inches in a few weeks' time, naturally and safely, by using the following formula:

In a half pint of cold water, dissolve two ounces ruetone, and half a cup of sugar, all well mixed together. Of this, take two teaspoonfuls three or four times a day in a wine-glass of water, after your meals. The ruetone will cost you one dollar at the drug store.

ERUPTIONS—I do not wonder that ordinary tonics have not driven away your pimples. Here is a very effective safe blood cleanser:

Dissolve twelve ounces of granulated sugar in one-half pint of water, add one ounce of sarsene, and mix the whole together thoroughly, then add more water to make a pint. Sarsene is a liquid which you can get at the drug store by the ounce. Get it in the original package. Take one or two teaspoonfuls of this mixture three or four times a day, with a little water if desired.

MISS S. R. B.—Blackheads should not be pinched out. It injures and spots the skin. To get rid of them permanently first wash the face with hot water and soap. Then sprinkle some neroxin generously upon a sponge made wet with hot water. Then rub well for a few minutes on the parts of the skin which are affected with blackheads. You should be able to secure the neroxin at any druggist's for fifty cents.

UGLY—Every spot, every freckle, every blemish on the skin of the face, hands and arms will vanish by using this mixture:

Let half a pint of water come almost to a boil. Add two tablespoonfuls of glycerine. Keep stirring while adding one ounce of sintone, until it is all dissolved. Then let it cool. If the cream is too thick to pour easily from a bottle, thin it down a little with more hot water. The cream will be white and santiny. Hold a wet towel to the face several times for several minutes. Rub this cream on the entire face. Then wipe off with a soft, dry cloth. Then apply again and let it dry on the face. Repeat this again at night. Any good druggist will let you have sintone for about fifty cents.

ODD LOOKING—I never have known anything to rejuvenate the skin as splendidly as this. I have seen deep wrinkles leave entirely in a very short time by its use, as well as crows' feet, and sagging of cheeks. It will make you look years younger. Pour half a pint of hot water in a bowl and place the bowl in a pan of water over a slow fire. To this add two ounces of eptol. Stir until it is dissolved and starts to cream. Then remove from the fire, slowly add two tablespoonfuls of glycerine, and continue to stir until it is cold. Eptol may be obtained for no more than fifty cents at any good drug store. This cream should be applied very liberally and thoroughly rubbed into the skin until it has disappeared. The cream will not grow hair on the face. Keep the cream in an air-tight jar or bottle—[Advertisement.

Superfluous Hair Truths

Stop Experimenting

There are but few depilatories sold. You think there are hundreds because you have used the same identical preparations under several different names. This is easily explained. Women stop using

when they learn that they are harmful. Therefore, they can not be sold under the same name for any length of time. Then the identical, worthless, harmful concoctions are given new names and advertised again as totally different preparations to who innocently buy them over and over again under different names, and this will continue as long as women are so unwise as to experiment with unknown, so-called hair removers.

DeMiracle

Has Stood the Test of Time

De Miracle has been sold as De Miracle for over eleven years, and its name has never been changed. It is acknowledged the world over by eminent authorities as the one safe, perfected hair remover, therefore it is the only depilatory you can use without experimenting.

Leaves No Tell-Tale Smell

If you use De Miracle it will be impossible for any curious person to know that you have used a hair remover because De Miracle evaporates immediately after accomplishing its work, therefore leaves no odor whatever. On the other hand, if you use any depilatory with a distinctive odor, an offensive, tell-tale smell will cling to your skin for hours.

Into or religion he has "We today," he complains, "must love or hate, praise or condemn, censure or pity; exercise detestable coxcombery or moral judgment upon everything." The nearest he comes to such criticism is in "Popular Fallacies." But these papers are in a far lighter vein than even De Quincey's on "Casuistry." Notice the choice of topics: "That a man should not smile at his own jest;" "That enough is as good as a feast;" "That the worst puns are the best;" "That handsome is what handsome does."

Lamb proposes to settle no problems, religious, social, economic or governmental. He tampers with no "ites," "isms," "ologies," nor "ocracies." But generously does he share with you his ripe, sane, mellow enthusiasms and appreciations. If he carries you with him, if he fixes in your mind some canon of critical faith (perhaps against your will,) it is because he is persuasive, not because he persuades; because he glows, not because he insists.

Let us look somewhat in detail at Lamb's dramatic, literary and artistic criticisms. His most critical mood is found in his dramatic appreciations, fancies and hobbies. His regard for the traditions and the dignity of the stage, his plea for acting as an art, come out in a paper: "Some of Old Actors."

In the "Tragedies of Shakespeare" is a clever argument of Lamb's that "of all plays, Shakespeare's are less for production." He takes a rather unusually methodical tone of announcing his theory and substantiating it by detailed discussion, emphasis and illustrative evidence. He covers the ground more thoroughly than usual and marshals his forces with alternate dignity and humor. Again he shows a true dogmatic sense of the acting qualities of difficult scenes, and employs a distinctly technical method of dramatic criticism in such passages as that on "The Difficulty of Acting Hamlet."

He uses a very close and careful method of exposition in setting forth the idea that "the characters of Shakespeare are objects of meditation rather than of curiosity as to their action." He sets before you so high an ideal of the great Shakespearean characters that he convinces you for the time of the cheapness of objectifying them. His treatment of Othello, whom he considers the apotheosis of jealousy, is along the same lines. This whole discussion as to style is illustrative of Lamb's picturesque and temperamental method of criticism. A plea for simplicity and dignity is the consistent note throughout. He is over-fastidious in this matter. He exclaims almost peevishly against the "shifting of scenes about on the stage," and the offense of an actor's changing garments like a Romish priest at a mass, all in the midst of a great tragedy.

There is some evidence of literary theory in Lamb's criticisms. He persistently measures all literary values up to one great standard, "their appeal to the heart of man." He sets his face against the artificial and meretricious. In speaking of Ford he says: "He sought for sublimity not in metaphors and visible images, but directly where she has full residence —in the heart of man." Again in the "Essays on Brooks" he complains of the "tyrannical pre-eminence of the understanding in his most passionate writings, which are frozen and made rigid by intellect." Always he approaches the object of his criticism from the human side. He looks for the "nature and the person of the author beneath his writings." A paper organized entirely upon this basis is that on "The Poetical Works of George Wither."

Besides this appeal for the native and the human in all art and literature, a second principle lies back of all Lamb's criticism—that the necessary element in any work of genius is an independence of small, academic rules. Always he shows the aversion of a fine, cultivated mind to the unreceptive, bookish, neurotic, bloodless superciliousness of the hide-bound pedant. As a close critic of technique Lamb has had little to say: not so much from a lack of knowledge as from disinclination to dwell upon such subjects. In some of his criticisms of sixteenth and seventeenth century verse he does write much of meter, structure and method. But remember that Lamb is a literary layman. He simply rejoices in whatever artistic excellence he finds. He revels in it. He appreciates it exquisitely. He has no empirical quarrels with subjects beyond his training or his interest.

Just a word on Lamb's art criticisms. Here, still more than in the literary field, it is true that we find no real, objective technical criticism. But again we have his fine feeling for things. His point of view toward art is distinctly literary, and so is his critical terminology. Perhaps one of his best hits of critical writing is found in his impressionistic but somewhat philosophical appreciation of Hogarth. Very ingeniously presented is that anology between Hogarth's style and that of the novels of Smollett and Fielding.

On the whole, Lamb has not a keen sense of relative values. He treats only of those things which he chances upon, and even of these he selects only such as lure him. There is always a light surmise; a suppositional, inferential delicacy; a dallying, a purposeless brooding.

"California," by Arthur T. Johnson. An Englishman's impressions of everyday life and things in the Golden State.

LITERARY GOSSIP.

"The Spirit of American Literature," by John Albert Macy, is a collection of studies of sixteen American authors. In spite of his expressed opinion that every generation "looks with too Chinese reverence upon its ancestors," Mr. Macy has included only two living writers among his subjects, although the essay on Lanier pays tribute to two of our younger poets. These are Mrs. Marks (Josephine Preston Peabody) and Robert Haven Schauffler. The essay begins "Three volumes of unimpeachable poetry have been written in America: 'Leaves of Grass,' the thin volume of Poe, and the poetry of Sidney Lanier." The years when Lanier was writing he calls "that era of American poetry which is chiefly marked by a false post-Tennysonism, an era of nicely-made lyrics that have neither passion nor an individual sense of beauty." He sees today signs of something better, however, "nay, distinguished specimens of something better" in Mrs. Marks's "The Singing Man" and in Mr. Schauffler's "Scum o' the Earth."

The indifference of people to the dangers which threaten them is in no way better shown than in the toleration with which the common housefly is endured. In view of the startling facts which have been proven by scientific investigation, it is important that everyone should take a hand in exterminating that dangerous insect.

The germs of typhoid fever, tuberculosis, infantile enteritis, cholera and infantile paralysis are carried from place to place by the housefly. It can carry a million or more germs on its feet. It breeds in filth, lives in filth, and carries on its sticky legs and feet and mouth the germs from the filthiest places to our clean houses and clean food.

The female breeds over 500,000,000 offspring in a season, and out of that number 8,000,000 live to carry on the deadly work. Ten million dollars is spent every year in screens, and with a much less expenditure of money and energy the dangerous fly could be practically exterminated, and the spread of many diseases prevented.

It is a fact vouched for by authorities that more soldiers were killed during the Spanish-American War by flies than by Spanish bullets.

The indifference to the fly is possibly due to a lack of knowledge as to the best methods of destroying them. This is now remedied by a practical book on the subject, "The Reduction of Domestic Flies," by Edward H. Ross, which gives instructions for the extermination of flies and many facts regarding them which should be the common knowledge of all householders, health officers, doctors, and, in fact, everyone.

Notwithstanding the fact that a number of writers whose names stand for thoroughness of method have interested themselves in the life and teachings of Francisco Ferrer, the alleged Spanish anarchist, whose judicial murder in 1909 excited such protest throughout the civilized world, curious misconceptions exist regarding Ferrer's aims and ideals. So that the English-speaking world may be afforded a first-hand and conclusive impression of the programme of education which so stirred the animosity of the conservative and clerical element of Spain, the Putnams have in train the publication of a translation of "The Origin and Ideals of the Modern School," in which Ferrer presents the system of education he devised to the end that the boys and girls brought up under the influence of the modern school might fulfill the ideas of the school by becoming well instructed, truthful, just, and free from all prejudice. "The Origin and Ideals of the Modern School" was found among the author's effects recently restored to his family. It was written after the author's release from prison about a year before his reincarceration and execution. "The Origin and Ideals of the Modern School" was published by the Putnams last month.

The young husband in Edward Sandford Martin's just-published "Reflections of a Beginning Husband" has a way of commenting upon the passing show—particularly the women's part of it, as shown by the following remarks:

"What is there about a woman's mind—if it is a fairly good one—that is so extraordinarily stimulating to a man's mind, so that when you're too tired to talk to a man you can chatter on amazingly to a woman, provided she's the right one! They beat drink; they certainly do! They are the great natural stimulant and tonic for mankind."

"I have bursts of momentary conviction to the effect that if women go on assimilating four-fifths of the available religion and leaving nine-tenths of the alcohol and nearly all the tobacco to the men, they will govern our world before we know it. The Turks understand better. The male Turks make a specialty of piety, go without rum, and share tobacco liberally with their women."

"To chose and decide things seem in our day to be very largely women's work."

"There is no living without women, and to be assigned to one of them and to have her contrive that there shall be no living with her makes a serious dilemma."

"Raising babies must have been very much simplified by the invention of the kodak. When infants had to run to the photographer's for every new picture, I don't see how they got their natural rest."

Within a year of the publication of "Theories of Solutions," the Yale University Press is preparing a second edition. The author, Svante August Arrhenius, is director of the Nobel Institute of the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences, Stockholm. The book comprises the substance of the Silliman Memorial Lectures, delivered at Yale University in 1911. It contains chapter I, "Short History of the Theory of Solutions;" chapter II, "The Modern Molecular Theory;" chapter III, "Suspensions;" chapter IV, "The Phenomena of Absorption;" chapter V, "The Analogy Between the Gaseous and the Dissolved State of Matter;" chapter VI, "Development of the Theory of Electrolytic Dissociation;" chapter VII, "Velocity of Reactions;" chapter VIII, "Conductivity of Solutions of Strong Electrolytes;" chapter IX, "Equilibria in Solutions;" chapter X, "The Abnormality of Strong Electrolytes," and chapter XI, "The Doctrine of Energy in Regard to Solutions." As a further assistance to the student, the book contains a list of bibliographical references, an index of authors, and an index of subjects.

Margaret Cameron, author of "Tangles" and "The Pretender Person," is at present traveling in South America. When at Chile a few weeks ago she gave a lecture at the University Club. The subject was Mexico, which, it may be remembered, she has described in her travel-novel, "The Pretender Person." The following paragraph is a literal translation of a description of the lecture as it appeared in a Spanish newspaper: "In a graphic and poetical manner she painted the active history of the Mexican nation from its discovery down to modern times, relating admirably the different native races, their languages, customs and progresses. The lecture was a complete description of a true trip made by a traveler accustomed to understand in all places the different classes of humanity. The imagination of the listeners passed from the Asiatic Orient to the Mexican villages, listening to sounds, phrases, enjoying the description of most varied colors, and sympathizing with the intimate life of the inhabitants. She told of her trips in an automobile with unbelievable rapidity from the Aztec village, where the customs of its civilization and ancient culture are still preserved; and suddenly arrived at the 'plaza' of the capital, where there is congregated a population which represents the faults and virtues of the entire world."

A book which seeks to acquaint the reader with the great thinkers of the past and their thought and which also leads him to a solution of the main problems, is "An Introduction to Philosophy" by Orlin Ottman Fletcher, professor of philosophy in Furman University. A simple history of philosophy is apt to leave the student critical and skeptical without positive conviction; a purely constructive one is likely to leave him dogmatic and narrow. Construction in the light of history is the natural solution, and it is a philosophy along such lines that Prof. Fletcher has written. The general topics into which his introduction is divided are as follows: Part I—General Introduction; Part II—Historical Introduction with chapters on Ancient, Medieval and Modern Philosophy; Part III — Elements of General Philosophy taking up Experience, Skepticism, Solipsism, Appearance and Reality, Phenomenalism. Is Cognitive Experience Resoluble? Tri-Phasal Character of Cognitive Activity, A Constructive Study of Cognition, General View of the Categories, Permanence and Change, Individuality, Substantiality, Quality, Quantity, Space, Time, Activity, Rest and Motion, Casuality, Finality, Personality, Sociality; Part IV—Human Freedom and the Existence of God.

Next to our human curiosity to see ourselves as others see us is the interest with which we seize every opportunity to see others—especially others who have "done things"—as they see themselves. Reporters and publicity men cater to this taste by giving much space and ink to personal interviews detailing the likes and dislikes of public favorites, their attitude toward their work and toward their audience. Lately the custom has taken new form in book reviews written by the authors themselves. Somewhat interesting is the review of the recently-published volume of essays, "Youth and Life," written by the author, Randolph S. Bourne, for "The Dorms," a college bulletin of Columbia University. It says in part:

"The title, I fear, implies a much greater unity than actually exists, for the fourteen essays in the book were written at different times during the last two years and for different occasions. Of course I can feel the unity, because the papers all represent aspects of my most vivid experience, very much idealized and, in a way, poetized, I suppose, and yet crystallizing the issues and the problems which I have met, and which I assume any other young man or girl must have met, who has had a considerable struggle to get adjusted to the world and to find the people and the ideas which really nourished them and gave them opportunity to express themselves.

"I like to think of the book, therefore, as a sort of spiritual autobiography of my life from 19 to 25, where, it is true, I myself am very rarely mentioned, but where all the ideas and reactions and ambitions and desires of that time of endeavor to find myself in the world, are caught into some semblance of order and touched up with more of an ideal quality than, I must confess, they possessed in their reality. Probably my best friends would never recognize me in it, and at times I can hardly recognize myself, both because some of the experiences are left so far behind me as almost to seem illusory, and because there is at times a subtle temptation to one who takes a pen in his hand to leave far behind him the concrete world of things and facts."

BOOK NEWS.

In answer to the many inquiries which have been coming in ever since publication in magazine form of Booth Tarkington's first "Penrod" story, announcement is made by Doubleday, Page & Co. that these tales are parts of a new Tarkington novel to be published by that house next spring. The volume is a continuous story, and not a book of short stories; and the magazine material has been adapted to that purpose from the substance of the novel, upon which Mr. Tarkington is now hard at work. Ever since the publication of "The Flirt," Tarkington enthusiasts have hailed with delight the skill with which he handled the boy character of Hedric. At that time it was announced that Mr. Tarkington had entered a field which was a favorite with him; that he had made a deep study of the heart of boyville, and there would be more stories about boys from him in the near future.

John Masefield's three books have recently been brought out in a new edition uniformly bound in plain red cloth and gold lettering. Mr. Masefield is an author who believes in constant revision; consequently these issues are not merely reprints—except in the case of "The Daffodil Fields." "The Everlasting Mercy," which is bound with "The Widow in the Bye Street," embodies a number of changes and includes a new stanza, while "Dauber," the principal poem in the third volume, "The Story of a Round House," has been very extensively revised, some verses being taken out, others added, and almost all of them having been altered to a greater or less extent.

Houghton Mifflin announce a third edition of Henry Sydnor Harrison's novel "V. V.'s Eyes" and a second edition of Frances N. S. Allen's novel "The Invaders."

Dr. S. Weir Mitchell has written another long novel, "Westways," which will be published by The Century Company. "Westways" is a charming country estate of middle Pennsylvania in the fifties and sixties; and the story deals with the life and people who call Westways home, and with certain unusual phases of the Civil War.

The "Reminiscences of Augustus Saint-Gaudens" have been edited and amplified by his son, Homer Saint-Gaudens; and the work will be issued in the fall in two large volumes, with many illustrations showing Saint-Gaudens" work, and persons and places associated with his life and career.

The Century Company has imported the illustrations for Kipling's "Jungle Book" made by the English artists, Maurice and Edward Detmold, and will issue a new illustrated edition of this classic in the fall.

Henry Holt & Co. have just concluded arrangements with Eugene Manlove Rhodes for the publication this fall of Bransford in Arcadia or "The Little Eohippus." The hero of this book was well liked when he appeared in the author's previous "Good Men and True." In that book, however, there was practically no woman, while in this new romance the heroine fairly shares the honors with Jeff, who, after his first encounter with her, goes off quoting the little rhyme about another Eleanor who "had twenty-seven different kinds of Hell in her," but he finds that Eleanor has room for other qualities too. There is said to be plenty of peril in the episodes.

To accommodate the English publishers, Henry Holt & Co. have had to somewhat hold back the issue of "The Yoke of Pity," which is now definitely announced for publication this week. It is a translation of Julien Benda's "L'Ordination" by Gilbert Cannan, whose English rendering of "Jean Christophe" has been highly praised by high authorities. It may be remembered that Benda's novel, which the Thunderer called "the novel of the winter in Paris," deals chiefly with the hero's struggle between passionate devotion to his career and the claims of love, pity and domestic responsibilities.

There will be a new book by Ellis Parker Butler, author of "Pigs is Pigs," this fall, "The Jack-Knife Man"—the story of a shiftless, lovable ne'er-do-well, who is adopted by a little lame waif.

A biography of notable interest this fall will be Dr. C. V. Legros's "Fabre, Poet of Science." Henri Fabre is popularly known in this country as the author of "Social Life in the Insect World," while scientists recognize him as one of the foremost naturalists of the age.

WITH THE AUTHORS.

Lieut. Jerome C. Hunsaker, whose translation of Gustav Eiffel's "The Resistance of the Air and Aviation" has just been published, is spending the summer at Scituate.

Frederick Trevor Hill, author of Lincoln, the Lawyer," and a well-known New York lawyer, is spending the summer abroad. His "The Thirteenth Juror" will be issued in the fall.

James D. Whelpley, who has traveled and studied widely, has made a book of his findings, dealing authoritatively with many phases of international trade, and the part it plays in world progress. The Century Company will issue Mr. Whelpley's book in the fall with many illustrations from photographs.

Meredith Nicholson, the well-known Indiana novelist, has just finished a new story which will be published in the early fall. Mr. Nicholson will spend the rest of the summer with his family at Mackinac Island, Mich.

Mr. Crawford's personal history is as unconventional as his book. When a young man of 20 he was threatened with lung trouble and was ordered to Africa. It was in 1889 that he first saw the coast of Africa slipping past under the port rails of a big steamer as she rolled to the long combers of the Atlantic. He landed, believing that he had come for a brief sojourn. As a matter of fact, he was not to return for twenty years.

His first expedition was 200 miles inland. After it, what he terms the "boring in" to the interior commenced. Thirty-two months after leaving Great Britain he reached the savage town of Benguella, 1000 miles from the coast. Here he lived with the great King Mushidi, whose rise to power and the misuse of that power he graphically describes. He recounts the adventures of twenty years in the long grass of Central Africa with a strong sense of humor—a humor which is somehow unexpected when one realizes the danger and the loneliness through which he passed. For twenty years he thought black, encountering hardly any white faces.

He helped to establish the mission station at Luanza, built on a cliff overhanging the Great White Lake. Here, with unfailing success he preached the gospel to the uttermost parts of Africa, drawing the natives to him from far distant places.

His interpretation of native modes of thought, of native customs, native secret processes is something entirely new in social discoveries. He has much to say on the subject of the tendency to degradation in the white man who finds himself isolated in the jungle. One white woman he found, a Portuguese, the queen of an African Nero.

On the woman question he is particularly interesting. He became aware of a secret society which flourishes in Central Africa. It is a sacred institution with hidden rites and ceremonies. Its purpose is to keep husbands in subjection. This is hardly the idea which the civilized world has of the place of woman in Africa, but as Mr. Crawford says, very nearly everything there is reversed, according to white notions.

A NEW GERMANY.

Paris is, par excellence, the home of the detective story, and London and New York are not so far behind; but who ever heard of "Germany" and "detective stories" in the same breath? When we think of Germany we think of the charcoal burner's little cot in the Black Forest, or of Wagner or of rows upon rows of guady wooden soldiers with fierce, upturned mustachios, or of the enchanted green vistas on the walls of the little German professor's room, but as for the Yankee detective story—well, we simply can't do it. And yet, the publishers of Burton E. Stevenson's "The Boule Cabinet" would tell us that that lively detective, Jim Godfrey, is making his debut in the Vaterland, and is meeting with a big success there. Can it be that the painstaking, analytic German mind is finding rest and recreation in solving mystery stories? At any rate, we can be sure that with the penetration for which the Germans are so well known they must be excellent judges of good detective work, and in offering them "The Boule Cabinet" we do not believe American cleverness will suffer at their hands. And not only has "The Boule Cabinet" been translated into German, but into Scandinavian as well.

Mr. Stevenson's latest is "The Gloved Hand," which his publishers have just brought out.

MAN AND RADIUM.

Sir William Osler has just delivered the opening lecture of the Silliman course at Yale University for 1913. The substance of these lectures on "The Evolution of Modern Medicine" is to be published by the Yale University press. Before tracing medicine from its very origin in magic, the author opens with a few paragraphs on man's place in the universe. Calling to mind the contrast between the coral island and the infinitesimal polyp, he recalls the fact that man is no greater in proportion to the world. Radium, he continues, is powerful, even in bits of one million millionth of a millimeter each. Man is the radium of the universe. Then, beginning with the medicine of man, so historic that the Pharaohs were youngsters beside them, he traces progress in that science to the present day. The book, like the lectures, will be illustrated.

CHESTERTON ON WILSON.

G. K. Chesterton, the essayist, is quoted from London as saying that he likes President Wilson's book, "The New Freedom," because it is not new and because it is not freedom, but is full of ancient bondage.

SHE SHOULD WORRY.

On the top floor of one of the tall office buildings of Pittsburgh, Pa., at the end of a corridor that leads to a remote corner of the structure, out of range of the noise of the busy streets and the bustle of the other business bureaux, is a small room. Its door bears no inscription to indicate who the tenant is, and within are none of the inviting comforts of the well-appointed business offices round about. A table and a chair are the only furniture, while the blank white walls boast but a single, simple frame, enclosing the motto, "Ideas and hard work are the keys to all success."

Beyond the smoke and dust and confusion of the same big city; out in the quiet suburb of Sewickley that stretches along the beautiful Monongahela, is an old estate. The grounds contain over fifty acres, and a brook, spanned by rustic bridges, winds its way down to the river. On a knoll rising in the center of the place stands a big white colonial house, with pillared porch and driveways, surrounded by ample shade trees, flower beds and shrubbery. Within are all the comforts and conveniences of a most modern home, yet the charm and atmosphere of an older house still lingers in its rooms. Here lives a happy family—a prosperous practicing physician, his wife, and their three sturdy boys.

It is a far cry from the scantily furnished room in that skyscraper to the country house at Sewickley, to be sure, yet both are closely linked in the life of one person. It is not the physician; much less the three or any one of the three boys.

It is no other than the mother and wife—Mrs. Mary Roberts Rinehart, wife of Dr. Stanley M. Rinehart, one of Pittsburgh's specialists—the author of "Seven Days," "Where There's a Will," "The Circular Staircase," and "The Case of Jennie Brice."

Mrs. Rinehart has made authorship a paying business; has achieved success and has experienced popularity, both as a novelist and a playwright, but she has never neglected her home nor forgotten her domestic duties.

In the morning, after a colloquy with the cook and an interview with the housemaid, after her three boys have been given the finishing touches that only a mother knows how to bestow upon them, have passed maternal inspection and have been sent cheerfully on their way to school; after the head of the house has been properly breakfasted and blessed with uxorial encouragement, Mrs. Rinehart leaves Sewickley—and then only—for the city and the bare little room, high up in the tall office building—her workshop—where she spends five hours a day, five days a week, writing books and plays, when her household duties permit.

"I am aware," said Mrs. Rinehart in a recent interview, "that they imagine Mary Roberts Rinehart is an old maid, with a lean, wrinkled face, spectacles, a dress that doesn't fit, and perhaps a parrot; or that she is mannish in her garb and yearns for a vote; or that she talks of art and the wonders of Bohemia. I know they do, and it hurts me.

"I'm a regular person, with a home and a husband and three children; with all the desire of my sex to wear the best gowns I can have and wear them as well as the next woman. I don't wear mannish clothes, and I don't yearn for a vote. I don't talk about art, because I'm busy with my household and my writing. As for Bohemia, I have no part or parcel of it.

"We have a Pomeranian and an Airedale terrier and a Persian cat. We have a lot of chickens—Orpingtons, Plymouth Rocks and Wyandottes, all white—and a few turkeys.

"I have a very pleasant library in our home at Sewickley. It is equipped with all the books, pictures and desks that any author's heart could desire, but—I can't write in it. The only work I can do in our house is running the house. In a Pittsburgh office building I have a small office with a plain table and chair in it. There I do my writing. I consider five hours' work a good day, and then I go back to Sewickley and take up my household duties and pleasures again.

"So, you see, literature is more of a business than a passion with me. I like to write, but it doesn't take up all my thoughts. There is a demand for what I turn out, and I produce it as carefully and conscientiously as my manufacturer would produce collars or candy.

"It has had its rewards, like any other business. There were lean years and fat years. The leanest of the lean years brought $1200, and the fattest of the fat I earned $50,000. I once made $5000 in three weeks.

"Novels make much bigger money than short stories. In each short story you use up an idea. In a novel you use one idea, with a separate impulse for each chapter. If your big idea is good for thirty impulses or chapters, each chapter is good for 2000 words, and there you have a 60,000-word novel. I write each chapter for all it's worth, then I stop and consider the next one. I received good advice from one who has been my mentor in literary work: 'Always remember,' he said, 'to save the embrace between the hero and the heroine until the end of the last chapter, and you will keep them reading.' It was sound advice.

"A good crime story is always sure of an audience. It's certain we like crooks, whether they are in novels or on the stage. I write my stories for the public, and in them I try always to strike a popular note."

With all the work that is required to run the big house in Sewickley, to care for her children as a mother should, and increase her bank account, sometimes $50,000 a year, Mrs. Rinehart has dodged the crowsfeet of care and avoided the wrinkles of worry.

Rear-Admiral Lionel Grant Tufnell, retiring as naval adviser to the Greek government, has received from the King the grand cordon of the Order of the Savior, as a token of the country's appreciation of his labors. He went to Greece in 1911, from England, and brought the little country's navy to a high state of efficiency. With the other English officers connected with the naval mission he decided to retire on the renewal of the contract of the mission for a further period of two years.

The horoscope shows the powerful influence of the planets in ALL AFFAIRS OF LIFE. It shows diseases, deaths, love and marriage, financial affairs, investments, changes, talents, environments, about children, relatives; when and where to travel, what to seek or avoid; when in danger of losses, troubles, etc., etc.; also your good periods coming—GIVING DATES of these events for the FUTURE.

Huntington, De Wolf Hopper, Maxine Elliott, Ethel Barrymore, etc.

PROF. ALTHOUSE'S SKILLED work must not be classed with other readers. Do not waste money on the idiotic advice of HUMBUG astrologers, palmists, psychics—those doing dishonest work.

PROF. ALTHOUSE also gives expert PALM READINGS with each astrological reading.

DR. J. A. LARSON writes: "I want to say that your reading was the most satisfactory I have ever had in my life. I know a great deal about these sciences, and I consider your work as the most THOROUGH and RELIABLE of any reader in the United States." Readings given by MAIL, also.

the noted palmist of London, Eng., may be consulted at 322 S. SPRING ST., by those desiring CAREFUL, CONSCIENTIOUS AND SCIENTIFIC HAND READINGS FROM ONE OF THE FOREMOST PALMISTS OF THE DAY.

The earnest student and thinker will soon learn in his investigations along psychological lines that that which pertains to occult phenomena proper can readily be distinguished from crude and oft-exposed SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICKS, the most common of which is the telling of the subject's name, age, etc., AFTER HE HIMSELF HAS WRITTEN THAT information.

PALMISTRY, HONESTLY PRACTICED, WILL NOT tell you your name, but it WILL give you information of considerably greater value in everyday life.

Your vocation, your present line of work, matters of health and domestic life, financial conditions and ways and means of climbing out of a rut of ill-luck into wide paths of success and prosperity, can all be told you through scientific palmistry, WITHOUT A SINGLE QUESTION, WRITTEN OR VERBAL.

MRS. MASSON DOES NOT APPEAL TO IGNORANT SUPERSTITION, BUT TO THE FINEST INTELLIGENCE.

HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

MRS. MASSON,

the noted palmist of London, Eng., may be consulted at 322 S. SPRING ST., by those desiring CAREFUL, CONSCIENTIOUS AND SCIENTIFIC HAND READINGS FROM ONE OF THE FOREMOST PALMISTS OF THE DAY.

The earnest student and thinker will soon learn in his investigations along psychological lines that that which pertains to occult phenomena proper can readily be distinguished from crude and oft-exposed SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICKS, the most common of which is the telling of the subject's name, age, etc., AFTER HE HIMSELF HAS WRITTEN THAT information.

PALMISTRY, HONESTLY PRACTICED, WILL NOT tell you your name, but it WILL give you information of considerably greater value in every-day life.

Your vocation, your present line of work, matters of health and domestic life, financial conditions and ways and means of climbing out of a rut of ill-luck into wide paths of success and prosperity, can all be told you through scientific palmistry, WITHOUT A SINGLE QUESTION, WRITTEN OR VERBAL.

MRS. MASSON DOES NOT APPEAL TO IGNORANT SUPERSTITION, BUT TO THE FINEST INTELLIGENCE.

HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

BURN STORES IN CALUMET; WOMEN FORCED TO FLEE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CALUMET (Mich.) July 26.—Morgan & Grierson's general store and market was burned tonight at Centennial, two miles from Calumet, and the proprietors assert that the building was set on fire by strike sympathizers, because the proprietors today announced that hereafter no credit business would be done.

A dwelling next to the store was partly burned. Two companies of troops were at once dispatched to the scene of the fire.

The proprietors asserted that strikers were responsible for the fire and express fear for the safety of another owned by them at Ahmeek. The loss was $7000. The fire was the first destruction of property incident to the strike affecting interests not directly connected with the mine managements.

A special guard tonight was thrown around the home of Richard Bawden, superintendent of the Tri-Mountain mine of the Copper Range Consolidated Company. Strike sympathizers drove Mrs. Bawden and her two children away from home by threatening to burn the house. The woman, with her children, took refuge in a hotel at Houghton tonight, and Mr. Bawden asked a guard of militia to protect his home.

At least partial resumption of mine work in the copper field was planned today after the arrival of large contingents of additional State troops and of Gen. P. L. Abbey, commander of the brigade into which the Michigan guard is organized.

The mine companies are facing large losses from the seepage of water into some of the workings, those on the Conglomerate lode of the Calumet and Hecla being especially subject to such danger. Thus far the union men have been preventing all pumping from the underground workings, and early today even caused the shutting down of mine pumps which furnish water to their own residences in three mines in Keweena county.

Arbitration.

NEW LAW STAYS STRIKE OF EASTERN TRAINMEN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, July 26. — The threatened strike of 80,000 conductors and trainmen of forty-five eastern railroads for higher wages and improved working conditions will not be called. Articles of agreement to arbitrate under the Newlands Act the questions at issue, were signed today by the employee's representatives and the conference committee of railroad managers.

The agreement was not reached until the managers had withdrawn the proposal that their own grievances against the men also should be arbitrated at the same time. This claim, the managers announced today, they had relinquished to "protect the public" from a tieup which the employees intended to force if the railroads persisted in pressing their point.

Today's peaceful outcome of the dispute was the result of efforts made by the board of mediation and conciliation recently created in the hurriedly passed Newlands Act to meet the situation. The board, consisting of William Lea Chambers, Martin A. Knapp and G. W. Hanger, brought about today's agreement after conferences with the disputants which continued more than a week.

With the elimination of the eight grievances for which the railroads desired consideration, the articles of arbitration comprise, without alteration, the sixteen original demands presented by the conductors and trainmen. The only point gained by the railroads was a provision that the award of the board of arbitration, to be later constituted of six members, shall take effect October 1, next, instead of May 1, last, the date requested by the employees.

The members of the mediation board returned tonight to Washington, where they will report to President Wilson. The board will not again be called into action unless the four arbitrators nominated by the railroads and the men fail to agree on a fifth and sixth to complete the arbitration board.

Curiosity.

LOOK AT MA'S BEDSPREAD; OH! IT'S THE NEW BALLOT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A ballot fully as large as an ordinary bedspread containing at least thirty-seven propositions for submission to the people in addition to all the names of the State and county candidates for office, will puzzle the citizens who go to the polls in California at the next general election, November, 1914. Twenty-three proposed constitutional amendments, seven referendum proposals, three and possibly more initiative measures and three proposals for bonds, make up the ballot menu that seems assured.

It was announced from the Secretary of State's office today that practically all the referendum and initiative petitions that are being circulated would have a sufficient number of signatures to place them on the ballot.

This announcement was the result of reports from various county clerks received at the office.

The law against which successful referendum petitions are said to have been successful are: "Iowa abatement," "workingmen's compensation," "fishing license," "non-sale of game," "blue sky," "water commission," "2 to 6 a.m. saloon closing."

The Socialists report on the number of signatures secured to the initiative petition in favor of the "universal eight-hour law" indicates that measure will find a place on the ballot. Other initiative petitions which will get space in the ballot will be the "anti-capital punishment" law and the proposed act repealing the poll tax.

Under an opinion rendered by the Atttorney-General's office the signatures secured to these two petitions prior to the last election make them eligible for the ballot.

Three propositions proposed bond issues. One is for the "greater capitol extension" project at Sacramento, proposing the issuance of $300,000 in bonds, another providing for $750,000 for a greater State Fair and a third proposition for $1,000,000 bond issue for a State building in San Francisco's civic center, will go before the people for ratification. Any initiative law proposed may be added between now and November, 1914, if the required number of signatures, 19,400, are secured to a petition. All petitions must be filed ninety days before the date of election, to get on the ballot.

NAMES SOLICITOR-GENERAL.

President Appoints West Virginia Congressman to Ten Thousand Dollars a Year Post.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 26.—John William Davis of Clarksburg, W. Va., Representative of the First West Virginia Congressional District, was nominated today by President Wilson to be Solicitor-General of the United States. Mr. Davis was the choice of Atty.-Gen. McReynolds from a long list of prominent lawyers to fill the important $10,000 post. He will be second ranking legal officer of the country, and the government's representative before the Supreme Court of the United States. Under the statute, the Solicitor-General is the only official of the Department of Justive who must be a lawyer, not excepting the Attorney-General.

Mr. Davis, who is 40 years old, has had a prominent legal career. He is serving his second term in Congress, having entered that body in 1911, and is a member of the House Judiciary Committee. He was formerly assistant professor of law at Washington and Lee University, member of the House of Delegates of West Virginia, where he was chairman of the Judiciary Committee; president of the West Virginia Bar Association, and a member of the West Virginia Commission on Uniform State Laws.

The position has been vacant since the resignation of John Marshall Bullitt of Louisville, Ky., several months ago. James A. Fowler, assistant to the Attorney-General, has acted as Solicitor-General during the interim.

MORE TROOPS AT CALUMET.

Union Labor Officials Disappointed that the Governor of Michigan Will Not End Strike for Them.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CALUMET (Mich.) July 26.—Reinforcements of State troops began arriving in Calumet today at daybreak. Companies from Big Rapids, Grand Haven and Muskegon, comprising the first battalion of the Second Regiment, reached the copper country early and special trains carrying troops from the lower penninsula followed at intervals of a few hours.

Union officials were plainly disappointed at the tenor of Gov. Ferris's reply to their proposal of yesterday that he intervene to settle the strike. They asserted that the Governor had failed to give the men's side of the controversy consideration equal to that accorded the companies, arguing that no request for troops had come from the union men and that no act of theirs justified the presence of the militia. Stress was laid on the fact that no destruction of property has taken place, the strike leaders claiming that such damage as has occurred was incidental to the closing of the mines. Sooner or later, it was stated, there would of necessity begin an investigation of industrial conditions hereabouts and the union officials say they preferred that the Governor make it in person and at once. Gen. P. Labbey of Kalamazoo, commander of the entire guard of the State, arrived today but will not take command until the regiments are completed by later arrivals.

BRITON SHOOTS HIMSELF.

Son of Member of Parliament and Cambridge University Graduate Weds Twice in Ten Weeks.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) July 26.—Douglas Hertz of Kansas City, whose wife disappeared from her hotel in St. Louis last Thursday, shot and dangerously wounded himself after a telephone conversation with his wife here tonight.

Mrs. Hertz was found tonight at the home of a friend. Hertz entered a saloon and telephoned Mrs. Hertz from there. After a long conversation he stepped away from the telephone and drawing a revolver shot himself over the heart. He was taken to a hospital.

As Hertz lay on the floor of the saloon after he had shot himself he moaned:

"I want my wife; I want my wife. She has ruined me but I want her."

Hertz has had two brides in the last ten weeks. His first wife was killed in a motor car accident while they were on their honeymoon trip. Eight weeks later he married Miss Mamie Roy who disappeared from their hotel in St. Louis last Thursday.

Mrs. Hertz tonight refused to explain why she had left her husband.

Hertz is a graduate of Cambridge University and, it is said, a son of a member of the British Parliament.

HENWOOD SENTENCED.

Denver Man Convicted of Murdering George E. Copeland Hears Recommendation to Save His Life.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DENVER, July 26.—Judge C. C. Butler this morning sentenced Harold G. Henwood to death within the week of October 24 for the murder of George E. Copeland, for which he recently was convicted after his second trial. The judge, however, recommended that the Governor of Colorado commute the sentence to life imprisonment. The jury which heard the second trial returned a verdict of first degree murder and assessed the punishment at death.

CRITICISE U. S. ADMIRAL.

Nicholson's Refusal to Send Marines to Ku-Ling Deplored in Non-Military Circles in Peking.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

PEKING, July 26.—The refusal of Rear-Admiral Reginald F. Nicholson, commander-in-chief of the American Asiatic fleet, to send American marines to Ku-Ling is generally criticised in non-military circles although the German and British admirals are reported to agree with Admiral Nicholson. American guards were at first agreed on by the British, German and American legations, owing to Chinese suspicions as to the disinterestedness of the other nationalities.

Ku-Ling is a high mountain town near Kiu-Kiang, where thousands of foreigners, mostly British and American women and children, take refuge from the summer heat and diseases of Central China.

The missionaries, business men and foreign consuls argue that it is better to protect foreigners in one safe place than to permit them to disperse, when protection will be more difficult.

It is pointed out that at Shanghai the volunteers and marines kept the armed rebels out of the concessions without fighting.

The only danger at Ku-Ling, seemingly, is from outlaws and dispersed soldiers attempting to loot. The American admiral has offered to escort the foreigners to the river, but refuses to detach a small guard.

The same question arose during former trouble.

TOKIO EDITORS NETTLED.

They Are Accusing the Japanese Cabinet of Lack of Adroitness in the Anti-alien Case.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

TOKIO, July 26.—Some of the leading newspapers today accuse the Japanese Cabinet of lack of diplomatic adroitness in the negotiations connected with the California alien land ownership legislation. They urge that advantage should be taken of Mexico's friendliness in order to further Japan's cause. At the same time they question the sincerity of the United States. M. Hashimoto, Vice-Minister of Commerce, made the following statement in connection with Japanese participation in the Panama-Pacific Exposition:

"The authorities insist that it is unreasonable for Japanese merchants to refuse to participate at the Panama-Pacific Exposition owing to their natural resentment against the alien land-ownership bill, but such participation would ease the situation and the Japanese government hopes that the nation will send as many exhibits as possible."

SANTA ANA, July 26.—The trustees of the First Presbyterian Church have announced plans to build an annex to the church for the Sunday-school department connected with the main building by corridors. The present Sunday-school rooms will be arranged so that they will become a part of the main auditorium. The improvements will cost about $7000.

Though Mrs. Ann Titus of Yorba Linda is 91 years old, she is competent to look after her property interests, according to a decision of Judge West, after she had combatted the petition of W. P. Ong of Pasadena, a friend, for letters of guardianship upon her estate.

Ray W. Perry, formerly an employee in the oil fields near Fullerton, was brought from Fresno today to answer to a charge of having forged the name of Allen Craig to a $50 check cashed at a Newport Beach saloon. Perry was found in the County Jail at Fresno, serving a sentence for stealing a bicycle.

SIX CATTLE SHIPS CHARTERED.

British Syndicate Prepares to Ship Ninety-three Thousand Steers out of Mexico.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW ORLEANS, (La.) July 26.—Arrangements are being made by local railway officials for the transportation of ninety-three thousand steers, which are to be shipped from the ranch of the Corralitios Ranch Company, Chihuahua, Mex., to avoid threatened confiscation by warring Mexican factions.

Six ships have been chartered to carry the cattle and each is expected to make ten voyages, while several acres near the Chalmette stock yards have been leased for use as temporary pens. The first shipment is expected about August 1. The cattle and ranch are the property of a British syndicate.

Former Secretary of the Navy Victor H. Metcalf Presides at Banquet Tendered Visitor.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OAKLAND (Cal.) July 26.—Secretary Daniels was entertained at dinner tonight by commercial bodies of Oakland. Victor H. Metcalf, former Secretary of the Navy, presided as toastmaster. While the dinner was in progress, a reception was held for Mrs. Daniels by the Women's Democratic Clubs of Alameda county, Oakland, Berkeley and San Francisco.

After the evening's entertainment, the Secretary and his party left for Portland, Or.

CITY OF NANKING FREE OF TROOPS.

NANKING (China) July 26.—The city of Nanking has been denuded of troops. Only enough soldiers to maintain order have been left. Foreign residents here fear trouble from the thousands of coolies who have been thrown out of work.

The Su Chow Fu rebels have retreated to the Huai River, where they have extended their front for a distance of several miles to resist the northern army advancing from the province of Nghan Hwei.

Northern troops today fired upon the imperial customs steamer Kutwu on the Yang Tse Kiang at Ching Kiang, four miles east of Nanking. Seventy shots struck the vessel, but no one was wounded.

The British gunboat Woodcock escorted the Kutwu up the river and demanded that the commander of the government forces explain. He apologized profusely and said that the attack on the river steamer was a mistake.

BRING RELIEF TO SHANGHAI.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

SHANGHAI, July 26.—The landing of sailors from the foreign warships at this city today has greatly relieved the foreigners and better class of Chinese, and the country people are beginning to return to their homes.

The country districts around Shanghai present an aspect of desolation. Villages have been burned and the crops ruined. Rotting corpses are lying everywhere. Philanthropic organizations are caring for the refugees, thousands of whom are still camping in the streets of this city.

The forces manning the Wu Song forts went over to the government yesterday, but on the same evening they rejoined the standard of the rebellion. The commanding general fled and the troops, to the number of 3000, all of whom are strongly pro-rebel, elected a new leader, who declares he will not participate in the fighting until attacked.

A special train is being kept in readiness to remove foreigners from Wu Sung, should the situation make such a course advisable.

All was quiet about the arsenal here today. The bombardment which it received from the government forces yesterday seems to have effectively removed the rebels. The bulk of them are concentrated in the neighborhood of Chapai, to the north of Shanghai.

SEAMAN THREATENS STRIKE.

Tie Up That Might Affect the Panama Canal Is in the Mind of Andrew Furuseth.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Andrew Furuseth, representing the sailors in legislative matters, is tired of waiting for action on the new coast seaman's bill he has been advocating and threatens a widespread strike unless Congress passes it.

Senator Clark of Arkansas, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, and president pro tem of the Senate, with the support of some of the other Democratic leaders in Congress is blocking consideration to the bill to relieve seamen from "involuntary servitude."

If the strike comes it promises to tie up shipping in the East and West and interfere with the successful opening of the Panama Canal.

Senator Clark has long been known as unfriendly to union labor legislation. He is one of the leaders of the ultra conservative or reactionary element among the Senate Democrats. He promised some time ago to give consideration in committee to the seamen's bill at the earliest opportunity; since then he has done nothing.

SHOOTS A PICKET.

Superintendent of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company Then Sends Victim to a Hospital.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STOCKTON, July 26.—Superintendent E. C. Monohan of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company shot and wounded James Briggs, a picket of the striking linemen this morning, following an assault made on him by three men supposed to have been strikers.

According to Monohan's story, this morning as he was leaving his home in an automobile, three men who were across the street began throwing stones. Several struck the machine, when he tourned around and seeing that one of the assailants had a gun, began shooting. At the first shot from Monohan, Briggs fell, wounded in the hip. The other two men fled.

Monohan summoned an ambulance and had the wounded man taken to the hospital, at the same time notifying the police. A number of arrests have been made. Monohan recently had a striker arrested for destroying

A MESSAGE TO MARSHALL.

Vice-President Hears That the Indiana Society Wants Him to Visit Los Angeles.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Vice-President Marshall today received a pleasing message from 10,000 former residents of Indiana, who are gathered in their annual picnic at Los Angeles, Cal.

The message signed by the Indiana Society of Los Angeles was as follows:

"We, the former residents of Indiana, at our annual gathering on the pleasant shores of the Pacific, send you greetings and invite you to visit Los Angeles and Southern California at your earliest convenience."

WILSON'S NOMINEES.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Nominations of James Gerard of New York for Ambassador to Germany; Frederick C. Penfield of Pennsylvania, for Ambassador to Austria, and Charles S. Hartman of Montana, for Minister to Ecuador, will be favorably reported by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Representative John W. Davis of West Virginia, has been nominated Solicitor-General.

THE SHORTEST SESSION.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The shortest session of the House on record adjourned four minutes after it began today to avoid the continuance of Republican filibuster for a discussion of the Diggs-Caminetti white slave cases.

Long Beach.

NEW VISTAS OPENING UP.

Changed Religious Conditions Must Be Met.

Secretary Recommends Lines of Fresh Endeavor.

Silver Anniversary Banquet of First Presbyterian.

LONG BEACH, July 26.—"I believe the gravest responsibility rests upon this generation, for we must meet wisely the changed conditions which are upon us." In these words President C. C. Chapman this morning voiced a warning in his annual address before the opening session of the Christian Missionary Society of Southern California. Continuing, he said in part:

"Entirely new social conditions have arisen in Southern California and the church must, in a measure at least, adjust itself to these conditions. The trolley car, the boulevards, the automobiles, the beach resorts, and our equable climate, make these conditions more difficult to meet than in the days of martyrdom and presecution.

"The church should prove equal to these conditions and faithful to the trust which the Master has committed to it. It must not be permitted to dissipate or neutralize the power of the kingdom. These conditions to be met must be reckoned equally as important of solution as the old one of the divisions of the church."

ALONG NEW LINES.

In his annual report Secretary Clubb recommended that the following new lines of work be taken up: The employment of one or more evangelists under the State board; the raising of a permanent fund, the interest of which would be used in support of the work; the formation of a business league to assist in building new houses of worship, and the support of the Chinese mission in Los Angeles, conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Blakeslee.

James G. Warren's theme was "Greater California" with reference to its physical greatness, its resources and beauty, and he thought it the Christian's duty to aid by religious teachings.

Another interesting paper of the morning session was that of Rev. W. G. Conley of El Centro who spoke of the missions in Southern California and told the convention that "an emergency is upon us to prepare for the great tide of incoming population, as the plans of God will not wait."

HOW TO WIN MEN.

Only a short session was held in the afternoon, with addresses by Charles R. Hudson on "How to Win Men," and Prof. W. E. Garrison on "What the Man Owes to the Boy." This was followed by a business period. Election of officers of the brotherhood resulted: President, Prof. W. E. Garrison of the Claremont School for Boys; vice-president, S. N. Cooper of Los Angeles, and secretary-treasurer, Rev. M. D. Clubb of Los Angeles.

Tonight at the First Presbyterian Church, the Christian Brotherhood enjoyed a silver anniversary banquet, given by the women of the local church. President Chapman presided as toastmaster and the following toasts were responded to: "The Work: Our Joy," Mrs. Anne Cason; "The Women: God Bless Them," Rev. F. M. Dowling; "The Men: More Power to Them," Mrs. Ella P. McConnell; "Mutual Responsibilities," Mrs. Scott Anderson; "Evangelization, the Solvent for All Problems," F. G. Tyrrell; "The Alien Races of Southern California," Mrs. Clark Marsh; "Great Tasks: Our Salvation," Hugh McClellan.

Tomorrow morning Dr. McClellan will preach the convention sermon. In the afternoon a communion service will be held and at night there will be a sacred concert.

STUDYING MUSIC.

To study music, to train her voice and to return to Japan for the double purpose of charming her people with her sweet notes and bring them to the cross is the three-fold ambition of Suga Umozaki, a pretty little Japanese miss of 20, who for over a year has been in this country and made her home in Los Angeles and Long Beach. She is a Christian convert and has charmed many religious gatherings by the bird qualities of her untrained voice. She has found many friends among the Japanese workers of the Christian church, now in convention here and a fund was raised yesterday to secure her transportation to Chicago and a full outfit of clothing.

Full of ambition she intends to work her way through the conservatory of music, by employment in the home of some professor of the school. Miss Umozaki is a graduate of a mission school in Japan, speaks English fluently and is a good talker and writer. She was an orphan when found by the Japanese missionaries.

BEACH BRIEFS.

The City Council, which for two weeks has been meeting as a board of equalization, ended its labors today. During its sessions it granted assessment reductions amounting to $10,330 and increased valuations on others $28,500. Out of a total of thirty-seven protests twenty were granted and seventeen denied.

Among the latter was the request of Margaret M. Bixby to have the assessment on the Meyer's Bluff residence now owned by the Bixbys reduced from $60,000 to $35,000, claiming that its actual value was not more than $60,000. The board after investigation decided that the Assessor's figure were not unreasonable.

Attorney Daly today received notice from the Supreme Court that the decision of the lower court in the case of Hannah Cushing against Sewall had been reversed and a new trial ordered. This is one of the noted Psychological Temple cases, of which two others are now pending before the Supreme Court as a whole, two departments having given different decisions in each case on the same question at law. It is to give Mrs. Cushing the benefit of this final ruling of the entire court that a retrial is ordered.

While lighting a gasoline stove to prepare breakfast this morning Mrs. Lawrence Johnson swished her dress too close to the flames and in an instant was a blazing torch. Without alarming the household she seized a blanket which happened to be lying on a chair and wrapped it about herself, smothering the flames and saving herself from serious injuries, her burns being only superficial. The fire spread to the walls of the house, but prompt work of neighbors and the fire department prevented any considerable damage.

AUTOS IN HEAD-ON CRASH.

Al Fehrman and Party of Los Angeles Collide with Dr. Lamott of Colton—None Hurt.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ONTARIO, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] To be in a head-on automobile collision in which two machines were wrecked and to escape unhurt was the experience tonight of Al Fehrman and party of Los Angeles and Dr. L. A. Lamott and wife of Colton. The accident occurred on West A street, between Ontario and Pomona, and was doubtless due to misjudged distance between the two machines, the headlights of both of which were burning brightly. The left front wheel of Fehrman's Buick was snapped off in the crash, while the rear axle of Dr. Lamott's Hupmobile roadster was torn entirely free from the car. Lamott was returning from Los Angeles, while Fehrman and party was returning to Los Angeles from a trip to the desert.

It is believed that nearly two years will be required to hear the cases, as the company's attorney, H. L. Carnahan, has demanded that each case be tried separately.

The property said to be damaged lies in the vicinity of the works at Crestmore.

HUMAN CATAPULT LOSES POUNDAGE.

DISCOVERS NEW AND CERTAIN WEIGHT REDUCER.

Takes Impromptu Aerial Flight With Surprising Results, Soaring from Motorcycle When Machine and Automobile Crash in Right-of-Way Dispute on Road to Burbank.

Each ten feet that Joe Kocsin, a farmhand, flew through the air Saturday when his motorcycle struck an automobile near Burbank, he lost a pound of weight. He was picked up sixty feet from where the two vehicles collided and six pounds lighter than when he left his home.

The odd effect of the collision was noticed on Kocsin by his friends, who had been weighing with him a few minutes before the accident. He lives on a small ranch near Burbank, and before starting for the village he stepped on the scales. He weighed 156 pounds.

Heading for Burbank at dangorous speed on his frail motorcycle, Kocsin ran into an automobile driven by Mrs. U. S. Stoly, No. 1525 Biggy street. With her were her two children and a neighbor, Mrs. C. G. Kiser, No. 1412 Biggy street.

When the vehicles struck, Kocsin vaulted high in the air, alighting on a sidewalk. He was carried into an adjoining house and laid, accidentally on a scales. When his friends arrived, they noticed Kocsin was just balancing the beam at 150 pounds.

Kocsin was taken to the Burbank Hospital, where his wounds were pronounced not fatal. He has a fractured skull.

COASTERS WIN.

OMAHA (Neb.) July 26.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] The West defeated the East today for the championships in singles and doubles of the fourth national clay court tournament at the Omaha Field Club. In the singles John Strachan, San Francisco, defeated Merrill Hall, New York, and the doubles match was forfeited to him and his partner, Clarence Griffin, by Fred Harris and Hall, because of the former's illness. Harris's physicians forbade him to play. Strachan played a smashing game and took three sets out of the four played. Hall, though at times playing a spectacular game, was unable to outplay his opponent. The score was 6-0, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.

JOHNSTON IN FRONT.

BOSTON, July 26.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Youth had its way at Longwood today, veteran tennis players going down to defeat before the younger representatives in the semi-final rounds of the eastern doubles championships and the all-comers' tournament for singles. The most prominent individual in the day's play was William Johnston of San Francisco, who vanquished the veteran William J. Clothier of Philadelphia, former national champion. This match required the limit of five sets, 4-6, 5-7, 7-5, 6-0, 8-6. Somewhat less of a surprise was the elimination in the doubles of Beals C. Wright and William A. Larned by Gustave F. Touchard and W. M. Washburn. This match, too, required five sets, which went 2-6, 1-6, 8-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Bantam Champion.

JOHNNY COULON BEATS IT FOR THE BIG BRUSH.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Johnny Coulon waved a farewell to a crowd of admiring friends from the decks of the steamship Arizona today. The bantamweight champion was off on his trip to the Canadian woods, where he will spend three months in an attempt to regain his health.

The Logan Square boxer will spend a few days at Parry Sound, which is located on Georgian Bay, and then travel inland to a resort situated in the mountains and surrounded by pines. Everything but a set of boxing gloves was taken north by the champion. His trunks were packed with guns, fishing tackle and a camping outfit. He says he won't give boxing a thought during his three months absence. Fish, hunt, sleep and eat is the programme he has mapped out.

"I feel much improved as a result of my treatment in the hospital," said Johnny, "but I'm still far from right. My physician has advised me that a stay in the woods is the best possible treatment for me. So I expect to return so fight hungry that I'll be willing to bite a few holes out of the county building."

To all outward appearances Coulon looked to be in good condition. His eyes snapped with vigor, but he asserted that he still was affected by sharp pains lurking in his midsection. Jack Weske, long a friend and adviser of the bantamweight champion, will be Coulon's companion in the woods.

SEMI-MONTHLY MAGAZINE

—SECTION OF—

The Los Angeles Times

For August Third

MONEY! LOVE! HUMOR!

—are the three keynotes to the next issue of the Semi-Monthly Magazine. They are sounded in text and picture by such master hands as Lloyd Osbourne, John Fleming Wilson, Harris Merton Lyon, Dr. David Starr Jordan, B. Cory Kilvert, R. F. Schabelitz, Horace Taylor, Tudor Jenks and Harry Spafford Potter.

THE LEADING FEATURE OF THIS TIP-TOP NUMBER IS

"Cornering Mr. Cobb"

By Lloyd Osbourne
Illustrations by R. F. Schabelitz

Love stories, like eggs, may be strictly fresh, just fresh, or they may be otherwise—but to get a strictly fresh A No. 1 love story is a good deal harder than to get freshly the lay of the hen. All of which means that Lloyd Osbourne has never written a bigger, better, brighter love story than his "turkey trot" with Cupid in next Sunday's magazine. Mr. Cobb, the hero, is the young captain of a queer, but big-paying industry, and Viola Trudell, the heroine, is—well, just as dear and desirable as a heroine should be. Between and about them is a procession of thrills and surprises.

"A Base (Ball) Canard"

By Harris Merton Lyon
Illustrations by Horace Taylor

Everybody knows why baseball is the most popular game in the United States, but nobody likes to go on record as telling, says Harris Merton Lyon, and then proceeds to throw some startling X-ray on the national pastime. His novel reason for its popularity is, in two chunks, because this is the Land of Let George Do It and also the Land of Public Opinion. The author good-naturedly throws a searchlight and a tickling harpoon into American character as disclosed by the national game.

"The Girl and the Dollar Bills"

By John Fleming Wilson
Illustrations by H. S. Potter

Ordinary detectives make it their business to detect doers of evil, but Marie-Jean O'Patrick, being anything but ordinary, makes it his business to detect persons who commit magnificently good deeds. What happens to Marie-Jean and to the Girl and the Dollar Bills is no less funny than strange. In this story John Fleming Wilson has done one of the best topsy-turvy yarns that has appeared since O. Henry laid down his pen.

"A Crusade for Twenty Million School Children"

Editorial
By Dr. David Starr Jordan

Half the school children of America are tubercular, and other millions are more or less needlessly crippled in health—a situation with which leading educators will grapple at Buffalo next month in the Fourth International Congress on School Hygiene. Dr. Jordan goes to the roots of this grave and growing problem in a trenchant editorial.

"A Discredited Oracle"

By Tudor Jenks
Illustrations by T. Victor Hall

When in doubt, pop the question without consulting the cards, is the moral of a delightful little story by Tudor Jenks in the next number. He, the man in the story, was head-over-heels in love, but was afraid to speak out and up to the girl. She, at the same time, was afraid he wouldn't speak. Both had played solitaire over it and the cards had lied scandalously to them. But it all ends well.

"The Home Run"

Cover Design
By B. Cory Kilvert.

Kilvert boys will be boys, and in this cover design in colors, one of the youngsters has knocked a ball into the outfield, where a stray bulldog is shown growling over it. The fielders dassn't pick up the ball, so the batter negotiates bases for a home run. It's a scream!

ACT AND COMMENT.

A reader of The Times, in a letter the Fact and Comment man, out-es a most interesting plan for es-lishing a better communication ween the downtown district and e large and important territory ing along the Shoe String strip and d the harbor. He suggests that adway be continued as a wide roughfare to Thirty-fifth street, or block beyond Jefferson, as at pres-t contemplated. He would have l street cut through to Jefferson the south line of Washington et and laid out as an eighty-foot roughfare for its entire extent. By of a diagram the writer dem-strates that a new street cut diag-ally from the point where a pro-tion of Hill street would touch ferson to the corner of Thirty-th and Main street would also cut line of Broadway at its point of ersection with Thirty-fifth street. s street at Thirty-sixth street ns to the east at a considerable gle and becomes what is today own as the Harbor boulevard. The w street tapping Hill street at Jef-son and Broadway at Thirty-fifth uld, it is shown, run into the Har-r boulevard almost on a straight e. The advantage of giving two at north-and-south arteries like ll and Broadway such an outlet the city-to-harbor route is, of se manifest.

The writer might have gone a step ther, in fact, and suggested the inuation of his new street diag-ly on beyond Hill street to an ection with Olive, Hope, Grand, er and Figueroa, all of which bound to play an important part the future traffic situation. Hope, and Flower streets are certain cut through as continuous thor-fares to and beyond Jefferson in the years to come, and as demand arises. There are by far many important streets in this that have blind ends. The day come, and soon, when Los An-will have to begin to condemn various properties that stand in way of easy communication be-different parts of the city. This problem is already becoming a ous one.

new State law amending the act of 1885 and the street act of 1903, requires the City to send postal card notices to property owner within an as-district at the point in any improvement proceedings notices of pending work are The law becomes effective August 6. In the opinion of the and Comment man the enact-of this measure should be up to the credit of a legisla-assembly that will be remem-principally for the record-number of fool laws it con-to pass in its single farcical the past guess work and tele-have been the main depend-of the property owners in the assessment districts. The law content to let a man find best he could what was being in the way of public improve-in his section. Often the first property owners have that piece of work is being car-is when they are confronted notifications of assessments overdue and penalties to be paid. Out-of-town owners have in many instances had their property sold for taxes, when the simplest kind of a notification mailed to them and transmitted on by the postal authorities to the proper forwarding address would have spared them such a humiliation.

The administration of a city is nothing more or less than a big public business enterprise. Like other business organizations it should be conducted on a business basis. Successful private businesses are run on system. If an individual is in debt to a merchant or to a utility corporation he is politely reminded of the fact. The firm that failed to send its bills to credit customers would soon go under, even in a community where nothing but honesty prevailed. The city certainly owes a similar courtesy to its taxpayers, and the fact that it can swoop down on an individual and collect its toll in summary and legal fashion does not in the least diminish its obligation. The average man has his mind too full of other things to be constantly remembering the dates on which his bills are due. The pursuit of the wherewith to meet their debts is enough to occupy most men.

Can you picture a groceryman marching out to a vacant lot and reading to the unresponding weeds thereon a proclamation to the effect that the owner of the site owes a six-months' grocery bill? That is formality the city goes through before pouncing upon a lot for delinquent assessments. Any law that will do away with this solemnly ridiculous kind of mummery will be welcomed by the taxpayers.

SELL HARBOR TRACT.

Koster & Parker report the sale of the lots in tract No. 560 in Wilmington for Sadie E. Winslow. The property is one block east of the Harbor boulevard between Fourth and Fifth streets, and consists of one of the city blocks of Wilmington, as originally laid out, and subdivided into twenty-six forty-foot lots. Sales were made to the following purchasers: J. M. Maroney, Adaline Monroe, D. S. Setnan, Lena L. O'Donnell, Mary Roley, Belle McKenzie, R. W. Coddington, N. L. Cohen, Mariana D. Maxwell, Levi R. Thompson, Beatrice S. Massey, Bess Mayer, Herbert C. Parker and Emit F. Koster. The lots sold at reported prices ranging from $1050 to $1250.

The Del Mar Realty Company is placing its Del Mar tract upon the market today. The property lies between Pico and Washington streets, immediately adjoining the Venice Short Line.

MIDWAY BETWEEN CITY AND OCEAN.

NEW TOWN BORN ON VENICE SHORT LINE.

Latest Southland Urban Prodigy Aspires to Be Business Center for Rapidly Developing Seaward Acreage—Place to Be Known as "Culver City."

The birth of "Culver City," a promising urban center half way between downtown Los Angeles and the Venice oceanfront, was announced on Friday night at a banquet given by Harry H. Culver to the stockholders of the newly-organized Culver Investment Company and a few friends at the California Club. Culver, who is the head of the Harry H. Culver Company, specializing in acreage between the city and the sea, is the father of the new town and the organizer of the new corporation bearing his name. Identified with him in the townsite enterprise are a number of the leading business men of Los Angeles.

Although the new town is as yet a "city on paper," the most comprehensive plans have already been matured for putting it on the map among the thriving places of the Southland. The "paper," in fact, is in the form of engineering and architectural blue prints and spells immediate development. The rapid progress of the undertaking, as outlined to his associates by Culver, was a revelation even to those directly interested. The Harry H. Culver Company is to handle the property and to push it before the public. Both the improvements and the marketing of the holdings are to be begun at once.

The new seaward city is to occupy a ninety-three-acre tract purchased by the investment corporation from E. P. Clark for a reported consideration of approximately $250,000. The land is situated at the intersection of the Venice Short Line, the Santa Monica Air Line and the Playa del Rey line. It is near to Washington Park and Ivywild and adjacent to The Palms. It is on three city-to-sea highways, Washington boulevard, Pico boulevard and National boulevard. The main boulevard to be constructed by the Los Angeles Investment Company through its Baldwin Hill tract will terminate in the town.

Contracts, it is announced, are now being let for street improvements and the planting of 1000 trees. Electroliers are to be installed over the entire townsite. Eight business buildings, according to Culver, are to be started at once.

The tract will be subdivided into about 250 large residence lots, each with proper restrictions, and over 200 business lots. Those back of the town hope to make of it a business center for the upbuilding of districts all around it. To handle the sales the present offices of the Harry H. Culver Company in the Story building are to be doubled.

In discussing the townsite plan yesterday, Culver stated that his firm had done a business amounting to practically $1,500,000 in acreage between Los Angeles and Venice since the first of the year. "It was the activity in acreage," he said, "that convinced me that a centrally-situated town half way between Los Angeles and the beach would be a big success."

DEAL IS PART TRADE.

Mrs. Sadie Zemansky has purchased the Clements apartments at No. 1318 Maryland street for a given consideration of $65,000. The Clements is a three-story brick structure and was completed in March of this year by Hans Debes. A residence property at No. 957 Arapahoe street, valued at $35,000, represented a part of the consideration. The deal was negotiated by M. B. LeGette, manager of the exchange department of the Sea Board Realty Company, Inc., representing the seller, and by J. R. Swan of the leasing department of R. A. Rowan & Co., representing the buyer.

MAY BUILD ADDITION.

W. D. Church and Mrs. Church, who last week leased the five-story Howell Terrace apartments at No. 1122 West Seventh street, through the agency of Whilton, Hahn and Bishop, have taken possession of that property. The lease on the building has a life of eight years and calls for a given total rental of approximately $70,000. R. H. Howell, owner of the apartments, is considering the plan of erecting an addition of 100 rooms for the new lessees.

SCHOOLS OF SOUTH MODELS OF KIND.

ARE FAMED IN EDUCATIONAL CIRCLES OF COUNTRY.

Santa Monica, Long Beach and Ontario Among Places Now Erecting Modern Grade Institutions—Substantiality of Construction Everywhere Demanded.

The advance in population and material wealth of Southern California's progressive towns and cities is convincingly evidenced in the great outlay everywhere being made for educational purposes. Some of the finest polytechnic high schools in the United States have been built in the larger southland places during the past few years and others are now under construction or projected. The spirit of emulation is strong and each city is striving to excel. The result is that Southern California is probably better equipped educationally than any other district of corresponding population in the country. The truth of this assertion is borne out by the statement of many leaders in public educational work.

A noteworthy feature of schoolhouse planning in Southern California at the present time is the attention that is being given to substantiality of construction and to architectural merit. Even the smaller towns are building for the future rather than for merely temporary purposes. The day of the little red schoolhouse passed long ago in California.

Long Beach, Ontario and Santa Monica are among the many Southern California cities that are now building attractive new grammar schools for the housing of their growing school populations. At Ontario there is to be started at once a reinforced concrete grade school, costing $40,000. Plans for the structure, as prepared by Norman F. Marsh of Los Angeles, call for a building of classic design containing eleven classrooms, an auditorium, library and a manual training and domestic science department. The school will be thoroughly modern in construction and appointment and will replace an old frame building.

At Santa Monica there is being constructed a model grade institution, to be known as the Central-avenue grammar school. The building was planned by Allison & Allison, architects of the magnificent new Santa Monica High School. The structure will be of brick, with cement plaster exterior finish and stone trim. The school, when completed, will be 225x60 feet in size and will contain seven regulation classrooms, a sewing department, domestic science department, manual training room and a combination gymnasium and auditorium. Contracts have been awarded for the central portion and one wing of the building.

Plans are being drawn by A. Burnside Sturges of this city, for three grade schools, to be erected in different parts of Long Beach. The largest of these structures will be 74x146 feet in size and two stories high. The basement will contain an auditorium, with stage and dressing-room, together with domestic science and manual training departments. On the first and second floors will be sixteen classrooms, a library and teachers' rooms. The basement will be so arranged that it may be used for community meetings and will have both inside and outside entrances. The building will follow the Greek Ionic style and will be of brick construction, with plastered walls. It will cost about $55,000.

MOST ATTRACTIVE BUNGALOWS in the new residential section just opening up by the paving and the building of the new car line on Main street. This is going to be one of the nicest sections of moderate-priced homes in the city.

It is in the direct line of the natural growth of the harbor, and with a 5-cent car line at each end of the block, is one of the surest locations for advancing values in the entire city.

Five and six rooms with bath; best material and workmanship; common sense and good taste in decorations and finish; excellent fixtures; lawns; in fact, everything that makes a real home place.

Eighty-third street, from Main street to Moneta avenue, is one of the prettiest streets in the city in the making. Wide, with good parkings, unspoiled by shabby neighbors, it is a choice location for those who want to get in just ahead of advancing prices.

Seven handsome bungalows just finished, prices from $3100 and $3200. Pay $25 monthly, which includes interest and taxes. Absolutely the best houses in the city for the money.

SEE THEM SUNDAY. TAKE HOMEWARD-AVE. CAR. Get car on Spring street, between Fourth and Ninth, or on Main street from Ninth street south (not "Vermont Heights" car.)

Agent on tract all day. Or, telephone us and we will be glad to take you out by automobile at any time.

FOR SALE—WATCH HILL STREET.
There will be twice as much traffic on Hill street, between Pico and Washington as between Seventh and Pico.

WHY?
Because all traffic going out, both Broadway and Hill, southwest, will have to turn when it reaches the end of the new Broadway, just created by the Council, which ends at Pico, and it will continue south on Hill street.

THINK IT OVER.
We have options on several pieces on Hill street, between Pico and Washington, that will double in value in the next year. One in particular, 1827 South Hill street, we offer for $60,000, for this week only. This will be worth $100,000, when Broadway is completed to Pico.

FOR SALE—HAVE JUST RETURNED FROM AN exhaustive examination of land in the San Joaquin and Sacramento Valleys. Have been looking for a tract suitable for immediate farming and subdivision. Generally speaking found conditions bad from the farming point of view with one big exception. Come to office and let us tell you about it. Adjoining a large tract upon which we hold option, under conditions identical, they raised this year, hay running over 3 tons to the acre; alfalfa, 2 tons first cutting; grain, 30 sacks; celery, the finest, fruit the healthiest, asparagus netting over $350 per acre. Absolutely one of the richest bodies of land in the State, alkali and hardpan impossible. More water than this property has access too does not exist on any body of land in entire State. Can irrigate at cost of about 5 cents per acre and every day if desired. Drainage absolute. Its future without question is the brightest of 40 properties investigated. Very familiar with California lands, but have never seen its equal. Half mile from electric road, with a freight rate to the city of 50 cents a ton.

Tract is too large for us to handle. We want 1500 acres, but larger amount must be sold in order for us to obtain the acreage we desire. We want to get in touch at once with parties able to take from 500 to 2000 acres, capable of making first payments of from $15,000 up (owing to amount taken) but nothing more to pay for two years. Has immediate subdivision possibilities that will pay you three to one. In five years it will pay you ten to one on your investment. It looks so good to us, we will take lease upon whatever portion you may buy, pay for all improvement work, farm the property bringing it to the highest state of cultivation and pay you a cash rental that will average 10 per cent. net per annum on your investment, allowing you a release in event of your wishing to subdivide. If you are in market for a buy, do not fail to investigate. Principals only. Might be able to consider two or three men with $5000 each.

CALIFORNIA FRUIT AND GRAIN RANCH

800 ACRES.

ONLY $40 AN ACRE.

RANCH IMMEDIATELY ADJOINING, NO BETTER, HELD AT $150 AN ACRE.

This 800 acres belongs to a woman heavily involved financially, hence the sacrifice. All tillable except about 50 acres of fine oak timber, and lies in the heart of one of California's rich fruit belts.

THERE IS A SMALL FIG AND ALMOND ORCHARD ON THE RANCH WHICH NETS THE OWNER $100 AN ACRE. FIG TREES BEAR 2 CROPS ANNUALLY AND NEVER INJURED BY FROST.

Soil fertile. Bountiful supply of spring water, there being running water all the year round. The climate is simply ideal and the soil is well adapted to FIGS, ALMONDS, ORANGES, LEMONS, APRICOTS AND PRUNES. If purchaser will put the ranch in various kinds of fruits and subdivide it he should sell it readily at $150 per acre.

The above described ranch is about 80 miles east of San Francisco; it is only 1½ miles from a good railroad station and but 17 miles from the county seat in which it is located, which is one of the richest in all California. Fine schools, banks, stores and churches in immediate vicinity. As this part of California is filling up rapidly now and will be in much greater demand after the opening of the Panama Canal, the 800 acres described at the low price of $40 an acre certainly presents one of the greatest opportunities for a first-class investment ever offered in country lands in this most desirable part of our great country. As loan now on property can be extended I am prepared to make very reasonable terms for purchaser if desired.

GOVERNMENT LAND—

ALFALFA LAND.

If the general public knew of the possibilities of Imperial Valley lands, for alfalfa, and the cheapness at which the land can be secured, there is not a man or woman in California who would not take advantage of their right to file on some of this land. There is still available excellent land in the IMPERIAL VALLEY, that can be filed on, both open land and relinquishment, under the desert land law. We are organizing a party to go down and look the land over and go through the necessary routine and we would be pleased to go into the details with all who care to investigate. We make weekly trips and every one who goes down files on their return. Why not come and talk this over and get some land that is worth many times more than what you have to pay for it? For full particulars see MR. McLEOD at 408 Currier Bldg., 212 W. Third st., Los Angeles. Main 2880; 67352.

This land is rich, level, loose silt soil. Is accessible to electricity, near a large city; has government water over large part of valley. Has electric and steam railways, good, healthy climate, pure, soft drinking water. Don't doubt and hesitate. Think and act. See us at once. Either Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday. Ask for H. J. We handle no seconds or mismatched rugs.
Regular $30 9x12 velvet rugs, only $22.50.
Regular $50, 9x12 Wilton rugs, only $37.50.
Regular 16.50 9x12 tapestry rugs, only $13.50.

These goods must be seen to be appreciated, as they are the best grade of Circassion walnut furniture made.
They are too good for Main st. If we had them on Broadway we could get our regular price easily, as that price is lower than the Broadway stores get for the same grade.
Remember, we have everything to furnish a home or an office, and we know that our prices are lower than any furniture store in Los Angeles.
We sell for cash or on time.
We make terms to suit each customer.
Be sure and let us figure with you when you are ready to buy.
No trouble to show goods.
We sell to at least nine-tenths of the people we wait on, and if our prices were not better than our competitors we could not do this.
Four floors filled with furniture and rugs; you owe it to yourself to see our immense stock of all new goods and get our prices before you buy.

SEARCH OF RUINS ENDED.

Insurance Companies to Pay Policies Held by Binghamton Fire Victims Without Demanding Identification.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BINGHAMTON (N. Y.) July 26.—A new trend may be given the inquiry into the cause of the fatal fire in the factory of the Binghamton Clothing Company by the evidence offered by Mrs. William Whitney, one of the employees who declares she called attention to the unusual heat in the building at 1 o'clock and smelled smoke at 2 o'clock and called the attention of the girls to it. The flames were discovered at 2:30. This would sustain the theory that fire started in a large quantity of rags stored in the basement. The search for the bodies has ended, the last being found outside the ruins beneath a fallen wall, crushed and burned so as to be unrecognizable.

The insurance companies have agreed to pay life policies without demanding identifications of fire victims.

Local Stock Market Activities

By Jno. O. Knight.

Improvement continues to mark progress of the local investment situation. Returning confidence is evidenced by more active inquiry than in many months for the best grade of stocks and bonds. The money situation is also getting better. Rates of interest have shown little change, but loans are more easily obtainable, and barring unforseen developments not within the range of present indications, financial conditions are definitely working back toward normal.

Real estate speculation has quieted down materially, not only locally, but throughout the East and Canada as well, and a large amount of money which has found employment in that direction will naturally be diverted into the securities market at a time when most unusual bargains may be had in the very best grade of stocks and bonds. Purchases of the right kind of securities at present prices are bound to show tidy profits in the near future. Those who wait for more favorable opportunities will very likely find they have missed their best chances to buy at the bottom.

Assay report of the week's production by the Tom Reed Gold Mining Company was $14,500.

Pacific Light and Power Company short term notes maturing in about nine months, are purchasable on a 7 per cent. basis.

One of the notable transactions of the week was the sale of 50 shares First National Bank stock at $650.00. Trading in this issue has been more active the last few days with strong inquiry for the stock at prevailing prices.

After a steady decline of $25.00 a share, Union Oil drifted back and forth between $55.00 and $61.00, following the issuance of President Lyman Stewart's letter to the effect that "dividend announcements" will hereafter be made semi-annually. Just what Mr. Stewart meant by his use of this rather unusual term has been puzzling a great many shareholders. Taken in conjunction with his oft-repeated statement that no change in the dividend rate was contemplated, the conclusion is natural that Union is hereafter to pay a semi-annual dividend of 3.6 per cent. or more. Some mystification would have been avoided, however, by a definite statement to this effect. Liquidation of collateral stock was heavy during most of the week, and there are indications that this selling has not yet been completed. While there is no question as to the intrinsic value of the stock, the uncertainties are such as to leave the market apparently without definite trend in the immediate future. Stocks of both Union Provident and United Petroleum, the holding companies on which the General Petroleum Company has an option, are showing a better tone.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

Activity in the cheese market does not appear to be up to the usual standard this year, because of high prices, lessening the demand. Important varieties showed small advances lately because of the firmness of the eastern market. This brought selling rates up to a somewhat higher level than usual at this time. It is believed that less cheese is in storage this year, owing to the fact that dealers are rather unwilling to accumulate stock, as it is anticipated that the market will be very little, if any higher, in the fall than now. The new tariff may have some effect on the situation.

The fruit market was rather quiet, as is usual Saturday. A shipment of purple Duane plums came in from the north, and sold at 4 cents a pound. Satsumas are rather in evidence, but are not expected to be in season as long as last year. Fancy limes are higher, on account of scarcity of supply. Cantaloupes were a little easier.

Green beans and peas are less plentiful, and somewhat higher. Celery was cheaper. A car of fancy Stockton Burbanks was received and quoted at $1.50 a hundred.

There were no changes in the quotations on butter, eggs and cheese, as the Produce Exchange held no session.

Reported receipts were: Eggs, 221 cases; butter, 54,325 pounds; potatoes, 1614 sacks; sweets, eighty sacks.

WHEAT LIFTED OUT OF RUT.

BUYING BY LARGE GRAIN HOUSE ADVANCES PRICES.

Bulls Also Take Advantage of Black Rust Reports from Minnesota—Oats on Upgrade With Corn Because of Pessimistic Advices from Alabama, Illinois, Nebraska.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, July 26.—Buying by one of the largest houses in the trade lifted wheat today, after a show of weakness at the outset. Black rust reports from Minnesota tended to aid the bulls. The market closed steady at a net advance of 1-8@1-4 to 1-4@3-8. Corn finished with a gain of 1 1-4 to 1 3-8@½; oats up 3-4 to 1 1-8 and provisions ranging from 2½ off to an upturn of 12½.

Bearishness in early trading in wheat resulted from weak cables, and from reassuring domestic advices concerning the outlook for the spring crop. Purchasing, however, soon became general.

Failure of expected rains in the Southwest brought about a heavy buying of corn.

Bad crop reports from Alabama, Illinois and Nebraska, made oats readily move upgrade with corn.

Provisions hardened because of the bulge in coarse grain. One of yesterday's heaviest sellers reinstated his holdings.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Week-end Realizing Fails to Affect Firm Tone—Europe Does Not Appear Heavy Trader.

[Furnished by E. F. Hutton & Co., Members New York Stock Exchange, 118 West Fourth street, Los Angeles.]

NEW YORK, July 26.—Despite week-end realizing, the market displayed a firm tone. Foreigners did not participate to a marked degree in the trading and news from Europe was meager. Vienna and Berlin markets reported irregular. Advices to the effect that railroads have decided to recede from the stand they had taken in connection with arbitration proceedings, did not produce any marked effect, as it had been the general opinion that a strike would be averted. Nevertheless the situation has been bettered to a moderate extent by this action. The bank statement fulfilled expectations and there is no [illegible] concern over monetary conditions, although it is generally realized that European demands for new capital will later be quite a factor toward the production of firm rates, particularly in foreign markets.

The majority of the members of the House Banking and Currency Committee tabled the motion to send the bill to the caucus.

The National City Bank finds harm in the currency bill and sees no inducement to stay in the national system.

Howard Elliott will take the office of New Haven presidency September 1. He seeks the co-operation of officials, employees and patrons of road from the start. The organization of the New Haven has been partially decentralized by a plan to appoint separate operating heads for each property, with the New Haven chairman of board as the chairman of the board of each property.

Ambassador Wilson says Huerta has whipped the rebels and that Mexican basic conditions are good.

Steel earnings are expected to be smaller the second half of this year, than during first part.

New York Cotton Market.

NEW YORK, July 26.—Cotton showed a sagging tendency all day, influenced by reports of further rains in Southwest, with forecasts for more over Sunday. Values quietly slipped off to new low levels for this movement. Cables were without significance and the weakness of old crop options reflected the prospect of liberal receipts in Southern Texas next week. Sentiment turning decidedly to the short side and unless better support is met, chances are "new crops" will drop below 11 cents.

SNAKES PAY BETTER THAN HOGS.

Novel Enterprise of "Snake" King of Texas—Making Money Out of Rattlers—Two Women Who Are Expert Snake Hunters.

BY W. I. HORNADAY.

Rattlesnake, 9 ft. 6½ in. long captured by Mrs. King.

Snake King of Texas.

Women snake hunters - One day's catch.

Making money out of catching snakes.

WHAT is said to be the largest snake farm in the world is operated at Brownsville, Tex., by W. A. King—he styles himself "Snake" King. The title is not inappropriate. He has a partner in the remarkable business in the person of his wife. They have handled thousands and thousands of venomous reptiles.

This is the breeding season and it is not unusual for a rattlesnake to become the mother of fifty or sixty little snakes in one litter. One of these rattlers brought forth 183 snakes in one litter not long ago. King says it beats hog-raising. Each infant snake has a value of 25 cents and it rapidly grows in value until it is worth from $5 to $10, depending upon its weight. Snakes are usually sold by the pound. It does not cost much to fatten them as they feed only a few times a year and their choice of food is not expensive. King feeds his snakes field mice and rats which are brought in by Mexican boys.

According to King's statement he has handled more than 500,000 snakes since he started in the business about twenty years ago. He is now shipping annually about 20,000 snakes from his farm. The chaparral wilderness of South Texas and covering all of Northern Mexico is the natural habitat for the deadly rattlesnake and many other kinds of poisonous reptiles. It is in these wilds that the snake hunters employed by the Kings capture the different varieties of reptiles for the farm at Brownsville.

Mrs. King is an adept snake hunter. She was following that vocation when her husband met and married her. When a girl she became interested in studying the habits of rattlesnakes and soon learned to handle them without apparently endangering herself. She found there was a market for the snakes and for several years before meeting King she hunted the reptiles in the brush around Brownsville. She still delights in going on these snake hunting expeditions and is usually accompanied by one of her sisters, who is an assistant at the farm.

The hunting and capturing of rattlesnakes gives employment to more than 1000 Mexicans in the spring. It is then that the reptiles are more easily found and many of the hunters make no inconsiderable money at the business. Snakes from the King farm are shipped all over the world. They are in demand by museums, side shows, zoological gardens and for other exhibition purposes. Many of these snakes are also used for scientific purposes, for study and dissecting.

THE OIL AND POISON.

The Kings do quite a business in selling snake poison which is obtained from the different varieties of the venomous reptiles which they handle. This poison brings good prices. It is used largely by chemists for experimental purposes. The poison is said to be valuable for certain medicinal purposes. There is also much demand for rattlesnake oil which is obtained by rendering the fat much the same as lard is rendered from a hog. Many people believe that this oil is a good remedy for rheumatism and other ills. King and his wife have been bitten many times by rattlesnakes. He said:

"The first time I was bitten by a rattlesnake was in 1897. I was sick at the stomach for some time, but I cut the wound and let the blood flow, using pomegranate of potash or aqui ammonia, which is the strongest solution of ammonia. Internally use something to keep the bowels open. It is sometimes necessary, due to the nature of the bite, to make a tournjquet. As soon as the poison hits the flesh, it seeps off, so the safest way is to cut a little cross, about half an inch in size, right at the place bitten. If the bite is in the palm of the hand or in an artery it would be necessary to stop the circulation by tightly bandaging and severing the artery. Let the blood flow until all in the neighborhood is exhausted, every once in a while helping the flow by pressing.

"As I said, the first thing to do is to cut the cross, stop the circulation and use a solution of pomegranate of potash and then the hypodermic syringe. If the solution is mixed properly and administered properly, it is in my opinion a sure cure, but if mixed too strong it will rot your hand. It should be mixed to resemble a good blood color, thickly red. The color of the snake poison is yellow. The fangs are like a big hypodermic needle and the vacuum in the fangs compresses the air, and when the snake bites forces the poison in.

"Yes, I have heard of eating snake meat, and old settlers have told me they have had to eat them. The meat is white and fine, tasting like veal. If a snake is hit by a stick and wounded it will try to poison itself.

"Rattlesnakes coil in a flash and do not have to be coiled in order to bite. However, they have to coil in order to jump and they are very, very lively when they do move. If it is moving it can swing around like a flash and strike, but 9999 times out of 10,000, if they have a chance to get away, they will not trouble you. When they jump they can throw themselves two-thirds the length of their body, but they can tire themselves like anything else.

THE INFANTS.

"The infant snakes almost as soon as they are born possess poison and fangs, and are ready to do the work. The smaller the rattlesnakes the deadlier they are. Why? Well, the reason the copperhead is poisonous is because it is so small. You take a board and put two twelve-penny nails in that board and then pull your hand over them and you cut it right open so that it bleeds generously. With two small nails you merely scratch yourself with but little flow of blood, if any. The poison remains in a small wound, which quickly heals over, as there is no blood flowing. In a big snake the fangs are so big and the snake so heavy that if it strikes you it tears, the lower jaw hooking up and its weight causing it to drop. This kind of a wound bleeds. The weight of the big body jerks it off, whereas a little snake locks its jaws and hangs on."

King finds much pleasure in hunting snakes. He has several dogs especially trained for this work. They are of the Mexican hairless, or pelon species. They quickly catch the scent of a snake and follow its trail until they reach its den or come upon it in the brush. The usual method of capturing one of the reptiles is to throw a lasso made out of a small, stout twine over its head, thus choking it and enabling the handling of it. It is quickly placed in a gunny sack and in this manner carried to the farm. Often hunters bring in a dozen or more snakes in one sack. When the dogs trail a snake to a den it is necessary to dig the reptile out, and not infrequently several other snakes are found in the same hole. In relating an experience which he had on one of his hunts King said:

"Last April I had dug out a snake when I discovered another right behind me, a male. The female was in the den. Mr. Snake reared up and I jumped into a prickly pear patch. The jump was as quick as his rearing, for if I had stayed there I would have been killed. As it was I got male and female. Sometimes you are lucky and find from seventy-five to 100 in one little patch. Mrs. King and her sister, when they caught the biggest rattlesnake we have ever captured, had small boxes. The two went out by themselves and were carrying a gunny sack with one or two snakes they had caught earlier in the day. Mrs. King, who had a rope with her, lassoed him and tied him to a tree. She then set the box over him and so secured him. He measured 9ft. 6½in. long and had nineteen rattles. He was the largest rattlesnake I ever saw. He was captured on the other side of the river below Matamoros."

King does not take any stock in the old-time belief that snakes have the power of hypnotizing or charming either human being, birds or any other living thing.

"It is all stuff and nonsense," he said, "to say a human being is fascinated by a snake. I never heard of a legitimate case. When a snake is located the next process in catching the reptile is to pick it up. Never make any false moves, because they prove fatal. Go around it quietly, convincing it that it is not to be hurt. Now here is where what they call 'snake charming' comes in. I don't believe that there is such a thing, although they say that certain men can move and make a snake follow them. Of course, when a man moves around, the snake's head does follow, because it is curious as to what the man is doing. Well, to get back to the capturing. When you have the snake quiet, reach under the body and pick him up. He remains in his coil. Now you must know the exact portion of the body to grab; otherwise, there is danger from the bite. I put my left hand down, causing him to raise his head. The body then is in the correct position for handling. If it is a mean snake you should work long enough to get the strike out of it by tiring it. If you come upon it suddenly, it might go to rattling, but there is another mistake in people saying that before a snake bites it rattles. I have approached hundreds and hundreds of snakes that did not rattle. The big fellows haul off and bite and rattle afterwards. Also, there is no foundation to the story that the rattlesnake gets a new rattle every year. When they shed their skin a new rattle always comes. In a damp year they are more apt to shed than in a dry year, and I have seen them shed three and four times a year."

THE DISGORGING PROCESS.

An especially-constructed box is used to hold the snake while the work of relieving it of its liquid poison is performed. On top of the box is a sliding lid and in one end is an aperture just large enough to fit over the neck of the snake. The head is drawn out through the hole by means of a lasso and the lid tightened against the neck, making the snake powerless to do any harm. A glass is placed in the open mouth of the reptile and it instantly brings down its jaws, throwing out in its anger all of the poison that the sack contains. The supply usually obtained by this disgorging process is from one to two tablespoonfuls. When the poison has been ejected the operator quickly cuts out the fangs, which lay down close to the jaws in the back part of the mouth and resemble hypodermic needles. Having removed the fangs you make a slit in the poison sack and thereafter the snake can do no harm. The poison is of a yellow, greenish tinge. While the process is going on the snake is making a vigorous protest with its rattles.

Formerly there was a large snake farm at Laredo, which is also situated in the rattlesnake territory of the border. In some parts of Mexico the industry of capturing and marketing the snakes is also carried on extensively.

TRADES APARTMENTS.

Local Capitalist Exchanges East Fifth Street Holding for El Monte Grove—Gain in Value Revealed.

Koster & Parker report the sale to Levi R. Thompson of a three-story brick apartment-house on East Fifth street, opposite San Julian. The property occupies a lot 50x150 feet in size and is leased at a given rate of $5400 a year. The total consideration is reported at $90,000.

Eight years ago the holding changed hands at $500 a foot. Thompson is said to have bought the property on the basis of $1200 a foot, to which was added the cost of the building. The deal was partly in the nature of a trade, Thompson transferring a highly improved forty-acre ranch at El Monte to A. J. Brown, former owner of the Fifth-street property.

Koster & Parker also report the exchange for L. A. Stahl to a local investor of property at No. 335 South Fremont avenue for a ten-acre improved lemon grove at Glendora, the total consideration being given at $40,000. The Fremont avenue lot is 60x165 feet in size.

INCREASE IN VALUATION.

From July 1 to July 25, inclrsive, the chief inspector of buildings issued a total of 1108 permits for new structures to cost in the aggregate $2,808,691. The figures for the corresponding part of July, 1912, were 1180 permits and $2,600,270. From January 1 to July 25, there were issued 9865 permits representing a construction outlay of $20,817,481. The totals for the same period during 1912 were 8824 permits and $17,314,544. The increase is 1041 in the number of permits and $3,502,937 in valuation. Applications are now on file in the building department for permits for the $700,000 Rosslyn Hotel at Fifth and Main and the $300,000 Kerckhoff building at Sixth and Los Angeles. These will be included in the August reports.

OLD GROVE EXCHANGED.

Redlands Capitalist Trades Orange Property for Los Angeles Apartment-house.

R. J. Dunn of Redlands, yesterday purchased the Mayo Apartments, at No. 2407 West Ninth street for a given price of $65,000. The property is leased for ten years. L. T. Mayo of Los Angeles, was the seller. The building has been completed less than a year. It is three stories in height, of brick construction and contains sixty-eight rooms.

Dunn gave as part payment for the property, a twenty-acre orange grove in the Alessandro Valley, and valued at $40,000. The grove is composed of fifteen-year-old navels and Valencias, the varieties being about equally divided. The property carries with it forty shares of stock in the Moreno Water Company, of which Dunn is a director. The deal was negotiated by C. C. Albright, of the Dunn-Albright-Ames Company, representing Dunn, and J. H. Ballagh.

Through the agency of the Dunn-Albright-Ames Company, Kirke H. Field of Redlands, has purchased fifty-four feet on the northwest corner of Pico street and Kingsley drive. The property is at present improved with a one-story frame store building. William H. Willin was the seller. The consideration is given at $14,500.

LARGE HOTEL PROJECTED.

Fifty-Year Lease Just Concluded on West Sixth Street May Result in Substantial Improvement.

One of the most notable long-term leases made recently in Los Angeles is that which has just been negotiated between Kirke H. Field, as lessor, a capitalist and attorney of Redlands, and James E. Crawford of Pasadena, as lessee, for ninety-two feet on West Sixth street.

The total amount of rental involved during a term of fifty years is given at $375,000. Field was represented in the transaction by C. C. Albright of the Dunn-Albright-Ames Company, and Crawford's interests were looked after by Metcalf & Ryan.

The property is at Nos. 811-15½ West Sixth street, and was sold by Charles Von der Kuhlen to Field about two months ago, the Dunn-Albright-Ames Company having acted as brokers in this former transaction.

A large hotel building will probably be erected on the lot, which has a depth of 135 feet. The lease, it is announced, will probably be transferred to a building company, the principals of which will be Herbert J Goudge, H. F. Metcalf and Frank J. Ryan.

THE CITYWARD DRIFT.

A Gradual but Radical Change has Taken Place in the Use of Machinery and Demand for Operators.

[Baltimore American:] One branch of research work undertaken by a western university was in form of an investigation of the causes leading to the general movement of young people of both sexes from the farms to the cities. The investigation was confined to sections of Minnesota and was made by two college professors. There was nothing new in the information gathered. It is the same old story that has been often repeated in connection with similar investigations. The railroads everywhere lead from the country to the town. The boys and girls get a glimpse of the big town and are dazzled with the life and movement. The farm thereafter seems dull to them and, sooner or later, they look for a permanent engagement in the city.

But there are some boys who stay in the country. In fact, the majority of them do, else the cities would soon be overrun. In the study of the shift of population from rural districts to urban centers the fact is generally ignored that there has come about a gradual but radical change in industrial proportions during the past seventy-five years. The doing of things with machinery that were seventy-five years ago done by hand has created the big factories, and the big factories in turn have made the cities. Farming also is now done largely by machinery, but the city demand for the man skilled in the handling of machinery is more urgent and offers higher pay than is offered on the farm. When the pay averages as high on the farms there will be a more general reciprocity in population between the city and the country.

The Value of Onions.

[Family Doctor:] Many people imagine that to express a liking for onions denotes a vulgar taste; but this much-despised vegetable has many excellent qualities. It contains a large quantity of nitrogeneous matter and uncrystallizable sugar with a pungent sulphuric oil. If children were encouraged to eat onions many an illness might be prevented, and many a doctor's bill saved. If baby has a cold or seems croupy, freqeunt doses of onion syrup will give wonderful relief. The cyrup is obtained by cutting the onion into slices and covering each with brown sugar, and putting one on the top of another in a basin. Roasted onions with sweet oil makes a good poultice for a cold in the chest. In a sickroom you cannot have a better disinfectant than the onion. It has a wonderful capacity for absorbing germs; a dish of sliced onions placed in a sickroom will draw away the disease; they must be removed as soon as they lose their odor and become discolored, and be replaced by fresh ones. For those who can take them, a raw onion eaten just before retiring is very beneficial—it acts as a tonic to the nervous system, purifies the blood, helps digestion, and very often prevents insomnia.

LEASES WHOLESALE BLOCK.

Big Shoe Concern Secures New Los Angeles Street Building—Building Projects Now Taking Shape.

Through the leasing department of the W. Ross Campbell Company the Emil Olcovich Company, a wholesale shoe firm of Nos. 372-8 South Los Angeles street, has taken a ten-year lease on a large wholesale building to be erected at Nos. 753-55-57-59-61 South Los Angeles street by Mrs. Magdalena W. de Sabichi. The total rental involved is given at approximately $180,000.

The lease calls for a five-story and basement, class A reinforced concrete building, fronting 116 feet on Los Angeles street, with a depth of 140 feet to a thirty-five foot private alley. The plans were prepared by Morgan, Walls & Morgan. Carl Leonardt is the contractor. The building is to be equipped with high-speed passenger and freight elevators, steam heat, sprinkler system and other modern conveniences. A perspective of the structure recently appeared exclusively in The Times.

This marks the sixth concrete wholesale building to be erected in the same block within the past year and a half. Los Angeles street, from Seventh to Ninth, in fact, is showing a rapid and substantial development. Within the next month, the Los Angeles Notion Company will move into its new seven-story building across from the Olcovich company. On the west side of Los Angeles, between Eighth and Ninth, the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company expects soon to be in its new five-story building. In the same block Dr. Carl Kurtz will soon commence a five-story fireproof building. On the east side of the street, between Eighth and Ninth, David Hewes will at once commence a number of stores.

CHURCH CONTRACT LET.

Los Angeles Builder to Erect Imposing Roman Catholic House of Worship at Long Beach.

LONG BEACH, July 24.—William Kirk of Los Angeles has been awarded the contract for the construction of the imposing new St. Anthony's Roman Catholic Church in this city. The edifice will be of Gothic design and will cost about $30,000. The architect is Frank T. Kegley of Los Angeles, with whom is associated T. Foster Ena.

The church will be 125x75 feet in size and will have a seating capacity of about 600. It will be of tapestry brick, the trim being of stone. The structure will replace the old church, the corner-stone of which was laid in 1902.

Two lofty steeples will be the most striking architectural features. The main tower will have a height of 125 feet.

ROYALLY ENTERTAINED.

The delegates from the Los Angeles Realty Board who left here on July 16 to attend the convention of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges at Winnipeg have been royally entertained by the realty men of San Francisco and the cities of the northwest. At Portland the Los Angeles men were given a long automobile ride through the city and entertained at luncheon, being taken later to a chicken dinner at Chanticler, twenty-five miles above Portland on the Columbia River. This feast was followed by a house-boat party on the Willammette River. At Seattle they were given a long automobile trip, including a visit to Lake Washington and other points of interest.

BEAUTIFUL WATER FRONT DREAM OF SHORE CITY.

Huntington Beach Planning to Park and Improve Sightly Bluffs Along Ocean Avenue—Los Angeles Architects Submit Sketches to Board of Trade—Miles of Streets to Be Paved.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 26.—Letters have been exchanged between the Board of Trade of Huntington Beach and Paul Shoup, president of the Pacific Electric Railway, relative to the proposed parking and landscaping of the water front of Huntington Beach. The water front is the property of the Pacific Electric Railway and of the city of Huntington Beach and the Board of Trade has asked for the co-operation of both in carrying out the improvements. Shoup has promised an early consideration of the subject.

Architects Stibolt and Pardee of Los Angeles have prepared tentative plans for the contemplated layout, and at the same time have drawn sketches of a bath-house, dancing pavilion and hotel, three buildings which Huntington Beach is ambitious to possess, and have located them in a group facing Ocean avenue and the proposed Bluff Park.

The main feature of the ocean front improvement as outlined is a series of stairways and tunnels leading from Ocean avenue to the water level. The entrances to the tunnels on Ocean avenue are indicated by ornamental light standards of an imposing design, while the entrances from the water level are treated in the form of arched gateways, surmounted by platforms on the level of the beach bluffs.

Between the tunnels the bluff is given a natural treatment somewhat suggesting the palisades at Santa Monica. On the bluff it is proposed to have a promenade, with another one, probably, on the sands, just below high-tide level. All the work is to be done in concrete or masonry in the most permanent form.

The sketches were inspected and discussed at the meeting of the Board of Trade last Wednesday.

ARTISTIC OPPORTUNITY.

The water front of Huntington Beach gives an exceptional opportunity for artistic development. It consists of a bluff twenty-five to thirty feet high, overlooking the sea in almost a straight line for a distance of three miles.

About 150 feet back from the edge of the bluff is the Pacific Electric right of way and then there is another 100 feet additional which has been improved into what is known as Ocean avenue. This entire water front is to be permanently kept free of buildings which would obstruct the ocean view, according to present plans. At the present time the parking is planned to extend only as far as Thirteenth street.

The proposed ocean front parkway will be a part of the main Long Beach to Balboa boulevard, construction of which has been started by the Board of Supervisors of Orange county. The roadway will be a picturesque seaside drive and will, ultimately, be part of the coast highway from Los Angeles to San Diego, as it is planned to extend the boulevard to Laguna Beach and beyond to a connection with the State highway, now under construction to San Diego.

In connection with the improvement of the ocean front, Huntington Beach has determined upon the paving of four miles of streets within the city limits to connect with the several county boulevards which are now being built into the city.

The development of the water front, as laid out by Architects Stibolt and Pardee, will be in keeping with the design of the concrete pier at present under construction. This pier will extend a total of 1400 feet into the ocean and at the land end will be met by approaches of a monumental character, finished in solid concrete. The pier will be completed in October.

INGLEWOOD ACRES.

Sales of twenty half-acre lots at Inglewood Acres are reported this week by the James R. H. Wagner Company. The lots were purchased by individuals who, it is said, expect to make their homes on the tract. The buyers are N. L. Thompson, three lots, $1120; G. C. Scribner, two lots, $890; C. L. Hubbell, two lots, $650; J. Dougherty, two lots, $890; William Leik, two lots, $1100; K. Leik, one lot, $775; L. G. Leskov, $575; B. Mantell, $495; F. Gates, $445; R. M. Riuck, $445 and R. H. McGarvin, $500.

GIGANTIC PROJECT.

Irrigated Tract Comprising One-fourth of Solano County Put Upon Market by San Francisco Company.

A tract of 110,000 acres, comprising nearly one-fourth of the area of Solano county, and said to be one of the largest private irrigation projects ever developed, is being placed upon the market by A. J. Rich & Co., of San Francisco. The gigantic land enterprise was organized and is now being conducted by Patrick Calhoun, street railway magnate of San Francisco and other cities.

The property is known as the Solano Irrigated Farms, and has for its eastern boundary the Sacramento River. The Southern Pacific Railway skirts its western line. The new Oakland and Antioch road runs for a dozen miles through the middle of the tract. Most of the land is within forty to fifty miles of San Francisco.

Calhoun organized the Solano Irrigated Farms Company last January, and by purchase brought 450 separate farms into one ownership. The company has dug a canal twelve miles long, eighty-five feet wide and fourteen feet deep from the Sacramento River to the heart of the tract. Here a 400,000,000-gallon reservoir has been created. Branch canals and laterals have been constructed, 130-room administration building erected, and a demonstration farm started.

The company announces that more land is to be bought and added to the present holdings, until all the acreage that can be brought under the irrigation system has been secured. A tidewater canal 150 feet wide is being dredged six miles from Suisun Bay to admit river boats to the townsite of Solano, which has been laid out on a 1500-acre section of the property. The main canal to the Sacramento, it is announced, is also to be made navigable.

SCHOOL BADLY CROWDED.

EL SEGUNDO, July 26.—Members of the board of trustees of the El Segundo school district have under consideration bids for finishing and furnishing two additional classrooms on the west side of the present building. The school was so badly crowded last spring that the board is determined to have the addition ready for occupancy by the opening of the fall term. A furnace heating system is to be installed. In addition to the schoolhouse proper a recreation building and gymnasium will be erected in the schoolhouse yards for the use of pupils, and this, too, will be completed by fall.

MARIAN ACRES.

The Janss Investment Company reports the sale to M. J. Gentry, of the Pacific Sash and Door Company, of five acres at Marian Acres. Gentry plans to build a home and to improve the land with deciduous fruit trees. The tract is near Sherman way, the $500,000 boulevard through the Van Nuys-Lankershim lands, and brought a given consideration of $2500.

RUSHING IMPROVEMENTS.

Work Started on Trestle Across Mouth of Alamitos Bay—Road Gang Attacks New Highway.

BAY CITY, July 26.—All of the improvements now under way at Seal Beach, Bay City, are being rushed through as rapidly as possible. The Pacific Electric Long Beach-Seal Beach line will probably be in operation within a short time, as the trestle across the mouth of Alamitos Bay was started this week.

The new pavilion, although not entirely completed, is ready for occupancy, the bath-house department having been in business since July 17; when it was initiated by the members of the Federated Improvement Association of Los Angeles. The dance hall was also dedicated at this time by the visitors. The Bay View Hotel has been opened for the season.

It will not be long until the Los Angeles system of good roads will extend to Bay City, as there is a road gang at work at the present time on the section between Long Beach and this place. When this is completed Seal Beach-Bay City will be connected with Los Angeles by a fine touring boulevard.

NEW SOUTH SIDE TRACT.

The Home Seekers' Building Corporation announces that it will place its new Moneta tract, between Moneta avenue and Figueroa street, at Eighty-eighth street, on the market within a short time. Preparations are now being made to begin the street work, sidewalks and curbs, and to install water, gas and electricity. It is stated that this work will be completed within thirty days, and that about a half-dozen houses will then be under construction.

NEW DEPARTMENT HEADS.

Paul H. Blades and J. B. Stearns, experienced realty operators, have been added to the Janss Investment Company service and will have active management of the country lands department of that concern.

SCHOOL BONDS VOTED.

Tropico to Have Much Needed Grammar Institution—Move Started to Purchase Private Water System.

TROPICO, July 26.—The residents of this city have just voted bonds to the amount of $20,000 for grammar school purposes. The money derived from the sale of these bonds will be used to buy a site and erect a much needed new building. The piece of land selected is at the corner of Maripose and Acacia streets and comprises four acres. It is costing the district $11,000.

There is a movement here looking to the purchase of the system of the Tropico Water Company by the city of Tropico. During the past year or so the service afforded the residents of this place has been anything but satisfactory and the residents believe that to purchase the system is the only satisfactory way out of the trouble.

The board of trustees has ordered in the improvement work on Dunbarton street from the south line of Acacia street to the north line of Moore avenue, the work to include grading, oiling, sidewalks and curbing. The contract for the improvement of Cypress and Mountain streets from Glendale avenue east to the wash has been awarded to E. R. Sinclair of Glendale. The improvement of Boynton street and a section of Moore avenue in the east part of Tropico has almost been completed by Sinclair.

New Era.

GOOD ROADS FOR VERDUGO CANYON.

PICTURESQUE REGION BEING HIGHLY DEVELOPED.

Natural Playground to North of Glendale to Be Improved With Fine System of Boulevards and Streets—Montrose Railway to Standardize Line.

GLENDALE, July 26.—An era of street improvement is about to open in the northern part of this city. A large amount of grading is already completed and, it is stated, paving work will commence within a few days. In Glendale Heights alone, $100,000 is to be spent, according to M. V. Hartranft, who has large property interests there.

The city is to pave Glendale avenue to its intersection with the county highway. Verdugo road, or Canada boulevard, as it is now known, will be improved from its intersection with the county highway for a distance of 15,000 feet to a point just south of the famous Sparr citrus ranch. The new boulevard will be 110 feet wide and will run directly through Glendale Heights, skirting the eastern edge of Verdugo Park, one of the prettiest natural playgrounds in Southern California.

Surveyors have recently completed running lines for streets all through Glendale Heights. Most of the streets on the west side of Canada boulevard are to be improved under the Vrooman act. Those on the east side of the boulevard are to be improved by the Los Angeles and Arizona Land Company, owners and developers of some 400 acres, comprising Glendale Heights.

For years it has been the desire of Glendale residents and motorists generally to have a boulevard leading directly from the main portion of the city to Verdugo Park. The county highway runs along the side of the hills a mile or so east of the park. A good dirt road is the only highway which now connects Glendale with the park.

Canada boulevard, it is announced, will be on a par with the county highway and will be a boon to motorists. A deep macadam base with crushed rock, oil and sand is to be used in the construction.

The Glendale-Montrose Street Railway Company announced this week that it is the intention of the company to standardize the entire line in the near future. At the time that work is done the line will be extended on from the Montrose district to La Crescenta, Sunland and Monte Vista.

FACTORY PLANS OUT.

Growing Industry to Build Large Plant at Monrovia—Other Improvements Projected by Company.

MONROVIA, July 27.—An important business announcement was made this week by J. E. MacIntyre of the MacIntyre Building Company, in the publication of the plans for a new factory for the Day and Night Solar Heater Company of this city. The new factory will be built at the corner of Myrtle and Chestnut avenues, directly opposite the Southern Pacific station, and will be fifty-three feet by 150 feet in size. The entire floor space will be of cement, to facilitate the handling of heavy material on trucks. The front of the large building will be of plastered finish, the same treatment being carried down the sides.

The front will be given over to offices and storerooms, and the rear is especially planned for the manufacture of the heaters. Shower baths and individual lockers will be installed for the workmen, and an abundance of light and perfect ventilation is provided for by the numerous windows and special arrangements for the circulation of the air. MacIntyre announces that the Day and Night Solar heater factory is only one of a number of buildings which will be built in the same district in the near future. A number of pieces of valuable property in the neighborhood have been lately purchased by a recently-incorporated company, of which he is a member, and further important announcements are expected within a few days.

The Day and Night Solar Heater Company is one of the rapidly growing concerns in the city. The first heater was built in the spring of 1908 in a barn at the residence of W. J. Bailey, the inventor, and he is now president-manager of the company. The company now has a branch factory at San Diego, and covers in its territory all of Southern California as far north as Stanislaus county.

Final Papers Just Signed Between The Roy C. Howells Company and J. J. Davis, Transferring One Palisades Tract to Roy C. Howells Company Syndicate at a Consideration of $350,000.

Another Palisades Tract Adjoining, Taken Over Also by The Roy C. Howells Company from J. J. Davis at a Consideration of $325,000.

Howells Company syndicate is planning one of the largest campaigns for the improving of one of these tracts and the selling of both that has yet been introduced.

The tract that is to immediately have installed upon it every highest class city improvement, comprises the one hundred acres lying between San Vicente Boulevard and Montana Avenue and between Eleventh and Fourteenth Streets. This property consistent with the fact that it is a part of the noted Palisades, famed throughout the United States for its high-class improvements and beautiful homes, will not merely have the typical improvements of the usual high-class properties in California, but the best obtainable.

The grading gangs are already on the ground and are ready to begin work at once upon the streets.

Over $40,000 worth of reservations have already been made on this splendid property, even before the ground has been broken, which is only a suggestion of the furore that this property will create among both real estaters and investors everywhere when the tract is finally ready for the market.

$350,000 is the reported financial consideration in this deal.

225 Lots in 180-Acre Tract Taken Over.

Two hundred and twenty-five of the lots in the J. J. Davis, 180-acre subdivision which had its formal opening for market last October, were also taken over from J. J. Davis to be sold by the Roy C. Howells Company syndicate.

This property, which directly adjoins the other tract, has strictly the highest class improvements to be found anywhere; all of which are installed, and are now being enjoyed by the various residents of the property.

The boulevards of this one hundred and eighty-acre subdivision are of the very best grade of rock macadam, eighty feet in breadth and with beautiful, twenty-foot parkings along each side and expansive, cement walks and curbs bordering.

Sewers, gas, electricity, water and telephones and all other such installations are in, the poles and pipes of all being in the broad alleys instead of being permitted to mar the beautiful streets.

The financial consideration between J. J. Davis, the original owner of this property, and the Roy C. Howells Company Syndicate, which took it over to sell, was $325,000.

200 Acres Are Comprised in the Palisades Deal.

Altogether there are approximately two hundred acres of notably some of the best homesite and investment property that has ever been put upon the market, represented in this $675,000 deal between the Roy C. Howells Company syndicate and J. J. Davis.

The two properties combined extend from the street known as Seventh Street, which is two blocks from the sea, toward the mountains, to Fourteenth Street.

The land, being on a gentle incline from the mountains to the sea, every lot in both of these Palisades tracts, commands an unobstructed and beautiful view of the sea.

The tracts lie directly along the noted San Vicente Boulevard, which not alone forms one of the principal parts of the world race course where the champion motorists vie with each other for supremacy each year; but it also is rapidly coming to be known as one of the most favored automobile pleasure drives throughout California. This exceptional popularity is undoubtedly not alone due to its superb location, but it is due as well to the fact that it lies so close to the Santa Monica Canyon.

These Palisades tracts, now to be marketed by the Roy C. Howells Company, lie just a half of a block from the famous old Santa Monica Canyon. The Santa Monica Mountains, which sweep in a crescent shape from the long promontory arm of land jutting out into the sea, to Hollywood and onward, seem to fairly overhang these Palisades properties, they are so close; affording another scene of indescribable splendor for the residents here to overlook to add to the charms of the sea and the canyons.

Mr. Roy C. Howells, who is at the head of the Roy C. Howells Company syndicate, predicts for his company the sale of every lot in the two Palisades tracts within six months at the latest.

TALES OF OLD DUELING WEAPONS.

BY MAJ. BEN C. TRUMAN.

THE writer was shown, not long since, the bowie knife used in a bloody duel on the grounds of the University of Virginia, in 1854, between Thomas Flournoy and Edgar Garth, two prominent Virginians, from the effects of which Garth died soon after. Flournoy, although dangerously wounded, survived him thirty-odd years. A grand-nephew of Flournoy, who was a distinguished officer in the Confederate army and who took up his residence in San Francisco about thirty-five years ago, was for a long time the owner of this weapon.

The pistol used by Henry Clay in his duel with Humphrey Marshall in 1808 is owned by Hanlon Vimont of Millersburg, Ky., given him by his cousins, the Misses Lizzie and Charlotte Vimont, who had received it some twenty years before from Mrs. Mantell, Mr. Clay's grand-daughter, who came into possession of it and other personal property at Mr. Clay's death. This famous weapon is about eighteen inches long, of about 44-caliber bore, and was made for powder and ball. The same pistol also was used by the illustrious Kentuckian in his meeting with John Randolph in 1826.

The pistols used in the duel between Maj. Biddle, U.S.A., and the Hon. Spencer Pettis, only member of Congress from Missouri, on Bloody Island, opposite St. Louis, on the 27th of August, 1851, in which both fell mortally wounded, are owned by Innis Hopkins of St. Louis, they having been left him by his father, Col. Brent Hopkins, who died at Henderson, Ky., in 1884. They were once the property of Aaron Burr, who purchased them from H. W. Mortimore of London, gunmaker to His Majesty, and brought them with him when he returned from England to his native land. The barrels of these pistols are thirteen inches long and carry an ounce ball. They have flint locks, the pans for the priming are lined with gold, and the touch-holes are brushed with the same metal. They are hair-triggers, and shoot with great force and accuracy. The locks are pieces of superior mechanism. These pistols came into the possession of Col. Brent Hopkins through his uncle, Capt. Samuel Goode Hopkins, U.S.A., who purchased them from Aaron Burr, paying him a large amount for them. The weapons have a terribly blood-stained history, as they have have been used with fatal effect in eleven duels. Biddle and Pettis killed each other with them; Edward Towns of Virginia killed a Frenchman named Ducrot with one of them at Lake Pontchartrain; Capt. Sam Goode Hopkins killed a Spanish count near New Madrid; Hugh Brent killed a man named McCall on Diamond Island, below Henderson, Ky., and they were used twice in South Carolina, twice in Virginia and three times in Kentucky with deadly effect.

Maj. William Moore, U.S.A., for a long time before his death private secretary to President Johnson, had among his trophies a flint-lock duelling pistol believed to have been 300 years old, as it had been manufactured by Kittans & Co., London, and brought to Virginia by a relative of Lord Fairfax, named Mason, early in 1600. It remained in the Mason family until 1879, when it was given to Detective Raff by Miss Mason, and by Raff to Maj. Moore, who was chief of the Washington police at the time. It had been used in a number of affairs, but its true history has been lost during its rapid changes of ownership. It has a long brass barrel, which unscrews about an inch from the flashpan. To load it the barrel is unscrewed, the powder is poured in and rammed down. The barrel is then replaced, and the bullet, about three times as large as a buckshot, is dropped in. The sight is on the side of the barrel about midway between the trigger and the muzzle.

NEW SENATOR FROM ILLINOIS.

Cackling like Joseph Jefferson in Rip Van Winkle and Looking When Mournful like Abraham Lincoln—Emigrated to the West in a Homemade Cradle and Then Lived in a Log Cabin.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 20.—When he laughs, Lawrence Y. Sherman, one of the new Senators from Illinois, puckers his thin face into a joyful knot and cackles so that he looks and sounds as did Joseph Jefferson in the character of Rip Van Winkle.

It is said that he resembles Abraham Lincoln. There is no reason for such a comparison, unless it be that the expression of his countenance much of the time is mournful. He is a small man physically, with delicate features and blue eyes, which twinkle when they are not dreaming or sorrowful.

"Slabsides," John R. Tanner was once in the habit of calling him. "I was leaner in those days than I am now," he told me apologetically, "didn't sleep very well, and lived at restaurants mostly, standing before a counter at noon feeding after the manner of a horse."

Looking at me over his crescent-shaped spectacles, he wrinkled his face and cackled at the memory of bygone days and over his figure of speech. A man of moods, he is gay and sad alternately.

"I sometimes feel," he confessed to me, "like laughing in church. Maybe it is at the choir or at a deacon who has dropped the contribution box into a woman's lap, or almost swallowed his false teeth. At the funeral of a friend of mine, and I grieved with his relatives over our mutual loss, a fat man sat down on a plug hat. I nearly wrenched all my machinery in trying not to laugh."

The next moment his eyes grew dime with mist. He spoke of his sweetheart in Jasper county. They had attended the same country school and had been lovers while children. He had gone away, had become a lawyer, had built a little house, and had then returned to his old home to be married. The wedding flowers had hardly faded, however, ere the bride was borne away beneath the flowers of death. After fifteen years there was another wedding. Two years later there was another funeral. The Senator's sister, who was a school teacher for a long time, keeps his home and cares for his little daughter. "Without my baby girl," he quietly said to me, "the days with me would go dreadfully hard."

TRAVELED IN HICKORY CRADLE

"If you can find anything of interest in my dreary life, you are welcome to put it into print," he replied when I told him that I wanted the story of his battles with hard circumstances and his experiences in politics. Seemingly he is without vanity or guile. He is as simple and sincere as was Abraham Lincoln when he thought of learning the blacksmith's trade at New Salem. And possibly quite as shrewd. He wore a brown coat and vest, trousers of a different color and pattern, a white, unstarched shirt, and a long, narrow necktie twisted into a bowknot.

"Yes, sir," he said, "I am a Buckeye. There are plenty of Shermans in Ohio now. Some of my cousins were nearly drowned during the recent flood in the Miami Valley and were taken away from their houses in boats the day I was elected to the Senate. But I moved to Illinois when I was 11 months old, traveling in a covered wagon and sleeping in a homemade hickory cradle. Part of the time I sat in a homemade chair, tied in with a rope so that I wouldn't fall out. I saw the chair in my sister's attic the last time I visited her house.

"We settled in Jasper county on a quarter section of land, which was not far from the Indiana line, and near a stretch of timber six miles wide. An old log house was on the place. An insurance agent came to see us one day. His presence at the farm is among the earliest of my recollections. I sat on the fence and listened to what he said.

"'Don't you want to insure your house?' he yelled at my father, as though he were deaf.

"'Against what?' my father yelled back, looking up from his work.

"'Fire, of course,' the agent replied.

"'Fire?' my father shouted, apparently much amused. 'Say, friend,' he went on, 'I'll take a policy out against woodpeckers if you are writing any of that kind.'

TRACKS ANIMALS.

"No doubt my father meant what he said. Woodpeckers would drill holes in the logs of our home, rain and snow would leak in, and besides rotting the logs, would trickle down the walls inside on the beds and furniture. Back in Ohio there was plenty of timber and that's why my parent settled near a forest in Illinois. He liked a dog, a horse, a gun and a plug of tobacco. After a fall of snow, he would track rabbits, minks, and raccoons, taking me along and almost wearing me out. Easy and comfortable in his ways, he never had much money in hand. When we were out of funds, which, as I remember, was most of the time, we didn't make any purchases at the store some miles away.

"I grew up on our prairie farm and attended district school in the winter. My first money was earned shocking oats for a neighbor at 40 cents a day. He was a good man, but he drove his hands from sunrise until after dark. My mother was a Yates and Yates is my middle name. Her outfit from home at the time of her marriage, included Goodrich's Pictorial History of the World. It was a very large book and could be handled only on a table, a chair, or on the floor. Sitting down with it in one's hands was out of the question. Generally, I wrestled with it on the floor, reading it, I should say, fifty times through, from cover to cover.

"Some strange chance put the autobiography of P. T. Barnum into my temporary possesion. It was interesting, as I recall, but not particularly uplifting. Still it was humorous when it wasn't egotistical and was a relief from the solid contents of Goodrich's ponderous history. I may have read other books, but only the two I have mentioned linger in my memory. The statutes of Illinois were to come later

DID HIS THINKING ON A FENCE.

"It is impossible now to say what made me think about 'reading law,' as the phrase then went in the country. There is a watershed in every region from which the rain flows in one or two directions. The top of a fence was where I did much of my planning and reflecting, though, possibly, it was no more than dreaming. Moreover, the fence gave me altitude see from Louisiana, New York and Virginia. The custom never found its way into Ohio, and not much into Indiana; while only one fatal duel is recorded in Illinois, according to the code, and its survivor was hanged, according to law. Missouri caught on to the custom from the Southern States bordering on the Mississippi; and later, in 1849 and 1850, it was introduced into California by the Southern element; who, from 1840 to 1865, had considered that a part of every Southern gentlemen's equipment was a pair of derringers or other duelling pistols; and during the decade commencing in 1850 and ending in 1859 there were more duels with casualties in California than in all the other States combined.

Up to the invention and manufacture of the derringer pistol—usually called the derringer—in 1830, the horse pistol, as used in England and America, was the favorite duelling weapon in New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, North and South Carolina and Georgia—and once in a while the rifle. Most of the duelling arms were of English manufacture, and cost way up in the hundreds of dollars, as they were the most perfect of their kind. The weapons used by Hamilton and Burr cost nearly $250, and these used by Decatur and Barron quite half that amount. In Florida and Louisiana up to 1840 the sword was much oftener used than the pistol, while the Creoles of the latter States have invariably fought with four-sided rapiers called colimachades. Up to 1827 the sword was resorted to in Mississippi; but after that date most of the duels fought in that State were with bowie knives or long barrelled rifles called yaegers. In Missouri rifles and pistols were generally used; while in California horse pistols, derringers, regulation duelling pistols, army and navy revolvers, rapiers, broad swords, bowie knives, rifles, yaegers and shotguns were all used during its ten years of bloody work.

The bowie knife, which was used in Louisiana and Mississippi in half of the duels fought in those States between the years 1810 and 1830, was a conceit of Rezin Bowie, who had seen his brother James use a broken sabre in a desperate encounter with a rival land agent, and who whittled from a piece of wood a huge sample suggested by the piece of sabre, but shaped like a knife, with a handle. This he took to a Massachusetts blacksmith named Blackman at Shrevesport, who made the first Bowie knife out of a big rasp that he used when shoeing horses, and which was further polished and tempered and otherwise improved upon by a New Orleans cutler named Sanchez. Several more were made like the original, in New Orleans, and then a sample was taken to a Philadelphia cutler, by Rezin Bowie, and a large number were made and put on the market. This knife was a favorite in Louisiana, Mississippi, Texas, Arkansas, Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and California, and was used both as a duelling and all round weapon to a greater or lesser extent. The yaeger, a long barreled rifle, invented in Mississippi, was a favorite duelling weapon for many years in that State and in Texas and Louisiana, and was used twice in California.

The derringer, which became the truest and most dangerous of all duelling weapons for many years, was invented by a Philadelphia gunsmith named Derringer, who was noted for the exquisite fineness of his work on firearms and its general excellence, particularly in pistols. The flint lock was then used; and to insure its not missing fire the lock work especially had to be done with a great deal of care. Hardly ever more than four inches to the barrel and carrying about sixty bullets to the pound, by reason of a peculiarity in the manner of boring and the arrangement of the powder chamber, no small pistol of the time ever drove a bullet at a short distance with the terrible power and deadly effect of the derringer. It was intended for close quarters and at ten or fifteen feet or paces its bullet would smash an armor or leg into splinters. Because of this smashing quality the derringer was called a "bone-breaker" and well deserved its name.

The lock for a double-barrel gun of the finest kind in those days cost $50 alone. "Old" Joe Manton says in a little book on gunnery, printed in 1812, that he "habitually paid 10 pounds for his gun locks."

In 1833 the contract was let for the pistols with which to arm the First Regiment of Dragoons, just created by act of Congress. "Two thousand holster pistols, carrying thirty bullets to the pound," were wanted. Derringer got the contract. The officers of the regiment also wanted pistols, but of a finer quality than those of the rank and file. So Derringer made thirty-six pairs of officers' pistols. From that time until 1860 he was the first small-arm maker in the United States in the matter of pistols, or, perhaps, of the world. Some of his work in its delicacy and beauty was wonderful. The late Gen. John Magruder, a famous officer of the artillery in the old army and a Confederate major-general, owned the finest and most elaborate pair of small pistols that Derringer probably ever made. They had two sets of barrels fitted to each stock. One set was four inches and the other six inches in length. Each carried sixty bullets to the pound. The pistols were gold-mounted, with beautiful inlaid work wherever it could be placed, in silver and gold. The locks were made by Brazier, the most famous maker of gun locks in England, and they cost $60 alone. At fifteen paces the four-inch barrels would send a bullet through an inch oak plank, which no small revolver made in 1860 would do. The pistols were hair-triggered and with the six-inch barrels Col. Magruder was accustomed to cut the spots out of the four of spades at twelve paces' distance.

Another very handsome pair of the Derringer pistols were presented to Gen. Beauregard late in 1860 by some creole gentlemen of New Orleans. They were also four-inch barrels, hair-triggered and beautifully inlaid with silver work. What the cost was, of course, no one knew, but the maker and purchaser; but, including the case and loading instruments, it could not have been less than $250.

Derringer also made a very fine rifle that some Philadelphia gentleman presented to Davy Crockett of Crockett's Bluff, on the White River, in Arkansas. Some beautiful pairs of duelling pistols were made also by Derringer, but they are rarely now seen, except among old families in the South and in California.

TWENTY-FIRST WELL.

PLANADA, July 26.—Work on the twenty-first well within the radius of two miles from Planada commenced the first of this week. The new well is being put down on J. F. Lambert's ten acres on the Holt tract and is to be a twelve-inch bore. Of good news to Planada is the announcement by the Santa Fe Railroad that millions of dollars will be spent for the completion of its double track system to Albuquerque, N. M. It is believed that the increased efficiency in service is sure to be beneficial to this section.

NEW TULARE TRACT.

The Venice Hill tract and the new town of Venice Hill in Tulare county are to be formally opened to the public on Thursday, July 31. The tract, comprising about 900 acres along the Southern Pacific Railway, nine miles north of Exeter, is the property of the Venice Hill Land Company of this city, of which Joseph Dismukes is president; G. A. Murphy, vice-president; J. H. Strine, secretary, and Q. J. Rowley, treasurer. The land, which has been dry farmed for years, is to be cut up into five, ten and twenty-acre pieces. The property is in what is known as the early orange belt of Tulare county. The townsite is now being improved with streets, sidewalks and curbs and piped to water.

TO DIRECT PUBLICITY.

In connection with its plan to exploit the industrial possibilities of Southern California, the Chamber of Commerce of Torrance has named G. W. Finney as its director of publicity. Finney was a former New York and Washington newspaper man, having been connected with the New York World and the Washington Post. In the recent political campaign, he directed the publicity of the Republican National League, of which Rudolph Spreckels was president.

STUDY MILITARY METHODS.

American Army Officers Serve in French and German Regiments and Take Course of Instruction.

[Washington Post:] Two of the officers of our army to be sent to France to observe military methods and to receive instruction have been selected.

First Lieutenant William S. Martin, Fourth Cavalry, now on duty with his regiment at Schofield barracks, Hawaii, has been selected to pursue the course of instruction at the French cavalry school at Saumur, and he soon will receive orders to proceed to France.

Upon recommendation of the chief of the Quartermaster Corps, Capt. Roy B. Harper, of the cavalry arm, now serving a detail in the Quartermaster Corps, will be sent to pursue the next course of instruction at the Intendance (Supply) School of the French army at Paris.

A cavalry officer, an infantry officer, and two field artillery officers, to serve for a year with French regiments, in accordance with permission obtained from the French government, yet are to be selected.

The British government has been asked to permit one of our officers to attend the army supply school at Aldershot, and, if this permission is obtained, an officer of the Quartermaster Corps will be sent. Several years ago Lieut.-Col. William H. Hart, Quartermaster Corps, then a major in the subsistence department, attended this school.

Representations are being made to the German government through the United States embassy at Berlin looking to the obtaining of permission for several of our officers to serve for a year with regiments of the German army. It is desired to send four infantry officers to infantry regiments and one cavalry officer to a cavalry regiment. Permission also is being sought to send an officer of the Quartermaster Corps to the German supply school.

At the time the detached-service law went into effect, on December 15, last, Capt. Alfred W. Bjornstad, of the infantry, one of our best infantry tacticians, was on duty in Germany to observe infantry methods, and under the law it was necessary to relieve him. Thereupon he obtained ten months' leave of absence, and he unofficially continued the work on which he had been engaged. During part of the time spent in Germany he served with an infantry regiment. He recently returned to this country, and he will make reports of his observations which will be of value to the military authorities.

MOUNTAIN PEAK BLOWN OFF.

Huge Rock That Threatened a French Village Succumbs to a Huge Charge of Dynamite.

[New York Sun:] A huge rock 3000 feet high, forming the peak of a mountain overlooking the village of Thormery, near Aix-les-Bains, the base of which has been continually disintegrating and threatening to engulf the village ever since its foundation in the Middle Ages, was blown to atoms today by an immense charge of dynamite placed there by order of the government.

The villagers have lived for twenty years in great fear owing to the continual inroads made by the rains on the mountainside and they firmly believed that the rock would some day crash down among them, as its base was getting smaller and smaller year by year.

Three hundred holes were bored in the side of the mountain, some five yards deep and some as much as nine. Ten or twelve pounds of dynamite were inserted in each hole. Before the fuse was fired the village was vacated, the people taking with them all their portable property and removing their cattle to a safe distance. An immense crowd of visitors gathered to witness the unwonted performance. The explosion was a formidable one, completely destroying the mountain peak, but not a house in the village was touched.

"MERELY RENTERS"

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA HOME BUILDERS

"For ten years we have been paying over $25 a month to different landlords.

"It means more than THIRTY-NINE HUNDRED DOLLARS, figuring interest at only 6 per cent.

"We don't amount to anything in the neighborhood. We are merely renters.

Even the children feel it. They haven't the confidence that goes with living in their own home. You can see it.

"Let's stop this rent paying right now."

The foregoing is not an imaginary conversation. It occurs some time or another in the life of every man and wife. Unfortunately most of them wake up to lost opportunity too late.

Why pay rent? Why submit to the domination of a landlord? Why let your children grow up without a real home and real home surroundings?

Why leave yourself in danger of being without a roof over your head in time of illness or old age?

$25 to $50 monthly will buy you a handsome home in a nice neighborhood within easy riding distance and five cent car fare.

The first payment is one that we can easily arrange.

See or telephone our Mr. Packard. He will call for you with an automobile and show you some of the prettiest bungalows in Los Angeles.

You will be under absolutely no obligation of any kind or character. If you find what you want we will be pleased to have you as a customer.

ART GETS AHEAD OF STRENGTH.

"After tramping with him for an hour or two I said: 'I am new in this part of the country, Calvin, and you can break me down, but I don't believe you care to do so. In a stand-up fight you might whip me, but I don't believe you care to do that, either.' So the matter was settled. Calvin gave me no more trouble. And that's the way with life. Negotiation is better than war, especially among weak men and nations. Strategy is often more effective than cannons.

"I entered McKendree College to prepare for the legal profession. At the end of two years, I became a student in the law department, and in course of time was graduated. I went to Springfield, where I passed the bar examination and was admitted to practice. The next problem was to find a location. I walked and rode into the West as far as Joplin, Mo., talking to lawyers in countp-seat towns and examining dockets at Courthouses.

"I was out of funds when I returned to Lebanon. I meant to go into the harvest fields that summer and teach school the following winter. Jacob Spies had been my room-mate while I was studying law. His father was a wealthy German-American farmer. 'If you don't make a break now,' Jacob said to me, 'you will put it off from year to year and will never practice law, but be a farm laborer and school teacher all your days.'

"'But I have no money,' I told him.

"'I'll lend you $50,' Jacob replied.

"After paying my debts I had $30 left. I went to Macomb, which is in the second county east of the Iowa line, having decided during my travels that it was the most promising place I had seen. It was in the center of a corn country, the black soil was two feet deep, and corn, cattle, and timothy seed were shipped to Chicago and elsewhere. An uncle by marriage happened to live at Macomb. I called on him.

"'How much money have you?' he asked, before committing himself.

"'Not any,' I replied, which was true at the time.

"'Well,' he went on to say, 'I am not in good circumstances myself.'

IT WAS ONLY A BUSINESS CALL.

"'I am sorry on your own account that such is the case,' I answered, 'but whether you have much or little makes no difference to me. I shall pay my way in Macomb. Nor have I ever seen the day when I couldn't take care of myself. I am here to practice law, and called on you because I am hunting a boarding place.'

"'I think,' he said rather suddenly, 'that we can accommodate you.'

"'That will be satisfactory,' I answered, 'but I want to pay no more than the customary price.'

"So I took board and lodging with him at $3 a week. Then I went to the freight yards of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad to hunt for work. A man hired me as a teamster at $1 a day. Subtracting my board I had $3 a week left. In a little while my wages were increased 25 cents a day. I hauled all kinds of freight, and remained with the man throughout the summer. In October my uncle bought a carload of apples. I peddled them in a wagon from house to house, shouting out the bargain I had up one street and down another. Some of the apples were sold to W. H. Hainline, then, as now, the editor of the Macomb Journal. That is the way our acquaintance began.

"Lyman Beecher Vose, a New England man, with a wife and baby, had also moved to Macomb to practice law. We came together and formed a partnership. My cash capital amounted to $68. I doubt if Vose had anywhere near as much. We made office rent and board from the start. Vose was an exceptionally capable man outside with collections, insurance, and miscellaneous business. I drew up our papers and worked out our cases. I was not a talking man in those days.

"At the age of 28 I was elected to the bench. I had previously served as attorney of Macomb at a salary of $800 a year. I stayed on the bench four years, but all the time I looked forward to the day when I again should practice law. Judge Damon G. Tunnicliffe had the best office and the largest practice in our part of the State. He stopped me on the street and told me he wanted to retire from business. In ten minutes I had arranged to go in partnership with his son. The Tunnicliffes were hard fighters in lawsuits, but I was associated with them for eighteen years, and not a single disagreeable word was ever passed between us."

SPOKE UNTIL STOVE FELL.

"Do you remember the first speech you made?" I asked.

"The first one I ever attempted to make was at a college debate. A lot of windy fellows got me into the line-up of an argument over some tomfool question. I crammed diligently for the occasion, but when I got on my feet I couldn't say a word. The humiliation was terrible. My first political speech was delivered at Lebanon. I was 20 years old. It was late in October and I was sent to a negro settlement. The regular orator who had been billed for the meeting couldn't appear. When I got to the hall I thought I understood the reason why. It was a cool evening and a fire had been kindled to warm the room. I got to talking and the audience to sweating and stamping, and then the stove fell down. That broke up the meeting."

"You were elected to the Legislature in 1897," I said.

"Yes, and my troubles began. I voted for the 'notorious' Allen bill. The franchises of the street railroads in Chicago expired at different times. People wanted street railroads in early days. A franchise would be given, a road would be built and a jackass and a car would begin hauling passengers back and forth. By and by the road would be extended under a new or an amended franchise. So it went all over the city. Finally there was fierce contention over the whole question. Bills and propositions in great numbers came into the Legislature. I voted ultimately for a bill giving the City Council of Chicago power to grant franchises running no more than fifty years to the street railroad companies. The whole issue, I thought, thus would be transferred to Chicago, where it belonged.

"I was a new man in the Legislature and couldn't read the signs which were later plain enough to be seen in the light of a fuller experience and intelligence. I came to believe afterward that a good deal of money was spent to pass the Allen bill. Some of the newspapers in Chicago said I was corrupt, and daily described me as being an undesirable and faithless public official. I said I should leave my case with my own people. My county was flooded with abusive publications, but I was renominated and re-elected without trouble.

HOW HE DEFIED THE INTERESTS

"I went back to Springfield in 1899 with blood in my eye. I told Gov. Tanner that I was a free lance, meant to speak my mind, and crack a good many heads. Now Tanner was a machine man, and my part of the State was opposed to the machine. Tanner said my programme would do me no good. 'Go quietly into the Legislature and be a useful member as heretofore,' he advised me. Shortly after he informed me that he purposed using his influence to elect me speaker. Chicago came out bitterly against me, but Southern Illinois, under the leadership of Tanner, and Northwestern Illinois, where the people knew me, stood together, and I was elected.

"A repeal of the Allen law was at once attempted. Charles T. Yerkes, the great street railroad boss in Chicago, said I could send the repeal bill to a committee, and thus keep it off the floor of the Legislature. He wanted it smothered, you understand. I said in reply that the Allen law had had its day in the House of Representatives and that the repeal bill would take the same course, regardless of Mr. Yerkes or anybody else.

"'If that's your answer,' Yerkes said, 'I'll drive you out of politics.'

"'Go ahead,' I answered, 'but the repeal is to be debated and a vote taken no matter what happens.'

"The Allen law was repealed, as I knew it would be. Every vote but that of Allen's was cast against it. I shall always be criticised for my support of the bill in the first place. My action while speaker caused a rupture between me and William Lorimer. So I lost all around.

"Still, it does not appear, and I say it modestly, that the people of Illinois lost confidence in my character. I was elected Lieutenant-Governor in 1904, and last year as a candidate for United States Senator, was given a plurality of 50,000 votes at the Republican primaries."

Luther Burbank, the wizard of plant life, is again on the "horizon." His latest achievement, after sixteen years of careful study and experimenting, is his famous Burbank Spineless Cactus. It means the transforming of the arid regions of the globe into a garden spot; it means that the "waste places shall blossom like the rose."

Burbank Spineless Cactus is a wonder plant—food for man and beast. The forage varieties produce from 90 to 200 tons to the acre. The fruiting varieties produce from 5 to 50 tons of delicious fruit.

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP: STRIKES.

[EDITORIAL.]

THERE ARE those who assert that there never could be a chaos-making strike, such as is now threatened on the railroads in eastern territory, if the government owned the roads; nor against any utility or service or industry, if the government owned it. In other words, that government or public ownership would preclude or be a preventive of strikes. But why not? They had, says the Buffalo Evening News, just such a situation of things in France, when thousands of public employees struck and the strike was broken solely by the device of ordering the strikers to report to the military corps to which they belonged. Rather than do that they called the strike off.

We do not have the conscript system in the United States. There is no basis whatever for the doctrine that government ownership would prevent strikes in business organizations under government control and operation. It is sheer assumption, and Socialist assumption at that, with nothing to stand on in the history and record of any government. Moreover, such ownership, including municipal ownership of any public utility, except water for distribution and use as water, means the inclusion of thousands of places in the hands of politicians, and it also means the worst service that the people will tolerate. That is the record of it in Europe and everywhere else. The worst failure in modern experience is that of public ownership on the whole and as a system fully established and operated. Almost daily failures of government, public or municipally-owned public utilities are reported, together with not infrequent strikes and outrageous labor wages demands in connection therewith.

Labor's Unrest.

THE STRIKE NEWS OF THIS UNEASY WORLD.

SO far as the record is available it shows that the trainmen of the eastern railroads made certain demands on their employers, involving a large increase ($17,000,000,) in the wage schedule, and offered as the alternative to a general strike which would starve half the population of the nation, and greatly inconvenience the other half, to submit those demands to arbitration. Thereupon Congress enacted and the President signed a law providing for arbitration on terms acceptable to the railroads and the men, and both sides agreed to submit thereto, says the Sun of New York.

This having been accomplished, the employers had the amazing "audacity" to declare that, while the arbitration was in progress they intended to submit certain recommendations of their own in respect of the terms of service rendered, as apart from the service paid for. To the uninitiate this would seem reasonable and just. But by the inciters of this enterprise the proposal of any question the answer to which might conceivably put them in the situation of giving instead of taking, is regarded as a monstrous breach of faith, a most reprehensible and indefensible thing. From this it is deduced that arbitration that may result in taking money from an employer's pocket and putting it in an employee's pocket is a noble and glorious device; but arbitration that may work in the opposite direction is a despicable assault on the integrity and manhood of labor, emanating from the evil one, and not for a moment to be tolerated by any right-thinking unionist.

Let us arbitrate on our demands insist the unionists; we refuse to arbitrate, employers, on your counter demands. That is a concrete and clever example of the union labor unreasonableness and tyranny which is so much in evidence these days.

The questions put forward by the railroads for consideration by the arbitration board, while that board is considering the many demands of the men, are as follows:

"When a minimum day's wage is paid in any class of service it shall entitle the railroad to the full mileage or hours of service paid for.

"In no case shall double compensation be paid.

"For fixing the basis of compensation—i. e., whether passenger, through or local freight yard, etc.—the same classification shall be applied to all men of the train crew.

"All monthly guarantees shall be abolished.

"That consideration be given to a reduction of existing rates of pay of yard brakemen and of passenger conductors and trainmen on long continuous runs, where there is an opportunity to make excessive mileage in a limited number of hours.

"Employees in two or more classes of service on continuous duty or under continuous pay shall be paid the rates applicable to the different services performed with a minimum equal to ten hours at the lowest paid service.

"On passenger and freight trains where, under extra crew laws, additional men are required, the rate of pay for all brakemen shall be 20 per cent. below rates established for brakemen on trains not affected by such laws.

"The rates and rules awarded by this arbitration shall supersede rates and rules now in effect, which are in conflict therewith."

To consideration of this side of the case—the employer's side, by the arbitration board while it is considering the men's side, the leaders of the men raise strong objection, and in veiled diplomatic language have renewed the threat to strike, regardless of what suffering and loss their striking would inflict upon 50,000,000 people. It seems to The Times that the whole purpose and object of arbitration is to hear both sides and equitably judge between them. Apparently the men want only a one-sided arbitration, which, of course, is out of the question, even though the feared strike calamity results. There must be justice even though the heavens fall. Consideration of the railroads' grievances by the arbitration board does not by any means mean that, ipso facto, those grievances will be sustained by the board, and, naturally, vice versa. The trainmen need public sympathy to get even part of what they demand, and there is nothing to indicate popular sympathy in their present belligerent attitude, but rather the contrary. The about 90,000 eastern trainmen are now receiving $85,000,000 a year in wages, but they want $17,000,000 more without the roads getting a cent more for carriage of passengers and freight. At the same time 33 per cent. of the stockholders are not getting a single cent in dividends.

Fifteen thousand men have gone on strike in the Michigan copper mining region. They demand recognition of the union, abolition of the one-man drilling machines and the eight-hour day.

Two thousand Cincinnati teamsters struck last Wednesday, following a break with members of the Employers' Association. The Phoenix Street Railway strike has fizzled out without any real result other than an aggregate advance of $7.50 a month in wages, which the men could have got without striking (at a heavy loss in wages.) The union is not recognized and the discharged employee—Ward—is not reemployed. Thus "one by one the daisies (strikes) fall."

The big strike of sardine packers in Norway is over. It affected 50,000 people dependent upon the sardine industry for a livelihood. Further continuance meant absolute ruin and destitution to this large number. The dispute was arbitrated.

Paterson strikers, or rather those who are still striking, are furious at Idaho Haywood's apparent desertion of their cause on the sudden plea of ill-health, now that the strike is fading away, with little or no benefit to the strikers, who have lost almost $5,000,000 wages. Think of the homes—at $2000 each—that $5,000,000 would have bought and paid for, or the savings bank accounts it would have created; or the mortgages on present homes it would have paid off; or the children it would have educated, even some of them through college; or the suits of clothes, women's outfits, shoes, tons of coal, barrels of flour and other family necessities it would have bought. Think of these things, fellow wage earner who wants or is asked to strike, and don't be such a fool as to lose them by striking. And all for what at Paterson? Just to please and luxuriously support Idaho Haywood and his gang of anarchists.

The boss union barbers of New York are ignoring the I.W.W. and are keeping open Sunday mornings because the union shops do. They are setting the union utterly at defiance. And that is all the "result" of the I.W.W.'s recent flourish among the barbers of New York. A firm body of non-unionists—employers and employed—can defeat any union any time, particularly as union strike demands are always unreasonable.

The swellest and dearest hotel in Seattle is not too good for the president of the Brotherhood of Teamsters who is there getting up, or enlarging, a wages-losing teamsters' strike. And the joke is that the wages of the losers pay his fat salary and fatter expense account. He is one of the many San Francisco labor leaders who have fattened (like pigs) for years on union labor's wages money. In this matter he is a "worthy" follower of convict Gompers and other labor (mis) leaders. Will decent union labor ever see the dear point of this joke?

The Central Vermont Railroad is threatened with a strike of its locomotive engineers and firemen for a 20 per cent. wages raise. The company offered 10 per cent. which the men rejected. The New Haven road is preparing itself for an expected strike of its trainmen.

Labor leaders say that a strike of seamen at all Pacific ports is on the cards, if La Follette's seamen's bill fails in the Senate Commerce Committee. The Mayor of Portland, Or., is having all I. W. W. street agitators arrested. The trouble began with a strike of girl workers at the fruit cannery of the Oregon Packing Company.

Thousands, many thousands of foreign laborers in this country hardly knew the taste of meat and butter before they came here, yet many of them are found in the field of strike anarchy and revolt.

The walking delegate prospers for a season but the industrious employee wins in the long run.

Will Arbitrate.

STRIKES BARRED BY AGREEMENT.

CHICAGO EMPLOYERS PUT END TO AN IMPOSITION.

Locked Out Twenty Thousand Workmen for a Month After Which the Unions Were Willing to Yield Exorbitant Demands and Agree to Arbitration.

[Chicago Record-Herald:] Building construction operations in Chicago, totaling over $40,000,000, suspended June 19, have been resumed under an agreement between the Building Trades Council and the Building Construction Employers' Association.

The agreement, signed by the joint conference of the men and their employers, was ratified later by the two organizations and is intended to do away with all lockouts and strikes.

The agreement is expected to give building operations in Chicago a stability they have not known in years. I calls for a permanent arbitration board, to have jurisdiction in all questions which may arise. In the meantime the joint conference has been empowered to adjust and decide all disputes pending the formation of the joint arbitration board.

The differences were of long standing, although the more immediate dispute began June 12, when the building trades employed on the Continental and Commercial National Bank Building struck because of the disinclination of the employers to hire maintenance men.

On June 17 the Building Construction Employers' Association gave the Building Trades Council a forty-eight-hour notice to put the men back to work or a general lockout order would go into effect. The men were not put back to work, and the lockout involving 20,000 men, followed.

The employers won their fight not to employ maintenance men, the men agreeing that such work shall be done by electricians. Several other jurisdictional disputes also were settled, and provision made for further adjustments without the cessation of building activities.

Most of the criticism of the employers at the time of the lockout was against the Electrical Workers Union, which compelled the contractors to employ "maintenance men" at an expense of $12 a day, who were not required to do any work in return.

The "maintenance men" are supposed to be on hand in case something should go wrong with the electrical hoists, or with the lights used in caisson digging and other kinds of construction work. The hoists are operated by hoisting engineers and the "maintenance men" are on hand to turn on a switch if necessary, although it is said that the electrical hoists do not need repairs oftener than once a month. The regular pay of an electrical worker is $6 a day, and one set of maintenance men receive that sum for the first shift. The second shift is classed as overtime, for which double time is paid, or $12 a day. The union requires one "maintenance" man for every two electrical hoists. Three were employed on the Continental and Commercial Bank building and two on the Conway building, and when they were laid off as unnecessary the electrical workers struck.

As a result of the strike and lockout, the Building Construction Employers' Association sent a letter to the city and county officials asking the appointment of a committee of investigation that the cause of the strike and the suspension of building operations might be placed squarely before the citizens of Chicago. "The labor situation," it was stated," has been for years an outrage upon Chicago.

"Wages are not involved in the present controversy. Chicago labor is, on the average, the highest paid in the world, and is carried on under the best conditions employers can provide. The cause of the present trouble is the refusal of employers to hire so-called "maintenance men," who do no actual work, but receive enormous wages.

"In a nutshell, we refuse to pay a man who has no work to do, $72 a week for being on duty eight hours a night.

"This is not a fight against union labor, nor one to reduce wages. It is a determination to put an end to outrageous abuses, which have become intolerable, perpetrated in the name of organized labor by individuals. Maintenance men are only one of these innumerable impositions.

"There probably has been no single day during the last three years when there have not been numberless strikes on buildings in Chicago—and this in spite of the fact that we employ union men and work under agreements with them.

"The present trouble began in the Continental Commercial National Bank building. It resulted in putting into effect a resolution of our association, the Builders' Association of Chicago, the Chicago Masons' and Builders' Association, and the Carpenters' Contractors' Association, that we would not be imposed on by paying enormous wages for sinecures enjoyed by maintenance men. We gave a month's notice.

"On June 10 the maintenance men on the bank building were laid off. On June 11 the electricians struck, and on June 12 all the other trades employed on the building struck in sympathy.

"By this strike the trades violated their joint arbitration agreement with their employers, which provided that: 'Both parties to this agreement hereby covenant and agree that they will not tolerate or recognize any right of any other association, union, council or body of men not directly parties thereto, international, national or local, to interfere in any way with the carrying out of this agreement, and that they will use all lawful means to compel their members to comply with the arbitration agreement and working rules as jointly agreed upon and adopted.' "

The dispute which culminated in the lockout began about five months ago. Marble workers on the Continental Bank building employed by the Thompson-Starrett Company protested against the employment of independent marble workers by the Alabama Marble Company, which had the contract for finished product to be used in the construction of the new Field Museum building.

The protest was based on the fact that the Thompson-Starrett Company has the contract for the Field Museum building. Officers of the construction company replied they had no authority to dictate who was to be employed by the Alabama company. The marble workers on the bank building nevertheless walked out. The situation became serious when the Building Trades Council ordered out all trades at work on the building in a sympathetic strike.

Many other jobs are advertised as vacant without the daily, weekly or monthly wages being stated. Most of the men and young men one sees standing idle in groups around the city belong to the I.W.W. or are hangers-on of the 90 per cent. decent union labor. The last thing such want is work. They never look for a job and would not take one if it was offered them. All they want and all they do is suck blood (money) from decent union labor. Then when a wild-eyed labor agitator mounts a soap-box and yells and yells "Down with capital," these fellows—this worthless, idle scum—applauds vigorously, with an eye open all the time for free liquor, free tobacco, free lunch and free everything they can get without working for it. The day will come, must come, when decent union labor will button up its wages money in its breeches pockets and refuse to any longer be bled by these bloodsuckers. When that glad day comes union labor will come into its own.

Farm Wages in England.

Including board and lodging the following are the half-yearly wages paid to farm help at the chief centers:

Best men	$73 to $117
Second men	49 to 88
Boys and youths	22 to 68
Girls and women	24 to 73

The highest wages known are paid at Cockenmouth, Cumberlandshire, and are:

Best men	$78 to $117
Second men	68 to 88
Boys and youths	24 to 68
Girls and women	24 to 73

Big batches of farm laborers are emigrating; often twenty to thirty together. Most of them go to Canada and Australia. The northern counties of England are experiencing inconvenience owing to the dearth of farm labor. General opinion voiced by chambers of agriculture indicates that it is realized that English farm laborers do not get sufficient relaxation; cottage accommodation is often poor and there is little incentive generally for a man to settle to a life's work of labor on the farm. Agitation is afoot to form a Farm Workers' Union. Meetings are being held and members enrolled. A press statement says:

"The aim of the Workers' Union, or the agricultural section of it, as set out in the literature disseminated is to secure a working week of not more than 60 hours, payment for overtime work, and extra pay for all Sunday labor; limitation of hours for all women workers; fixing of a minimum wage rate, both for piecework and daywork; all employees to know at the time of hiring the rates they will have to work at; and to secure the freedom of laborers' cottages."

Comparisons have been drawn between the earnings of the women of agricultural sections of the country, making 30 to 37 cents per day at some classes of work, and the earnings of the women weavers of Lancashire, who can make $6.70 per week. From the news reports it appears that the farm laborer is slow to respond to the agitation.

Goldfield.

HOT ON TRAIL OF RESULTS.

Keen Interest to Surround Mine Development.

Citizens Prepare for Visit of "Auto Tour."

Consolidated Issues Preliminary Estimate.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

GOLDFIELD (Nev.) July 22.—During the next few months—even weeks, perhaps—results of mining development at a number of points in Goldfield district will be watched with keenest interest by mining men and by all who are in any way interested in mining in this district. At several points where operations for a long time have been of a preparatory nature—sinking shafts or driving for mineralized areas—work is nearly completed. That now in progress is such that ore of commercial grade and in large volume may be expected at any "round of shots."

In practically no instance in the larger mining operations of the district have mining engineers or managers expected to develop pay ore by the mere sinking of a shaft. Vertical shafts are almost universal in this part of the country and as veins invariably dip in one direction or another, an exceedingly small portion of any vein or ledge can be explored, or its character and value determined, by sinking through it.

In many cases where shafts have been sunk to only moderate depth it has been the policy to sink at a point to keep in the country rock away from the vein, as it is not practicable to open stopes for the extraction of ore directly from the shafts. The working of ore-bodies away from the shaft permits of the leaving of natural rock supports for stope roofs and does away with the necessity for costly timbering.

From this fact it is readily seen that shaft sinking does not constitute prospecting of the ground, is not to be classed as development work and rarely may be expected to give any definite indication of the value of a mining location. Since the reaction that followed the early boom in Goldfield and the conclusion was reached by mining men that deep mining is not only practicable here, but will eventually be the mainstay of the camp's activity and prosperity, most of the operations of the leading companies have been working with a view to deep mining and along the lines best calculated to make for permanent and highly productive mines, in place of the former methods of gophering near the surface in search of high-grade pockets. The results of this deeper work appear now assured, as the deep mines are producing a large tonnage of good ore.

Operations of the Goldfield Consolidated Mines Company are now upon a basis that permits of comparatively little variation in point of tonnage of ore treated, and in general results covering any extended period, although the company's earnings may vary considerably from month to month. The company's operations, as indicated by President George Wingfield in a recent statement, more nearly approach in character those of a manufacturing enterprise than a mining project, since the management can estimate with approximate accuracy the value of a month's output of bullion and the plant has been in operation long enough to establish its limitations and capacity.

There was never any expectation that the company would be enabled long to maintain the remarkable records of production that were made during the earlier years of its activity, and even with the reduction from those figures to the present output the property of the Consolidated is regarded as one of the most wonderful gold mines in the history of precious metal mining. The company has paid to its stockholders approximately $24,000,000 in dividends and the gross production of its properties closely approaches the vast sum of $55,000,000.

A consistent performance in the way of production of shipping ore has been the record of the Original Klondyke Company's property, fourteen miles north of Goldfield, on the road to Tonopah. James Golden, who owns almost all the stock, and who has been the chief factor in the development of the district, has a force of men at work, and is making regular shipments to smelters and samplers.

AUTO TOUR.

The citizens of Goldfield and Tonopah are enthusiastic over the belated decision of the managers of the Indiana-Pacific auto tour to come this way. The entire party will leave Ely the morning of July 22, arriving here the same evening. Severay cars carrying members of the State Automobile Association will meet the easterners at Ely and pilot them to this camp. An elaborate banquet will be given in their honor that evening at the Goldfield Hotel. From here the route is by way of Bishop to Lake Tahoe. Gov. Oddie will also be at Ely to greet the tourists and will journey with them to this camp.

Preliminary steps were completed here the other day for increasing the capitalization of the New York Oro Mining Company. This action has been taken to enable the holding company to acquire control of several corporations, including the Goldfield Oro and properties in the Wonder district. It is probable that still other properties in this district will be added in the merger. The capital of the New York Oro will be $10,000,000.

Prof. Lewis A. Merrill, for many years in charge of the extension work for the Agricultural College of Utah, has been employed as agricultural expert for the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake road, with headquarters at Salt Lake. His field of activities will extend from that city to Los Angeles.

[illegible] H. Howe, secretary and treasurer of the Goldfield Consolidated Company, has just returned with his family from an automobile trip into the High Sierras in California.

Miss Helen Drummond of Chicago arrived in camp the other morning and was at once married to Roger Foley, son of Judge T. L. Foley. They were old sweethearts. That evening about one hundred lodge friends of Foley went to the Goldfield Hotel, and, invading the rooms of the newlyweds, handcuffed young Foley and took him away, to the music of a brass band. For a time the young bride, unused to the ways of the desert, was on the verge of hysterics. Her husband was returned to her about midnight looking rather mussed up.

Preliminary estimates of the Goldfield Consolidated for the month of June place the output at $361,000. Thursday morning the company shipped to the mint at Denver bullion valued at $165,000.

James P. Williams, who is operating in the Gold Mountain district, arrived in camp this morning, and is making preparations for the immediate installation of a five-stamp mill and concentrating plant on the Royal Flush property, which he controls.

Mrs. Diminy, known as "Happy Days," the woman prospector, with a male companion, is languishing in jail for twenty days for assault and battery. She refused to pay her fine.

Charles B. Gentry, who used to own the property here on which the Courthouse now stands, was shot to death on his ranch in Colorado the other day. He was a pioneer in this district.

SYNDICATE STARTS WORK.

English Company Begins Development in Tip Top District—Y-P Will Soon Operate Mill.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) July 24.—An English syndicate known as the Acquisition Mining Company has begun development work on the Carey and Plumb groups, in Tip Top district. Hoisting plants have been installed at both properties and a new ten-stamp mill is erected in Carpenter Gulch. A wagon road has been built to connect the Tip Top mine with the main north and south highway between Prescott and Phoenix.

Another active concern in that district is the Columbia Consolidated Company, which is reviving an old producer.

During the next week ten stamps of the new mill of the Y-P Mining Company will begin dropping. For some months this company has been actively developing the Senator mine and a promising ore-body has been opened in the Senator tunnel. When the mill is started, the work of unwatering the old workings will be commenced.

The tangled affairs of the Tiger Gold Company have been adjusted and work will soon be resumed on the property of that concern, near Crown King.

TUCSON DEVELOPMENT.

MAMMOTH MINE LEASED.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

TUCSON (Ariz.) July 15.—Young Bros. of Courtland have begun development work on a large scale at the Mammoth-Collins mine, near Schultz, Pinal county. They recently took over the property from its Detroit owner for $450,000.

A pumping plant, compressor, air drills and other machinery have been ordered. The construction of a power line from the Ray Consolidated Copper Company's concentrator at Hayden, is being considered. This improvement will not be undertaken at once because Pittsburgh capitalists are considering the purchase of a group adjoining the Mammoth-Collins and if that deal goes through they will join with Young Bros. in constructing the transmission line.

Six patented and seven unpatented claims are included in the Mammoth-Collins group. Only two, the Mammoth and the Collins, have been developed to any extent. The surface showings on all the claims are practically the same.

The main working shaft, on the Mammoth, is now down 815 feet. Millions of dollars worth of gold ore was taken from this shaft by the English operators who formerly owned the property. Between the 700-foot and 800-foot levels the ore is still intact. It had been merely sampled when the mine was closed down on account of litigation. After the 800 level had been opened, sinking was resumed in the shaft with the intention of going down another 100 feet. Water had been encountered at 765 feet, however, and fifteen feet below the 800 station the flow increased to such an extent that a larger pumping plant was required.

Work has been resumed at the Commonwealth-Extension mine. The force now employed is twenty-five men and work is being carried on at a depth of 360 feet. A new cyanide plant is to be erected soon. Some of the ore taken from the Commonwealth assays as high as $1000 a ton, and it also has large bodies of low-grade rock.

On the old Commonwealth, formerly an important gold producer, 110 men are employed by Clark brothers of Tonopah. A 300-ton amalgamation mill is almost completed.

If efforts being made by Frank M. Murphy are successful in adjusting the bankruptcy proceedings pending against the Imperial Copper Company, work will be started on the Silverbell mines. The Sasco smelter, owned by the same interests, has been idle several years, although it is one of the most complete plants in the State. It has a capacity of 1000 tons a day.

The plan is to combine the fluxing ores from Christmas with the Silverbell product. About twenty men are now employed at Christmas, putting the mine in shape for large production.

GREATER TONNAGE NOW.

Ray Consolidated Daily Output Shows Gain of One Thousand Over Six Months Ago.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

RAY (Ariz.) July 24.—During June 195,000 tons of ore were shipped from the Ray Consolidated mine to the concentrator at Hayden. The daily output is now 7000 tons. Six months ago it was 5000 tons. Soon the production will be increased to 8000 tons a day. There are now 1600 men at work in the mine, and last month the pay roll was $140,000.

During the last few weeks there has been a noticeable subsidence of the caved area between Ray and Sonora, from beneath which the ore is extracted. The surface continues to drop gradually near the M. & H. shaft and a break has appeared on the old Ray Central hill, where cottages formerly stood.

COST IS MOOT POINT.

CLIFTON (Ariz.) July 24.—Whether it will cost $168,018.24 or $146,669.24 to run the government of Greenlee county next year is a point of dispute between the Board of Supervisors and County Auditor Brubaker. The Supervisors say it will cost $168,018.24 to conduct the county's business, and the Auditor thinks the smaller sum will be sufficient. They differ on the amount necessary for the expenses of county officers. Brubaker says that last year's deficit is $35,000, and the Supervisors say it is $43,000. The board proposes to expend $65,506 on county roads, and the Auditor thinks $52,500 will be enough for that purpose.

Globe.

GULCH PROVES GOLD CENTER.

Another Good Find Made at Batallieur Claims.

Superior and Boston Makes Good Progress.

Heavy Rains Retard Work at Inspiration.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

GLOBE (Ariz.) July 24.—Another important gold strike has been made by Claude Batallieur at his property in Powers Gulch. The latest discovery is on a ledge running parallel to and about 700 feet distant from the first find.

A foot of the quartz ledge carries high values in gold. Specimens taken out assay thousands of dollars to the ton. An assay from the first strike gave results of $3000 in gold and 200 ounces silver to the ton, and the second discovery seems to be fully as rich.

Little work has been done, but Batallieur has taken about six tons of rich ore from the first vein discovered and two tons from the second vein. He has traced both ledges a considerable distance.

Batallieur has a number of claims on Powers Gulch and Pinto Creek, about sixteen miles west of Globe. Because of the isolation of the district it has received little attention.

Two or three carloads of ore are shipped to El Paso each week from the Iron Cap mine. The favorable showing continues as development advances. The drift on the 800-foot level is extended east and west. Westward the ore is improving in quality. A stope is opened on this level. On the 661-foot level the big ore body opened there shows no diminution in size or richness, and is supplying most of the ore being shipped.

F. B. Tinker, a well-known mining engineer, formerly with the Miami Company, has taken charge of the Superior and Boston as superintendent. W. A. Sullivan, for seven years with the Calumet and Hecla, has entered the employ of the S. & B. as chief clerk and purchasing agent.

Good progress is made in the development of the Superior and Boston. Two or three cars of ore are shipped each day and the optput will be materially increased soon. It has been decided to put in chutes on the 800-foot level and begin stoping upward. As the ore body extends above the 600-foot level, there is over 200 feet of stoping ground.

All the ore now shipped comes from development work alone. Most of it is secured on the 600-foot level and from a sublevel 140 feet below. During May and June all development and mining expenses were paid from ore shipments and a small balance remained in the treasury.

Work is continued on the 1000-foot level, but the vein has not been picked up at that depth. It is now believed that the vein is 100 or 200 feet further east than was at first supposed.

Recent heavy rains have delayed work at the camp of the Inspiration Consolidated Copper Company. The rock wall which was built around the waste dump at the Scorpion shaft and which had reached a height of from four to twenty feet in places, went down with the first rain of the season. The result of several months of toil and the expenditure of thousands of dollars was wiped out in a few minutes.

It was shown that the drainage facilities at the Inspiration camp are poor. The holes dug for the foundations for the ore bins were filled with water. Men have been put to work digging ditches and making other improvements.

Work is pushed in the Inspiration underground workings. The most northerly of the east-west laterals of the Colorado ore body is extended in order that certain geological formations of the Bull Dog claim can be determined. There is a fault in this part of the mine and the fault system must be determined before the necessary north and south haulage drifts can be planned.

The Inspiration company has let a contract for the sinking of the incline shaft another 250 feet.

AT MIAMI.

At the Miami mine the caved ground has been almost completely reopened and 3300 tons of ore are produced daily. An electric hoist has been installed at the Captain shaft, No. 1, which is being retimbered from the 220-foot level down to the tramming level, 200 feet below. The Red Springs shaft has also been retimbered. New crushing and screening equipment is installed at the Miami mill.

Sultan & Wayne, who have a lease on the Gibson mine, are making good progress and extracting considerable ore. They have shipped one forty-ton carload of high-grade chalcopyrite ore and will ship another before the end of July. The raise lifted from the 200-foot level for ventilation purposes, is well under way. Excellent ore has been found at this level but has not been uncovered to any extent. Jigs capable of yielding five tons of concentrates daily will be ready for testing within a day or two. It is expected that eventually the flotation process of concentration will be used at the Gibson, as its ores are especially adapted to that manner of treatment.

Less water is encountered in the Calumet and Arizona shaft than three weeks ago. The shaft is now down 500 feet and is sunk at the rate of twenty-five feet a week. Connection between the shaft and the main tunnel has been established at a depth of 180 feet, the connecting drift being about 100 feet in length. The transmission line is now operating smoothly, running the two compressors evenly. White "shaft" men have been substituted for the Mexicans formerly employed.

At the Pacific group, adjoining the C. & A. on the south, a tunnel driven toward the main vein, is now in 125 feet. The ledge will be cut about fifty feet farther on. The ground being cut is heavily impregnated with iron and contains much copper stain.

Splendid ore is being taken from the property of the Tonto Basin Prospecting and Development Company, in the Mazatzal range. Six hundred feet of work has been done in a tunnel and in about 100 feet more the main ore body will be cut. Work in the tunnel is hampered by a heavy rush of water encountered last week.

Officials of the Arizona Eastern Railway Company have announced that several spurs are to be built in Miami. One spur, 250 feet long, is to extend to the waterworks, and another will reach shaft No. 2 of the Sho Me mine. The latter will afford several properties better transportation facilities and is expected to result in increased shipments.

Directors of the Carney Mining Company have decided to purcahse and install a $25,000 mill. The mine is opened by a tunnel that cuts the vein 1120 feet below the apex, thus making it possible to handle the ore by a gravity system. No pumping machinery is required.

A WORTHY EMPLOYER.

John H. Patterson of the National Cash Register Company Spent a Million Dollars in Rescue Work.

[The Square Deal:] It is said by Dayton men who have been in New York since the flood in that city that John H. Patterson of National Cash Register fame spent $1,000,000 in the week of the flood. Among the things which Mr. Patterson did was to order all telephone and telegraph messages charged to his account, and that no one was to be charged for service from the telegraph and long-distance stations established at the cash register plant. He ordered forty high-priced automobiles for use in rescue work, costing $200,000; he ordered 7500 bales of straw, 50 cook stoves, 1000 barrels of flour for the Cash Register Bakery, and 10,000 first quality blankets. An order was sent to the New York offices of the company for 20,000 suits of underwear, two carloads of medicine, 5000 tents, and anything else which might be needed and to send all to Dayton on a special train. Wages of employees of the cash register plant, aggregating $187,000 a week, were paid during the flood, and the 7500 employees notified to do what they could in rescue work, and an order was placed for 5,000,000 paper drinking cups to be shipped in 500,000 lots until further notice. Every automobile used in rescue work was furnished free gasoline, and these with minor disbursements are said to have aggregated more than $1,000,000 expended in a week by Mr. Patterson.

Dayton, O., was particularly fortunate in the midst of her misfortune to have such a man, with not only the wealth at hand but the heart to do and the head to execute. Mr. Patterson has builded himself a monument in the hearts of his town people that must endure forever, and no man, be he high or low, rich or poor, but must feel honored to be a fellow citizen of John H. Patterson. The world has recorded few men in its history who have so unselfishly and with such singleness of purpose striven to relieve the needs of a suffering people, and that his returns will come for the good done is as sure as the rising and the setting of the sun.

Whole Town Quits Meat.

[New York Times:] The only person selling meat in the town of Newington, Conn., has quit. He did not sell enough meat in the last week to buy shoes for his horse. Newington has decided to boycott meat until there is a fall in the price. Vegetables will be the standby.

Newington has a population of about 1500 and is considered a wealthy town. The Maple Hill section is the home of many of New Britain's professional men.

PAYS VISIT OF INSPECTION.

Jack Cudahy Makes Examination of Bland Mine, in Which He Is Heavily Interested.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

NOGALES (Ariz.) July 24.—Jack Cudahy of Kansas City has just made an examination of the Bland mine, in which he is heavily interested. Over a hundred sacks of sorted ore and 200 sacks of concentrating ore are on the dump. Sinking the shaft to a greater depth will soon be commenced.

A. W. Crittenden and associates have taken a bond and lease on the Dixie mine. Operations have already been started. Ore from this mine runs 64 per cent. lead, sixteen ounces silver and $1.56 in gold to the ton. Shipments have been made to El Paso.

Four hundred men are employed at the Four Metals mine. Some are at work repairing roads. A number of substantial dwellings are being erected.

Two shifts are employed in sinking at the Chief mine. The shaft is down 110 feet and seventy feet of it is in a large ore body of good grade.

A carload of ore was shipped last week from the Royal Blue mine and two more will go forward this week.

The Ruby Copper Company's Lea shaft is now down 320 feet.

Mirrors at Road Crossings.

[Scientific American:] Mirrors at road crossings for the use of warning automobiles are commencing to be used in England, it is stated, and the results are very good. They are being put in places where the crossings are specially dangerous, and the use of large mirrors allows the driver to see the reflection of cars which are coming in other directions. The method will probably be extended in the future, as it is likely to avoid many accidents and will be worth the small cost of putting in. Another use for the mirrors is upon heavy power wagons, where the driver cannot hear the signals of automobiles back of him so as to have him take the right hand side of the road to allow them to pass, for the noise of the power wagon often prevents the horn from being heard. It is proposed to fit the power wagons with small mirrors showing the road behind the machine, but were this to be made obligatory the mirrors might be imposed upon the usual auotmobile cars as well, and this would give rise to some objections from their owners.

Mining in the Great Southwest.

Tonopah.

MANAGEMENT IS CAUTIOUS.

Tonopah Mining Will Maintain Large Reserve.

Reduction in Dividend Seems Probable.

Buckey Belmont Makes a Lucky Strike.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

TONOPAH (Nev.) July 24.—For the second time in its history the Tonopah Mining Company warned its stockholders that the best of mines are subject to exhaustion and that it is merely a matter of time when the best of them pass into the background. Three years ago the Tonopah notified its stockholders that the end was in sight and that the running out of the supply of pay ore was only a question of time. Since then the company has been paying a regular quarterly dividend of forty cents a share or $400,000 every quarter.

Sent with the dividend checks last Tuesday, was a notice from the board of directors that henceforth dividends will be paid only from the earnings and that the reserve will not be drawn upon to make good any deficit. This is all the more remarkable when it is known that the Tonopah after paying this last dividend has a surplus of $1,835,000 remaining in the treasury.

The purpose of keeping this intact is to allow for the use of a liberal sum in developing whatever new property may be acquired by the company as a means of perpetuating its existence. This notice implies that the next dividend will probably be reduced to the old payment of twenty-five cents a share or even less as it is the firm determination of the directors not to permit their funds to be used for profit distribution. Still the company has a vast area of virgin territory in the Tonopah district. It is possible that with depth some new and at present unknown ore bodies may be opened to restore the pristine vigor of the company. The announcement of a change in the dividend policy did not surprise anyone familiar with the inside conditions as it has been expected for some time, owing to the well known conservation governing the Tonopah.

One of the events which was not expected was the finding of the enormous Halifax ledge in the Buckeye Belmont Company, which is situated between the Belmont, Halifax and Rescue Eula. The Halifax ledge which was opened three weeks ago and rapidly developed into a shipper was encountered on the 1000-foot level of the Halifax. The Buckeye interests assert that they have the same ore body on the 1200-foot level and that it passes directly through the holdings, north and south. Should this assertion prove true, it will mean another shipper added to the list in this district, an event which will be hailed with pleasure, especially as the Buckeye is not listed and the statement cannot be discounted as a stock movement. The stock is held closely in Ohio, and the operations of the company are all the more singular from the fact that it was the only one that survived the panic of 1907 without calling upon its stockholders to extend assistance.

Altogether the Buckeye has expended $361,000 in the firm conviction that ore would eventually be found. During the current year $65,000 was used in sinking, drifting and cross-cutting, and the company is well prepared to make a record for production almost on a par with the Halifax. Assays of the ledge run between $2.50 and $12 and these will undoubtedly improve as the cross-cut penetrates to greater depth.

California Mines.

PASSES INTO OTHER HANDS.

Angelenos Now Interested in Atlas Mine.

South Eureka Is Carving Melons Regularly.

Mining Under Town Arouses Much Interest.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

SACRAMENTO (Cal.) July 24.—The Atlas mine, in the Tuttletown district, Tuolumne county, has been purchased from Fred Sutton, by J. L. Witney and associates. It is understood that Los Angeles people are heavily interested in the new owning company, and that a large price was paid for the property. The new owners have been vigorously developing the property for over a year and have blocked out an excellent reserve of commercial grade ore. Pending the culmination of negotiations for the mine, work has been suspended, but it is stated, will be resumed soon.

The Atlas for years was a good producer, but has never been worked along the broad lines of many other Tuolumne mines. Large areas of virgin territory remain to be prospected, and the outlook is considered highly favorable for the making of a splendid producer. Forty acres of mineral land adjoining the Atlas have also been taken under option by the company.

The South Eureka company, operating at Sutter Creek, has its full battery of eighty stamps in action, and is handling a heavy tonnage from the lower workings. All the damage caused by the caves in the shaft have been repaired and work is again progressing at a rapid pace. Developments in the lower levels are reported exceedingly satisfactory.

The company is paying regular dividends of 7 cents per month, the total disbursements approximating $21,000. About $136,000 has been paid to stockholders this year, despite the heavy expenses attending repairs to the caved workings and sums set aside for development of the Oneida ground. It was only about three years ago that the South Eureka was considered a most unsatisfactory prospect, but at present, it is regarded as one of the best mines in the great mother lode territory.

In addition to the main work proceeding in the South Eureka mine, the company is devoting pronounced attention to the Oneida, an adjoining property. Large bodies of milling ore have been blocked out in this mine, and quartz of superior quality was recently intersected in cross-cutting from the Oneida shaft to tap the South Eureka workings. Ten stamps of the old Oneida mill were put in commission a few days ago, and ten more are placed in readiness for early duty. The Oneida is one of the oldest mines in the district, but of late years, has only been worked in a small way.

The Bunker Hill management is cutting a station on the 2150-foot level, 200 feet below the lowest working avenue, and a cross-cut will soon be started to intersect the big vein exposed in the upper levels. The shaft will be sent 200 feet deeper and another level cut at 2300 feet. The completion of this work will open a large area of virgin ground in a portion of the estate known to contain splendid deposits of excellent milling ore.

In places the great Bunker Hill vein ranges from fifty to eighty feet in width, with the entire mass carrying milling values. The property has been one of the most consistent dividend payers on the lode, and has been making disbursements of 2½ cents per share since the costly shaft-sinking work started.

The Golden Center mine of Grass Valley is claiming much attention from mining men in that high-grade district. The property is situated in the heart of the residence section of the city, and the scene of activities is surrounded by homes and gardens of some of the wealthiest people of the town.

Mining will be carried on beneath the streets, and active work toward this end is already under way. The old Dromedary shaft is being unwatered and three levels have been opened and stoping commenced on promising ore shoots. Free gold quartz is in evidence at several points, and the owners are highly pleased with the outlook.

The ground controlled by this company is surrounded by the holdings of the North Star, Empire and Pennsylvania companies, the three premier producers of the district, and the owners only succeeded in getting mineral rights and acreage after considerable trouble. The arrangement with owners of real estate permits the companies to work within twenty-five feet of surface, but most of the mining will be carried on at over 300 feet below the residence and business sections of the city.

The Balaklala Copper Company has twenty-five men at work at its Coram smelter. The debris is being removed and everything is put in shape for installation of apparatus for experiments with the Hall desulphurizing process. The old brick stack, costing $24,000 when erected, has been blasted down, and the good bricks will be used over again. A new steel stack will be built to take care of gases. The Cottrell electrical-precipitating plant has been inspected and an effort will be made to save the free sulphur with this apparatus, in hopes of reducing costs.

The use of the Hall process at Coram means the production of approximately 250 tons of yellow sulphur per day, and the management will endeavor to find a profitable market for the product. To do this in face of the sulphur produced from other sources, the Balaklala product must be secured at a fair working cost.

W. H. Manson, Kirk & Lavalle and the other Nevada and Utah mining men, who recently acquired the Donkey and Baker zinc-copper mines near Redding, plan activities on a broad scale. Considerable machinery is hauled in, and regular shipments of high grade zinc-ore go forward to Utah smelting plants. For the present the company will content itself with vigorous development work and shipments of its product, selecting only the richer grade ore for this purpose.

Later on, if developments prove as satisfactory as anticipated, a reduction plant will be built near Ingot and all grades of the product will be treated on the ground. Enormous deposits of zinc-bearing ores occur in

The Great California Oil Fields.

Summing Up.

LOSS IN VALUE IS ENORMOUS.

Drop in Union Oil Runs Into Millions.

Big Security Becomes Speculative Stock.

Story of Nine Months' Decline in Prices.

Union Oil stock, probably the most important oil security from the viewpoint of the greater portion of local investors, has been making interesting history for itself the past nine months, or so. Ever since the first definite information concerning the General Petroleum deal was divulged, this issue—which had previously been, practically speaking, an investment proposition—has been a speculative stock. The change—which took place at the time the negotiations involving the acquiring of option on the control of the Union became generally known—was, of course, influenced later by a number of other conditions—prominent among which is the present money situation.

Before the news of the General Petroleum deal, Union averaged about $98 to $99 in market value per share. As some $31,000,000 par value shares were issued, the market value of the aggregate shares issued was at that time over $30,000,000.

During the past week, Union Oil stock sold as low as $55 a share on a transaction or so. Based on the price of the stock at that time—which in extenuation, it must be said, was very short—the market value of the aggregate shares issued would be somewhat over $17,000,000.

Union Oil stock maintained last Friday an average of about $59. At this price, the aggregate market value of stock issued would be nearly $18,300,000. This subtracted from $30,000,000 given above represents practically the loss in the market value of Union Oil stock, the past nine months—$11,700,000.

Of course, it should be borne in mind that approximately half the issued Union Oil shares are held by the Union Provident Company, and in view of the fact that both the stocks of both holding companies—Union Provident and United Petroleum—have maintained a higher average than Union Oil, because of the General Petroleum deal, the loss in actual value may be regarded as less than above indicated.

United Petroleum stock, which has virtually the same value as Union Provident, sold at $74.50 Friday, and figured on the basis of this market price for some $15,000,000 to $16,000,000 par value of the issued shares, the loss the past nine months would be $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 less than that shown above. Nevertheless, Union Oil is the real active producing and earning company, and there is therefore good reason to consider that theoretically all losses and gains should be regulated by its value.

As to causes for this decline, they can best be traced month by month—first in an apparent weakening of confidence in the future of Union Oil stock, on the part of certain holders following the deal, and second on the continued rumors of a cut in the dividend which culminated a week ago in the news that a change in the time of announcing payments had been made. There have naturally been a number of other influences which have aided the depression—such as the shaking out of loaned stock—as well as others, which have contributed toward temporary advances.

FIRST BREAK.

As stated above, in the days previous to the news of the General Petroleum deal, Union Oil stock averaged generally $98 and $99. Union Provident and United Petroleum were probably a point lower on the average. Union Oil was the active stock, and made the market for the other two.

The first intimation of the deal was gleaned from the strength of Union Provident the last of October and the first of November, 1912. The holding company's stock showed a tendency to advance above Union Oil, and finally did, in a rather decided way, the day before the first definite report of the negotiations was published. The day following, there became evident quite a difference in the market value of the three stocks.

First, all advanced sharply—Union Oil to $105. Provident went to $109 and United Petroleum to $106. Then, when the privilege of exchanging Union Oil stock for Provident was abrogated, Union broke and in a short time touched $91. It fell off to $89 the latter part of November, but then reacted a little and maintained an average of $91 to $92 the greater part of December.

Provident was erratic in December, but except for one or two short small breaks, held around $106 to $107. In January, the average generally maintained by Union was about a point lower than in December. Provident and United Petroleum were about $103 to $105.

February opened with rather heavy sales of Provident at $106 and United Petroleum at $107. It is barely possible that this stock may have been bought by some of those interested in the future of the General Petroleum, in anticipation of an earlier closing of the deal than expected. It is said that at one time certain negotiations were carried on between the General Petroleum and with Hallgarten & Company, the Wall-street firm, for the latter's negative option on the Union—that option standing greatly in the way of the consummation of the deal before the middle of next year. It is of significance in this connection that Eugene de Sabla, president of the General company, was in New York about February 1.

STRONG ADVANCE.

Early in February Union underwent a strong advance to $97, principally as the result of large eastern buying orders for the stock. This advance culminated February 10; thereafter a recession began. Provident hung around $105 to $107 then, and United Petroleum was on a parity with it most of the time thenceforward.

After the reaction from the advance, Union settled down to an average of about $92.50 to $94 the remainder of February; Provident at about $104 to $106. In March Union weakened to an average of $90 to $91, while during that month Provident and United Petroleum fell below par. The dropping of the holding company stocks was probably largely due to the gradual realization that the General Petroleum deal was seemingly pretty far in the future.

In April Union Oil began to make arrangements for financing certain of its maturing obligations through an issue of gold notes. About this time rumors of the cut in the dividend made their appearance rather definitely at times. The stock weakened the early part of the month, and a sharp break of five points occurred April 15 on a large selling order. The stock reacted but fell off again to $81 April 24. It regained some of its losses, closing the end of the month at about $84 to $85. Provident dropped to $91 in sympathy with Union's decline, and was at $92 to $93 the end of April.

Union Oil opened strong May 1—$85 to $87—and Provident at $92. The latter stock, however, touched $87.87½ the second day of the month, and was therefore not much higher than Union Oil at the time. Union stayed around $85 for some time, and then gradually weakened until it fell two points or so below $80 about the end of the month. Provident closed the month $79 bid at $89. There was usually a noticeable gap between bid and asked quotations on the holding company stocks from this time forward.

Union reacted to $80 June 1, and June 2, by a coincidence, the bid for Provident was the Union asked price at the close. A series of short, sharp breaks the first half of June carried Union Oil stock down to $70. The latter part of the month the stock jumped to $77.50 and finally to $80 on the news that a change in the directorate of the company was contemplated. It softened to $77.50 the end of the month, while Provident and United Petroleum were at $85.

CALM BEFORE STORM.

The old slogan of quiet before the storm held true for the movements of Union early in July. The stock weakened a little, but nothing of special interest developed. Provident and United Petroleum held at $85. July 18, the day of the meeting of directors when the change in time of dividends was decided upon, Union broke sharply to below $70. United Petroleum sold at $79 the same day. The number of Union sales on this, the first day of the recent break, was small by comparison. Heavy trading did not commence until the next day, and gained in volume as the drop progressed.

The lowest point, $55, was touched Monday morning shortly after the opening, the loss at that moment from the beginning of the break amounting to practically nineteen points, as the close July 17 was $73 bid at $75. The loss in market value of aggregate shares amounted to nearly $6,000,000. A reaction set in, however, which carried the stock up to $59.50 finally at the close Friday. The cause for the decline can be found in none other than the generally-accepted belief that the change in time of dividends from monthly to semi-annually means nothing more than the practical passing of the dividend, and the probable reduction of the rate next year.

The financing of the Union Oil Company of course presents difficulties at this particular time because of money conditions, but if everything progresses favorably in this regard, there is a possibility that the rate will not be reduced. The earnings of the company are steadily increasing, as is shown by the growth of returns from sales. The dividend requirements—at the rate of 7.2 per cent. per annum—of about $1,125,000 in January will be rather heavy, if conditions are not favorable. The change in time of payments is regarded generally as beneficial.

Union Oil in point of property holdings and resources is the largest company in California, with the barely possible exception of the Standard. It has paid nearly $13,500,000 to its stockholders in dividends, and has had a remarkably successful career. Fundamentally the company is in as good shape as it ever was, and practically the only important allegation which could be made against it now, is that it has been suffering from too much prosperity—that the demands of a growing business have taxed its assets to too great a degree. There will probably come a day when Union Oil stock will have regained the greater part, if not all, of its present losses, and perhaps a little more beside.

M'KITTRICK DEVELOPMENTS.

Mahaska Company to Start Well Soon—United States Has Trouble With Gas Blow-Out.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

M'KITTRICK, July 26.—The Mahaska Oil Company, on the North McKittrick front, has spudded in No. 2 as a water well, and intends, after the completion of the work, to drill another oil well.

On the property of the United States Oil Company, also on the North McKittrick front, the mud cast up by the heavy pressure of gas in well No. 6, is being removed. While drilled several weeks ago the well showed evidence of strong gas, mud and rocks being thrown over the crown block for hours at a time. The well finally bridged, and the company put a force at work to clear the derrick and surrounding territory of the accumulation of debris.

The Associated Oil Company dynamited well No. 12 in the McKittrick field, to release the eight-inch casing which has frozen. The casing was sidetracked, and work is progressing satisfactorily.

The Dominion Oil Company, in North Midway field, put well No. 4 on the beam, after a depth of 800 feet had been reached. The well is producing about 250 barrels per day, and is regarded as very promising.

The Union Oil Company is running one string of tools on Section 18, 29-22, nine and one-half miles northwest of McKittrick. The well on this property is down 4000 feet, and a rotary is used in drilling.

The San Francisco and McKittrick Oil Company is drilling well No. 19 on its lease, at the north end of the McKittrick district. The drill is down over 800 feet.

APARTMENTS LEASED.

J. H. Parker, manager of the lease department of the California Realty Corporation, reports having leased an apartment-house at No. 427 South Hope street. The building is under construction and will be completed and ready for furnishing in October. It will contain 110 rooms, divided into two and three-room suites. The front elevation will be of white glazed brick and artificial stone, with a marble entrance. The entire house will be finished in birch and mahogany, each apartment being enameled and tinted to suit the appointments. The basement will contain a large amusement-room and quarters for service. The building is being erected by Mrs. Frances Zahan and has been leased by Mrs. W. C. Gordon for a term of ten years at a given total rental of $120,000.

Coalinga.

"LIMITED" BUSY ON RESERVOIR.

LARGE CONCRETE STRUCTURE IS UNDER WAY.

Coalinga Oilfields Will Be Able to Take Care of Much Additional Oil When Project Is Completed. Considerable New Work in Progress.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

COALINGA, July 24.—Good progress is made by the California Oilfields, Ltd., in the construction of its 750,000-barrel reinforced concrete oil reservoir near the west line of section 36, 19-15. The company expects to take care of increased production by virtue of the additional storage. The big reservoir will also be used in case of an accident on any of the lines of the marketing concern now handling the production of the "Limited."

Nearly 100 men are at work on the big reservoir as well as a large number of teams and scrapers. It will require about 600,000 feet of lumber and timber to build the roof and buildings and this material is now hauled to the ground.

The "Limited" is running three strings of tools on section 14, four strings on section 26, three on section 27 and five strings on section 34, all in township 19, range 15, east. All of this is new work, which will in time add to the production to be stored in the big reservoir.

The company has just completed a new rig on section 34 near the Old Pittsburgh Coalinga property. This is on the west slope of the Coalinga anticline—territory considered doubtful until the Standard Oil Company got good production from wells drilled on section 28 adjoining.

In addition to its work the "Limited" is running five strings to clean and redrill old wells. Material is also on the ground for about ten more new rigs.

The Marian Oil Company will probably have a good producer in this field. The well was put on the pump Sunday evening and Monday night, while being agitated, flowed intermittently, and afterwards pumped freely. C. A. Martin, who is in charge of the work, intends to clean out the bottom sand, and it is expected that the well will then do about 200 barrels per day.

The Marian company shares were practically valueless when C. A. Martin agreed to bring in the well, or else take no pay for his time or expense incurred in the work.

FIELD NOTES.

On section 36, 19-15, at the property known as the "Sontag," the Standard Oil Company has well No. 5 down 1410 feet, with 15½-inch casing. Well No. 3 is 3350 feet deep, with 8½-inch casing. The latter is being redrilled. Well No. 4 is down 2000 feet, with 12½-inch casing. Wells Nos. 1 and 2 have been redrilled and are producing.

The Wilcox and Fleishhaker well on section 12, 20-15, has been drilled to about 4730 feet, with 4½-inch casing. A lower water was encountered and the operators have backed up to 4500 feet, where they will put in a bridge for the purpose of cementing off water. An oil sand will then be tested.

A new rig is built by the Premier Oil Company on section 24, 20-14. The production of the Premier is holding up and water troubles are being overcome.

Well No. 4 of the Henshaw forty acres on section 35, 20-14, has been spudded in. B. I. Potter of Los Angeles is in charge of the property. The work is an extension of the shallow oil territory located on section 2 by T. N. Thompson. He also located the Spokane and Berkeley Coalinga properties.

The Turner Oil Company on section 2, 20-14, has commenced the building of a rig for well No. 7. The new rig is located between Nos. 5 and 6, which recently came in as gushers.

Fullerton.

LAND VALUES UP ON OIL STRIKE.

STANDARD'S EMORY NUMBER THREE IS BIG WELL.

Ranch Is Estimated to Have Increased in Worth Many Times Over as Result of Oil Activities. North American Is Still at Work.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

FULLERTON July 24.—No. 3 well on the Emory ranch, three miles northwest of Fullerton, proves to be one of the best wells ever developed in Fullerton field. For more than a week it has been flowing over 3000 barrels a day. The striking of oil by the Standard on this lease is estimated to increase the value of the Emory ranch to over $1,000,000.

There are more than 1500 acres in the tract which Emory purchased about fifteen years ago for $30,000. Several hundred acres were set out to fruit trees but they did not do well on account of hard pan and for several years a large part of the tract has been planted to barley and grain.

The Standard is drilling five wells on this lease and has three producers.

Land near the Emory property which could have been purchased for a few hundred dollars an acre before the oil strike could now be sold at big prices, but is not on the market.

The North American Oil Company, which drilled to a depth of over 2000 feet with a rotary outfit, has changed to standard tools. This company had bad luck several weeks ago, because of losing tools in the well. At one time there was talk of abandoning the hole, but later it was decided not to, as it is hoped to have the casing to a depth of 2000 feet. Below this an attempt will be made to sidetrack the junk.

The standard well on the Chapman ranch east of town is down 2600 feet, with no indications of oil at present. The drillers do not expect to reach the sand at less than 3500 or 4000 feet.

The Petroleum Company has erected two rigs on the Gilman ranch and will start drilling operations soon.

The Amalgamated has started a "wildcat" well on the Hualde ranch, three miles north of Fullerton. If a strike is made it will open up a new territory. The company has a fishing job on one of its new wells.

Rig No. 3 has been completed on the Walker-Brand lease.

The Murphy Oil Company, operating northwest of Fullerton, is getting ready to bring in a well which has been drilling for nearly two years.

The St. Helens Petroleum Company has just completed a second rig.

The Dorsby Company will probably bring in well No. 2 soon and has completed rig No. 3.

The Monte Cristo has erected a derrick at the Robertson place.

No. 6 on the Birch Oil Company lease is on the pump and will be given a try-out this week.

The Columbia is erecting another new rig.

On the Brand-Stevens lease the rotary pipe twisted off at a depth of about 3400 feet, which may mean several weeks' fishing.

After a long delay the postoffice has been opened at Brea, with Mr. Sweet as postmaster.

MONTROSE BUILDING.

A number of fine new homes are being started in the Montrose district. Eight houses are now being erected by the Walters & Walton Company, five to cost about $3500 each; one, $5500; one, $4000; and one, $7200. J. W. M. Burton, manager of the Glendale-Montrose electric line, has started a $3500 home of seven rooms.

HISTORIC RANCH SOLD.

EL MONTE, July 26.—L. R. Thompson has transferred to Grant Wilson of Los Angeles, the Willow ranch, one of the old-time properties of the El Monte section. The first hotel and road house in this district stood on the place in an early day. Thompson bought the property for ex-Sheriff White for $45,000. He traded it to Wilson for a Los Angeles apartment-house.

BONUS FOR LEASE.

Herbert J. Goudge has purchased a ninety-nine-year lease formerly held by Robert A. Fowler on a lot on the west side of Hill street, between Ninth and Tenth streets. The deal was handled through the agency of W. B. Merwin & Co. The site involved is 50x157 feet in size and extends back to a twenty-foot alley. Fowler is said to have received a good bonus in the transaction.

Passes in to Other Hands.

the Ingot section, and the development of a satisfactory method for their treatment will mean a new era in the East Side portion of the Shasta mineral belt.

The Homestake mine on Sawyer's Bar, near Yreka, continues to yield ore of remarkably high grade character. Forty pounds valued at $1000 were recently shipped from the mine to Yreka and placed on exhibition, together with other specimen quartz. The rich shoot is reported to be very strong and the small mill is running steadily on fancy grade ore. Developments are advancing steadily, with highly satisfactory results.

The Homestake has been a sensational producer of bonanza ore during the past two years, and promises to rank among the greatest specimen producers of the West. R. S. Taylor, a Yreka attorney, is principal owner.

Considerable excitement prevails in the Rough Creek district, between Bodie and Masonic. Prospectors recently reported the discovery of a big vein of gold and silver ore, and the country for miles around the original scene of the strike has been staked out. Hundreds of prospectors and mining men have flocked in from other camps, and considerable work has started. The district was the scene of a mining rush about thirty years ago, but the new discovery is said to have been made in a portion of the field previously considered of little promise.

It is reported that the Defiance mine, near Darwin, has been acquired by a syndicate of Goldfield people for approximately $100,000. It is understood the deal is in the form of a bond and option. The Defiance for years has been one of the noted mines of the Darwin district and has yielded good returns to its owners. It is stated that work will be conducted along more vigorous lines and considerable new machinery installed.

There is a probability that a small custom mill will be erected before the end of the year at Skidoo. Several leasing companies are active in the district, but absence of adequate milling facilities militates against developments. Under present conditions only ore of shipping grade can be profitably worked, and the small operators are considering combining their resources for the erection of a modern reduction plant.

MAY RESUME DIVIDENDS SOON.

New Pennsylvania Bases Hopes of Early Renewal of Payment on Success of New Well.

SANTA MARIA, July 24.—Advices from the New Pennsylvania Oil Company, which operates in this field, are that it hopes soon to resume the payment of dividends. The company is working on well No. 7, and has it down about 3000 feet.

Information recently given out by the company to one of the stockholders by letter was as follows: "Should nothing unforeseen happen, we feel that we shall soon be able to take up dividend paying again, and shall surely be able to if we have any success with No. 7." It

Lest we forget where danger lurks and the remedy for all grade crossings.

Above is a trolley car and automobile approaching a grade crossing together and below a solution of the difficulty as seen by The Times artist.

Motor Millennium.

NO GRADE CROSSINGS IN OUR MECCA OF MOTORDOM.

Lest We Forget to Remember the "Stop, Look, Listen" Signs, Campaign for Rights of Motoring Public Is to Be Made Statewide and California Is to Become Playground of Automobile Touring World.

BY BERT C. SMITH.

LEST we forget. Stop! Look! Listen!

Eternal vigilance is the price of our safety. The man at the steering wheel is the pilot who may wreck us or who may save use from a shocking death beneath the wheels of the approaching trolley.

We are to have no more grade crossings in Los Angeles. The campaign is well started. The motorists have taken hold of every suggestion made in The Times last Sunday. The Huffman family did not die in vain. That sad accident may mean, and already does mean, the safeguarding of the motoring public.

Ever since those frail bodies were ground beneath the wheels of the mighty engine of destruction the public has been anxious to learn what is to be done to avoid other such accidents. Now comes real and definite action. Money is to be appropriated to abolish those terrible grade crossings and tours about the city are to be a pleasure instead of a menace.

Stern necessity makes this plan imperative. The increase of motor cars calls for drastic action on the part of those whose duty it is to care for the man or woman who rides in a machine or who is a passenger on a trolley car. Instead of the swinging bell and the "Stop, Look, Listen" signs, we are to have an underground or an overhead service.

Five hundred thousand people are directly interested in motor cars in California. One hundred thousand of them own their own machines. Think of the vast fortune represented in that rolling stock. Cars which have cost from $650 to $6050 are being driven over our roads. Some of our best citizens place themselves daily in peril from an awful grade-crossing tragedy.

It was necessary that only one little girl should be left of a family of seven as mute evidence of the relentless toll demanded by the grade-crossing. It was just and right that the automobile dealers, led by Earle Y. Boothe of the National, should take the van in the work of eliminating these menaces.

Now, "Lest we forget." The crossings are still with us. Resolutions have been made. Formalities have been signed and counter-signed. It is now in the hands of the motoring public to have and to hold the control of this situation. Grade crossings must go and the motor car must have open roads.

Many letters have been received by the automobile editor following the article printed on Sunday. The autoist is anxious to say farewell to the grade crossing. Are we willing to make this campaign State-wide? If we can abolish the crossings in the city, why not in the entire county?

On a trip across the continent in a motor car, one of the surprises you will receive will be the few grade crossings you find in Ohio. After touring through California, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Kansas, Illinois and Indiana, where there are many dangerous trolley and train ways, you roll into the Buckeye State. Oh, how few trains you see flashing across the highways. Touring is a pleasure.

It is possible to make this country grade-crossingless. Think how far ahead of us Old Albion is. No grade crossings there. An accident such as the Huffman family figured in is unheard of in England.

YOUNG JACK SLOW.

Philadelphia Pug Who Boxed a Draw with Freddie Welsh Fails to Show Much with Green One.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

VANCOUVER, July 26.—Young Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, who a few weeks ago lost a close fifteen-round bout to Freddie Welsh here, could do no better than draw with Frank Barrieau, a local lightweight who recently went into the professional ranks. The milling was fast and O'Brien had the lead in the closing rounds, although Barrieau hit him hard and often in the earlier stages.

Barrieau formerly was lightweight and also welterweight champion of Canada in the amateur ranks.

LOOKS LIKE A WORLD BEATER.

Lincoln Prescott of Phillips Andover Academy cleared 22 feet 6½ inches in the recent New England championship and looks to have a good chance of beating the world's mark of 24 feet 11 3-4 inches, held by O'Connor.

AUTO CREW FACES REBELS.

Under the guns of the rebel army in Sonora the plucky crew of the Hupmobile "32" which was driven from El Paso to Los Angeles, almost ended the long tour. Nick Depeder and Eddie Steffes, the two men who drove the car across the desert and mountains, drove by mistake over the railroad tracks at Naco and found themselves in a rebel camp. They were detained because they carried a pump-gun.

The impedementa was examined carefully for ammunition, while young Steffes sat tightly on a handsome nickel-plated, 32, double-action revolver. Had the rebels even guessed why Steffes did not leave the driver's seat, the two men might have spent a few days in jail.

They were directed across the line by a United States soldier, a negro. The United States Marshal from Naco, on the American side, came to their rescue and a sign painted "El Paso to Los Angeles" saved them the annoyance of a stay in the quartel. The rebels, according to Depeder, treated them with the utmost courtesy.

AMERICANS WIN TENNIS MATCH

McLoughlin Is the Shining Star of Day.

Hackett Slightly Off Color in Volleying.

One Singles Match Will Win the Davis Cup.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

WIMBLEDON (Eng.) July 26.—As the result of today's victory by Maurice E. McLoughlin of San Francisco and Harold H. Hackett of New York over H. R. Barrett and C. P. Dixon in the doubles match, the United States team leads by two matches to one in the struggle for the Dwight F. Davis lawn tennis trophy and requires only one more victory in the two remaining singles matches to carry off the cup.

The match went to its fullest extent of five sets, of which the Americans took three to their opponents' two.

The score read 5-7, 6-1, 2-6, 7-5, 6-4.

The English defenders, who began to play tennis together when McLoughlin was still in knickerbockers, tried all the wiles of which they are masters, but without avail. McLoughlin had recovered his form and lost only one of his service games. Once Hackett played the game which his opponents liked, by feeding them two volleys at the net, where the English veterans formed an absolute stonewall. They made every possible return to Hackett, recognizing in him the weak link of the American defense.

MAC IS TEMPTED.

Although often tempted, McLoughlin did not poach on his partner's preserves, often heroically allowing him to take the overhead balls which he himself loves to smash. Toward the end of the match, Hackett became more sure in his volleys and lobs, which had been falling short before.

McLoughlin smashed his racquet in the fourth set and the Britons were within a point of winning the set and the match, but the Californian never faltered and pulled his own service out of the fire.

If the draw is adhered to for the singles to be played on Monday, McLoughlin will face Charles P. Dixon.

Thirteen Days More.

SANTA MONICA FIRST THEN CORONA GRAND PRIZE RACE

Twenty or More Entries a Possibility With Purse of Ten Thousand—Effort to Collect Money from Public Meets With Scant Fabor—Valley Townsmen Offer Bonus for World Record on Fast Three-mile Course.

BY BERT C. SMITH.

THIRTEEN days from date an effort is to be made to hold the Santa Monica road race. The entries are coming in slowly. The course is in shape for a world record in the 600-cubic-inch-and-under class. There is a possibility of twenty or more entries from among the cars that figured in the Los Angeles-Sacramento race.

Unless the plans of the committee miscarry the purse will be about $10,000. This purse is to be gathered from the money collected at the grand stand and parking spaces. Another attempt is to be made this year to collect money from everyone of the spectators, no matter whether you are in the grand stand or along the course.

Ever since the first race was held at Santa Monica plans were made to collect the coin. These plans failed in each instance. This year the same routine will be followed and it is hoped that each spectator will see fit to contribute 50 cents and in case anyone refuses to pay, why the committee plans to eject such person.

When the first Santa Monica road race was held in 1909 L. T. Shettler was manager. He tried to collect money, but the man with the strong arm failed to appear with the strong box in time and thousands streamed in and forgot to pay to watch Harris Hanshue drive the Apperson to victory.

The following year, 1910, Dick Ferris, one of the greatest showmen on earth and the most spectacular manager who ever had charge of a race meet, tried to make expenses. He finished with $26 to the good and the Automobile Dealers' Association presented Brother Ferris with a box at the 1911 Santa Monica road race as a token of something or other.

In 1911 A. M. Young was in charge. When the dust of this race had cleared away the Automobile Dealers' Association found itself $1500 to the good. Once more an effort was made to collect the money at the gates and along the track, but the only revenue was in the grand stand.

Then with the experience of a year to back him Manager Young took hold of the race again in 1912. His plans were large. He conducted the best race ever held on the course. Drivers from the East, the best field ever started in any race meet in the West was sent away by Starter Fred Wagner. Once more an effort was made to collect money.

This time barricades were built overnight and ticket takers were on hand to collect. In the early morning hours these barricades were torn away by the officials of the city of Santa Monica and the public was allowed to witness the great race without paying a cent. It was right that no charge should be made and the race, which had gone down in history as a free-for-all in more ways than one, held [illegible] record.

This year Manager Shettler, who assimilated considerable experience in 1909, will try to benefit by all he learned then. He is striving to make this a better race than the first one he held. He has planned to plug up all the inlets with ticket-takers and sellers. In this way he expects to secure a large purse for which the drivers can strive.

It is doubtful if his plans will succeed, however. The public is not used to paying for parking space along the Santa Monica course. It is fair enough to charge for grandstand seats or for parking space near the grandstand, but when it comes to charging for space along the course the autoists may refuse point blank. This race belongs to the public.

Only thirteen days more. The enthusiasm is lacking. The thrill of a world record does not seem to take hold of the motor racing public when it is only a class event. The free-for-all, with the giant Fiats, the stripped stock Nationals, the sturdy Stutz racers, the mighty Benz, with David Bruce Brown at the helm, the nerve-tingle of Caley Bragg's fierce fight to catch Teddy Tetzlaff, the winner. All these are missing.

Chairman Shettler is the Roosevelt of the race meet this year. He is facing a hopeless task, but is showing the right kind of grit. Like the King of France, he marches his army of workers up and down and back and forth, but instead of 10,000 men its $10,000 that he needs for the purse.

AT CORONA.

Over at Corona the men of affairs are sitting back and watching. The purse of $10,000 is in bank. The worries of the Santa Monica road race are eliminated at the start of the grand prize event to be staged on the three-mile course September 9. There is no bitterness of feeling because the Santa Monica road race is to be held.

The decision of Chairman Shettler to make Santa Monica a 6000 cubic inch and under class saved the day for the Corona meet. An effort will be made to take the world record from the Santa Monica course. An extra $1000 is to be held up as the prize to lure the drivers into a new world mark.

On the fastest course ever prepared for a great race Corona will stage its free-for-all. Cars will be sent whizzing by the grand stand at such intervals that for the whole 300 miles the crowds will see a race of cars fighting hood to hood. The setting for this spectacular battle is ideal.

Racing around a city will give enough thrills, but the short course will add any attraction that may be missing. Think of Teddy Tetzlaff and Frank Verbeck in two big Fiats fighting against Earle Cooper on a Stutz and Barney Oldfield on a Mercer. That's race enough for the most exacting fan.

Entry blanks for the Corona race are to be out this week. They should have been out a month ago. Chairman Shettler was not decided regarding the class. Now that F. H. Ott, president of the Corona Road Race Committee, has taken full charge it will be possible to enter the free-for-all and at least two other class events.

The race is six weeks away. The purse is up. This week should see a number of entries if the blanks are prepared and ready for the signatures. The two immense 120-horse-power Fiats will be among the first cars entered for the Corona race. It is expected that at least thirty cars will be seen in action at Corona on Admission Day.

Doing Well.

OVER THE ROCKIES WITH PAIR OF FAST AMERICANS.

DID you, as a motorist, ever dream of crossing the Rockies? Here is the laconic message of two drivers who just accomplished the feat:

"The steep grades and high elevations of the Rockies cleared tonight. The two Americans did not falter once. Was a new test for the underslung cars and they came through in perfect shape."

The above is an extract from a telegram sent to the American Motors Company, Indianapolis, by E. I. Lewis, special representative in the Indianapolis-Pacific Coast tour. In a long night message from Glenwood Springs, Colo., Lewis points out the fact that these two American underslung cars have completely upset the calculations of a number of people who thought it impossible for the car to clear the terrible rocks and bunkers that are found in these mountain trails.

Another significant fact that brought joy to the drivers of the American cars. They were among the few to pass through the day without experiencing carburetor trouble. In this they were extremely fortunate, as many of the drivers found it almost impossible to get any adjustment of their carburetors that would enable them to climb the steep grades.

Now that the Indiana-Pacific trail finders have successfully passed this portion of their long journey, they have little fear as to the ability of their cars reaching the Coast. Throughout the trip the tourists have been royally entertained, each succeeding city trying to outdo the other in giving them a rousing welcome.

The American Underslung Sixes came into Ellis without a splutter, though the day's run was over 180 miles of typical Kansas gumbo. The thermometer showed 112 degrees in the shade and nearly 125 in the sun all day, and at times the pace hit was fifty miles an hour. Hot winds added to the discomfort and hardship of the ride, but the tourists came through with colors flying.

NEW MODEL TRIO FOR HAYNES LINE.

Three new models have been added to the Haynes line of 1914 cars—to be known as models 26, 27 and 28, respectively, the first two being six-cylinder cars and the latter a four.

Information to this effect was received here yesterday by the return to San Francisco of W. B. Cochran, president and general manager of the Haynes Auto Sales Company, distributor of the Haynes products throughout the western part of the country, who has been at the Haynes factory in Kokomo, Ind., for the past month.

Regular equipment of these latest Haynes models will include the Vulcan electric gear-shifter, the Haynes organization being the first to install the gear-shifter as regular equipment. Speaking of the new models and their equipment, Cochran said:

"The new Haynes models will have Vulcan electric gear-shifter as regular equipment. The gear-shifter operates the sliding gears of the usual selective transmission by means of solenoids. A button controls each gear on the steering wheel, and in order to engage any one, it is only necessary to push the proper button and depress the clutch pedal. When the clutch is out, a switch attached to the pedal makes contact, and sends current from the battery to the solenoid indicated by the button, this solenoid pulling the gear into engagement. As the switch between the solenoids and the battery can only be closed by depressing the clutch pedal, the danger of stripping gears is absolutely eliminated.

MICHIGAN MOTORS FOR ITALIAN TRADE.

Mario Andreotti, representing the firm of Andreotti & Co. of Rome, Italy, left today on his return home after spending two weeks at the factory of the Michigan Motor Car Company, in Kalamazoo. Representing his company, he took back with him a contract for the distribution of Michigan cars in Italy.

He was accompanied by Sisto Ripamonti, a prominent automobile man of Rome, who contemplates establishing a Michigan agency on a large scale either in Florence or Naples.

Andreotti says the automobile business is increasing in a most astonishing manner throughout Italy, and he looks for a doubling of business this year. The country is prosperous to a degree never experienced before. Exports are rising in a manner which taxes every industry in the country to its capacity. Mr. Andreotti's father is a wealthy wine manufacturer.

"American cars, especially of medium price, have a distinct lead in Italy over the cars of any other country," said Andreotti. "There is, of course, competition from England and France, but so far these countries have not been able to produce a car of the American grade at the popular price.

"The demand for the American medium-priced car is due primarily to the fact that Italy produces no medium-priced cars. It is of course recognized that Italy leads the world in the production of fine automobiles. Turin is the center of the highest development of the automobile, so conceded by builders everywhere."

Cadillac leadership in scientific motor car development is once more strikingly demonstrated

A new quality of luxury A new element of efficiency A new source of econo

Each year you have looked to the Cadillac for the real and substantial progress in motor car development.

You have looked to the Cadillac for the great essentials in the practical motor car.

And you have not looked in vain.

Now conceive, if you can, a Cadillac with its essential functions sharpened, accentuated and refined.

Conceive such a process of refinement culminating in an entirely new riding quality of unexampled ease.

That is precisely what has come to pass in this new car.

The principal contributing factor—the two speed direct drive axle—is described in detail elsewhere.

The Cadillac Delco electrical system of automatic cranking, lighting and ignition, the first practical system ever made and first introduced by us, has, after experience with it on 27,000 Cadillacs, been still further developed, improved and simpli and the slight attention required from the user materially red

The carburetor has been improved, its efficiency and its w known economy increased. It is hot water jacketed and el trically heated to facilitate starting in cold weather.

The rear springs are six inches longer.

The body designs are new and strikingly handsome.

Front seat passengers may enter or leave the car at eit side.

These and many other refinements of essential details m for a greater and a better Cadillac and serve to more firmly est lish its position as America's leading motor car.

The Cadillac Company has never disappointed you in t smallest particular or in a single promise.

We promise you again, in this new car, a positive revelati in motor car luxury.

Cadillac Two-Speed, Direct Drive Axle

The advantages of this axle do not lie in its being an improvement so far as its functions as an axle are concerned, but rather in the manifold advantages attained in other directions through the medium of the axle.

In place of the single bevel pinion and single bevel driving gear common to ordinary construction, there are two bevel pinions and two bevel driving gears. This affords two different gear ratios, each driving direct from the engine to the axle without intermediate gearing.

The usual single direct gear ratios range from about 3.5 to 1 down to 4 to 1, according to the car. Any single gear ratio is necessarily what it is because a single gear ratio must be, or should be, the particular one which is best adapted for all around general use.

No one single gear ratio can possibly be just right for all speeds and for all conditions. But by using two direct gear ratios we have exactly double the means for promoting the economical and efficient application of power developed by the engine to the driving of the car.

In the new Cadillac axle we have, as before stated, two direct drive gear ratios. The low direct drive gear, which is 3.66 to 1, is especially adapted for city driving, where starting, stopping and slowing down are frequent, and where cautious operation is necessary.

The high direct drive gear ratio, which is 2.5 to 1, is of special advantage where speeds of about 16 miles or more per hour are permissible and desirable.

The change from one gear ratio to the other is made by means of a simple, convenient electric switch.

The advantages of the high direct drive gear ratio lie primarily in the fact that with it, any given speed of the engine produces an increase of about 42 per cent. in the speed of the car. For example: At an engine speed of 700 revolutions per minute, with the low direct gear engaged, the car will travel approximately 21 miles per hour; while on the high direct gear it will travel approximately 30 miles per hour with no increase in engine speed.

This great increase in car speed in its relation to engine speed accomplishes a number of desirable things.

Among these is a decrease in gasoline consumption for a given mileage. This is due to the fact that with the engine turning over slowly—comparatively speaking—a given quantity of gas is utilized to gre advantage and generates more actual power than with the engine tu ing over more rapidly. Friction also is materially reduced by reaso the parts operating more slowly and this, too, is a factor in reduci gasoline consumption when driving on the high gear.

Another great advantage is that with this direct drive high gear ra there is obtained an extraordinary luxurious smoothness in running, to gether with a marked quietness and a comparative freedom from the v bration which, to a greater or less extent, is ever present when travel at high speed with a low gear ratio.

In attaining these much-desired qualities, instead of adding comp cations to the power plant which make for greater fuel consumption a for greater upkeep expense, they have been attained by methods wh are strikingly the reverse; viz., by methods which lessen the fuel co sumption, methods which decrease friction with its resulting wear methods which make for longer life, together with an appreciable crease in the cost of operation and maintenance.

Smith and Stanley are well known in social and club and since entering the local trade have occupied an important place. They opened in Los An- seven years ago with the Elmore line. They later added the Ohio Electric and still have that agency. Three years ago they took the Stearns line and held it until the opportunity came to secure one of the three P's. They had been waiting for this chance and both are enthusiastic over the change.

"We have always considered the Peerless one of America's leading cars," said Clarence Smith. "It is a car that is recognized the world over, is made by a solid substantial firm but at the same time an aggressive company that is always going ahead. We were also attracted by the high-class truck line and will make this one of our features. Manager Wood of the Harrison truck department will come with us in the same capacity.

"We have a shipment of Peerless pleasure cars and trucks on the way and expect to have them on the floor for the opening of our new place.

"Peerless motor cars of the new models are made in three six-cylinder sizes—'38-Six,' '48-Six' and '60-Six.'"

"Through the development of details these Peerless new models reach the highest point yet attained in motor car construction. On these chassis are mounted all the standard styles of open and enclosed bodies—touring, torpedo, roadster, limousine, landaulet, Berline-limousine and coupe. So there is available a Peerless six-cylinder car to meet amost any requirement for horse-power or carrying capacity. Peerless motor cars have always been remarkable for beauty of appearance and symmetry of line. In the new models this quality has been further improved.

"The bodies have been designed to keep all surfaces free, clean and unencumbered. They present a sweep of straight, unbroken lines from the radiator to the gentle upward curve of the parapet at the rear seat. This effect, together with the low appearance of the car, endows it with an air of graceful strength and lithe energy. A glance at it will tell you it was made to move.

"In the new modes the running board has been cleared up by removing the tires to a rack at the rear of the body and the gasoline tank has been hung under the back of the frame. The exterior painting effects are the finest that can be produced. The bonnet, bonnet rail, front and rear fenders and dress shields are finished in black enamel. The dash is metal-covered. A wide variety of treatments are included in the standard color schemes."

How About This?

BULLARD BOOSTS PHOENIX RACE THROUGH SAN DIEGO.

GEORGE PURDY BULLARD, Attorney-General of Arizona, is in San Diego planning the Los Angeles-to-Phoenix road race. With the promise of $1000 from the southern city, if the race is routed through San Diego, there is reason to believe that the cars will be sent over the new highway recently built in Imperial county.

There is no reason, as far as I can see, why this race should not be held over the coast road to San Diego and then across to El Centro. With the promise of ten entries from the southern town and with F. B. Naylor to handle the race there, it would be easy to avoid friction.

The citizens of Phoenix are a unit in favor of a race from Los Angeles to Phoenix. It would be a mistake to hold a San Diego-Phoenix race and a Los Angeles-Phoenix race on the same date. If we combine the two the entry list will be large enough to make this desert battle one of the great events of the year.

From all reports the people of San Diego have received Purdy with open arms. The silver-tongued orator of the new State of Arizona knows just how to put a proposition up to the people. Purdy will remain in the south until the Santa Monica road race and then will drive to San Francisco, returning in about a month.

Here is what the prominent Arizona State official has to say about the race plans:

Dear Bert—Saw Naylor today and he said you got my telegram all right. This is going to be the biggest race ever, with about ten entries from San Diego, outside of those from Los Angeles. Let's agree on the route before September 1. If this is done I will return to Arizona with you, making a pathfinding trip over the course. It has been suggested that the race be one of two routes, from Los Angeles to San Diego to El Centro, to Brawley, to Yuma through the Mammoth Wash, and then to Phoenix, or via San Diego through Mexico. Plan something ahead for this pathfinding trip for about the 1st of September. I will see you at the Santa Monica races on August 9. Will not go to San Francisco until that time. My postoffice address up to August 6 will be P.O. box 157, Coronado.

MOTORING IN AFRICA.

American cars selling at retail from $1000 to $2500 are in demand in Johannesburg, South Africa, and it is likely that the sales for 1913 will exceed those of last year. This is the statement made by Edwin N. Gunsaulus, United States Consul at Johannesburg. Two hundred and forty American cars were sold in the Transvaal during 1912, the sales at retail figures aggregating about $410,000.

SOME EXPERIMENTS.

Elaborate experiments are being carried out in England on a special track at the National Physical Laboratory, Teddington, to discover a road material that will provide a dustless, smooth and wear-resisting surface—a matter of extreme interest to automobilists. Rolling and crushing tests form an important part of these experiments, and there is an ingenious road-destroying machine which, when run for twenty-four continuous hours, represents a year's traffic wear. There is also apparatus by which the temperature may be varied so that the tests may be run under conditions corresponding to the various seasons. Temperature plays a considerable part in the life of a road.

TEST AUTO LAW.

Steps to test the new Warnes's automobile horse-power tax law have been taken by C. C. James, president of the Ohio State Automobile Association. It is proposed to bring a suit to prove the unconstitutionality of the act. It is claimed that the law provides for double taxation.

THE NEW

KISSELKAR

48 "SIX" at $2500 Delivered in Los Angeles

Our Complete 1914 Line Now on Exhibition

The announcement of this new Kissel Kar model is of greater significance than an ordinary announcement because it carries with it a notice of changing conditions in automobile making—the establishment of values and prices upon a more solid and settled manufacturing basis.

The KisselKar 48 "Six" is the latest big thing in six-cylinder automobiles. Point for point, it challenges comparison—in construction, performance, comfort and refinement.

The design is strikingly handsome and original, representing the very best ideas of American and European body construction—a design we expect to see freely copied a year hence. In the 48 "Six" we have succeeded in producing a liberally-designed, roomy five-passenger six-cylinder automobile of medium size that fills the gap between the so-called "little sixes" and the high-powered "big sixes."

It requires but a slight study of the KisselKar 48 "Six" to prove it a worthy exponent of all that is best in automobile construction. Its smooth-running, silent, powerful and flexible motor has loads of excess power and is responsive to every demand. Clean, graceful lines, low-hanging body, perfect poise and balance, big, roomy tonneau, extra long wheelbase, big tires, extra deep luxuriously upholstered seats combine to make the KisselKar 48 "Six" a car of superlative beauty and riding comfort.

Investigate the new KisselKar 48 "Six." It is now being shown at our salesroom. You will find it one of the most exceptional values in America, and a car you will be proud to own.

The KisselKar line consists of three striking models—60 "Six" at $3300, 48 "Six" at $2500 and the 40 "Four" at $1975—all prices f. o. b. Los Angeles—each a leader in its class.

HOOSIER AUTO TOURERS HIKE.

Now on Last Leg of Journey Across Country.

Los Angeles Goal of the Long Line of Motor Cars.

Dealers to Greet Visitors at Santa Barbara.

When the Indiana motorists reach this city a reception that will be heart-warming is planned. After the long cross-continental tour the autoists will reach here ready to enjoy the sunshine and flowers of Southern California and Hank Symonds, with J. W. Willcox, L. T. Shettler and G. M. Alexander will see to it that the visitors are treated royally.

The autoists will be met at Santa Barbara on Saturday by a delegation from this city. Luncheon will be served at the Potter Hotel. The drive will then be made to this city over the smooth boulevards and an opportunity will be given each of the autoists to study our road conditions just as they exist.

No arrangements have as yet been made for the reception here. An elaborate programme is to be prepared. During the stay each of the members of the committee will take special pains to provide suitable entertainment for each of the tourists in each of his cars.

The tourers will reach the Owens River Valley on Wednesday and will be shown the great aqueduct and the water power system being developed there. They will then tour on through to the Channel City, where the Reception Committee will meet and greet the transcontinentalists.

Good roads are coming in for a great part of the recognition which is their due, according to Elwood Haynes, president of the Haynes Automobile Company of Kokomo and a passenger with the Haynes contingent of the Indiana-to-Pacific tourists. The distinguished builder of "America's first car," which now reposes in the Smithsonian Institute, says:

"When I built the first automobile in 1893 and 1894 the first thing that impressed me after its initial road trial of July 4, 1894, was the importance of the highway itself. Since the day that I took my first ride in my first horseless carriage a great movement for the improvement of roads has swept the country, but the improvement of the roads has not kept pace with the improvement of the motor car. In the latter great strides have been made in equipment, particularly in tires, springs and lighting and starting devices. As far as riding qualities are concerned the car itself has been improved to the limit.

"That the auto is far in advance of the highway is generally admitted. This is particularly true in the West, where the motor car's rise to fame has been phenomenal, especially in California, where in a few years the State has jumped to second place in the number of machines in use and today is giving New York a close race for supremacy. And in the West the cost of road building is necessarily great and the population comparatively small.

"In view of these facts it would seem that the first great problem to be solved is the construction of a national highway extending from ocean to ocean, its termini being in New York and San Francisco. The construction of a road of such magnitude can be accomplished only by the friendly and disinterested co-operation not only of every organization, but of individuals interested in better highways.

"One of the prime objects of the Indiana Automobile Manufacturing Association tour is to gain a general knowledge of the conditions to be met by the tourist and the problems to be solved which are involved in this great national question. I am sure that it will do much good, not only in arousing public interest in a transcontinental rock highway, but of proving to the world at large that Indiana-made cars are capable of making any trip, no matter how long or how hazardous."

One of the new late model creations now on the market which will be represented here.

New Arrivals.

WESTCOTT LINE HERE HAS A. L. LUSBY AS SOLE AGENT.

ALBERT LUSBY, who was connected for so long a time with the local Chalmers agency, has taken the agency for the Westcott line of cars and has opened headquarters with the National Motor Car Company on South Flower street. After a trip back to Richmond, Ind., where Lusby looked over the line carefully, the well-known automobile salesman decided, and the deal was closed.

The Westcott was represented in Los Angeles several years ago. The factory has been building only about 500 cars each year, however, and this did not allow the manufacturers to make Los Angeles a distributing point. This season it is planned to turn out 1500 of the Westcott cars, and there is reason to believe that Lusby will be able to secure all the cars he is able to handle.

The Westcott is turned out in a six-cylinder seven-passenger touring car which is one of the stylish machines of the new year. The motor is cast en bloc, and the frame is of heavy channel section steel. Timken bearings are used throughout. The transmission is of the Warner selective type with three speeds, forward and a reverse. The rear axle is full floating. The artillery type of wheels give the car a particularly striking appearance.

One of the nobby Westcott cars is the two-passenger roadster, a four-cylinder, forty-horse-power car. The five-passenger touring car also has the four-cylinder motor which is a Reutenber four and one-half inches by five inches. Here again is the Timken construction, as regards bearings, the cone clutch, artillery wheels, and a Warner transmission, selective type.

The four-passenger torpedo is one of the Westcott cars that will prove especially suitable for those desiring a runabout for a small family. The trimmings are of black enamel and nickel. The standard equipment of the Westcott, mohair top, the deep cushions, and the 120-inch wheelbase make this car one of the handsome offerings of the new 1914 line now ready for distribution.

Win Again.

GUMBO MUD IS JOKE FOR FAST PAIR OF HUPMOBILES.

GUMBO roads and rock-strewn hills severely tried the mettle of the contestants in the Glidden national tour over the route from Fargo to Grand Forks on the third day out from Minneapolis. There was many an entry who thought they were stalled "for keep" and had to be assisted out of their difficulty by the more fortunate contestants.

The muggy road bed was in places well nigh impassible, and many times the cars were up to the running boards in gumbo. The cars ate up gallons of gasoline trying to overcome the bad roads and hills, and this 130-mile run was the stumbling block for many. The trip over the mud and prairie trails of North Dakota was play for the little fellows.

Not once did they show any signs of imperfection during the entire run and they passed everything their own size, caught up to the big fellows and arrived in control so early that the checkers began to entertain doubts as to the reliability of their watches.

So enthusiastic has been the reception of the Hupmobile throughout the entire breadth of North Dakota that the Munzer Twins plan a demonstration tour of the entire country on their return trip from Glacier Park, Montana, which begins next Wednesday.

The twin Hupmobiles glorified their name on the third days' Glidden run of 196 miles, the longest day's run so far of the tour.

On the first experience of Dakota roads the Hupmobiles were the only two cars in the entries to cover the hundred miles of sticky gumbo without taking on water. In fact, since leaving Minneapolis last Friday no more than a pint of water has been taken on by either of the cars between controls.

The perfect water-cooling system is being enjoyed by no other cars among the entries. If this were a grade-three run the Hupmobiles would be the only cars without a penalty, as nothing has been touched but tires since the start.

Both cars have perfect scores and are running beautifully. The Munzer twins are driving like skilled endurance men and putting every ounce of energy forward to bring their entries through with a perfect score.

OVER ROCKIES IN CLOSED CAR.

STUDEBAKER SEDAN MAKES TRIP TO EAST DELIGHTFUL.

Los Angeles Man and Party Make Transcontinental Journey and Praise the Work of the Thirty-five, Which Autoist Says Is Ideal for Such a Cross-country Trip.

That it is now not only possible, but easy to make a motor trip across the continent in a closed car has just been demonstrated by J. W. Catron, a Los Angeles machinery contractor. Catron and his party are now at Rochester, N. Y., attending a family reunion and a wedding celebration. They arrived after their trip from Los Angeles, with a report of de luxe travel that has aroused the envy of all who have heard it.

"My wife and I have always maintained that a one-compartment closed car would be ideal for such a trip," said Catron. "We bought our Studebaker '35' Sedan in the spring, tried it out in California and found it fully up to our hopes. We laid out a schedule calling for 103 miles a day and started, the crew being composed of Mrs. Catron, my brother, Mrs. Catron's maid and myself.

"Before we had been long on the road we revised the schedule to 125 miles a day and bettered even this figure throughout, making Rochester in twenty-one running days.

"Those who regard their closed cars as suitable only for pavement driving are missing a large share of the enjoyment that might easily be theirs. I have owned and driven touring cars for many years but I have never made a trip in such perfect comfort as the one we are just concluding.

"We made no effort at extreme speed; in fact, I never let the car exceed thirty-eight miles an hour. On a turn, a Sedan swings a bit more than a touring car, due to its higher center of gravity, so I took all turns, particularly those in the mountains, very carefully.

"We studied the various adjustments for ventilation and found that it was perfectly possible to travel even through the deserts without discomfort, keeping a cool, dustless breeze circulating through the interior of the car at all times. Of course, the Sedan body is impervious to rain and cold.

"A feature that adds much to the comfort of our cars is the Studebaker electric equipment. The starter never failed to crank the motor and the electric lights made travel in the night over strange roads as safe as by daylight. In general, the transcontinental highway is in fine shape now. Except for a few short stretches, the worst roads we found were in the thickly settled parts of the middle west."

The Catrons will continue their trip from Rochester to New York and will probably return by the same route.

SPECIAL COURT FOR AUTOMOBILE CASES.

The Automobile Club of Southern California is working to obtain a special court and judge for trial of all automobile cases. It is claimed by club officials that this will be a good innovation for everyone because at present the traffic squad of the police department wastes an average of five hours a day appearing against motorists, and motor cases are so numerous that congestion has been caused in the regular courts. A special court would save the time of the police, of the other courts and of the autoists. For the most part, the autoists are business men whose time is valuable, who must appear to answer for refractions of downtown traffic ordinances. These ordinances are so numerous and are changed so often that it is practically impossible for the ordinary man to keep in touch with them.

With regard to ordinances that automobiles must stop ten feet behind any street car that is receiving or discharging passengers, except in the downtown districts from 9 o'clock in the morning till 6 o'clock in the evening, Chief Sebastian has agreed to withhold rigid enforcement until August 1. This is to allow the Automobile Club time to warn all its members and all other motorists possible of the coming enforcement. A circular letter will be sent to all members of the club and will advise of this particular fact, while at the same time requesting a complete observance of all ordinances and so far as is practical co-operation with the police department in enforcing traffic laws.

TWO DRIVES FOR NEW CADILLAC.

Press the Button and Change the Ratio if You Wish.

Radical Departure Is Announced by Don Lee.

Appeals to Drivers and Owners of All Motor Cars.

When you get that new 1914 Cadillac it will be possible to change the gear ratio by simply pressing a button. If you desire to drive about the city streets use one direct drive at a selected speed. If, when you come to a high hill, you desire a different ratio, press the button and, Presto, everything is simple.

When Don Lee, California distributor, recently visited the factory, he announced this radical departure. Now, with the new Cadillacs ready for a critical examination, autoists have an opportunity to test what experts declare is a safe and sane arrangement for two direct drives on the new line of Cadillac cars.

This season that has just closed has been the most important in the history of the Cadillac in the West. Don Lee has sold 1000 of the down-to-date machines and now comes the announcement that the new cars will be equipped in such a way that the labor-saving device will be included in your new car and set in operation by simply pressing a button.

Most radical is this new two-speed direct drive rear axle, an improvement that appeals instantly to the man who has driven a motor car. Its advantages from a standpoint of efficiency and economy are immediately recognized. By touching a button the entire gear ratio can be changed from 3.66 to 1 to 2.5 to 1.

The oiling system has always been one of the Cadillac features. Six quarts of oil will run the car from 600 to 900 miles The Cadillac automatic splash system, with the oil uniformly distributed, is used. The oil is kept at the constant level and the supply is maintained by a mechanical force-feed lubricator with a single sight feed on the cowl.

An automatic spark control and also a hand control are features. The switches for ignition, lighting and cranking, are contained in a single switch housing. One lock is provided which locks all switches simultaneously. The lighting switch may be locked in any position.

The length of the rear springs have been increased six inches, which will make the car ride easier than before, and the Cadillac has always been known for its ease and comfort.

The gasoline tank, carrying twenty gallons, will be on the rear of the chassis.

All cars have a right entrance, the shape and position of the control and hand brake levers, the tilting steering wheel and a hinged front seat cushion make this practical.

The standard finish will be calumet green with a fine gold striping. As extra equipment there will be an electric horn and an automatic tire pump. The Autometer driving gears are concealed in the front wheel spindle. The wheelbase is 120 inches.

The greatest interest among people who know will be in the double direct drive. The advantages of this axle do not lie in its being an improvement so far as its function as an axle is concerned, but rather in the manifold advantages attained in other directions through the medium of the axle.

In place of the single bevel pinion driving gear common to ordinary construction, there are two bevel pinions and two bevel driving gears. This affords two different gear ratios, each driving direct from the engine to the axle without intermediate gearing.

LOCAL MAN INVENTS NEW CARBURETOR.

David Barnard, inventor of the Barnard gas generator, which permits the use of distillate and kerosene in gasoline motors, has invented a carburetor which still further improves the efficiency of the generator.

The Barnard carburetor is to be incorporated as part of the generator and in tests that have been made it is said to increase the mileage 35 per cent. over the former tests.

By incorporating a carburetor with the generator the attachment is easier to install, as the whole appliance does not occupy any more room than the ordinary carburetor.

The factory at Thirty-third street and Maple avenue has been working overtime to turn out the carburetors and these will be ready for the market within a short time. A limited number are now being put on trucks. Two were placed on Alco trucks last week.

FIAT TO HAVE PLACE OF HONOR.

Robert Mueller, formerly a salesman for the Alco Motor Sales Company, local agents for the Alco, has secured a position with the Pacific Coast Motor Car Company, agents for the Fiat. Since the remarkable victory of Frank Verbeck in the Fiat "forty-five," Leroy Armstrong, who is interested in the company, has determined to increase the sales force and to start a campaign which will put the Fiat in the place it should hold.

The campaign will include a thorough canvass of the entire local territory. Many sales have been made recently and following the success of the cars that figured in the Los Angeles-to-Sacramento road race Mueller has been kept busy making demonstrations. Attorney E. E. Hewlett is now in the East, but is expected home this week. This will also mean a more active sales campaign for the coming season, as Hewlett visited the Fiat factory at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., while he was on the Atlantic Coast.

AUTO BOOK AGENT.

Delivering books from door to door to dwellers in farm houses and mountain cabins is the unique use made of an automobile by the Washington County Free Library, of Hagerstown, Md. The vehicle is said to be the only one in the United States constructed especially as a bookcase on wheels and has traversed, since March, 1912, over 6000 miles of roads in the surrounding districts of Washington, and has left at home almost 4000 books. The duties fulfilled by this useful accessory to the distribution system of the library also includes the delivery of boxes of books to various branch libraries throughout the county, not conveniently reached by railroad or trolley, to public schools and to Sunday-schools.

Hard at It.

FIFTY TONS OF RUBBER GOODS.

IMMENSE OUTPUT SHOWS WHAT ONE CONCERN IS DOING.

Pulse of Automobile Industry Can Be Regulated and Timed by the Work Done at Firestone Plant in Akron Where the Strike Proved Only a Joke to the Big Chief.

Fifty tons of finished tires, representing the daily output of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, have been found insufficient to supply the demand for this product so the directors prepared to increase the manufacturing facilities by the erection of new additions.

Work is now progressing on the new structures with every assurance that they will be ready by the fall at which time the daily output will be doubled. The Firestone company at present has the largest exclusive tire plant in the world and with the added buildings should be enabled to keep ahead of its rapidly growing business.

The Firestone company only recently took possession of a new addition, but scarcely had the machinery been installed and the wheels put in operation than it was certain that still more manufacturing space was needed.

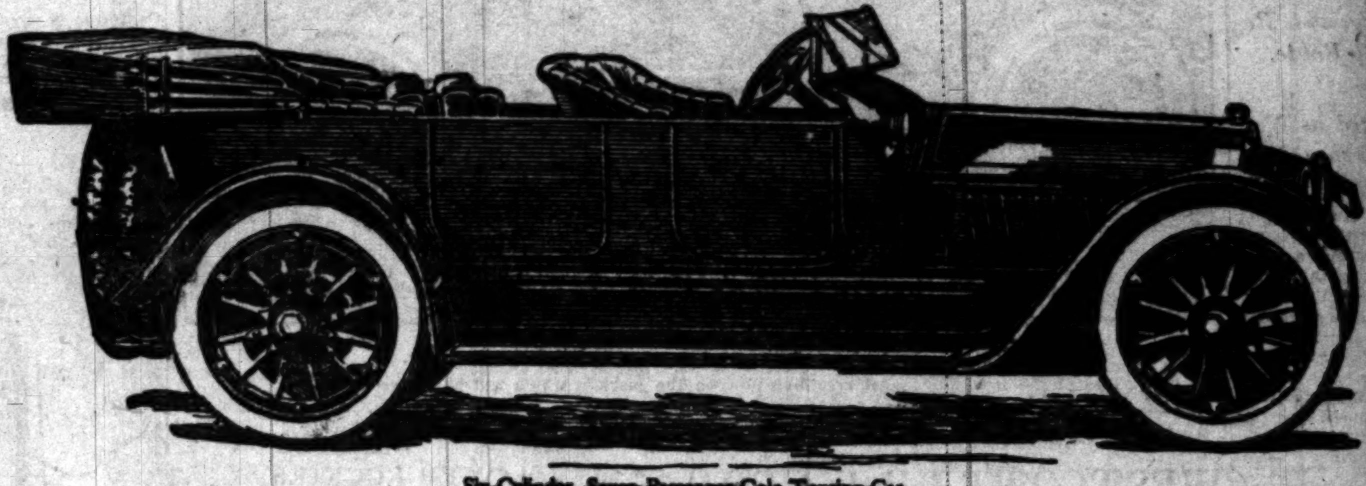
The history of the Firestone company dates back about fifteen years at which time H. S. Firestone, president of the concern, selected Akron as the location for his then small business. He opened a plant at Miller and Sweitzer streets. The Firestone sidewire carriage tire was the chief product of the new but aggressive company. The business under the guidance of Mr. Firestone grew rapidly until more room was needed to handle the product.

The factory was enlarged. "Now," said Firestone, "this building will take care of us for a long time."

But space in the new, big structure was soon at a premium, crowded to capacity with new departments caused by growing needs. It was found compulsory to erect the gigantic factory on South Main street. Already several additions have been annexed to this plant and more will follow as the business warrants. The first plant, large and complete, is now used exclusively for the manufacture of Firestone rims.

The Firestone plant covers fifteen acres and gives employment to more than 3000 persons. It was designed and constructed with the idea of providing light and sanitation as well as safety against fire. In fact, it embodies every comfort and convenience that tends to a happy environment for the employees.

The new addition now under way will be completed about the time President Firestone returns from Europe. He left recently for an automobile tour on the continent with his family. He plans to motor through France, Switzerland, Italy and possibly Germany.



Six-Cylinder, Seven-Passenger Cole Touring Car

Announcing New Series Nine

COLE

The Cole for the past four seasons has been regarded as one of the most aristocratic cars ever built. Its beauty of design, its almost noiseless motor, its superb appointments have been the pride of every Cole owner. The Cole has incorporated ever new desirable feature as soon as it became absolutely practical—and not before. The New Series Nine Cole is the most superior and best-looking Cole ever built. It has earned the right to be called

The Standardized Car

There are no weak spots in this car. Every unit is the work of the recognized specialists in each instance—the maker of the Standard unit in his particular line. That's why it has been christened by you and other motorists The Standardized Car. That's why we are proud to display on the radiator of this standardized car this name Cole.

The Cole is the first motor car ever built entirely from standardized parts, therefore it's the first 100% standardized car, and marks the most advanced commercial step the motor car industry has ever taken. The Cole is the beginning of a great movement which will insure your getting one dollar's worth of real motor car value for every dollar you put in an automobile. Thus far the Cole is the only car on the American market made from the standard, recognized, tested bests of everything. This means that it can and does give you your money's worth.

Make the man who sells you a car prove that it is completely standardized. Tell him that you will consider no so-called manufactured car, because you know that, in the first place, there is no such thing, and if there were you would not buy it because it is not the work of specialists. Remind him that a car has actually been built by the greatest specialists in the world out of the best possible materials, and that you can buy this car—the standardized car—for practically half the price of the so-called high-priced manufactured car. Then make him prove that his car is not an assembled car—a car the parts of which are assembled from promiscuous sources, after they have been selected because they are cheap—not because they are good. Get firmly in mind what a standardized car IS and then tell him you have quit guessing—that you now KNOW what you want—that you no longer have to depend on anybody's judgment but your own. Take this definition with you when you go down automobile row:

A Standardized Car is any car built entirely of standardized parts. A standardized part is any part which has been built so well that it has become the standard whereby all other similar parts are measured.

Remember that the Cole Motor Car Company does not assemble a single unit which goes into the standardized car. Each great specialist who makes a part for the Cole sends that unit to the Cole, built to the Cole Master Blue Prints, and crated, oiled and in a state of final assembly.

WINTON HAS MUCH THAT COMMENDS IT TO AUTOISTS

"THE announcement of the new Winton model has created considerable interest," said W. D. Howard. "While the car follows standard Winton lines it has been improved and developed.

"The motor is 4½x5½. All moving parts except flywheel are inclosed. This protection permits complete lubrication and gives the motor a sweetness and longevity unknown to motors where working parts are exposed. The flywheel is accurately balanced. There are six additional priming cups attached to compression relief cocks. The exhaust tube is 2¼ inches in diameter.

"The cylinders are of tough, close-grained iron, ground to mirror smoothness, assuring long life and reducing wear. Cast in pairs, with water jacket surrounding each individual cylinder, and submitted to hydraulic test of 300 pounds per square inch. Cylinders are offset from crankshaft, securing maximum power efficiency, reducing and equalizing side thrust against cylinder walls, and eliminating the knock that tends towards loosening parts, and premature decay of the motor. Offset cylinders mean that the maximum wall thrust is reduced fully one-half, while the increase in wall thrust on the compression stroke is hardly a third more than in the ordinary arrangement.

"Pistons and rings are lapped in their respective cylinders to secure perfect fit. All pistons, rings, connecting rods and wrist pins of same weight per set, giving accurate balance. Piston pins made of hardened tool steel. Long connecting rods reduce angularity of operation.

"There are interchangeable, mechanically-operated, adjustable valves of liberal size, all on one side of the motor, avoiding the use of two cam shafts, and of exposed working parts. Exposed working parts can neither be properly lubricated nor protected from the wear caused by dust and dirt. The nickel steel used in the valves offers high resistance against the oxidizing and warping effect of hot gases. Valve springs, plungers and valve plugs covered by steel plates, which are readily detachable.

"The crank-shaft is made of specially-treated nickel steel, having tensile strength of 125,000 pounds to the square inch. Crank shaft bearing surfaces ground. Four large bearings, bushed with Parson's white brass.

"Aluminum crank-case has three 5x8-inch hand-holes to permit instant inspection. Case divided into right and left halves, to provide for ready removal of crank-shaft connecting rods and pistons, without disturbing cylinders or carburetor, magneto, water pump, etc. Drain at bottom of oil manifold for flushing."

The automobile insurance business in Chicago has developed to such an extent that a permanent organization, which will probably be known as the Automobile Underwriters' Board of Cook County, is to be established.

Ground has been broken for the new $15,000 clubhouse of the Dallas (Tex.) Automobile Club.

THE HARDEST BLOW I EVER FELT IN A RING.

BY MATTY BALDWIN.

THE HARDEST wallop that I ever received was at the hands of Ad Wolgast in our twelve-round draw at Boston.

Early in the ninth round we were sparring when Ad suddenly caught me three swings, a left, right and left, squarely in the pit of the stomach. He hit me with all his force behind the blows.

That was the first time that I was ever hurt by a body blow and I dropped to my knees feeling very dizzy and sick, but I didn't remain down for a long count. I jumped back to my feet and rushed him around the ring as the best method of self-protection.

REDONDO SWIMMING MEET PROMISES GREAT RACING.

BY WALLACE D. ROBB.

President of the Southern California Swimming Association.

THE annual swimming tournament held by the Southern California Swimming Association, will be given at the Redondo Beach bathhouse, Friday and Saturday evenings, August 1st and 2nd. This tournament promises to be the best and largest that we have ever held both from the number of entries and the interest shown by the public.

The Redondo Beach bath house is ideally situated for holding a tournament of this kind. The tank is the finest in the west, having a straightaway of over 50 yards, with wide spacious galleries running around three sides of the plunge affording an unobstructed view of the tank for the spectators.

Swimming has been steadily growing in popularity for the past four or five years and meets now often draw from one to five thousand people, where a few years ago it was hard to get out a corporals' guard. The class of the contests has improved accordingly, each year the records of the previous year are broken and hardly a meet passes but what some new record is established.

We have added three new events to our programme this year which we have never held before. Namely, the 50-yard breast stroke and the 50-yard back stroke, and the spring-board diving from spring-board ten feet above the water. These events will give a new crowd of swimmers an opportunity to enter, as a number of men are good in these events but are not good for fast speed races.

Full teams are entered from the San Francisco Y.M.C.A., Los Angeles Athletic Club, Los Angeles Y.M.C.A., Bimini, Redondo Beach, San Diego, as well as a large number of unattached swimmers.' The large number of teams assures a great competition in the 220-yard relay.

Unusual interest centers about the 449-yard dash owing to the fact that Lincoln Johnson of San Francisco Y.M.C.A. team and Ludy Langer of Redondo, will meet to decide who becomes the permanent possessor of the Kinsey cup, both the men have two ends on this cup and if either of them win it in this meet it will become their property.

Langer has shown the better form of the two men the past two months, but Mr. Coffman, trainer of the San Francisco team has had Johnson rusticating in the mountains for the past two weeks and writes me that his man is in better shape than he was in the July meet at San Francisco, where he was beaten by Langer in both the 440 and 880-yard race.

There will be two races for women, a 50-yard dash and a 440-yard dash. There is a large entry list for both events and some good competition is to be expected. In the diving, Clifford Bowes will not have as easy sailing as he had at the meet in San Francisco, as we have a number of divers from the south who have shown unusual ability, among these being Campbell of Long Beach, Ray Kegris, Tomy and Gerald Witt of Redondo.

The events will be called sharply at 8 o'clock on each evening and those attending from the city should take the car leaving the Pacific Electric station at Sixth and Main not later than 6:55. Entries close with Wallace L. Robb, care Dyas-Cline Company, No. 214 West Third street, Wednesday, July 30.

THAT AD WOLGAST is sincere in meeting Willie Ritchie in a return match was proven yesterday afternoon when he deposited a $1000 bill with Jim Jeffries as a forfeit for a side bet for $25,000 that he can defeat Willie Ritchie in a return match.

This is no stage money, as anyone who knows Jim Jeffries knows that he would never me a party to anything that was not on the level. The money is in Jeffries's hands and it goes.

All that remains is to have Ritchie come up with his end of the forfeit and the rest can be easily settled Wolgast is anxiously waiting for an early reply from Willie.

Scotty Montieth is so wrapped up in Johnny Dundee that he bet Ad Wolgast $25 that Ad would not sign articles to meet Dundee. When he bantered Ad to take the bet he was surprised to see Ad produce the money and immediately signed the articles.

Scotty had enough faith in Ad's honesty to place the bet in his hands and Ad says "I will not only win the bet with Scotty, but will also beat Scotty's champion."

If Willie Ritchie comes through with his $25,000 side bet this will be by far the largest sum ever bet on a boxing contest by two boxers.

COBB CATCHES JACKSON IN RACE FOR HONORS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, July 26.—Ty Cobb has tied Joe Jackson for the lead among the American League batters. Figures for this week give the Cleveland slugger and the star Detroit man an average of .400 each Jackson for eighty-nine games and Cobb for sixty-six.

Dan Murphy of the Athletics is third with .390, Speaker of Boston fourth with .380, Caldwell (New York) fifth with .364 and Blanding sixth with .359.

Earl Yingling, the Brooklyn pitcher, leads the National Leaguers with .393 for twenty-two games. Charles McDonald, Boston, ranks second with .377 for fifty-six games. Miller of Philadelphia is third, .355; Daubert (Brooklyn) and Walsh (Philadelphia) are tied for fourth with .346 each, though Daubert has played in eighty-six games against Walsh's twenty-two, and Cravath of Philadelphia winds up the first half dozen with .340.

Forty-eight stolen bases are now credited to Milan of Washington. Marsans of Cincinnati leads the National in stolen bases with thirty-one.

GOLF TITLE GOES TO WOOD.

Allis Makes Game Fight, but Finally Loses.

Champion's Experience Too Much for Collegian.

Wood's Winning Putt Quite Sensational.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, July 26.—Wawwen K. Wood of Homewood, won the Western Golf Association championship at the Homewood Country Club today from E. P. Allis, III, of Milwaukee, 4 up and 3 to go. Allis made a game fight for the title after his striking play the last two days, when he defeated former Champion "Chick" Evans and Gardner, but was unable to best his more experienced rival, Wood.

Wood was off in his driving, but redeemed himself by steadiness with his irons and putting. Allis failed to accept many chances to recover himself. Throughout the morning Wood played with uneventful steadiness. He conceded several holes, but in general, kept free of trouble.

Allis, who started the afternoon round four down, was six down at the twenty-second hole, but he braced up and in a strong effort to recover his lost ground, won two of the next five holes, and turned with a handicap of only three against him.

Wood had the advantage of playing over his home course, every foot of which he is familiar. His last winning putt was sensational. Curving his ball to take advantage of the inequalities of the green, he laid his ball from the corner of the green to the rim of the cup. Allis was playing four and he picked up his ball.

Wood was runner-up in the western last year and runner-up in the national in 1910. He is one of the strongest tournament players in the country. Allis is champion of Wisconsin.

METZ WINS

The Metz team of 3 cars won the 1913 Glidden tour from Minneapolis, Minn., to Glacier National Park, Montana, 1300 miles of gruelling contest over the rough and mountainous roads of Minnesota, North Dakota and Montana, taking both the Anderson and Glidden Trophies over a field of high priced cars selling for three to five times the price of the METZ. This is a great performance for any car at any price, driving as they did through rain and mud EVERY day of the run, but considering the price of the METZ it IS SIMPLY WONDERFUL.

SPEND YOUR MONEY WISELY

—and enjoy the novel sensation of luxury without extravagance, of everlasting pleasure and satisfaction unalloyed with regrets.

Don't look so long at the low purchase price that you lose sight of the other remarkable features of these record-breaking, epoch-making cars.

Here you have everything you want in a car—style, comfort, durability, efficiency and, best of all, economy; for the METZ Car will make 25 to 32 miles on ONE gallon of gasoline, a hundred miles on ONE pint of lubricating oil, and from 10,000 to 12,000 miles on ONE set of tires.

Go through the whole list, if you please, and you will not find ANY other car, at ANY price, that can equal this record—or come anywhere near it—and keep on doing it, day after day. A strictly high class, fully guaranteed car that will make from 5 to 50 miles per hour, and climb hills as fast as ANY stock car made, regardless of its price.

At Long Beach.

BIG TENNIS PLAY MONDAY.

More Entries Recorded Than Ever Before.

Many Veterans to Contest With Young Players.

Bundy Is to Be in Singles and Doubles.

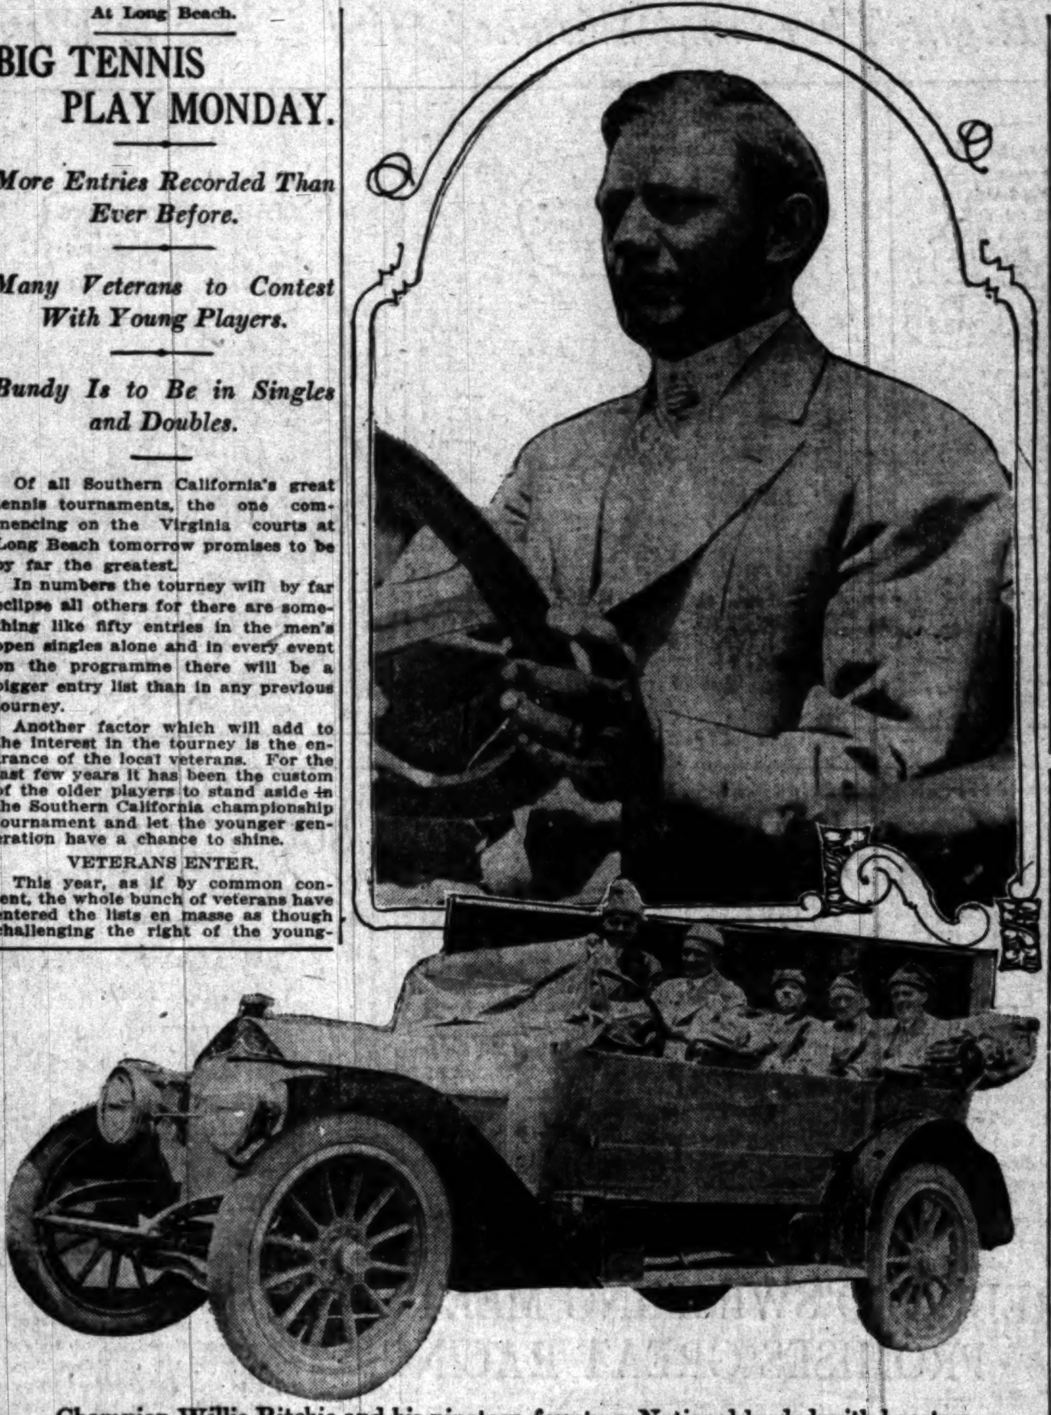
Of all Southern California's great tennis tournaments, the one commencing on the Virginia courts at Long Beach tomorrow promises to be by far the greatest.

In numbers the tourney will by far eclipse all others for there are something like fifty entries in the men's open singles alone and in every event on the programme there will be a bigger entry list than in any previous tourney.

Another factor which will add to the interest in the tourney is the entrance of the local veterans. For the last few years it has been the custom of the older players to stand aside in the Southern California championship tournament and let the younger generation have a chance to shine.

VETERANS ENTER.

This year, as if by common consent, the whole bunch of veterans have entered the lists en masse as though challenging the right of the youngsters to all the local honors. The youngsters, on the other hand, seem only to glad to show what they can do when up against the vets.



Champion Willie Ritchie and his nineteen-fourteen National loaded with boosters.
This is the car in which the lightweight champion toured from San Francisco to Los Angeles, reaching this city on Wednesday.

While the northern delegation is still uncertain both in make-up and numbers, it is certain that several of the best men will be down for the tournament.

Willis Davis, who won the junior singles, and got as far as the semi-finals in the open singles, will be down to defend his title, and H. V. D. Johns, another northern player of repute, will be here. Bull and Dedrick are other possibilities.

MANY LOCAL PLAYERS.

Among the local players, opinion is divided. Tom Bundy, by all rights, is placed as the foremost contender for the singles title. Bundy has won so many titles and championships that he would be a sure bet for first place if it were not for the fact that he has not been doing much playing lately and is slightly out of form.

In the doubles Bundy will be paired off with Ward Dawson, former Southern California champion, and the pair are said to be playing well together. Dawson will be a dangerous contender in the singles as he is really a better singles than a doubles player.

Another dangerous pair will be Cliff Herd and Herb Lockwood, two players who have not been seen in action here for some time until this summer, but who have been making good back East. They will be paired in the doubles, and are both dangerous singles players, Herd especially.

DUNCAN AND BROWNE.

Duncan and Browne, who will defend their title in the doubles, can be counted upon to make things warm for anybody they happen to run up against. This pair of veterans have been practicing together during the past couple of weeks, and are said to be in rare form.

Sinsabaugh and Wayne, winners of the Southern California handicap doubles tourney, are returning to the form that won them their victory over Braly and Duncan, and their experience and resourcefulness makes them a very dangerous pair.

YOUNG PLAYERS ENTER.

Among the younger players there are two teams especially deserving of mention. Bob Variel and Allyn Barber, who defeated Bacon and Young in a sensational match in the handicap tournament, are in great form just at present, and will cause trouble before they are eliminated.

Marshall Ketchum and Emory Rogers combine all the possibilities of future greatness. Ketchum is playing in his best form at this time and as he is able to compete with the best of them when in form he will be dangerous in both singles and doubles.

Emory Rogers, Ketchum's partner, is the Ttatcher school player, who grabbed off the State interscholastic championship last year. He is a very good singles player and with Ketchum will certainly make a good showing in the open doubles.

BACON AND YOUNG PLAY.

Bacon and Young, the Duarte pair, can always be counted upon to show a little class, and usually they show a whole lot of it. They won several titles last year up north, while on a barn-storming trip and they must be counted among the contenders for the doubles title.

The special events are always hard to dope, and there is no telling who will make the best showing, especially in the handicap events.

In the ladies' event the management is expecting to have from fifteen to twenty players entered. Mrs. Bruce will defend the title which she has won twice against such players as Florence Sutton, Alice Scott, Mrs. Stickrod, Miss Grieve, Miss Dawson and many others.

Taking into consideration the large number of entries in all of the events and the large number of classy players from all over the State, the tournament is certain to be the greatest thing of its kind in the history of Southern California.

The events and entries are as follows:

Men's open singles—Frank W. Atkinson, Detroit; Thomas C. Bundy, Los Angeles; Walter L. Bowers, Los Angeles; Will Bacon, Duarte; Allyn H. Barber, and Harvey Batchellor, Los Angeles; Ira D. NOTES OF THE DIAMOND.

John McGraw admits that the National League race is already under the wire, and the performers are merely keeping warmed up for the world's derby.

As a "hoss" trader "Jimmy" Callahan learned a few points from the old folks in Fitchburg, Mass. "If you've got a worse 'hoss' than the other fellow, don't boast about it," is a bit of trading wisdom that is still respected by New Englanders.

"Ty" Cobb is already being shown on four sheets in the Far East where the world's tour advance men have got in their display work.

One of the reasons why Brooklyn isn't keeping up the terrific gait of early season is that some of the other clubs are playing several hundred per cent. better than they did in the opening weeks.

When the trade which drew "Hal" Chase is sifted down it may be discovered that Frank Chance isn't at all anxious to have Chase again, but he would like to have the Chicago club pay Zeider's salary while the famous bunion is being subdued.

Promoters of the world's tour are evidently business men. "Kid" Gleason and "Jack" Doyle are to be taken as umpires. If baseball doesn't bring shekels, boxing bouts between the veteran wranglers could be put on.

"Connie" Mack has a physician's word that "Jack" Coombs will be sounder than ever in September. He adds a new angle to the discussion of opening game pitchers in the big series.

Joe Jackson says that if he doesn't beat Ty Cobb for batting honors this season he will be unable to find any reasonable excuse unless one suddenly blossoms between now and October.

WANTS TO KNOW.

Frank Chance, just before enjoying the delights of being in a winning streak, showed that he is somewhat of a humorist. After the Yanks had tossed away a game that should have been an easy victory for them the Peerless Leader sagely remarked: "I knew there were lots of boneheads in baseball, but how did they all get on one club?"

NO USE FIGHTING.

Association football players will be interested to know that the international board at a recent meeting decided that the ball used in any important match should be considered the property of the association club on whose grounds the match is played, and at the conclusion of the game it must be returned to the referee. This will do away with the scramble which sometimes takes place between the teams at the conclusion of a game for possession of the ball.

FIRST COVERED COURTS.

Longwood Cricket Club near Boston, the oldest lawn tennis organization in America, is the first to construct covered courts in this country. The new building will be of steel and stucco on terra cotta blocks, [illegible] feet by 102 feet and thirty-five feet high. It will contain two full sized double courts. A balcony around the interior will seat 600 spectators. The playing surface will be a board floor covered with "battleship linoleum" of a thickness of 3-8 of an inch and green in color.

Two of a Kind.

NATIONAL CHAMP RITCHIE IN STOCK NATIONAL CHAMP

WILLIE RITCHIE, lightweight champion of the world, and his National touring car, motor stock champion of the world, reached this city on Wednesday after a tour over the Coast route from San Francisco. The national champions made the run comfortably, with the car loaded with friends of the young pugilist, who says he will not be satisfied until he enters the automobile business.

Just what car he would like to represent, Ritchie forgot to state, but his experience with automobiles has made him a decided enthusiast. He experienced no trouble whatsoever on this trip down to Los Angeles, and was most enthusiastic regarding the roads between this city and his home town.

Two years more as a pugilist will be enough for Ritchie. Then he expects to enter the auto business. He does not wish to be a dealer. He will be satisfied to sell cars. Judging from his knowledge of a motor car, with two more years' experience the champion should make good at whatever line he may select. He will perhaps be in the high-priced division as he favors a car selling around the highest figures.

Thoroughly satisfied with his National Champion Ritchie became enthusiastic when speaking of the work of his 1914 touring car on the drive down the coast. He purchased the car from Charles Howard, agent in San Francisco, and with only a few hours' instructions, prepared for the inter-city drive. He made good as all of the tourers testify, and the car came through without a blemish.

One of the best friends Ritchie has is Charles Howard of the Howard Automobile Company. The Buick and National distributor says Ritchie is a real champion and will send all of the "has-beens" and "never-wases" to the tall timbers. Howard believes Ritchie will be champion for some time, and says he is the best boxer of his weight that ever stepped into a ring.

Earle Y. Boothe, [illegible] for the National, offered Champion Ritchie the use of the National [illegible] here. While he is in this city Ritchie will make the National [illegible] on South Flower street, his [illegible] place.

Worth Considering.

HAMPION RITCHIE IS READY FOR ALL COMERS.

as Wolgast was the champion Willie beat him, he above all is entitled to the first chance, he succeeds in beating Dundee in their coming match

Cross lost two newspaper decisions to Rivers and until he beats Baldwin, will hardly have a legitimate right to ask for the first chance at Ritchie.

As for Rivers, he should be eliminated from the going all together. He has had two chances at the featherweight title, and, while he won the first decision (which, by the way, has been disputed ever since,) he was knocked out the second time.

Later he was given two chances at the lightweight title and failed to make good each time.

In his first chance with Ad Wolgast he had the fight won and then threw it away, simply because he was not game enough to stand up on his feet when he went down, and claimed a foul.

Wolgast collapsed and could not have arisen, but was game, and with the assistance of Jack Welsh, won.

RIVERS NOT GAME.

It matters little whether Welsh was right or wrong in that contest, Rivers proved conclusively that he is not a game fighter and this was further verified when he met and lost to Ritchie after he had the fight won at least three times.

Where do they get that stuff of matching a quitter and charging high prices for the fans to witness a fighter who cannot be depended upon to make good when he has all the chances in the world to do so.

In my opinion the right to fight for the title comes to Ad Wolgast first, Freddie Welsh second and Matty Baldwin third.

As Wolgast lost to Ritchie while he held the title, and as it has been the custom to give the ex-champion the first chance, it should surely go to Ad.

Welsh comes in second, from the fact that he already holds a decision over Willie, and since then has won the lightweight championship of Australia, France and England.

SHOULD NOT DICTATE.

As for Willie Ritchie, the title-holder, he has no right whatever to dictate weight in the lightweight class. He won it at 133 pounds and should be compelled to defend it at that weight, as that has been the standard ever since the Marquis of Queensberry rules were written, and he or no other fighter has the right to change them.

This coming elimination contest in the lightweight class promises to be the most interesting since Joe Gans, Bat Nelson and Jimmie Britt were in their prime, and the most redeeming feature of the whole show is that they are all clever boxers except Ad Wolgast, but Ad holds the same position today as Kid Lavigne did years ago, when he was champion. Lavigne was not clever but he could fight.

All through the winter and early spring the training continues and when summer arrives the puppies, now in their second year, are sent North again for the finishing touches.

It can be seen readily that puppies whelped early in the year have a distinct advantage over those born nearer midsummer, since they reach training age in time to secure virtually eighteen months of work under skillful handlers before being called upon for the Derby effort. It is this early start that is the ambition of every owner of a possible Derby contender.

During the coming autumn and winter more than thirty trials will be held throughout the country with prizes and trainers' fees amounting to thousands of dollars. These prizes and championships are as eagerly sought as the trophies and titles in other departments of sport, and the sportsman who shoots over a dog together with the man who breeds field dogs for the love of the game attends or follows the details of the trials with an interest and enthusiasm not surpassed by the devotees of baseball, racing, athletics and kindred competitions of skill and endurance.

HEN CAN A BASEBALL PLAYER BE CALLED OLD?

At of 78 he should be sufficiently to hold down a regular He will improve steadily until which should be his banner Van easily should lead the league for the following nine years. Then, if he begins to slow down, he can return to the Coast and play with Sacramento.

But "Deacon" is an exception—a rare antique—one of the few century plants of the game. If they were all endowed with his athletic longevity, the rising generation of ball players would grow gray waiting for a chance to break in.

Seriously, the age of ball players is not governed by years. Some are old at 25, and drop out; others are at their best at 35 and still others are young at 40.

A baseball player is old only when he shows it in his work.

The twilight line between youth and age on the diamond—that point at which the player begins to lose the edge of his speed—often is almost indiscernible except to the penetrating eye of the keenest managers.

There is no explaining why one baseball athlete will lose his effectiveness at 25 and another retain his fifteen years longer.

"Cy" Young didn't quit the majors until he had store teeth. He was nearer 50 than 40, and had carved out the unprecedented record of twenty-two years continuous pitching in the big league.

Yet "Cy" was known to take his "nip," and he considered no evening complete without a pipe or two of tobacco. These things may have been of no benefit to him—it may be that he simply made his long-distance record in spite of them.

The moderation of his indulgences probably had more than anything else to do with Young's diamond longevity. He was a stranger to excesses of any kind.

It is these which shorten the active life of many athletes, while others have been overlooked by nature in the distribution of stamina.

There seems to be no reason why the average ball player, with average care and freedom from serious injury, should not be at his best at 30 and good for several seasons after that.

"Pop" Anson was nearing the sere and yellow when he finally laid aside the spangles. That "Pop" was no "broiler" when he quit is to be guessed from the fact that he hit .300 or better for fifteen consecutive years in the big league—a record equalled by only one man—Hans Wagner.

"Cy" Young was still great at 45. At the other extreme is Hal Chase, great at 19, and on the down grade at an age when other players are just at the threshold of their greatest achievements.

In the line-up of nearly every ball club is to be found a plentiful sprinkling of veterans. The Coast League is almost exclusively populated with players who have made the trip from the minors to the majors and back again, and so far as observed, not a vast number of them have been displaced by those of tender years. This is partly due to the fact that baseball is now played with the head as well as with the arms and legs.

Jack Ryan, past 30, is being sought by a number of big league clubs.

A little of the elixir of youth sprinkled among the aged infrequently is a good arrangement, as witness the transformation which Speas and Lober have made in the Portland team.

But as a rule, the callow youth trying to "jimmy" his way into a Class AA league stands about as much show as an ice cream soda in Yuma. Those who have accomplished this in the Coast League in the last five years can be numbered on the fingers of your food hand.

Lajoie was benched after eighteen years in the big leagues, during which time he hit the ball for a general average of .368, but they couldn't keep him there. Hans Wagner is another baseball party who has been cheating the bewhiskered gent with the mowing machine. For five years now they have had the pianola primed with slow music for Hans, but he continues to get rough with the pitchers from time to time.

Without Plank and Bender, Connie Mack would just about cop the consolation prize, and neither of them can properly be called a "boy." Danny Murphy is growing gray watching aspiring youngsters trying to take away his meal-ticket.

Otis Clymer climbed back into the big league this season and Otis is not a day less than 35. Joe Tinker at 38 continues to be some shortstop.

Christy Mathewson, twirling his thirteenth year in the big league, finds his leathery old whip sound enough to dispute the leadership of the National with the stars of a much later vintage.

It does seem that some ball players are not at their best until flanked by their grandchildren.

For instance—Timken axles and bearings, Bosch ignition (independent from starting and lighting system) Warner transmission, Stromberg carburettor. Can you beat this combination at any price? No. You can tour to the ends of the earth and find more mechanics who are familiar with every feature of the "Howard Six" than can be found in any other car. Several people have said it was the handsomest car they had seen, others pronounce it the easiest riding, and all agree that the equipment and finish is par excellent.

If we manufactured every part of this car it would cost at least a thousand dollars more and you would be taking an experimental chance. Now you don't have to take any chances. We are entirely satisfied with our product and we know you would be.

CORONA MEN TAKE HELM OF GRAND PRIZE ROAD RACE.

CORONA will handle its own race meet on Saturday, September 9. Definite action of the Road Race Committee last night lifts the management of the Grand Prize Road Race out of the hands of the Western Automobile Association and places the reins of government in the grasp of the Corona Automobile Club of which F. H. Ott is president.

Complications which have arisen concerning the management of the Santa Monica Road Race and the Corona speed battle, makes it impossible for Corona to deal with the committee of which L. T. Shettler is chairman, as that committee has its hands full to make the Santa Monica race a success. Entry blanks for the Corona race are to be issued at once and the three classes can be announced tomorrow.

When the proposition from Chairman Shettler was laid before the Corona committee asking that the purse of $10,000 now in bank be turned over to the race governing board the communication was referred back to Shettler and Corona took the helm and $1000 additional was added to the purse for a world record.

The men who will handle the Corona race, under the leadership of Ott, are G. P. McCorkle, secretary; G. E. Snidecor, G. H. G. Freeman, Cuthbert Gully, F. W. Reynolds, F. M. Baird, C. A. Holloway, C. D. McBeil, F. J. Mueller, E. B. Collier and H. L. F. Glass, all representative business men of the valley town. The course, one of the fastest on earth, will be ready for practice at least three weeks before the day of the big race.

RIFLES READY AT LAKE ERIE

Marksmen of All Nations to Face Targets.

Shooting Carnival to Open at Camp Perry.

Army, Navy and States of Union Compete.

Thirty thousand dollars in prizes, besides trophies and honors elsewhere unattainable, make Camp Perry, O., the mecca of expert riflemen of the world, where in August and September the matches of the international rifle tournament will be held under the auspices of the National Rifle Association, and patronage of the United States government.

Swiss, Austrian, Swedish, Argentine, French, German, British, Australian and Canadian teams of the highest skill are to compete in various events scheduled with a view of affording every type of marksman an opportunity of demonstrating his abilities at the targets.

First in order of time will come the matches of the Ohio State Rifle Association, during the week of August 15 to 22, and consisting of various long range contests and the Press match of 500 yards, as well as special events for military and other rifles.

NATIONAL MATCHES.

Then come the National Rifle Association matches, which will take the entire last week in August, during which teams from the army, navy, West Point Military Academy, Annapolis Naval Academy, United States Marine Corps, and National Guards of nearly every State in the Union vie with each other for positions.

Individual matches for the President's trophy, at specified ranges, and the Wimbledon cup, at 1000 yards, all with military rifles, are included in the programme of this week. The individual military rifle championship of the United States is also established therein.

END IN SEPTEMBER.

September 1 to 9, inclusive, brings the climax, with many and varied matches of the International Union and Pan-American Rifle Confederation, when men and guns of all countries meet at their own styles of shooting, with their own ranges, at their chosen ranges.

Premier in importance is the match for the international Palma trophy, shot with military rifles at 1000 yards, each team using the military rifle adopted by its government. The United States team uses the Springfield, and has never lost a match for this trophy, for which Australia, Canada and Great Britain have often vainly striven. The possibility of other foreign teams contending for the blue ribbon this year centers interest upon the hardest test undertaken by riflemen.

Second in importance comes the Pan-American Union team match, shot by teams of the two continents, exclusively with military rifles, at varying ranges. Argentine has appropriated $25,000 of government funds toward sending her most expert riflemen as a team, with a delegation of officials and leading citizens to advance their interests, and do honor to the occasion.

IMPORTANT CONTEST.

Next come the International Union matches, combining the widest range of interest because of the larger number of countries likely to be represented, and the variety of shooting involved.

The famous Swiss team, coming from a country whose government furnishes every man and boy ammunition, and requires him to use it at targets, has won fifteen out of sixteen contests with other countries at their standard 300-meter target, with rifles and conditions peculiar to themselves.

But this reported invincibility has not prevented the American preparing at the last moment to dispute their sovereignty at their own game. Guns must have open sights, no glass or peeps being allowed, and wings at front sight must not be higher than the sight itself. Firing consists of forty shots, standing, forty kneeling, and forty prone.

The Americans have had neither the guns, nor practice in the conditions. But they are having manufactured by the Winchester Arms Company special rifles, with which they propose to meet the canny Switzers after two week of practice.

NEW GUN IN SIGHT.

These rifles will be of 25 caliber, weighing about twelve pounds, equipped with open sights, set trigger, cork finger rest and grip specially designed to aid holding, particularly in the prone position, and will have an interchangeable stock of Schuetzen design for standing and kneeling positions, with a straight stock for the prone shooting. No sling is used.

Though this target work is not considered of practical military value in this country, the National Rifle Association is making an effort to get up a team worthy to compete with the foreigners, and to that end has invited Schuetzen and military experts to "try out" for a tea mon August 14.

SHORT PREPARATION.

From this tryout, ten men will be selected who will promise to use none but the "free" rifles between August 23 and September 6, the date of the match. Five men to compose the team will be selected from the ten, on their showing up to the night of September 5. These ten will also compete in other "free" rifle events from September 1 to 5, inclusive. This rather short preparation will be for shooting against men who have been practicing the condition all their lives.

Hundreds of targets are to be used in these varied events, 4000 troops being detailed by the government for the mere conduct of the matches.

The poster issued by the national association is a work of art, executed in true and vivid colors on the design of Hy Hintermeister. It represents the Goddess Minerva, with helmet doffed for wreath of laurel, seated upon a chariot framed on crossed military and Schuetzen rifles, with wheel formed by circular-ringed target enleaved with laurel. She waves the Star-Spangled Banner above a field surrounded by flags of all nations. At the bottom the American eagle surmounts a heavy wreath surrounding the Great Seal of the United States.

FAIR PITCHING MARK.

Crabb Heaves But One Hundred and Sixteen Balls in the Nine Innings of Yesterday's Game.

Roy Crabb delivered the ball 116 times in yesterday's game, when he flirted with a no-hit performance, while the three San Francisco pitchers made 118 deliveries.

A complete record of the number of balls delivered to each batter was kept by Bernard Vollmer, one of the "regulars."

Wotell proved to be the best waiter. In the four times that he was at the plate, the San Francisco slab artists pitched to him twenty times. Cartwright was the low man in this respect. He was at bat four times, and Crabb threw but five balls to him.

The largest number of balls pitched in any one inning was by Decannier, who in the second made twenty-one deliveries. Crabb went to the other extreme, retiring the Seals on three pitched balls in the ninth.

The South African Athletic Association has accepted the offer of the British Athletic Association to send out a representative team of athletics at the end of the 1913 season to tour Africa. The guarantee is $5500.

ANGRY BALL FANS AFTER UMPS BUSH AND GUTHRIE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, July 26.—The last six innings of today's game, which Portland won from Sacramento, 8 to 2, was played with a squad of constables and deputy sheriffs guarding the Sacramento bench and a riot cordon of policemen patrolling in front of the bleachers.

Pop bottles, green oranges and lemons were thrown in goodly numbers, one of them landing on the back of Umpire Bush's head so that after the game he could not see the wisdom of Umpire Guthrie's suggestion that they take their chances with the crowd.

"Nix on the hero stuff," said Bush and the two umpires waited in their dressing-room to the accompaniment of rocks and bottles bouncing off the door.

FINAL ESCAPE.

Finally the police drove the crowd back; an automobile drove up, the umpires sneaked under the grand stand and left by the other gate, an auto whisking them out of the city at a rate well in excess of the speed limit.

A close decision in the second inning started the trouble; between innings Umpire Bush approached the bleachers and expressed his thoughts; and in the third inning when he called Jimmy Lewis out at first when Krapp threw to catch him napping, the riot began.

THREE CHASED.

Wolverton, Lewis and Shinn were chased out of the game, but Wolverton directed his team from behind the bleacher fnece. Dolly Start, utility outfielder was all that was left to fill in the field and when he misjudged two flies, one of which went for a double, and the other a home run, the Beavers sewed up the game with three more runs in the fourth. Krapp, for the second time of the week, held the Wolves to four hits, their two runs being the result of two walks to the first men up in the first inning, these passes being followed by a sacrifice and Van Buren's double. SOME CHANGES MADE IN STATE FAIR RACE CARD.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The last day of the State Fair will have one of the keenest races on the speed programme which includes about $35,000 in purses. This particular race will be an open sweepstakes to take the place of Stake No. 20, which was cancelled by the directors of the State Agricultural Society because there were not enough entries in the original event, a free-for-all pace.

The sweepstakes will be open to any and all horses, with the simple proviso that the owners or drivers pay a $10 entrance fee. The State Fair directors have added $500, which will go to the winner of two out of three heats. The entrance money will be given to the second horse.

This will be the onl ytwo-in-three heat race outside of the coldt stakes, the others being three-heat races, with each heat a race. The sweepstakes are quite sure to attract two of the famous Logans in Jim, with a mark of 2:03 1-4, and Dan, with a record of 2:07½, and doing better right along. The entries to this race will close on August 14.

Stake No. 18, which is on for Friday, September 19, scheduled originally as a free-for-all pace for amateurs, was cancelled and reopened as a 2:10 pace, with amateur drivers. The drivers however, must be the owners, and must establish their ownership with a bill of sale. Hobbles will not be barred.

A purse of $500 goes in this event with the usual entry money added. Two entries that will likely be in the money are Frank E. Wright's Queen Derby, 2:06 1-4, and James Ryan's Happy Dentist, 2:05 3-4. Happy Dentist hold the matinee record for California.

The fastest condition that the State Fair track has ever been in will prevail this fall. Work is constantly being performed by a crew of men working under the direction of J. L. McCarthy, the new secretary. McCarthy bieng a veteran horseman himself, knows pretty well what needs to be done to get the dirt into shape for the fall meet.

In spite of the automobile racing on July 4, the track has already been worked down to good condition, Dan Logan having made a mile in 2:07½ last Sunday. This equalled his record and could not have been done as easily as he made it had the track not been so fast.

The horse that does not hang up a good mark at the fair this year cannot blame the condition of the track. Teddy Bear set his mark of 2:05 at the State Fair Grounds, and never beat it at any other track on the Pacific Coast. Other horses have also made their reputation on this track.

MONTEITH IS A FINANCIER.

Scotty Monteith is some financier. A man bet him $50 yesterday that Wolgast would never sign articles to fight Dundee. Monteith took him up. Monteith then went over and bet Wolgast $25 that he wouldn't sign the articles and to get the money, Wolgast signed. Net result: Ad Wolgast and Scotty Monteith each $25 ahead and the Wolgast-Dundee articles signed.

TIGERS COP OAK SERIES.

Jack Killilay Not Much of a Success.

Walks Four Men in a Row With Two Down.

Speck Harkness Is Troubled Only in Eighth.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Jack Killilay demonstrated variety if not efficiency today when the Tiger aggregation cinched up the series and treated Commuterville to the dreariest defeat of the whole week, 6 to 3.

Killilay's variety started with a wildness the like of which is seldom seen and once he had conquered his inability to locate the plate "Handsome Jack" was swatted to all points of the compass and finally, when started on his fifth session, had to be derricked in favor of Lohman, who allowed a run that was not his own fault, and after that pitched a two-hit game.

Save for Coy's homer in the fourth, the Oaks could apparently do nothing with Harkness's delivery until the eighth when two singles and a double for Gardner gave two runs and a small chance for the Oakland fans to do some yelling and awake from their lethargy.

KILLILAY WILD.

Mitze should have heeded the warning signals of the third, when Killilay, with two men out, proceeded to walk four in a row. Wild as wild could be, he pitched just two strikes while those four men were walking, forcing Carlisle with a gift run.

That should have been the ending for Killilay. But it wasn't. He stayed in the box for an all-around hammering and was only benched when it was quite evident that more than enough runs to win had been piled up by the Tigerville aggregation.

Harkness pitched remarkably good ball for any pitcher and outside of that one inning—the eighth—he was in no particular danger. Cook touched him for a long-distance triple in the second and Coy hit one over the fence as has already been related, but coming up to the eighth there were just four hits off the spreckled beauty formerly with Portland.

BIG INNING.

The bombardment of Killilay commenced with the fourth and lasted into the fifth. Louis Litschi doubled to left, almost into the bleacher section. McDonnell tried for a sacrifice but lifted the ball into the air. Gardner got his hands on the sphere and then dropped it.

With two on. Elliot flied to left and Harkness fanned. Carlisle shot a fierce drive right through Gardner for two bases and the pair ahead of him tallied. Kane beat out an infield hit to third and Meloan thumped the right infield fence to score Carlisle.

The Oakland heaver was in just as bad shape in the fifth. He fanned Hosp, but Litschi hit a twister at third and stole second. McDonnell was safe on an infield hit to short and Elliot's hit against the fence in center tallied Litschi.

Harkness hit into a double when he pushed the ball at Lohman, who was not on the mound, and Elliot was retired at second base. McDonnell, meanwhile, was racing for the plate and touched the rubber before the double was completed.

Coy's home run over the right field fence in the fourth was all the Oaks had until their spasmodic rally in the eighth. Mitze lined to right field and Lohman lifted a foul to McDonnell back of first. Leard hit the ball to Hosp but Kaylor hit safely to center and Gardner doubled to left, the two men ahead of him scoring.

Only One Hit.

strong-armed Nig Clarke, [illegible] knocked Cartwright off his [illegible]tion with one that was so much [illegible] hot to handle that you could [illegible] sizzle. Maggert followed with a [illegible] right.

Just as things were getting [illegible]ing, Brother Ivan ended the [illegible]ding outbreak with a foul to C[illegible]

Decanniere came back for [illegible] the second, and had no trouble [illegible]ing it. He passed Johnson, [illegible] dumped a runt blow to D[illegible] and the monsieur's throw to C[illegible] was too late to nip Johnson. [illegible] two bases became occupied. [illegible]gast's out, Corhan to Howard, [illegible]vanced the runners a peg each, [illegible] permitted himself to be [illegible] strikes. Blushing Roy proved [illegible] this was an accident by [illegible] couple of clean licks later in [illegible] afternoon.

Page slammed out a [illegible] that almost tore Cartwright's [illegible] from his wrist. Johnson [illegible] the hit with Goodwin taking [illegible] Corhan pounced on the ball, [illegible] had caromed far off Cartwright's [illegible] lunch appliance, and hurled [illegible]ly to Clarke. Goodwin got [illegible] plate, avoiding the ball with a [illegible] between a wiggle and a slide.

Page took second on the [illegible] Wotell put him across with a [illegible] hit to right. Decanniere [illegible] ell flat-footed off first, but [illegible] Del dropped the ball like a hot [illegible]tato. Mike's only thought [illegible] to get to second, and he [illegible] his purpose, arriving about [illegible] ahead of Howard's throw, Del [illegible] meantime having allowed the [illegible] to cool off. Moore hit the ball [illegible] into left-field that it didn't [illegible] bigger than a pea. Willie [illegible] marathoned back at a great [illegible] deserves credit for getting [illegible] enough to the ball to get the [illegible] tips of his left hand blistered. [illegible] scored on the blow, and Moore [illegible] around to third as easily as [illegible] please.

At this point, Del Howard [illegible] canniere that he might quit, [illegible] words sounded good to Dec. [illegible] Thomas had been expecting [illegible] to the front and was fully [illegible] The sally stopped short, [illegible] boosting out to Johnston.

Ernie Johnson, who is getting [illegible] a regular little he-devil with [illegible] tripled to the scoreboard in the [illegible] and scored on Goodwin's fly to [illegible] Ernie barely beating Willie's [illegible] Maggert scored in the fifth on [illegible] walk, twin sacrifices by Howard [illegible] Johnson and Goodwin's hit. [illegible] dulged in another [illegible] the seventh, doubling and [illegible] Johnson's hit.

Only in the seventh were the [illegible] threatening enough to make it [illegible]esting. Crabb walked Downs, [illegible] first man to face him. [illegible] to Goodwin. Corhan, the [illegible] the curdled disposition, [illegible] disrupting Crabb's dream of a [illegible] hit performance. Cartwright [illegible] to Page, who threw [illegible] tempt to double Corhan, [illegible] advancing. Clarke walked, [illegible] bases. Crabb here worked out [illegible] own salvation by fanning [illegible]

Even up and two to go.

The shift is made without noise and it is claimed by Peebles that it is impossible to strip the gears.

This car should be here this coming week. The operation is simple. It is the contention of Peebles that the S.G.V. is ideal for women. The necessity of shifting gears with a lever is obviated. The car is in the high-grade division and is made in the roadster, town car, limousine, landaulet and touring car models.

After a long legal fight the State Supreme Court has upheld the constitutionality of the automobile tax law in Alabama. Motor car owners have spent several thousand dollars fighting the law.

The police department of Marietta, O., has been given strict orders to enforce the existing traffic rules and regulations on the streets of that city.

Automobiles have been found so useful by the Mexican government in keeping the Federal districts free of bandits that it has been decided to enlarge the territory patrolled by the motor squads.

There is nothing in Goodrich Advertising that isn't in Goodrich Goods

"You really ride on Goodrich Tires"

You have seen the above headline in our magazine advertising, with the picture of people who forget they are in an automobile because of the supreme service they are getting from their Goodrich tires.

As a motorist you know the vast importance of your tires to your car.

Also you know their vast importance to yourself—and you should know the service that Goodrich Tires give.

Your car does not render maximum value unless it is equipped with tires that give you the greatest service—Goodrich Tires.

The Goodrich principle of Unit Molding—which embodies forty-three years' knowledge of rubber and experience in rubber manufacturing—is one of the reasons why Goodrich Tires give you such long, uniform, satisfactory wear.

It is that principle which enables us to say of Goodrich Tires that they are "Best in the Long Run." Day in and day out, summer or winter, rain, snow or sun, Goodrich Tires are the economical tires for you.

In every Goodrich Tire the different layers of fine fabric, and pure rubber, from the sturdy backbone of the tire to the thick, tough, Goodrich tread, are literally molded into a single piece—a live, resilient, road-resisting unit, from which the tread does not strip, nor do the layers separate, because the whole tire is all one.

No matter what car you buy or own you can have it equipped with Goodrich Tires if you simply specify them.

Your dealer is ready to supply you with whatever style of Goodrich Tire is best for your car, whether it is gas or electric. We will send you free our set of folders giving valuable information as to how to get the most and best service from your tires.

THE AGE OF SPECIALISTS

The modern way has done away with "hit and miss" methods, and the demand of the times is for men, in every calling, whose training and experience have qualified them to do only a few things, but to do those few things better and quicker than any one else. This is especially true in the field of medicine. Treating only a few diseases over and over again, develops the "knack" of KNOWING HOW. This self-evident fact is amply demonstrated by the large number of patients who tried to cure themselves, or who took chances on a "Jack of all diseases," instead of coming to me for proper attention in the first place.

PILES, FISTULA AND VARICOSE VEINS CURED IN ONE TREATMENT

I have yet to see the case I cannot cure in one treatment. It may seem strange to you that I am able to cure these cases in one treatment. To the man who has been calling on his doctor for weeks and months and has not been cured I make a special appeal to lose no time in calling on me. I cheerfully explain my painless method of curing Piles, Fistula and Varicose Veins. It is so simple, so positive, so easily demonstrated, that you will be fully convinced that I will permanently cure you. Just think what it means to you. You save time and worry. Just one treatment and a permanent cure is effected. It is the greatest thing in the world.

Constipation

The clogging up of the bowels is the beginning; then comes depression, and indisposition to do anything; headache, backache and all other aches. Drug store remedies may give temporary relief; but why take medicine all your life just to get relief when my treatment cures constipation? Neglect gives birth to Piles, Fistula and many other diseases. My treatment is a blessing to suffering mankind.

Kidney and Bladder Diseases

The functions of these organs are most important, and their derangement is fraught with disastrous consequences. If you have reason to doubt or suspect that your kidneys or bladder are deranged, get the benefit of a searching examination at once. Too often these examinations are superficial, but when a patient comes to me I make a thorough chemical and microscopical test, to lay the basis for scientific treatment.

Hernia

Hernia or Rupture. This is a condition which does not permit neglect. You cannot afford to experiment, and yet you will unless you choose the right specialist. Neglect may cause strangulation (closing up of the opening.) If this occurs immediate surgical attention is absolutely necessary.

My treatment for hernia cures nine cases out of ten in comparatively short time. No fraud, no humbug, no pain. Investigate.

A Word of Advice

Before beginning treatment ask the doctor to show you the proofs of his ability.

Depend upon it, if my cures were not quick and lasting, if my methods were not open and above board, and if I did not make it easy for every deserving afflicted man to get the benefit of my services, I certainly could NOT practice, as I do, year in and year out. Remember I have practiced in Los Angeles for ten consecutive years. I am a TRUE SPECIALIST and treat only the diseases mentioned below.

ARMY AND NAVY SCHOOL.

In no sense a reform institution, the Army and Navy School at Pacific Beach, San Diego, is characterized quite as much by its able and conscientious work in character building as by the discipline and all-around development upon the physical side of life.

In a recent talk to scholarship contestants, at The Times building, Los Angeles, Capt. Thomas Davis, superintendent, late Sixth U.S.V. infantry, impressed his hearers with the high moral character of his institution, quite as much by his own bearing and evident characteristics as by any words. Referring to the fact that boys, to enter this institution, must pass a rigid physical examination, Capt. Davis said that he felt it an absolute necessity that all instructors be of the highest possible character in order to exemplify in themselves what the boys should become. He spoke feelingly of the necessity for cleanliness of mind and morals as well as of body, and incidentally referred to the fact that he did not wish to have in his school anyone, either as student or instructor, with whom he would not be willing to have his own little girl associate. With such a standard as the guidance of the institution and with Capt. Davis's experience as a regular army man, in command of the school, it is small wonder that the Army and Navy School has made such great progress, having grown in less than three years to an enrollment of 142.

The literature of this school, the catalogues and pictures reflect the spirit of refinement and inspiring good-will which permeates the institution.

Although not a denominational school, the academy is pervaded throughout by a positive Christian influence and teachers are chosen who are Christian in character in the broadest sense of that term.

The location of the school at Pacific Beach is healthful and pleasant, and while away from the business center of San Diego, is well within the city limits.

A thorough training in the usual and necessary branches of both lower and higher school curriculum forms a part of the school life and this is supplemented with such military training as makes for the best possible physique in growing boys. Clean and wholesome sports are encouraged and the home influence, under the guidance of Mrs. Davis, wife of Capt. Davis, is of the very highest order.

The students enrolled in the Army and Navy School come from nearly every State in the Union and from several foreign countries, which attests more than any other single fact the wide recognition given to the institution. A number of eastern boys come to this school for post-graduate courses.

"The Cadet," as the year book of the Army and Navy School is called, is a real work of educational art, a worthy souvenir of the school which it represents and of the beautiful city in which this school is located. This book is filled with interesting information as to the life of the school and its special educational features.

Coming.

PIERCE-ARROWS ARE NOW ON REAL DRESS PARADE.

THOSE new Pierce-Arrow cars, which have been anxiously awaited by W. E. Bush are here, and are all that the agent said they would be. Three six-cylinder, thirty-eight horse-power models have arrived. Two were finished in maroon and one in blue. The noticeable features show the headlights as part of the fenders and the compressed air starter has been replaced by an electric starter.

"The success of the Pierce-Arrow compressed air motor starter has been so pronounced that the question is bound to be raised as to why we have made any change from a demonstratedly efficient apparatus," said W. E. Bush.

"There are two reasons for the change. The first is that in replacing the compressed air system with an electric system we are able to utilize apparatus already installed and essential to the operation of the car, i. e., the generator and storage battery, and by so doing, arrive at a greater uniformity and simplicity of design. The second reason is that the American public is, from force of long habit, familiar with and favorably disposed toward applied electricity in all its branches.

"This is the age of electricity and the United States has been, for years, the scene of greatest development and invention in the field. For this reason, as manufacturers of the foremost American car, we believe that our owners will appreciate the splendid efficiency of our electric starting and lighting systems, which are, up to the present, greatly superior to all others in performance, economy and lightness."

The New Face Powder.

[London Daily Mail:] Ladies will learn with interest that according to the investigations of Messrs. Pritchard and Constance, mauve is to be the correct shade for the face powder of the future. It represents the nearest approach to the color of the blood, as it appears through the skin, and has the advantage of not obscuring blushes.

TEN DAYS TOUR FOR OUR VISITORS FROM THE EAST.

Even if You Are a Native This Drive Will Be of Interest as It Shows All the Beauty Spots and Takes You to Our Best Hostleries—Try This Trip for Your Outing This Summer.

NOW that we are in the heart of the touring season when all motorists turn to the hills and valleys of the Southland for their recreation, a tour of Southern California has been arranged especially for The Times automobile section. Through the information gathered at the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California complete data for a ten days' trip to San Diego and return has been secured.

The touring information and map service department of the club has agreed to arrange for a series of these tours which will be published each week in the automobile section. The second tour will be to Lake Tahoe and the surrounding country. In this tour to San Diego the route has been carefully chosen and you will find it possible to make each of your night stops at a hotel where excellent accommodations can be secured.

Here is the route, the noon and night stops and the down and back trip of this ten days' outing. You will enjoy it if you determine to make the journey.

FIRST DAY.

Follow the Foothill boulevard to Uplands and thence up the San Antonio Cañyon to Camp Baldy. You can easily make the run in time for luncheon. There need be no rush in leaving Baldy as the drive to Lytle Creek will be enjoyable if made after the noon day heat has passed. On returning to the Foothill boulevard from Baldy turn left and follow the road to Etiwanda, turn left again and drive until a right angle turn is made, bordered on the right by a line of tall trees. From this point the road is well defined and may be followed without trouble. The accommodations for the night at Glen Ranch, head of Lytle Creek are good.

SECOND DAY.

This day's run is short and will allow you, if desired, to remain in Lytle Creek until after luncheon. Return on the same road as you entered the canyon as far as the forks where signs will be found reading to Cajon Pass. Take the left hand fork leading down toward the valley, follow on to the Foothill boulevard, turn right and continue until C street is reached in San Bernardino, and then follow automobile club signs to Arrowhead Hot Springs. You should arrive in plenty of time for supper and should remain until morning.

THIRD DAY.

An early morning start should be made as this day's run is longer than the two preceeding days. Drop back down to San Bernardino as far as the Base Line road making a left turn here and continue into East Highlands. From East Highlands Map 41 in your packet will give you all necessary directions for reaching Bear Lake and Baldwin Lake. On possibly four of the turns after leaving Clark's ranch it will be necessary to back out after turning half way in order to get a straight shoot through the heavy dirt. The road, however, is in first class condition. At the Pine Knot Lodge, Bear Lake, accommodations are excellent. The surroundings of the lodge are beautiful.

FOURTH DAY.

A noon time start will allow you plenty of time to make the run back to East Highlands, to Redlands and to Forest Home, arriving in good time for supper. You will enjoy your stay here greatly, the scenery is as beautiful as that of Bear Valley. On leaving Redlands for Forest Home the start should be from the corner of Orange street and Colton avenue. After setting your speedometer at zero, go east until the 2.6 mile mark is reached, turn left to 3.1 miles, turn right to 4.9 miles, turn left to 5.1 miles, here take branch to the right, from this point keep the main traveled road and at 15.8 miles Forest Home will be reached. Good accommodations are at hand here and surrounding country is charming. There are no particularly heavy grades encountered on this run, it being a steady pull most of the way.

FIFTH DAY.

Leave early and return to Redlands. Leave Redlands, going east from the corner of Orange street and Citrus avenue and starting with speedometer set at zero. At 1.4 miles, take right fork, at 2.1 miles, keep to the left, at 6.8 miles, keep to your left, from this point on it would be hard to get off the road. Oak Glen is reached at 14.4 miles. The road can be easily followed from here down off the mountains to Beaumont. Take directions from Automobile Club signs in Beaumont for road to Banning. On this run, the conditions are exceptionally good. The grades to Oak Glen and Idyllwild are easy. The club signs will take you through Banning and pilot you safely up to Idyllwild. Here once more you find yourself in surroundings with excellent equipment to make you comfortable.

SIXTH DAY.

Dropping down from Idyllwild toward Hemet the grade will be found rather steep but with a little caution it will be traversed without difficulty. The auto club signs will lead you through Hemet, Aguanga, Oak Grove to Warner Hot Springs, where luncheon can be had if desired. On leaving Warner you will travel south and west over a well marked road stretching out through rolling and then mountainous country. Santa Ysable, Wynola and finally the Pine Hill hotel near Julian will complete this day's run. A distance of about a mile and a half south of Wynola there is a sign on the left side of the road pointing to the right and reading "To Eagle Peak." By following directions of this sign you will arrive without difficulty at Pine Hill.

SEVENTH DAY.

You are now in the Cuyamaca Mountains. Though a mountain grade, the road will be found in fair condition all the way to Descanso where open country is reached. Follow through Bukman Springs and almost into Campo where an Imperial route sign should be followed to your left until Warren's hotel is reached. Here accommodations can be found.

EIGHTH DAY.

Returning to the Campo road follow through Campo, Potrero, Dulzura, Jamul, Lemon Grove, Encanto, and thence into San Diego. This portion of your tour presents an entirely different aspect, a complete contrast to the green and wooded country so far traveled. The country along this portion of your trip is interesting in its vastness.

NINTH DAY.

The road up the coast to Del Mar, while practically under construction, will give no trouble. A short stop at La Jolla will be found enjoyable. A leisurely departure may be made from San Diego because of the short drive of twenty-five miles to Del Mar. The Stratford Inn is your goal at Del Mar.

TENTH DAY.

Return trip to Los Angeles is but 103 miles over the remainder of the coast route and can be easily made before sun-down. The road via Encinitas, Sairsbad, Oceanside, San Juan Capistrano, stop for lunch at Casa de la Rosa, Irvin, Tustin, Santa Ana and Anaheim. A detour is necessary to avoid bad road conditions. Turn west in Anaheim to Center street and continue to the Downey-Norwalk boulevard. Follow this paving through Artesia, Norwalk, Downey and Rivera to Whittier boulevard, making left turn and continue into Los Angeles.

THE AVERAGE IRISH HOME.

The Houses are Generally Small and Poorly Furnished, But are Comfortable and Very Cheerful.

[Detroit News:] To an American boy or girl accustomed to his own warm, comfortable home, those of Irish children would seem strange indeed. It is a mistake, however, to picture all Ireland as a land of poverty-stricken homes and houses that would not be as good as stables in this country. Many of the farmhouses on the Emerald Isle are most imposing ones of stone and are furnished with pianos and nearly every luxury to be found in the home of a wealthy American.

But by far the majority of them are little ones and two-room cottages, says the Brooklyn Citizen. They are whitewashed and have thatched roofs that are held in place by stones suspended over the eaves. A fire of tuff burns on the floor against the side of the wall furtherest removed from the entrance. And over it hangs the proverbial large, squatty-looking black kettle or pot.

Fastened to the wall and high enough to be out of reach of the children, is a series of shelves on which is displayed the housewife's delft china ware. Not infrequently there is a large wooden bed instead of a pallet on the floor and a wooden chair or two and a long wooden bench placed close against the wall.

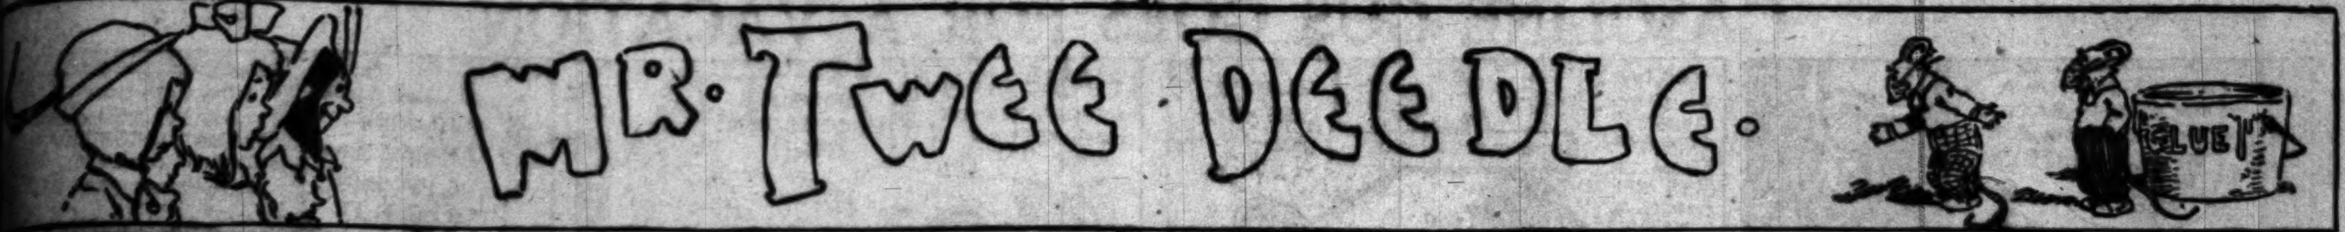
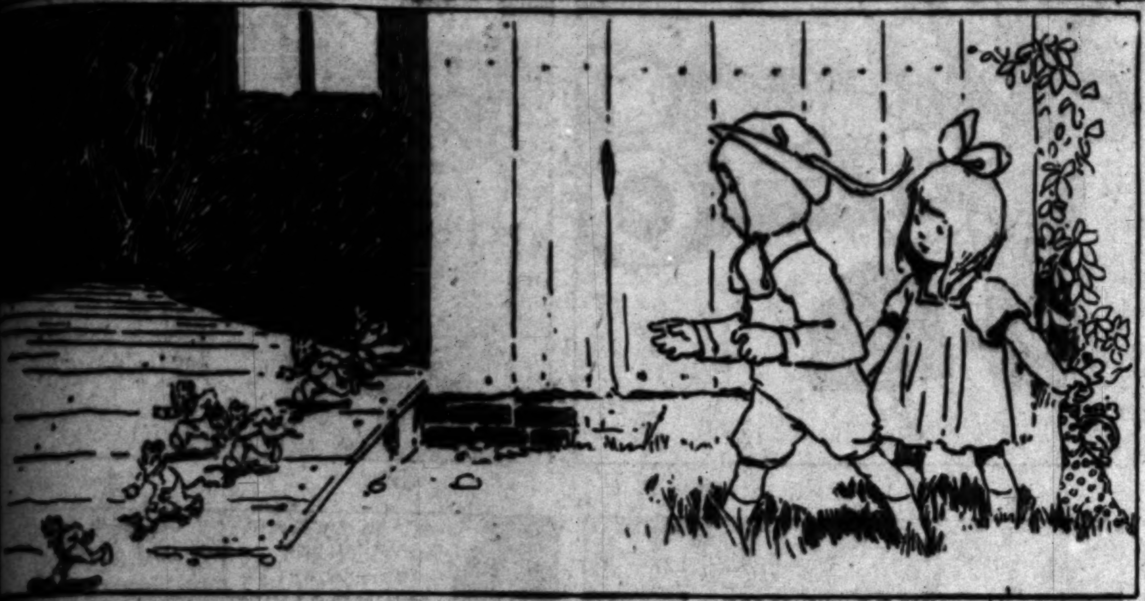
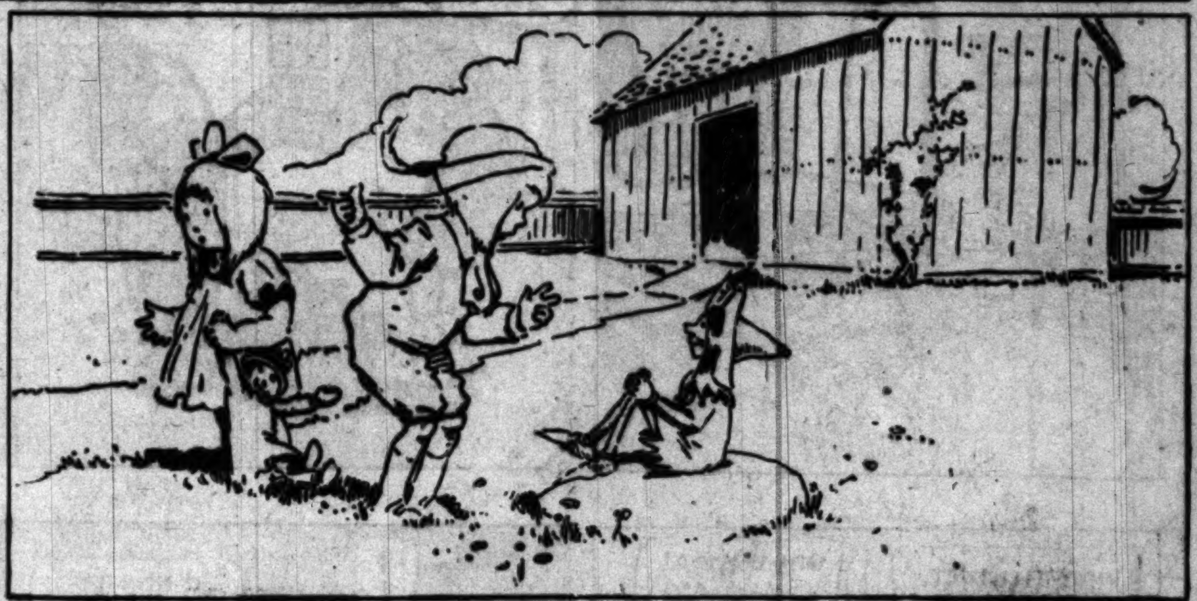
MR. TWEE DEEDLE.

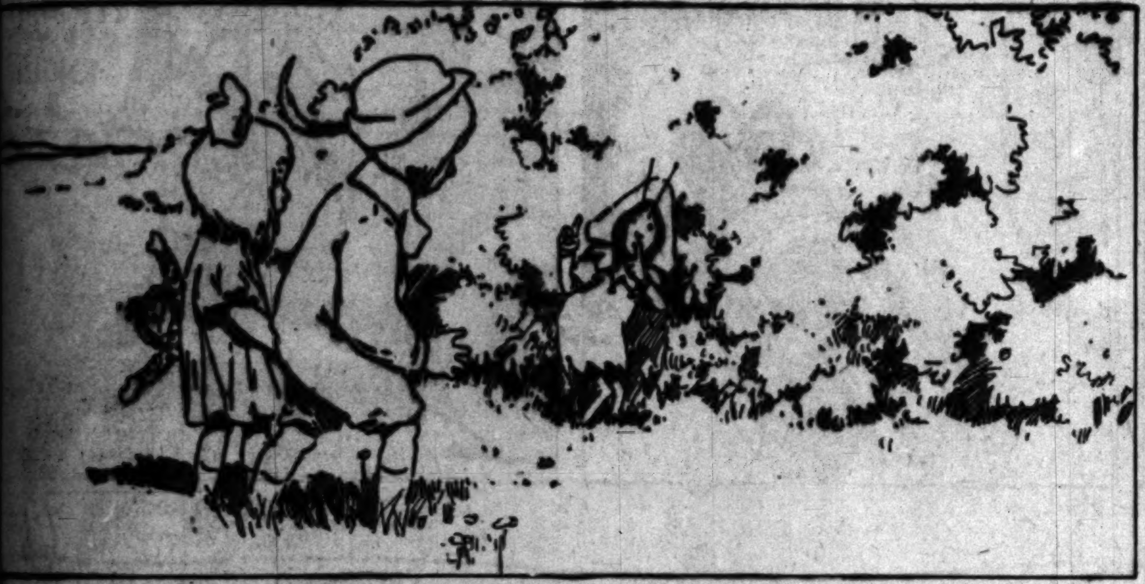




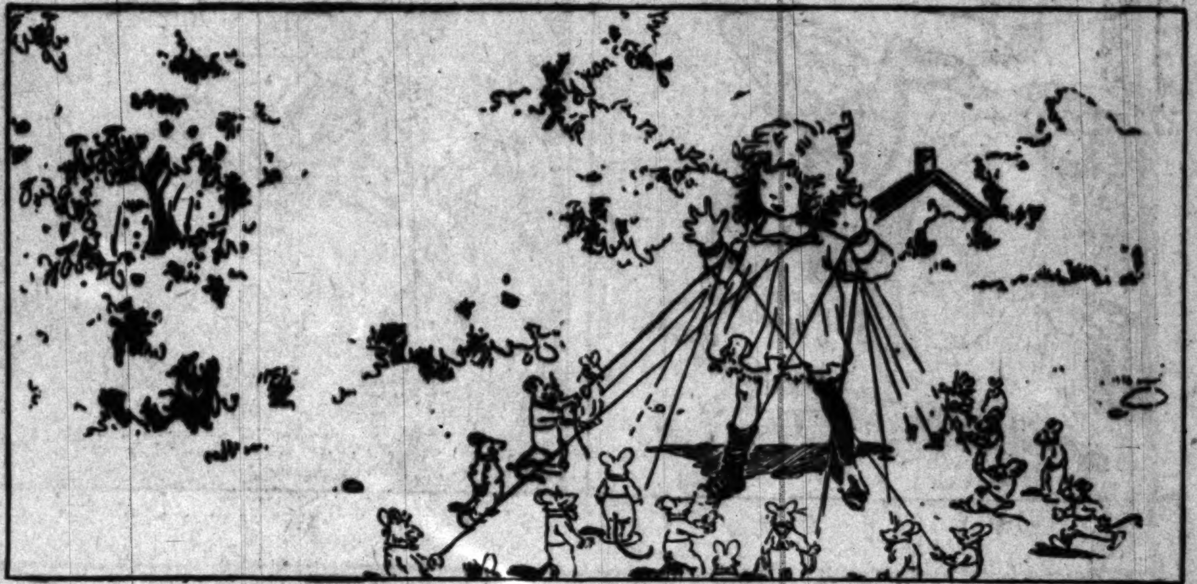
1—One day, as Dickie and Dolly were passing the barn door, they were surprised to see lots of rats come running out. "Wonder what can be the matter!" Dolly exclaimed.



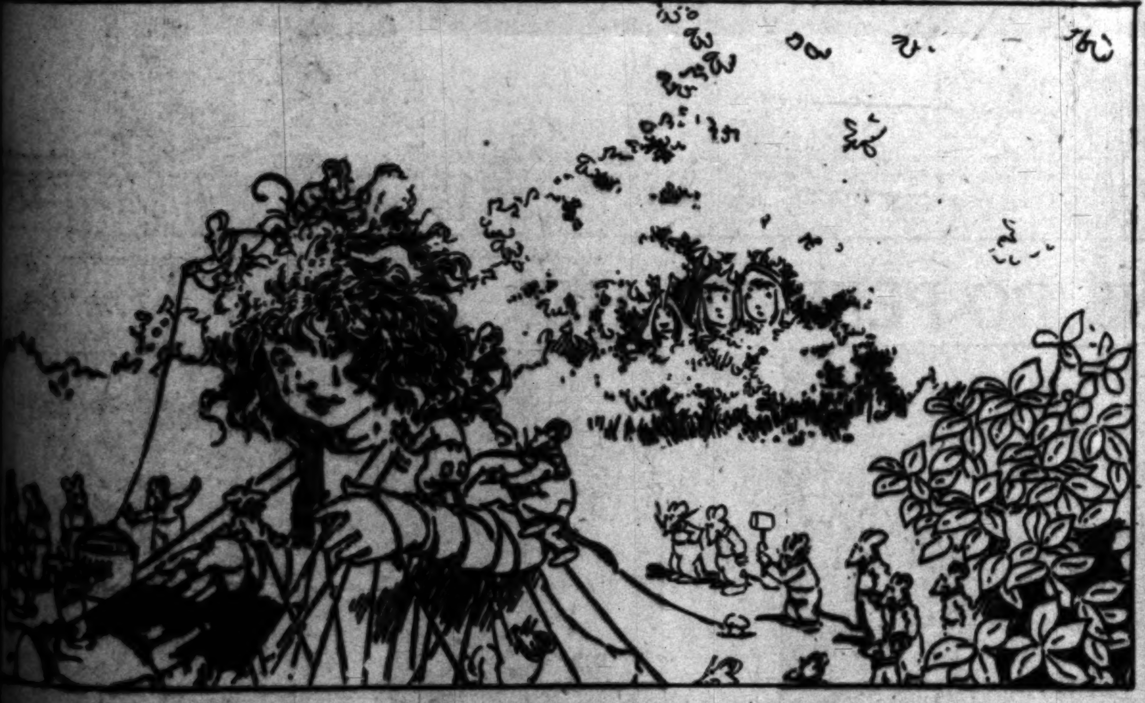
2—The children came across Mr. Twee Deedle near by and and asked if he had seen the rats. "Yes," he told them; "I saw them, and if you care to go we will find out just what they are up to."



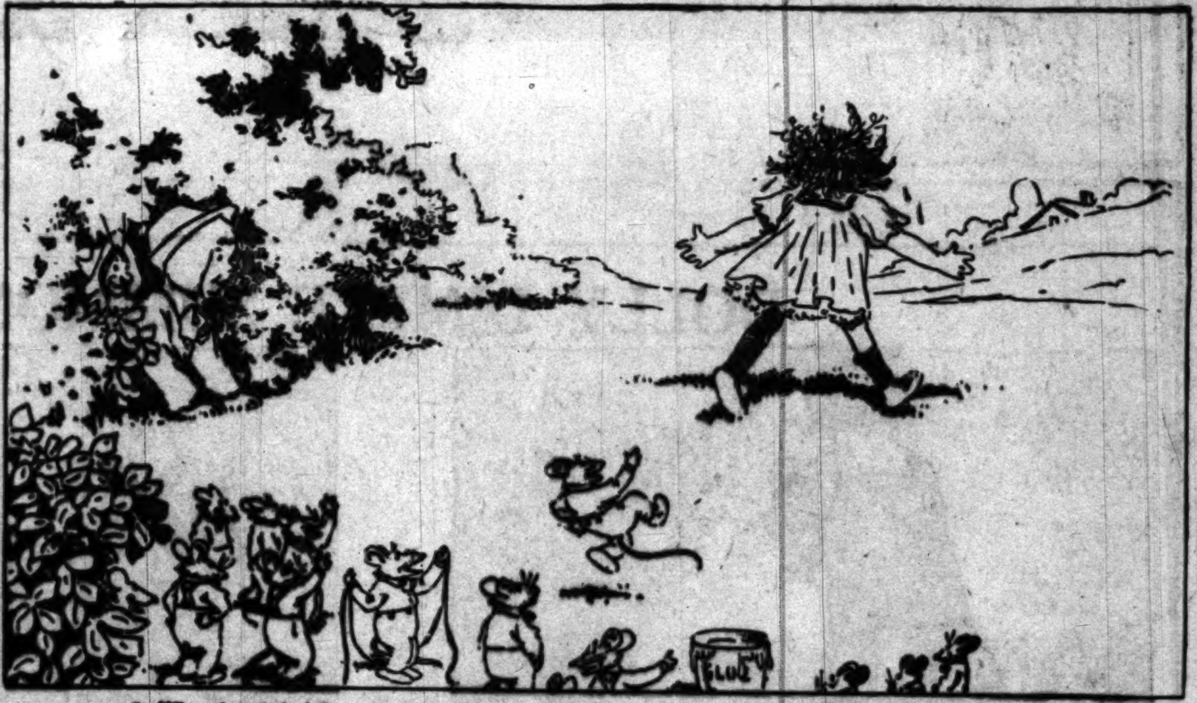
3—So the children followed Mr. Twee Deedle until they came to some thick bushes. "We must be real quiet!" cautioned Mr Twee Deedle, "for the rats may hear us and run away!"



4—There was an opening in the bushes through which the children could see. There were the rats and they had tied strings to a little girl and were dancing all around her.



5—The rats finally pulled upon the strings until the little girl sat upon the ground. Then some of them clambered up her arms and on her head. They pulled a can of glue up and mixed it with her hair, so that it was all tangles.



6—When the rats had finished tangling the little girl's hair they cut the strings and let her run away. "After this you had better let your Mamma comb your hair if you do not wish us to make nests in it!" they shouted after her.

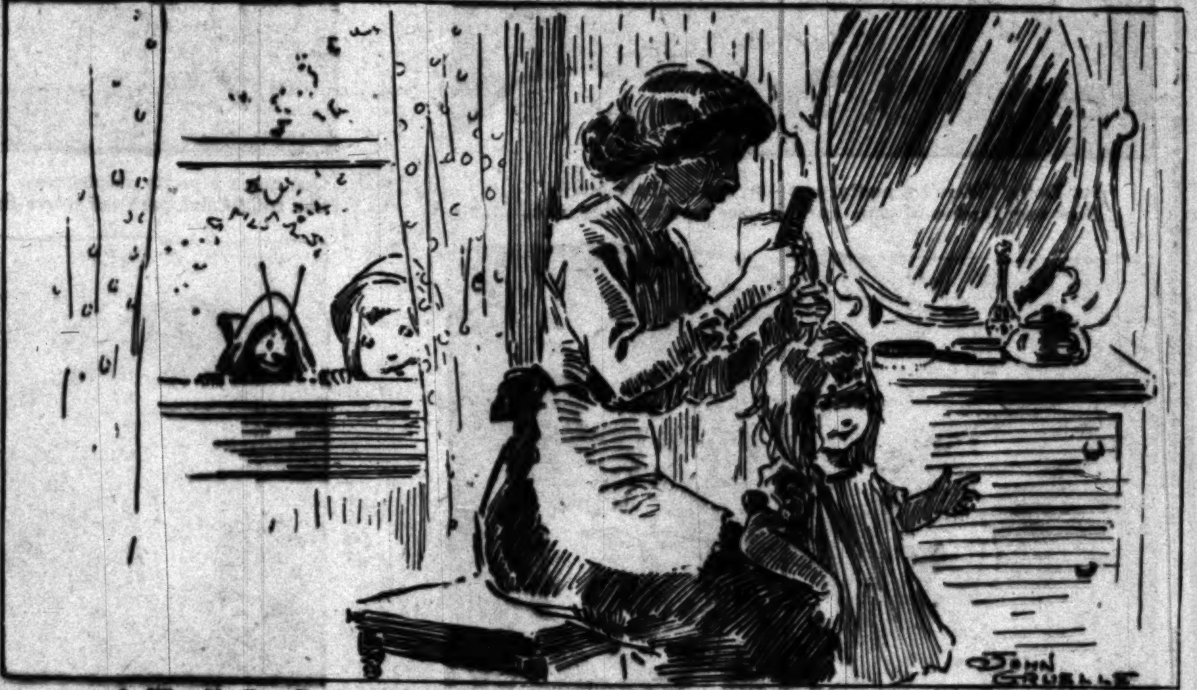
7—When Mr Twee Deedle and Dickie left the bushes Dolly was nowhere in sight. So they walked to Dickie's home to see if she had gone there.



8—When Mr. Twee Deedle and Dickie peeped through the window they saw Dolly getting her hair combed. "After this," they heard her say, "I want you to comb my hair every morning before I go out to play, because I do not wish the rats to make their nests in my hair."

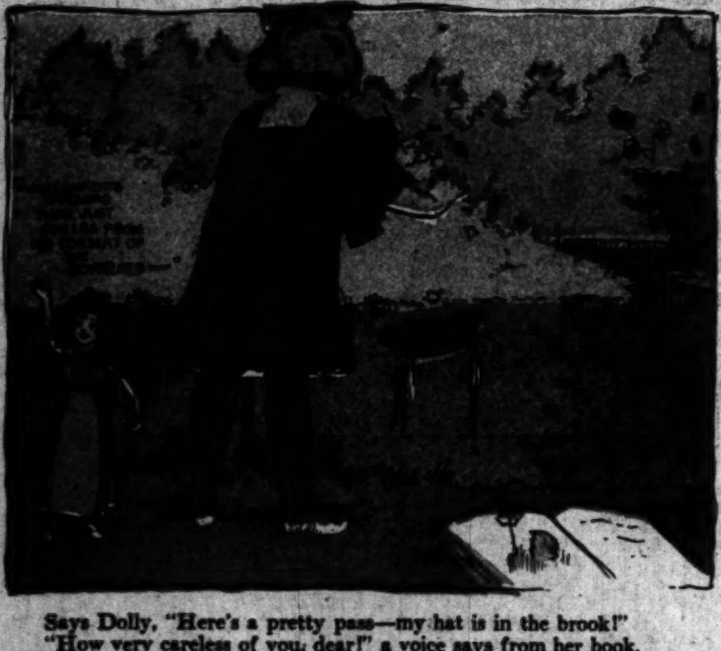
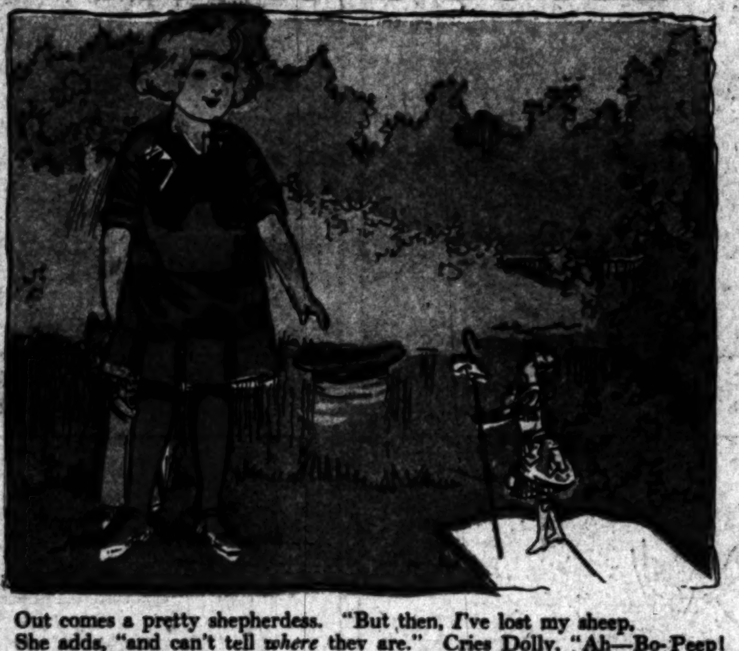
DOLLY DIMPLE SUMMONS BO-PEEP TO HER AID



Says Dolly, "Here's a pretty pass—my hat is in the brook!"
"How very careless of you, dear!" a voice says from her book.



Out comes a pretty shepherdess. "But then, I've lost my sheep,
She adds, "and can't tell where they are." Cries Dolly, "Ah—Bo-Peep!

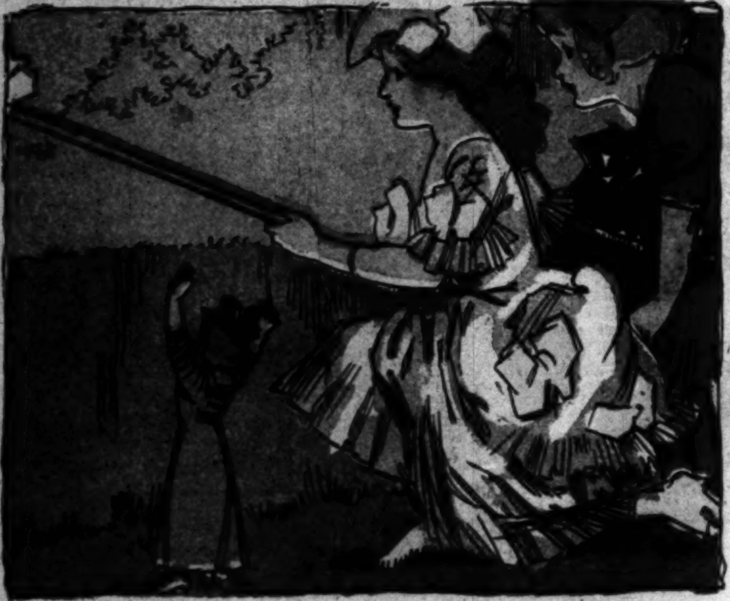
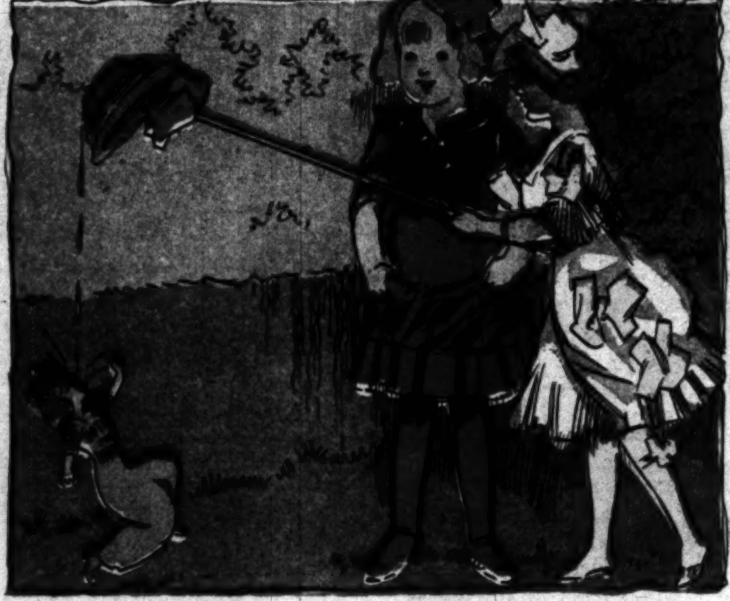
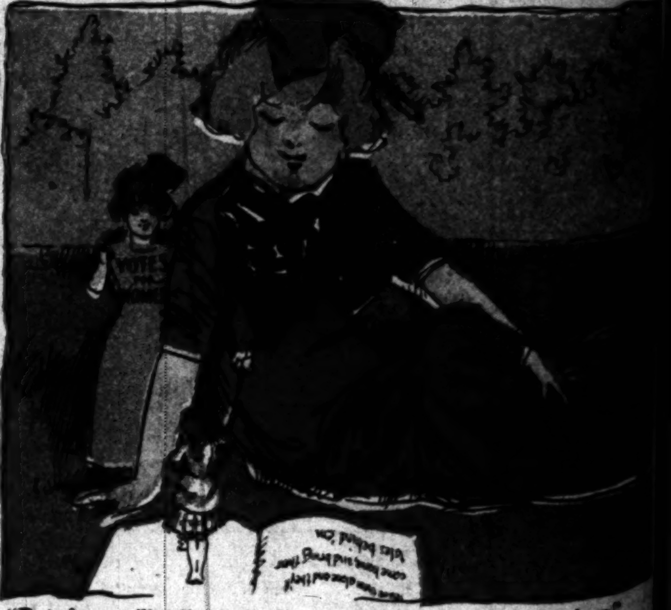
"Leave them alone, and they'll come home and bring their tails
"Perhaps they will," Bo-Peep replies. "At present, never mind.



"I'll get your hat quite easily. You see, I have a hook.
We'll make believe the hat's a fish. I'll catch it for you—look!



"Not much the worse; the sun will dry it perfectly, beside.
Well, hats are dull and senseless things and follow wind and tide



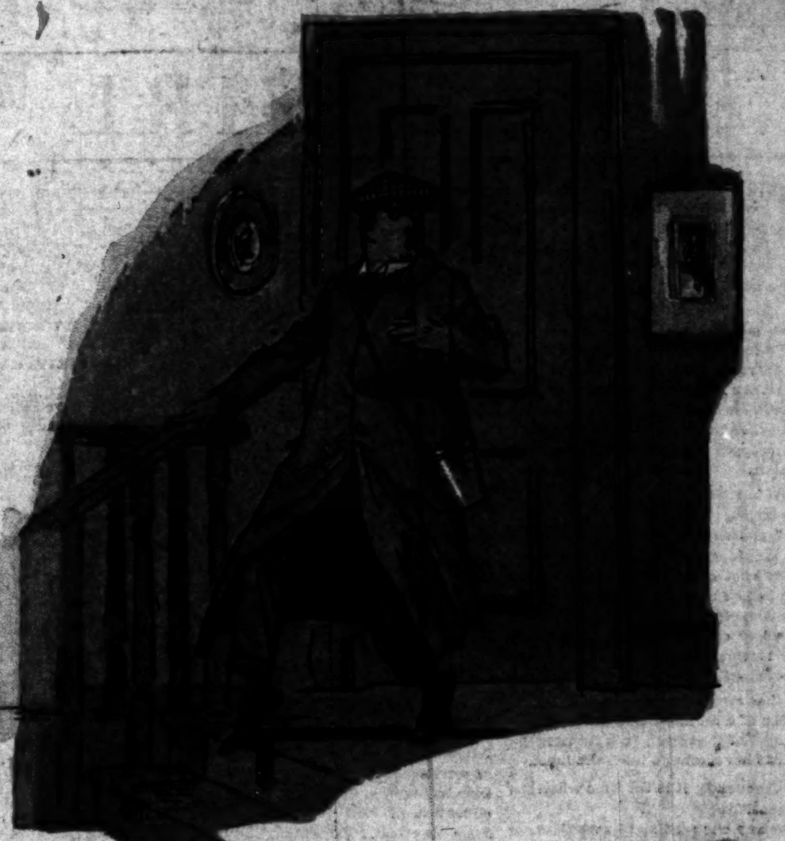
"But sheep will follow other sheep; and men are much like sheep."
"Oh, no, they aren't," says Dolly's doll: "they'd follow you,

MAZIE THE MOTOR MAID

Verses by Paul West ⊠ Illustrations by J. Norman Lynd

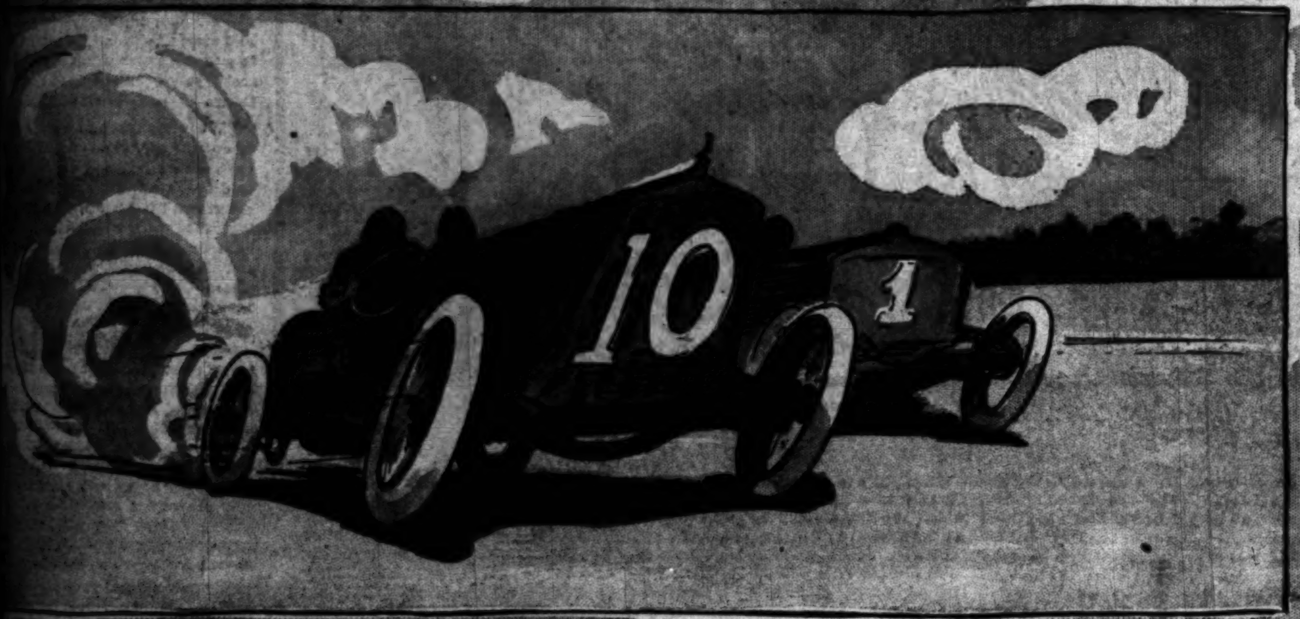
1—One morning Mazie's Pa received a letter in the mail,
Which said, "DEAR SIR: We count on you and trust you will not fail
To judge the National Motor Race." And Pa replied, "I'll go!"
But thought, "Great Scott! I mustn't let my speed-mad daughter know!

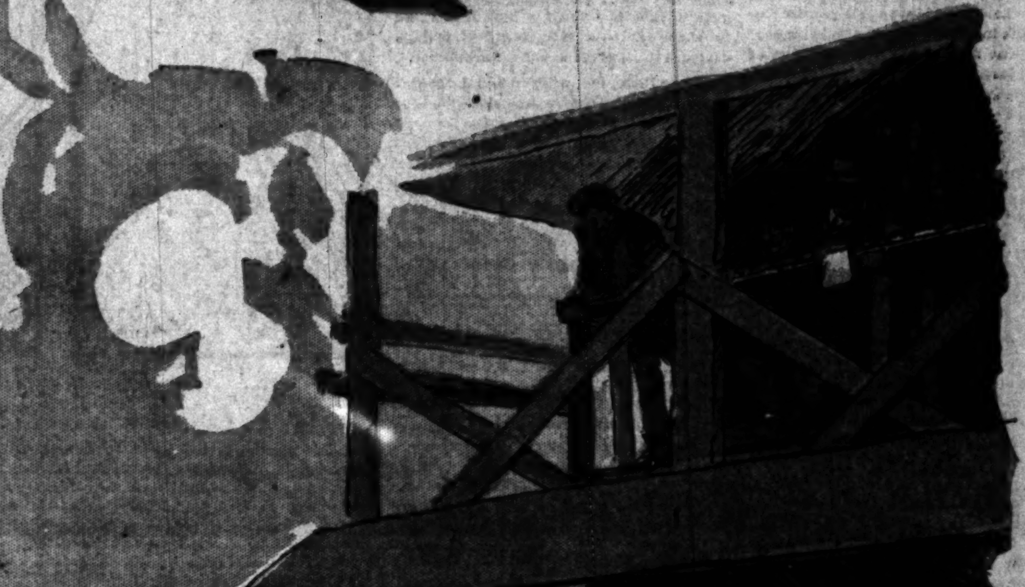
2—"If she should hear of this she'd want to share my invitation!
The thrilling sight would set her mind on reckless emulation.
Of late she hasn't speeded much, but this would get her started,
And then who knows? she'd break her neck, and I'd be broken-hearted!"

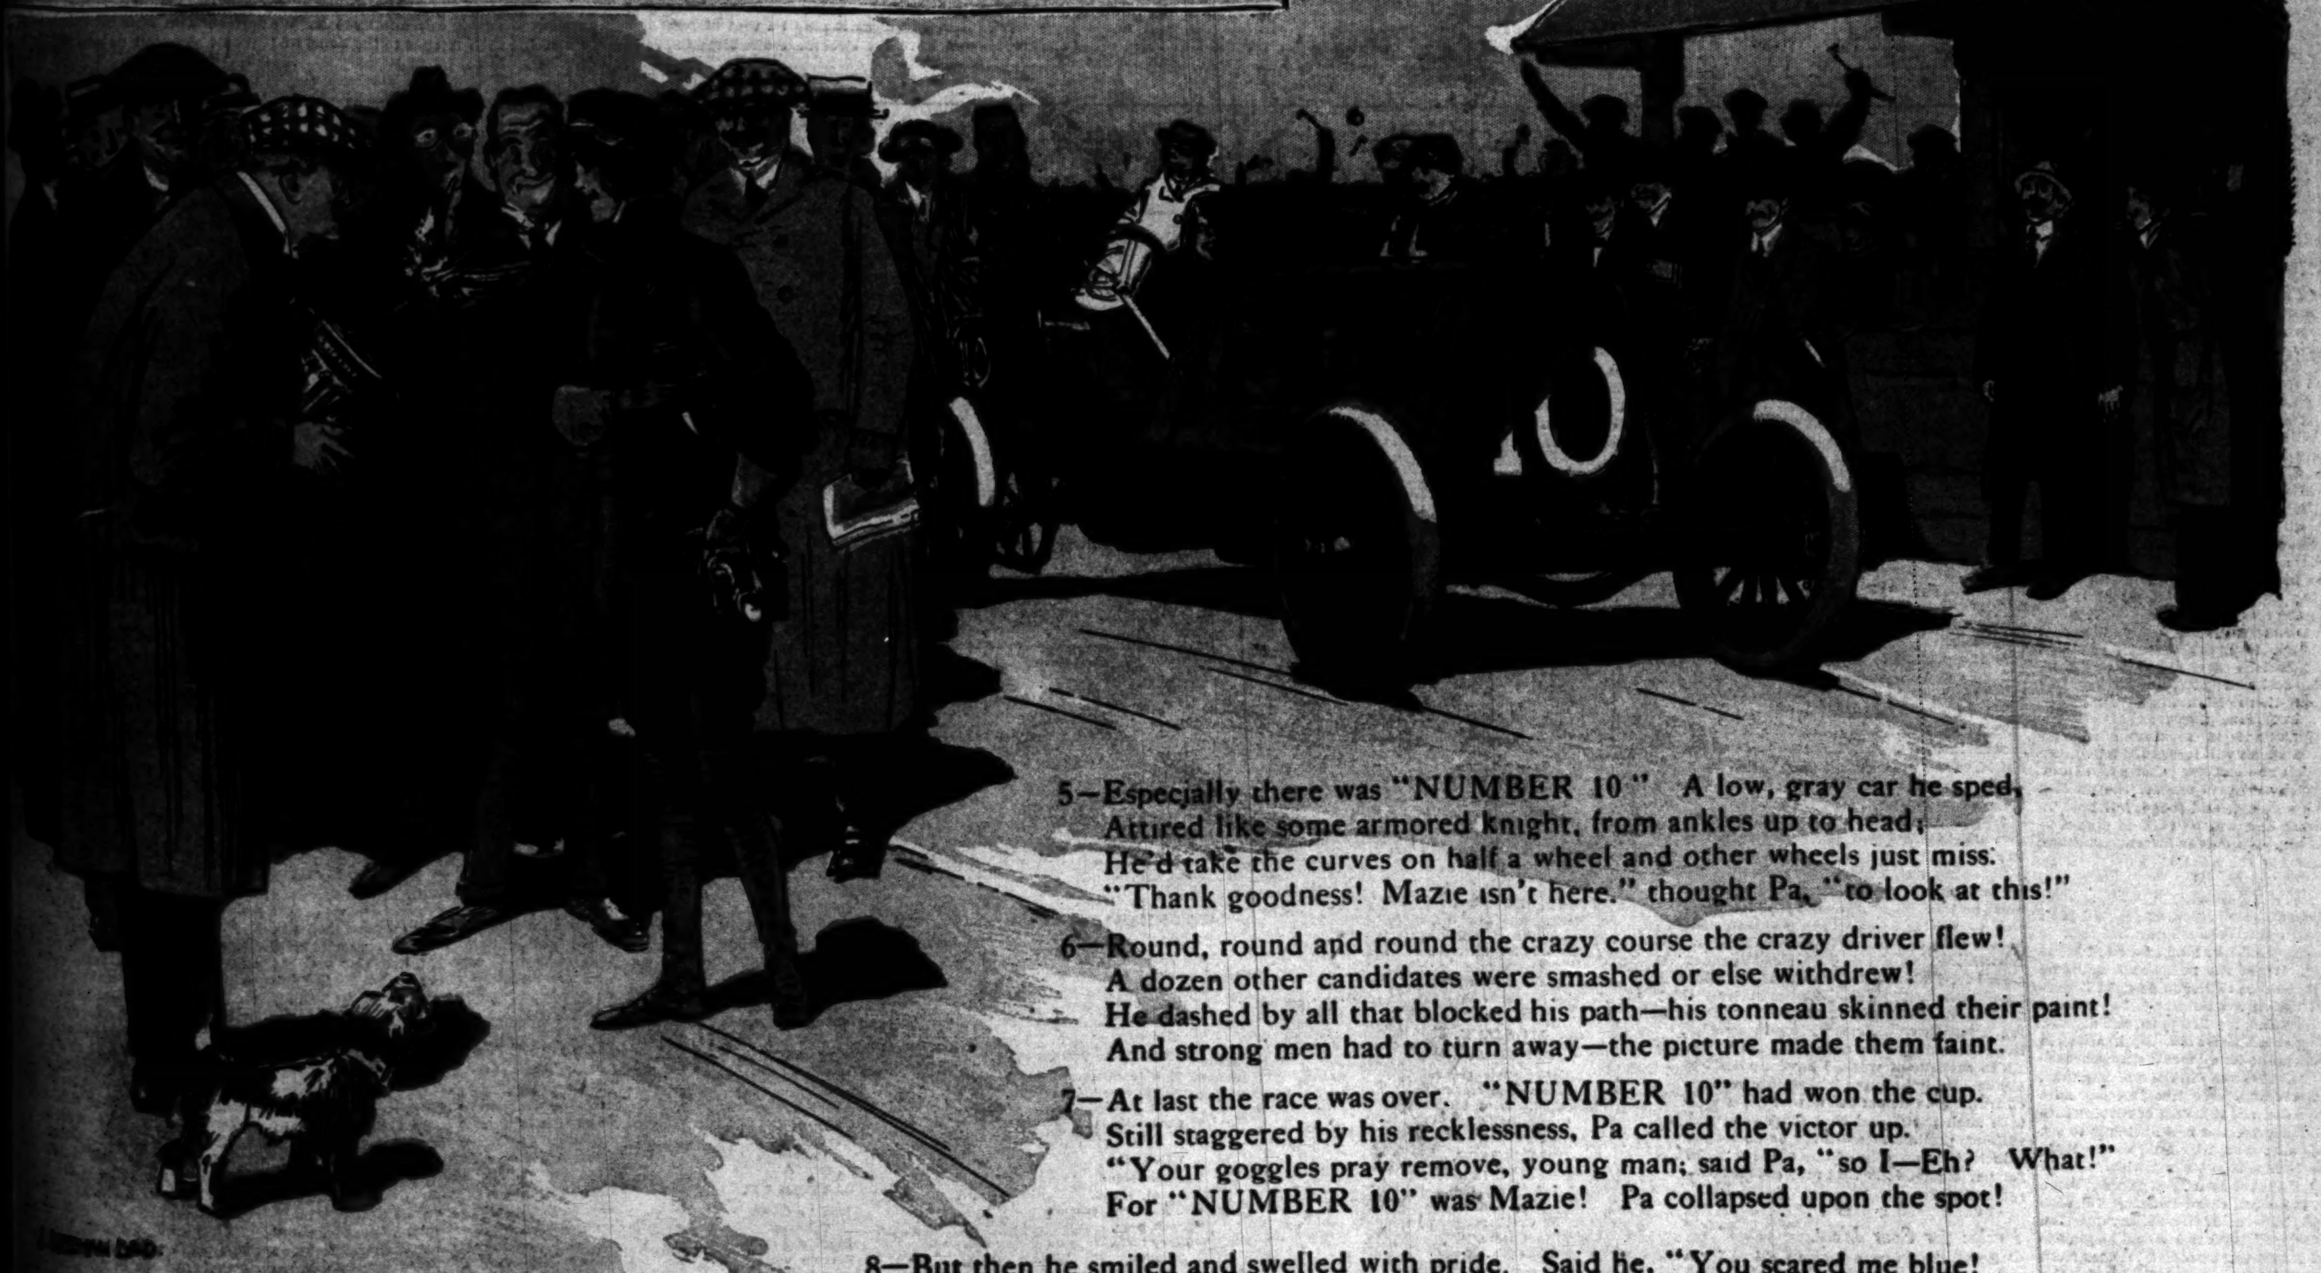


3—So on the morning of the race Pa stole away at dawn.
He tiptoed past his daughter's room, and smiled, "She isn't on!"
He reached the course and took his place to judge with careful eye
The racers of the various cars as they came whizzing by.

4—Now, watching Mazie's mad career had given Pa a taste
Of what a crazy motor car resembled when it raced;
But as these wild chauffeurs flashed by at risk of life and limb,
Pa gasped and clutched the railing, for they even staggered him







5—Especially there was "NUMBER 10" A low, gray car he sped,
Attired like some armored knight, from ankles up to head;
He'd take the curves on half a wheel and other wheels just miss:
"Thank goodness! Mazie isn't here," thought Pa, "to look at this!"

6—Round, round and round the crazy course the crazy driver flew!
A dozen other candidates were smashed or else withdrew!
He dashed by all that blocked his path—his tonneau skinned their paint!
And strong men had to turn away—the picture made them faint.

7—At last the race was over. "NUMBER 10" had won the cup.
Still staggered by his recklessness, Pa called the victor up.
"Your goggles pray remove, young man; said Pa, "so I—Eh? What!"
For "NUMBER 10" was Mazie! Pa collapsed upon the spot!

8—But then he smiled and swelled with pride. Said he, "You scared me blue!
But you're a wonder, just the same! I'm proud, my dear, of you!"
Then out she took her little book and carefully wrote in:—
"RULE VII.: YOU'RE RECKLESS IF YOU LOSE; GOOD DRIVER IF YOU WIN!"

COMMON SENSE in the HOME
EDITED by MARION HARLAND

THE GIRL AND MOTHER PROBLEM.

"HER mother has no influence over her at all! She tries to keep her at home, but she will run the streets with the other girls, and there seems to be no way of restraining her."

The friend who made this remark was sitting with me on the veranda of her home in a little town. Pretty houses and pleasant verandas stretched about us, before us was an attractive park or common, and off to one side hung a low line of smoke which marked the location of the "plant" which employed most of the wage earners of the town.

The girl to whom we referred was an attractive young thing of perhaps 19 or 20 who had passed the house while we were talking, laughing and chatting rather loudly with a knot of her companions. I had met her before and the recollection of the pleasing impression she had then made upon me had called to my lips the wonder that her mother did not keep her at home in the evenings.

"But that seems dreadful to me," I said. "The idea of a mother being unable to restrain a girl of that age! It is the time the child needs her mother's influence most."

"And frequently it is the time when she has it least!"

Is there any one reading this who has not had the chance to observe this painful feature of life in our small towns and villages? I know one may notice the same sort of thing in large cities as well, but the little country town is supposed to be preeminently a place of homes. There are not the allurements and temptations there which are supposed to attract the girl from her small, close room in the great city.

If there is one locality where family life at its best is needed it is in the little town. Yet it is there that the lowest order of morality is often found among the young people; it is there that least restraint is exercised by the parents over their sons and daughters.

"You mustn't think there is anything really wrong about Janet!" my friend broke in upon my musings. "She is a perfectly good, straight girl, but she is desperately headstrong and does as she pleases without listening to any one."

Common Sight on Nice Evenings.

During the fortnight I spent with my friend I had the same sight brought to my eyes every pleasant evening. Clusters and couples of girls roamed the streets until all hours of the night, apparently unafraid of late hours, despite the fact they must rise at 6 the next morning at the call of the factory whistle.

The small "ice cream parlors" were filled, the park benches were crowded, and men and women sprawled on the grass in pairs and in groups. Never a vestige of a chaperon, never a recognition of the necessity or desirability of one. The alleged freedom of the young girl was raised to its highest dimensions and did more to reconcile me to the tutelage and espionage of old world methods than anything else I had ever seen.

"Isn't it rather late for you girls to be out alone?" I ventured one evening when a trio had stopped at our gate with a message. A late moon was just rising over the hilltops and the town clock was striking 10.

"Not on such a night as this," said one of them, and they strolled off down the shaded road, to be joined a few steps further on by a lanky youth whose appearance was the signal for an outburst of giggling from the whole party. And again my thought was, "What can their mothers be thinking about?"

I have related these incidents as they befell in a factory town among the children of working people. The same sort of thing is to be found in farming communities, and education or lack of education does not seem to affect conditions. The boys and girls in their last years at high school and in their early—or late—years of college comport themselves in the same manner.

Among them, too, will you find the coarser methods of flirtation—the side glance in passing, the loud giggle or the remark made to attract attention, the dropped handkerchief, the wave of the hand—all the banalities by which the untrained young of the human species have from time immemorial tried to draw to themselves the notice of the members of the opposite sex. Alike in country and city do such abuses flourish.

What Are Their Mothers About?

I have been told that this sort of thing is as natural among youths and maidens as is the preening of the male or female bird.

Some of the mothers do not see the harm of allowing their children such freedom—possibly because of confidence in their young people, probably through sheer carelessness. All the other girls and boys do the same thing and the fact that there have been some terrible tragedies, some cruel shipwrecks of lives which might have become an honor and blessing to the community, does not seem to move the parents from their torpor.

Then there are some mothers who appreciate the risks run by their daughters, but like the mother of the girl of whom I spoke at the beginning of this talk have no influence with their children.

"How do the mothers lose control of their girls?" I asked my friend one day.

"By overworking their influence on unimportant matters" she said promptly. "From the time the children are old enough to know anything they are nagged and scolded and forbidden to do harmless things until at last when the time comes for the parent to forbid something actually wrong the children have lost all confidence in her judgment. If you fuss with a girl as to what shoes and stockings she shall wear and make a big fret over nonessentials you can't expect her to pay much attention to you when you try to check her in the way she behaves in public or the boys and girls she chooses for her companions and friends."

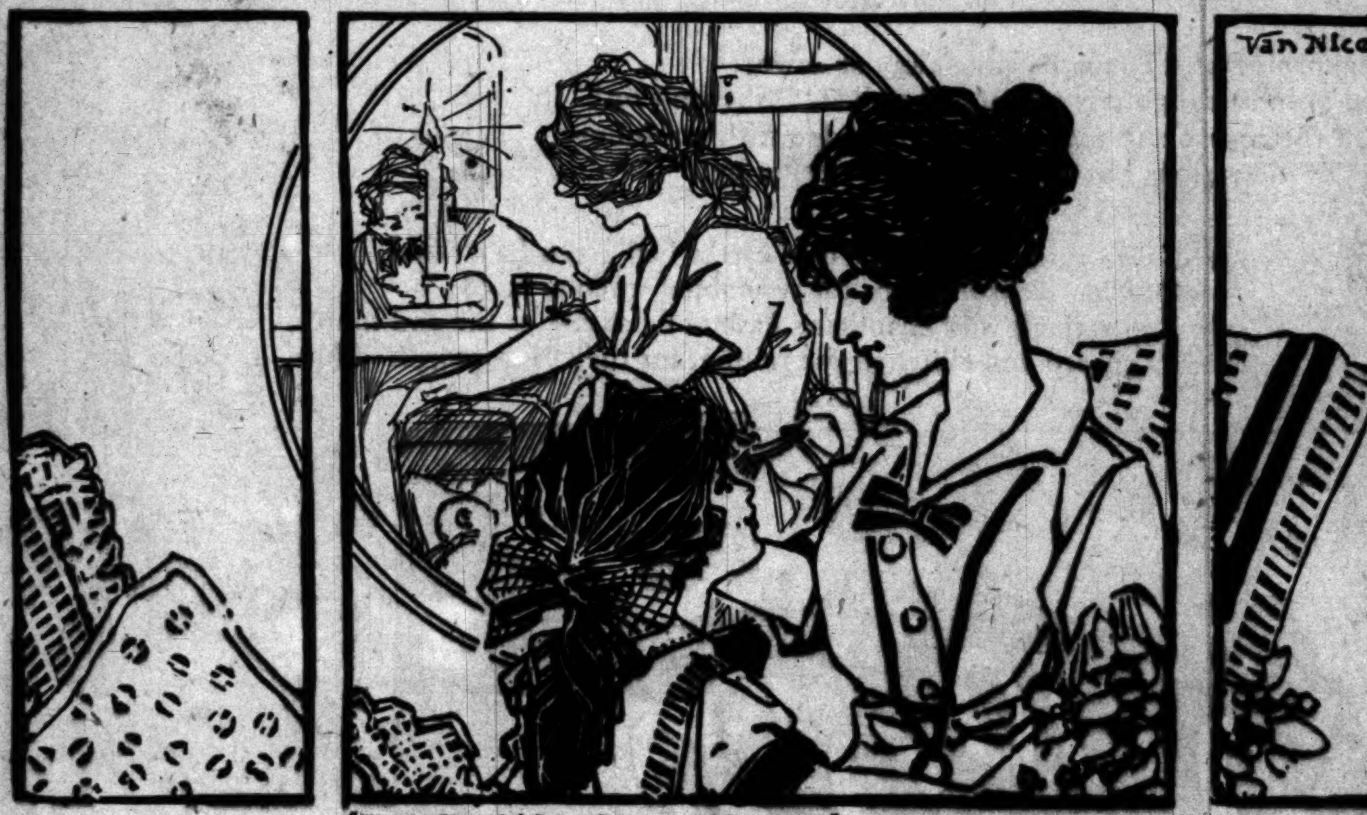
Had Confidence in Mother.

"It all seems so strange to me," I mused. "When a girl I often did things of which my mother would not have approved, I am afraid—small things, to be sure—and I frequently longed to go my own way and to choose intimates she would not have altogether liked. But if she had once come to me and said tenderly that she feared this or that friendship or habit was not for my best good and asked me to believe she knew what was wise for me and to have confidence in her—why, I cannot imagine my withstanding her for a moment!"

"Because she had never let you slip away from her and had taken the trouble to retain your love and trust. A great many mothers don't seem to recognise the necessity of this and when they have occasion to call on your belief in them it is not there to respond to the call. It's hard work being the right kind of a mother, you know!"

Perhaps it is, and yet doesn't the effort pay? What is there in the world that pays better, after all?



"There Should Be a Spirit of Comradery Between Mother and Daughter."

When we are young we naturally look forward to events affecting us personally which the future may have in store for us. As we grow older we appreciate the fact that our first hand sensations are things of the past. We have known the joys of youth, of love, of marriage, of motherhood. Life holds no great novelty for us, unless it may be that of pain, but we have the sweetness and blessedness of vicarious joys in the lives of our children. What a mistake we make if we fail to provide happiness for our old age by bringing up our children to be the men and women we wish them to be!

Youth Not Naturally Bad.

And when we look at the matter carefully, how much do we have to renounce of our own will and way in order to hold our daughters close to us? Why should we not keep young with them and share in their friendships and in their interests? We cannot take part in every pursuit, to be sure, but we can keep their confidence on all that concerns them and listen with unfeigned eagerness to their accounts of what they are doing or planning to do. We can welcome their friends to the home and make the children so much [illegible] that running the streets will [illegible] tractive.

I do not for a moment believe [illegible] sons and daughters are naturally [illegible] headstrong. They may want their own way, to be sure—I have known men and women much their seniors who had the same peculiarity—but if we can make the way pleasant as well as profitable and join in it with them ourselves, I have a strong persuasion that they will not care to wander into bypaths of their own [illegible]. Perhaps because the lure of the [illegible] air and the sweet sounds and [illegible] out of doors are powerful it seems [illegible] to induce our children to stay [illegible] home in summer than in winter. [illegible] weather it is a simpler thing to [illegible] about us in a snug room. In the summer we must seek other methods of retaining them near us when [illegible] suaded that they get no good by [illegible] ing off by themselves or with [illegible] of their own age.

We must plan for things [illegible] to do if we want to hold them [illegible]. Young people have upon them [illegible] sire for activities. Watch a [illegible] or a baseball game in the broiling [illegible] tice the boating parties on days [illegible] would think any sane persons [illegible] for shade and idleness! We [illegible] and meet conditions if we don't [illegible] to get the better of us. [illegible] seeks youth, and it is natural [illegible] things to wish to play together.

"When my children were small [illegible] to do was to find a place where they [illegible] have a clean place to play," a [illegible] said to me not long ago. "Now that they are grown I must pick out a summer [illegible] ing place where the boys and girls [illegible] have fishing, and boating, and [illegible] and dancing, and other [illegible] pleasant young people [illegible] I have had to adapt myself to their point of view."

All of us cannot take our young people away to such spots as this [illegible] tion. Many of them have no [illegible] to speak of, but must keep [illegible] by which they earn their [illegible] and winter alike. The [illegible] we should provide diversion for [illegible] when they are weary after [illegible] and yearn for relaxation. If we [illegible] give it to them they will seek it for themselves and choose what they [illegible] we believe would be best for [illegible].

How do you meet your problem [illegible] mothers who keep your children [illegible] streets and who hold their [illegible] Won't you tell us about it?

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND.

THREE letters of the same type have reached me at approximately the same time:

"I turn to you for help and advice. I am in the beautiful city of Los Angeles, a recent widow, trying to forget my sorrow in this glorious country and to find new interests in life. I wish I could find some other woman, left alone like myself, to whom I could be a helpful companion. I am 50 years old, in fairly good health, of pleasing address, neat habits, and others have said I am of an amiable disposition and good company. It is the lonesomeness that eats the heart out of me. I walk the crowded streets of this beautiful city, all about me strangers, and go home without having spoken a word to a soul all day. Do you know of any societies or lodges in town which I could join without having to pay too high dues? I can furnish good references. T. B."

As I have often said before, it is impossible for me to make through this column applications for paying positions. If T. B. seeks a position as salaried companion there is nothing I can do for her, but from the tone of her letter I think she is seeking a friendly association which will lessen the loneliness from which she suffers. Can any of our Los Angeles members answer the queries about the societies and lodges? I hold T. B.'s address and will be glad to give it to any one who can supply information that may cheer her life a little.

Home for a Woman.

The second letter is from Eagleville, Mo.:

"Do you know of a woman between 25 and 55 who would be glad of a good home and what clothes she needs and would be willing to help or rather to do light housekeeping? There are but three of us in family—my husband, my little girl, and myself. My little girl is 6 years old. My husband is away from home for all meals except breakfast and I away from 8 in the morning until 5 in the evening. We live just one mile from town and are thinking of moving into town. Of course, the main thing is to get some one who would be kind to my little girl. She is nice to get along with. I could furnish references as to this. I want some one who is honest, clean and cheerful, also who likes children. If there is any question to be answered further I would be glad to write. I would want good references from any one who came and I would furnish the same. I am sure the right person would not be sorry for answering this. Mrs. W."

If the writer of the first letter and this applicant could only get together it might be possible for them to arrange a partnership. I print the letters of both close together, and if no partnership comes of it they may make other relations which would be satisfactory.

Wants a Place to Stay.

"I am an orphan and just convalescent from an operation for appendicitis. I would like some place to stay for company in exchange for my board, with some widow who lives alone or with some married woman whose husband is away a good deal and who does not like to stay by herself. I can do my own cooking and dishwashing and would be willing to do the woman's patching, etc. I can furnish the best of references and would like a place in Los Angeles or Pasadena. I prefer the latter. E."

Another chance for companionship for some lonely one, and this is perhaps an opportunity for the writer of the first of the three letters I have put here together. Please observe that all three writers request and offer references.

Inexperienced but Energetic.

"Will you kindly tell me how an inexperienced but energetic woman of 40 can find employment? Would there be any opening in the cities for such a woman in settlement work? If so, how could she procure the position? Until now I have been one of the homemakers, but am entirely alone, with only a small income. I can furnish the highest references as to my integrity, etc., but am not trained for any special line of work. I am well educated, but have no particular talent unless it is to fill a position of trust with good common sense, honesty, and determination to drown sorrow in hard work. If you will give me advice I will be greatly indebted to you. Jeanett Nameless."

No name and address accompany this communication, and all the help I can give must be through this printed page. My advice to you is to go to some bureau connected with the Young Women's Christian Association and see if they cannot suggest a field for your ability. You ought to have no trouble in filling the place of matron in a home or something of the sort, or in being a parish or district visitor in connection with church or charitable activities. As to settlement work, I have my doubts. My decided impression is a certain amount of training is demanded now of those who take such posts, and that mere good will without preliminary drilling is no longer sufficient. Can any of our readers make further suggestions that may aid this correspondent?

Recipe for Sour Meat.

"Some time ago a woman asked for a recipe for making sour meat, as she called it. I wonder if she would like my way of making what we call sour hash? We think it is just fine. To make it I call for a 10 cent soup bone with meat and not much bone—boiled meat or leftover meat may be used; cook it till tender and remove from the fire. When cold cut into small squares. Brown a heaping tablespoon of flour in a frying pan over a not too hot fire, and stir into a cup of soup stock until you have it the consistency of a cream gravy; put in four tablespoons of good cider vinegar, three tablespoons of sugar, a small lump of butter, salt and pepper to taste, a good sized onion, minced fine; boil all together and add the meat. Bring to a good boil and it is ready to serve. You can use water instead of the soup stock, and more or less vinegar, as you prefer.

"Will not you give a recipe for a good lobster salad and for green peppers stuffed with rice? Miss L. A."

Thank you very much for the recipe. Other directions have been sent to me for sour meat of various kinds, but yours appeals to me especially. I am glad to give you the recipes you request.

LOBSTER SALAD—If you cook the lobsters yourself, select rather large ones, plunge them head downward into a pot of boiling water and cook for about forty minutes. Break the shells carefully, reject the stomach, the spongy fingers between the claws and the shell and the vein in the tail. Cut the meat into neat pieces, mix with it a little mayonnaise, arrange on lettuce, pour a mayonnaise dressing over it, garnish it with the claws of the lobster and with a hard boiled egg cut into eighths. Serve cold.

GREEN PEPPER STUFFED WITH RICE—Cut the stem end from sweet green peppers and remove the seeds with a spoon or small knife, taking care not to bring your fingers into contact with them any more than necessary, as they burn. Parboil the peppers for ten minutes, drain them, set them on end, and fill them with boiled rice. Moisten this with a little gravy or stock or with melted butter and set them in the oven, covered, until they are hot through—about ten minutes. If you wish you can mingle a little meat with the rice or pour tomato sauce over it after it is in the peppers. Serve with or without gravy poured about the peppers on the dish.

Some Fruit Combinations.

"Here are some fruit combinations we like. When apples are plentiful we can them and cook parings and cores for juice, canning it and using it as needed. We use the sauce strained with gooseberries, plums, or cranberries, taking one part apples and two tart fruits to make a mild, easily sweetened sauce. One part plums and one part apples make a much better butter or jelly than plums alone. One pint wild cherries and one quart apple juice cooked and strained are fine made into jelly. Dried apples, raisins or prunes and dried apricots, or three parts of apples or other mild fruit and one part of apricots prepared as you would any other dried fruit alone, make good combinations. "Mrs. A. U. A."

As the fruit season comes upon us we all appreciate any suggestions for good ways of using or of preserving our supply. I am glad to have my own habit of making use of the cores and peelings of apples indorsed. Only the other day a woman rather snubbed me for my economy of making apple sauce of unpared apples. To me the practice means something more than economy and that is added flavor to the apple sauce. The best part of the fruit lies close under the skin and you frequently lose it by peeling the apple before cooking.

Needs a Wheel Chair.

"Is there space in your Corner for this request? An old man 78 years of age has lain for two years in a small back room with only one window. He is paralysed from the hips down. If he had a wheeled chair he could enjoy life a little better. Isn't there some one of a benevolent turn who will give a chair to one so afflicted? "Mrs. M. M."

As I sit here at my window and look out on the sweet greenness of the country and feel the delicious air that blows across grass and flowers I try to think of what it must be to lie in what the poet Heine used to call a "mattress grave," and my heart aches with pity for the poor man and with thankfulness for my own blessedness. Isn't there some one who can help this poor old prisoner to have a change from his bed and a chance at some life outside of his "small back room"?

As Mother Made Them.

"Reading your reply to 'Westfield' brought back to me memories of those luscious mahogany colored pumpkin pies. My mother always cooked the pumpkin in the way described in that letter and although years ago I can taste them yet. This is the way she made them: Use a deep ribbed dark skin pumpkin, cut in slices, peel, remove seeds, and put in an iron kettle with one cup of water, cover closely, and cook until tender. Remove cover and cook slowly, using a wooden potato masher to mash and stir and to keep from burning. When the pumpkin is dry like mashed potatoes and a very rich brown take from the fire. The next morning put through a colander and proceed as we do in these days.

"Here is the original recipe, used for years: One cup pumpkin or half cup pumpkin, and one tablespoon of flour, little salt, pepper, ginger, and cinnamon [no cloves, unless you wish it very dark], two tablespoons sugar, one egg; beat well, add milk to make a thick custard, and one teaspoon melted butter. This will make one pie. I hope some one will try the [illegible] port upon it! [illegible]

So do I. I am a little afraid of [illegible] per and ginger combination. [illegible] make a pretty hot pie? Doilies for a Luncheon Set

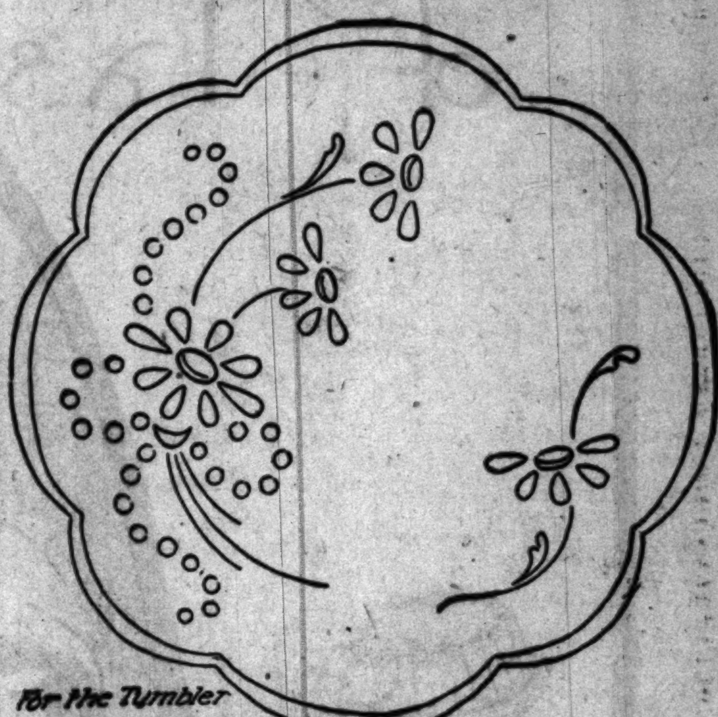
Designed by Anna Loos

For the Plate



For the Tumbler

[illegible] you use the designs [illegible] here as individual sug-[illegible] in clever adaptations [illegible] whether they assist in the [illegible] of a luncheon set, you cannot [illegible] attraction of the daisy and [illegible]. The beauty of contrast [illegible] all its glory and it is for you [illegible] yourself of it.

[illegible] dolly is beautiful if worked [illegible] at the flowers and leaves. [illegible] the pattern accord-[illegible] given on this page and [illegible] untwilled mercerized thread [illegible] embroidery. Pad the petals [illegible] and then work across them [illegible] final solid work. The centers [illegible] if worked solid on the [illegible] and filled in with French [illegible]. Work the leaves in solid [illegible] outline the stems, whipping [illegible] stitches so that a raised [illegible] result. Another method of [illegible] leaves is outlining them and [illegible] the space with seed stitches, [illegible] small back stitches. This [illegible] method with French em-[illegible]. It is very quick and effect-[illegible] combination of this and solid [illegible] either separate leaves or both [illegible] is also good.

[illegible] an entirely open effect, do [illegible] each flower in eyelet work. [illegible] the center of the oval, [illegible] stitches outline the [illegible] overcast the edges in [illegible] way.

[illegible] the bowknot are first [illegible] your ivory or steel [illegible] outlined with running [illegible] overcast in the close eye-[illegible]. You will find that a pro-[illegible] making will be gained [illegible] eyelets have been worked. [illegible] scallops with strands of darning cotton, held as you hold couching thread. Soutache braid is another good padding. The regular long stitches in padding are good enough if you like the reliable old way. Buttonhole the edges and give a double stitching to prevent fraying.

The little dolly is worked the same way. A combination of eyelet and solid work is effective. Six in a set will give a comfortable number.

If you have not a place for a luncheon set in your linen closet, these designs need not go to waste. They are capable of being worked up in many ways to your benefit.

The large dolly can form part of the decoration for the front of a blouse. Place a spray on each side of the central motif, curving it up toward the shoulder seam. Arrange sprays of the daisies down each sleeve, omitting the bowknots. Apply flowers and leaves in a straight line on the cuffs or arrange in a group on a pointed turned-back cuff.

The smaller dolly is excellent for a small round pincushion. The open work for the bowknot and the daisies is the better, for it shows a contrasting-colored cushion underneath. The lower surface of a cushion should be slightly larger if you can make it. Whip a frill of dotted net, valenciennes or cluny lace to the scalloped edge. This gives a pretty finish and is easily applied. A very effective way to combine the upper and lower circles is to place them so that one scallop will come between the two of the under dolly. Of course, you should first mark the dots for eyelets, through which the ribbon is run, and then place the under one in position, matching the dots by marking through the holes with a pencil.

A workbag can be decorated with a small bowknot and bunch of daisies. Work this in color on tan or white for both eyelet and solid work.

The lingerie hat for the little girl, or a big one, for that matter, has an excellent chance for decoration right on this page. The small dolly will decorate the top of the linen hat and the larger bowknot and bunch of flowers will decorate one side of the linen brim. Put a few little sprays on the other side.

I am an enthusiastic supporter of the luncheon set, however. You simply must have one in your linen chest, and this is an excellent opportunity to begin.

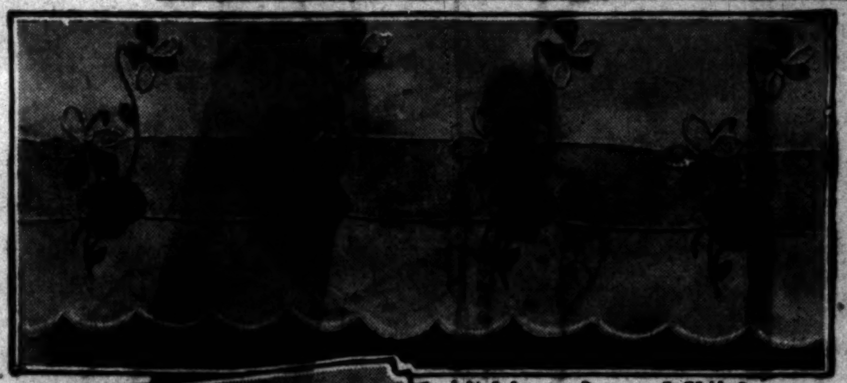
Too Many Doilies

"OH!" exclaimed the bride of a year, "I already have a heap of square doilies, and here come another dozen from my sister out west for an anniversary present. Who would have thought that Millie and I would ever live so far apart that she couldn't keep tab of my linen supply?" And the bride's countenance was so rueful that Mrs. Next-Door-Neighbor was obliged to smile.

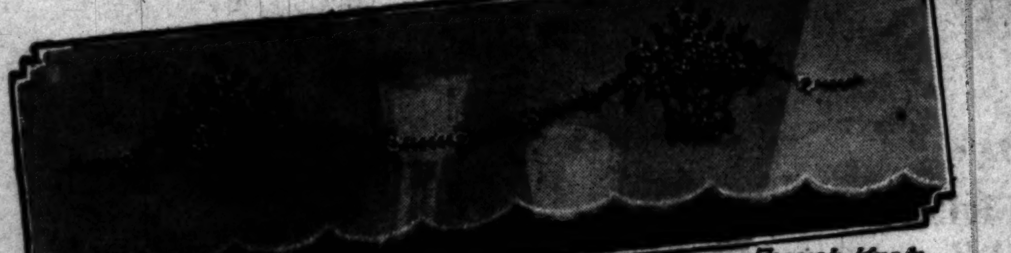
"But don't let them stay just doilies, my dear," counseled Mrs. Next-Door-Neighbor, and as the bride looked at her hopefully, she went on to explain. "Last winter I had an oversupply—a couple of dozen which I had never used—and I made a really magnificent wedding gift of them. I took four of the heaviest doilies—they were hemstitched and rather elaborately embroidered—and made a square centerpiece or cover, by joining them with heavy cluny insertion about two inches wide. I then whipped a row of the insertion about the entire outer edge of the large square when it was completed and whipped a two-inch edge of cluny edging on to that. The effect was far beyond my expectations, and I followed up that first success with a buffet cover made from a dozen other doilies that were not quite so heavy. The doilies in the buffet cover I joined with heavy tightly crocheted lace, which I had made at odd moments. One can use, of course, any heavy lace preferred."

"Just the thing," cried the bride, enthusiastically; "I'll start one this afternoon."

THE END OF THE GUEST TOWEL

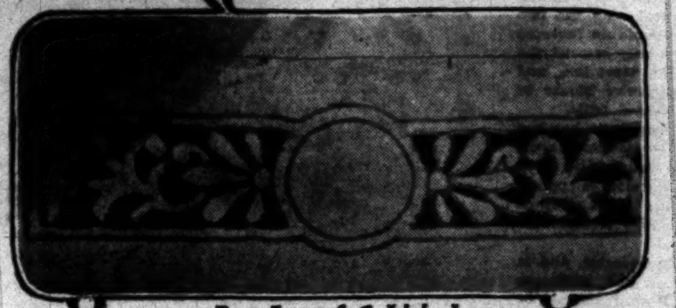


Violets in Darned Stitch

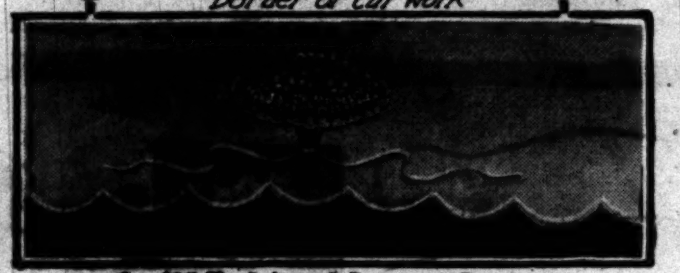


French Knot Bouquets

Small Trees in French Knots



Border of Cut Work



An Old Fashioned Bouquet Design

THE guest towel has become a fixture in every well-ordered household, and the clever embroiderer can usually display a varied assortment with pardonable pride. A guest towel, if a not too elaborate design is selected, can be embroidered in a short space of time, and the stamped towels are inexpensive enough to tempt any one to purchase them.

A collection of attractive designs is given here which should win your instant admiration.

The towel with the border of cut-work is stamped on bird's-eye linen, and the design is buttonhole-stitched with delft-blue mercerized cotton about the edges. When this is completed take a sharp pair of small scissors and cut the material away, leaving the design solid. Within the circular medallion embroider an initial or a monogram.

The tree-bordered guest towel is very easily embroidered, for the tree is filled in with French knots. Use green mercerized cotton to embroider the grass and foliage, brown for the trunks and pink for the blossoms on the trees. Buttonhole-stitch the scallops at the edges.

An attractive violet border is in the popular darned work. First outline the design, using violet mercerized cotton for the background and flowers and green for the leaves and stems.

Two shades of violet are required for the flowers. Darn back and forth over the petals, following the lines of the weave, until they are filled in with color. Using green cotton, embroider the leaves in the same manner. The strip in the background is darned with the paler shade of violet. The scallops are buttonhole-stitched with a coarser twisted mercerized cotton.

Very quaint is the design showing an old-fashioned bouquet, and you need not be an expert needlewoman to execute it. Embroider the three central flowers with pale pink mercerized cotton, using the satin stitch lengthwise of the petal. The small forget-me-nots are embroidered with pale blue, and the outer rim of foliage is done with dark green; the same color is used for the stems. To outline the scallops representing the paperholders use white, and embroider the ribbon tying the bouquet with white. The scallops are buttonhole-stitched in the usual manner.

The last towel which completes this collection is decorated with two flower-filled baskets, joined with festoons. French knots are used for the baskets and flowers, and those outlining the baskets are of pale green mercerized cotton. The flowers are done with pink and blue, the fernlike foliage with dark green and the flower centers with yellow.

When you see this assortment of guest towels you will desire to add one of each variety to your collection and, perhaps, to embroider a few for your friends. The guest towel is always an acceptable gift.

A PRACTICAL BABY BASKET

[illegible] wondering what welcom-[illegible] you may make for a little [illegible] coming to some friend by [illegible] "Stork Limited," why not [illegible] baby basket? You will [illegible] skeptically when you [illegible] the basket is to be made of [illegible] drainer, but there isn't a [illegible] the outcome will command [illegible] admiration.

[illegible] drainer (it should be ob-[illegible] purchased for the small [illegible] at any 5 and 10 cent [illegible] a piece of cardboard to fit [illegible] bottom of the basket and [illegible] with a sheet of cotton [illegible]. Then cover the cotton with [illegible] or pink silk. A cotton ma-[illegible] be used if silk is not ob-[illegible]. The covering for the sides of [illegible] which is also of [illegible] slightly fulled on to the [illegible] and drawn up tight-[illegible] to the rim of the bas-[illegible].

[illegible] an oblong piece of white [illegible] may be light or heavy in [illegible] preferred) of sufficient size [illegible] the bottom and sides (all in [illegible]) of the basket, and to fall [illegible] on the outside about the [illegible] basket, to hide the wire. [illegible] would be well to cut [illegible] a simple oblong [illegible] or so larger all [illegible] is actually required and [illegible] upon it the exact pat-[illegible] basket cover. The linen cover must be in one piece and must fit snugly into the corners of the basket without wrinkling. For this reason square pieces are cut out of each corner of the linen oblong, so that when the cover is put into the basket the edges of the corners will just meet. These corners can be tied to the basket by ribbon being run through four eyelets made in each corner of the cover for the purpose, two inside and two on the outer edge of the cover, and tied in a small bow on the outside.

The edges are to be scalloped. After having drawn the pattern on the linen for the basket, proceed to go along the lines with a spool and pencil. The tops of the scallops should touch the top of the line, and this will allow a half-inch margin, which can be cut away after the scallops are embroidered. The edges of the cut-out corners are embroidered as well. A small scallop makes a daintier cover, especially if the material be light in weight. A tiny spray of embroidery worked on each of the four overhanging edges adds greatly to the appearance of the basket, and a similar design, slightly larger, should be worked on that part of the linen covering the bottom of the basket.

Make a small embroidered pocket in one end of the basket and fasten an embroidered linen pincushion to the other, each being scalloped and carried out in the spray design to match the cover. When complete, fasten the cover to the basket with a few basting stitches to hold in place. The baby basket is then ready for filling with the little one's toilet articles, etc. As the linen cover may be laundered without detracting from its appearance, it is to be preferred to the pretty fluffy lace ones that are not really "sensible."

How to Transfer

HERE are suggestions for transferring the pattern before you to any material before working.

Perhaps the easiest way is the "window-pane" method. This is successful when the material is thin, like linen, batiste, etc. Pin the sheet of paper and the material together and hold them up against the glass of a window. With a sharp pencil draw on the material the design, which can be easily seen through the goods. If one-half of the design only be given, unpin the paper and turn the other side to the fabric.

If you have carbon paper, you should place the sheet between your fabric and the newspaper. The latter is on top. With a sharp pencil go over the outline of the design. The impression will be left in fine lines and will last until worked.

The last way is also easy. On wax paper or ordinary tissue paper trace the pattern before you. When the design is completed, turn over the paper and outline the pattern with a heavy lead pencil. Then place the design down on the fabric and redraw the outline, pressing hard with the pencil.

"Bulletin Boards"

A CERTAIN young woman of ideals has an excellent habit of clipping or copying on slips of paper helpful quotations. These she used to place about her room by pinning them on the wall near her desk and dresser, and other places where they would be most likely to attract her attention. At last, however, came an objection from her mother to the many disfiguring pinholes in the pretty wallpaper. Not wishing to cause dissension and yet being decidedly unwilling to give up the real helpfulness and inspiration afforded by the quotations, the young woman in question thought out the scheme of satin bulletin boards.

Cutting a piece of stiff, heavy cardboard, six by eight inches, she covered both sides with sheets of cotton wadding cut to size, one sheet on the back and two on the front, and basted them to the cardboard with large stitches. (If it is difficult to procure a needle of sufficient strength and size for this purpose, the cotton can be pasted to the cardboard instead of sewed.) Then, searching through the patch box, she found some pieces of pale blue satin (her room was fitted up in blue), which she cut to size and used to cover the entire bulletin board, back and front. Next she bought a half yard of blue ribbon about a quarter inch wide, and cutting off a quarter of a yard she sewed an end of the ribbon to each of the corners of a narrow end of the satin-covered board. The other quarter of a yard she used for tiny bows to cover the stitches in the tacked ribbon ends, and the little bulletin board was complete.

The soft cotton padding made it easy to pin clippings and the like on the bulletin board, which was a decided improvement over the hard wall surface she had used before. The appearance of the bulletin board, too, was so attractive, and the whole so useful, that the young woman now has three in her own room and has made several for grateful friends who have the "quotation habit." The boards are handy for memoranda as well.

FOR STREET WEAR

AS THE Lady of Shalott sat in the castle tower weaving her web she saw reflected in a mirror all that happened on the road to Camelot; and those who are interested in the ever-changing panorama along the highway of fashion will find a truthful represenattion in the Glass of Fashion.

The costume for street wear is always of utmost importance, and this season offers a varied selection of coat suits. The model pictured here emphasizes the features approved by Parisian couturieres, namely, the two-tiered skirt, cutaway coat and single-button fastening. To develop this stunning costume white ratine is used, and the two sections are shaped to resemble an inverted V in front and slope gradually toward the back. The coat follows the same line, and beneath it is worn an attractive blouse of white net trimmed with pleated frills.

For midsummer the medium-sized hat has usurped the popularity of the smaller shapes, and the model completing this toilette is of white hemp. A black aigrette is poised gracefully at the side, and a throat strap of black ribbon velvet contributes a most becoming touch.

White crepe is a modish material, and is used extensively for dresses and millinery. For the tot of 6 or 7 the frock fashioned of this material is charming. Red-and-white flowered crepe forms the vest and the broad neck frill, and red bullet buttons, resembling cherries, trim the bodice front. With this smart frock is worn a hat of tan straw effectively trimmed with faille ribbon and a cluster of small silk apricots.

The touch of brilliant color is necessary to the success of many costumes at present, and the two small drawings at the side represent the street toilette with a bayadere sash of brick-red moire and a hat of hemp straw of the same color.

Children's millinery is especially lovely this year, and the pretty model in the drawing is of milan straw with a large bowl-shaped crown and narrow brim. Pale-pink faille ribbon is pleated about the crown and a row of deep-pink roses borders the top edge.

The popular coats for juveniles are made of ratine, eponge, agaric or pique, and the smart design displays a successful adaptation of white eponge. It is well tailored, and save for a collar of black moire boasts of no other trimming. Flat buttons of white pearl are used to fasten the coat.

The woman of discrimination will interpret these suggestions to meet her personal requirements, for they are far too smart to pass by unused. Fashions of the present demand much careful thought in order to eliminate the wheat from the chaff, for many extreme models closely border on the fantastic and must be avoided by the woman of conservative tastes.

This page presents fashions that epitomize the best results of designers' art, and they are yours for the taking.
